What you do during free time depends largely on your attitude. The person who decides to have fun usually does have fun. Yet some people grumble about lack of recreational opportunities, lack of energy, about how their lives are too confused, or their lack of money and encouragement from friends.

The situation is not hopeless. One solution is to list your interests and choose from the list something you would enjoy doing. If your choice is based on a desire to impress or to imitate, the activity probably won't last too long, because people don't have time to notice what you're doing (unless it is something troublesome) and fashions change everyday. In other words, do your own thing! Everyone is capable of doing something. Do what you can do and you will be able to do more.

At a time when stress is at an epidemic level, when alcoholism and mental illness statistics are high, leisure becomes an invaluable safety mechanism. Well spent, leisure time can recharge a person with energy and refresh the mind. The daily situations one encounters, once thought too difficult to handle, seem managable and, in the longer view, the quality and enjoyment of life will increase.

League plans meet

The County Senior Hockey League will be holding its annual organizational meeting next week.

This session has been scheduled for the Aquatics Centre on Tuesday, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Representatives from the executive and member teams will be in attendance at Tuesday's meeting.

There is some speculation that there could be applications received from at least two centers seeking admission to the league.

Earlier in the spring, officials from New Sarepta expressed interest in joining the league and just a few weeks ago, feelers were put out from a team in Holden.

There is some speculation that enough interest could be generated to ice a team from the New Norway area.

Any teams wishing to enter the league must have their applications in and be represented at Tuesday's meeting.

Annual reports will be presented on Tuesday and a new slate of officers will be elected.

Back for a new season will be Tofield, Rosalind, Kingman and two teams from Camrose, the Blackhawks (defending champions) and Nursette.

Monday is a holiday

Monday is Thanksgiving Day.

Thanksgiving Day is observed as a holiday in Canada with most places of business being closed.

The office of The Mercury is one place that will not be open on Monday.

The Mercury's advertising representative, Leah Cazacu, will be making her regular rounds on Friday of this week, instead of Monday.

The co-operation of advertisers and news correspondents for this change, would be appreciated.

Threshing resumes

Harvesting operations have resumed.

Some farmers were able to go back into their fields on the past weekend although some that tried had to quit because they were getting stuck.

If sunny weather continued, harvesting operations were expected to be general throughout the area by the middle of the week.

For the most part, one week of good working weather should see harvesting in this part of the province completed.

Others who were hit hardest by heavy rains will need at least two weeks of steady work to remove all crops from the fields.

Heavy frost hit most localities last week which could result in lower grades and some damage will result from sprouting which has developed rapidly in the past two weeks.

According to reports received from Alberta Wheat Pool, about three-quarters of all crops have been threshed. The situation is about the same as it was at this time last year.

Start Young

Whether you're going on a diet or starting a savings plan, a change in habits is not going to come easy. Planning any sort of change in your life requires a lot of work.

All of us have goals we'd like to reach in one year, five years and ten years. Many of us have all the right intentions. The difference between those who reach their goals and those who don't lies in planning. Have you set realistic goals for yourself? Do you have a plan of action? Will you know when you've reached the goal?

Let's say you've decided to begin setting some money aside. First of all you must decide on your goal. Is it money for a holiday, an emergency fund or a start on retirement savings. Decide what would be a realistic amount to set aside each month — and stick to it!

Rather than spending a lot of time thinking about a problem — start doing something about it. Take some action — however small, but get moving. Don't discourage yourself by looking at the long hard impossible road ahead. It can make a minor task seem impossible. Keep a feeling of accomplishment in your head — it's motivating.

We must try to keep our goals in perspective. Our goals are for ourselves. Think not on how far you have to go, but on how far you've come. Take a fresh look at the goals you want to achieve. Would a small change make it less boring?

The happiest and most satisfied people are those who feel they are in control of their lives. They are able to set goals and take steps to achieve them. Start with a small, short term goal and work from there. You will find that dreams and realities need not be that far apart.

Holden and district news

by Mrs. O.R. Taylor

The funeral of Otto Hurum, a pioneer of the Holden District, was held on Wednesday in Holden Lutheran Church with Rev. Bill Heagren officiating. Interment was in Holden Cemetery. Pallbearers were Roger Hurum, Greg Koelbe, Jeff and Murray Shandro, Grant Maxwell and Terry Pederson. The church was filled with many relatives and old friends gathering to pay their last respects.

Otto was born in Oslo, Norway on June 22, 1900 and passed away on Sept. 23, 1984 in Extendicare Nursing Home in Viking at the age of 84 years.

He is survived by his wife, Kathleen; one son, Lawrence; three daughters, Betty Koelbe of Holden, Grace Shandro of Edmonton and Carol Maxwell of Viking; 11 grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren. He was predeceased by one son, Barney in 1942.

The Hurum family settled in Holden in 1911, farming in the district.

Laura and Aigot Heitheim, Hilmer and Elsa Simonsen and Arthur Olson, all of Edmonton and former Holdenites, were in Holden on Wednesday of last week to attend the funeral of Otto Hurum.

Mrs. Martha Hurum, her daughter Genevieve and husband of Edmonton attended the funeral of Martha's brother-in-law, Otto Hurum. Also here for the funeral was Mrs. Kathleen Hurum's nephew, Leroy Evenson from Saskatoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Budd had their grandchildren, the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Budd of Camrose, staying with them for a couple of days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Budd spent the weekend of Sept. 22nd visiting with relatives at Provost.

Mrs. Ethel Brokstad and Mrs. Irene Taylor visited last Friday with Mrs. Kate Nichols, a patient in Tofield Hospital.

Holden Lodge Order of the Royal Purple is sponsoring a cash bingo to be held in the Community Hall on October 18th.

Robert and Merle Taylor of Viking were Sunday afternoon visitors with Robert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor.

On Sept. 25th, the Ladies Auxiliary R.C. Legion met for a regular meeting with President Helen Steczyk in the chair. Regular business dealt with the financial statement given. A donation to the Ladies Auxiliary bursary fund was made. They had been advised that a joint Legion and Auxiliary rally was to be held on Oct. 27th in the Legion Hall hosted by the Holden Legion. Members made tentative plans for the supper to be held at the close of the rally. After discussing other business, the meeting closed and lunch was served with Mrs. Ethel Brokstad being hostess.

Holden Branch Royal Canadian Legion held a meeting last week and after discussing various items of business, the Rally to be held October 27 was discussed with plans being made. This will include branches from Wainwright and Tofield.

After being in business for over 35 years, Hilmer Olson has planned to retire from business. The Olson and Armstrong Ltd. business was sold recently to Marlyn and Kelvin Tetz of Wainwright. A partnership of Hilmer Olson and the late George Armstrong consisted of gas and service station and the U.F.A. Co-op Bulk station which they operated for 29 years. After Mr. Armstrong passed away, Hilmer operated the business alone with hired help. The U.F.A. Co-op bulk station was sold in 1981 to Bert Schweitzer who in turn sold it to Joan and Dale Tollefson of Camrose in 1984. Hilmer Olson is one of a pioneer family of Holden.

Entertainment is set

The Beaver Arts Society has now completed arrangements for a "Treasure Tickets Series" of performances to be staged at the Arts Centre in Holden.

Beginning in late October and ending in early April, the series will feature a variety of musicians and stage performers to entertain all of the family.

The series was developed and planned over the past several months. In mid-May, Arts society members Rose Sharpe, Anneke Van der Tuyn, and Mary Hallett attended "Showcase '84," a spotlight of Alberta and Canadian performing artists held yearly in Edmonton.

Following serveral meetings throughout the summer, arrangements were completed with four groups to come to Holden and prices were set so that entire families could attend.

The dates and a short description of each of the performances are as follows:

Oct. 28 — Holly Arntzen — a singer from Vancouver Island, accompanied by her father and two other musicians.

Nov. 16 — Maralee Dunn is a vocal soprano.

Feb. 6 — Emperium is a group of four singers and musicians from Calgary.

April 6 — Live professional theatre "The Little Prince" presented by the Stagecoach Players of Calgary.

Tickets for the series are available now and are on sale at Holden Lucky Dollar Store, Ryley Floral and Fancy, The Heartstone in Tofield, Crossroads IDA in Viking and Ilse Fredericks in Bruce.

Funeral Practices — Part II

This is the second of a three-part series on Funeral Practices.

If burial is the alternative you choose, recognize cemetery costs vary widely. Ask for a written statement listing all costs before the purchase if finalized. Factors to consider include:

— How much will the plot cost? Graves vary in price between cemeteries and also according to location within a cemetery.

— Are there any restrictions as to the type of burial? Is a casket required?

— Are veteran's rates available and do these rates apply to spouses? If the spouse cannot be buried nearby, can the ashes be scattered on or in the plot.

— Are there any restrictions regarding grave markers, and any installation charges for grave markers?

— How much are permanent care costs?

— Does the cemetery require a vault or rough box?

— Does the cemetery allow two burials in one plot?

— What is the price of the grave opening and closing?

— Is there a surcharge for non-residents?

Cremation is increasing in popularity. A cemetery plot is not necessary and cremation is generally less expensive than a burial.

Questions to ask include:

— Does the funeral chapel or crematorium require a coffin or rigid container? There is no legislation in Alberta requiring a coffin for cremations but it does allow the body to be handled in a dignified way.

— What will be done with the ashes? They may be disposed of by the crematorium, returned to next of kin, scattered by the family at a chosen plot, buried or stored in a cemetery.

Another decision which must be made is the type of service that will be held. The usual alternatives are a funeral or a memorial service. Either can be arranged by hiring someone or by doing it yourself.

If hiring someone to prepare a funeral service, determine what is included in the price. Typically, it includes removal of the body from the funeral home, use of funeral home facilities, embalming and restoration, price of the coffin, use of the hearse for transportation to the cemetery or crematorium, arrangement of religious services, burial permit, cremation permit, newspaper death notices, arrangement and care of flowers, acknowledgement cards, extension of credit and various staff services.

Decisions to be made include how much you want to pay, the type of coffin, an open or closed service, who will conduct the service, where it will be held and if donations may be made to a charity in lieu of flowers.

A memorial service is simple and relatively inexpensive. It's usually held when the body isn't available or disposition has been made earlier through a burial or cremation or the body has been donated to science.

It is perfectly legal to arrange for a burial or cremation without the services of a funeral director.

Food bank meeting goes this Tuesday

An important meeting has been scheduled for this coming Tuesday (Oct. 9) afternoon.

The purpose of the afternoon session is to organize a food bank in Camrose.

The meeting is to be held in City Hall starting at two o'clock with all interested people invited to attend.

Attempts have already been made to contact all potential groups, clubs, churches and organizations who would be interested, so that they could send representatives.

A food bank has been organized and is now in operation in Leduc and a representative of that group will be in attendance at Tuesday's meeting, to supply information.

Organizing of a food bank in Camrose is a project undertaken by the Camrose & District Ministerial Association with that organization's president, Rev. John Lenshyn, in the chair for Tuesday's session.

Palmer-Earling news

Clifford and Lil McIvor of New Sarepta, and Audrey Teske were birthday callers at Bob Kushnerick's for their son, Kristopher's first birthday.

Sophia and Norma Tenant left from Camrose Monday on a bus tour to Fairmont for a few days.

Recent visitors at Myrtle Kushnerick's were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wynyk and Pat, Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Babie of Smoky Lake, and Sheila Clark and Jackie, Calgary, who spent a week with Myrtle.

Paul Vassberg flew up from Lyford, Texas and visited his relatives the Richard and Marvin Vassberg's. Richard and Paul also motored to Valleyview and called on the Jack Vassberg's.

The Female Athlete of the Scholarships earned

by Joan Murray

Chris Clarke, Lonnie Lauber and Lorette Warkentin, members of the '83-84 graduating class of Ryley School, have received scholarship grants from the Alexander Rutherford Scholarship Fund.

They were awarded these scholarships on the basis of their academic standing and had achieved an average of 80 percent or better in grade 10, 11 or 12 or in all three senior high grades.

Ryley School opened the '84-85 year with 17 teachers and 225 students.

This year, the student body is comprised of kindergarten to grade six and senior high grades 10, 11 and 12.

School principal, Jim Clarke, feels the change in grade structure has created a few minor changes in the many aspects of keeping the school running smoothly.

The differences fall mainly in the area of the beginning and dismissal times of classes as well as the lunch hour and afternoon recesses.

Timetable changes which affect some senior high students have been made smoothly and busing schedules have settled in.

Unusual

These unusually shaped tubers came from Agnes Schrader's farm. The large one in the back measured about 11 inches long.

Good interest shown in wardrobe seminar

by Joan Murray

Wardrobe planning was the topic at a noon hour seminar in the Tofield Senior Citizen's Drop-In Centre on Friday.

Twelve ladies were present to hear District Home Economist, Maureen Bauman, talk about creating a wardrobe that is right for the individual rather than going with what the fashion industry dictates at the time.

She talked about how one can compensate for figure flaws with proper style and color choices. It was suggested that each person analyze her present wardrobe to pick out outfits which they like best on themselves as well as those on which they have received compliments.

Bauman said one should analyze the styles and colors, make a plan of what is needed in comparison to what one already has and then build a wardrobe from this point.

It is not recommended that an entire wardrobe be purchased at one time. Spend the most money on clothing that is used the most, but buy what is preferred and will match with the individual's lifestyle.

The home economist suggested that when considering the amount to be spent on an article, think of it in terms of cost per wearing rather than on the item itself.

In a five-year plan, money should be spent on quality clothes that can be used for a long time and can be built onto with new purchases. When chosen carefully the basic wardrobe can provide many different outfits.

Tofield Librarian, Lis Hubbard, was on hand to explain the contents of several books that the DHE had recommended to read to get a better understanding of how to build a wardrobe to suit the individual's needs.

This seminar is one of many in the "Out To Lunch" program which covers topics that are timely and interesting. They are held on the first Friday of every month in the Drop-In Centre.

The next topic will be Christmas crafts and will take place on November 2nd.

Mint to issue new nickle dollar

Canadians will be able to exchange their one dollar bills for a unique commemorative legal tender coin minted in honor of Jacques Cartier's first voyage of discovery to Canada in 1534. To mark this historic event, the Honourable Charles Lapointe, Minister of Supply and Services Canada and Minister responsible for the Royal Canadian Mint recently unveiled the first of these commemorative nickel dollars to be available in mid-June from financial institutions across Canada.

"This is bound to become an extremely popular way for Canadians to join in the celebrations of the Jacques Cartier anniversary and the visit of the tall ships to Canada," said Mr. Lapointe. "and of course, we're hoping it will become 'the coin of the celebrations' in Canada."

The reverse, the work of Toronto-area artist Hector Greville, features Jacques Cartier (flanked by two of his men, standing on the shore before a large cross bearing three fleurs-de-lis. Two sailing ships lie at anchor in the background. The twin crosslines of the French explorer's sword and the maple leaves accentuate the rounding of the new land in the name of God and of the King of France.

The obverse of the dollar coin features Arnold Machin effigy of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. The dollar is made of pure nickel, has a diameter of 38.15 mm and weighs 15.62 g.

Production of the coin is now underway. Because it will be legal tender, it may be used to pay for goods and services in Canada.

This is the sixth occasion when the Mint has issued a commemorative circulating nickel dollar. The most recent one was in honor of the patriation of Canada's Constitution in 1982. During the period between June and December 1982, Canadians swapped up some 10 million of the special commemorative nickel dollars.

The farmer . . .

I am neither a farmer's daughter nor a farmer's wife and yet it is becoming obvious to myself and to others outside of the farming business that something is askew there.

It seems more and more are slipping into bankruptcy and one can't help but wonder at government official's explanation that they're just poor managers. Certainly this will be true in some cases, however, it is rather hard to believe that the farmer who was operating his farm successfully before the recession all of a sudden became incompetent.

It almost looks as if these same government officials are trying to find an excuse for their lack of action in the farming area. After all, not only is the farmer facing an increase in costs (as all of us are) he is also facing a cut in his income.

This harvest year, the farmer is in a position where he must accept less for his grain as compared to last year.

Farming is a major industry in Canada, particularly in the western provinces. Our government needs to show somewhat more respect for this business sector as well as concern.

Countless farming communities, such as Two Hills, are dependent on the farming economy. It is the farmer that supports the economic balance of the town. He is the one who spends his money at the local farm equipment center, shops at the local grocery store and in fact brings all his business into town.

Without the farmer spending money, the grocery store owner and farm equipment center owner are not making as much money and so they too are spending less. It is a chain reaction which can only result in closed doors for many businesses.

It is a chain reaction, headed by the farmer and felt by all. Government consideration and action in the farming business will not only help the one individual, but will in fact, keep communities such as [illegible] alive.

"Editorial in The Two Hills County Journal"

Quoth the raven

Canada may never again be like it is today.

Over the week-end, long-term Ontario Premier Bill Davis let it be known he would resign in time for the next party convention to elect a new leader of the famous Ontario Tory party.

Regarded as one of the best "politicians" in the country, Premier Davis seems to be leaving his Conservatives a legacy of uninterrupted Tory rule for the future.

Many, many things can happen between now and the leadership convention, of course. We can't even guess who may be on the slate of contenders for the party crown.

On the other hand, the Liberal party is in deep disarray across Canada, and its fortunes in the recent federal election can have done little to give a great deal of confidence to the Liberals in Ontario. Coupled with that, the famed efficiency of the "Big Blue Machine", which Premier Davis has tuned almost to perfection, gives every reason to believe the Tories will continue in office in Ontario for yet again another election. For the longest unbroken tenure in the country.

Ontario tends to be unlike Alberta, in that ridings there tend to swing from party to party, sometimes depending on the candidate, sometimes on the party, sometimes on the leader. But swing they do, and it lends a great deal more interest to elections there.

We don't think it's really true that Albertans tend to vote in revolutionary waves, although that would seem to be the appearance over many years. But then, it seems, many of those waves were colored by circumstances that were peculiarly local, such as the massive swing towards the Farmer Government occasioned by traditional Liberal policies, the Depression-born swing behind Social Credit . . . not a vote AGAINST anything, so much as a vote, a hope, a prayer, for an answer. And when most voters had forgotten there were parties who couldn't be relied on, or trusted, as much as the Social Credit party proved was its policy, a sudden, searching swing behind a new leader.

Ontario is different . . . they may vote the Tories in, but there will be a substantial number of voters in opposition parties, too. The question after Davis is, WHO? Can anybody fill his shoes? Will the province switch? Will the Machine win once again? Has Davis picked his successor? Will he, like Trudeau, have a list of patronage appointments? Or will he have learned from the Grits' problems?

Re: the Laughing

This is one time when the cure is worse than the disease.

How would you like to hear your doctor tell you that in order to cure your inflamed jaw joints you must curtail three of your favorite things — chewing, talking and laughing? The joints don't hurt as much as the prescription.

My doctor told me that all my foods must be soft, pureed, strained or mashed. I can handle that. We can't afford steak again until next year anyhow, and I hear that Goober makes delicious strained peaches. Besides, when you put your mind to it, and I have, you can come up with a whole list of soft foods that don't need a lot of gnashing, such as ice cream and spaghetti (together or not, as you prefer). And I can dip my cookies in my milk.

I might even be able to live without talking — but not happily. You don't realize how often you talk, even when there's no one there, until someone tells you to keep your mouth shut. For instance, I've discovered that I talk to inanimate objects like dirty laundry ("How did you get under my desk?"), lost pencils ("How did you get into the laundry hamper?") and the dishwasher ("Machine, don't fail me now!"). None have answered back so far, but last week the dishwasher quit at me.

My family loves this part, of course. When they see the fire in my eye that is usually followed by a blast, my kids say, "Now mom, remember your jaw." They forget that snarling doesn't use the jaw joints at all. My husband found the news hilarious. He came home all hunched over from all the congratulatory thumps on the back from coworkers who want to know how their wives can get inflamed jaw joints.

But let's face it, I can't go on for long without laughing. Laughter plays a very big part in my daily life. I begin each day with a snort (of laughter, that is) as I glance in the mirror and end it with another at bedtime. I smile when I say Hello and Goodbye. I chuckle with friends and at myself all day long. Laughter keeps me sane.

Trying to stop laughing would be like trying to cork Old Faithful. Sorry, Doc. Would you be satisfied with two out of three?

Personal Practices

After considering the information provided in the last two columns, you may have come to some conclusion about how you want your funeral service conducted.

There are a variety of ways to let your wishes be known to family members. Preplanning a funeral can help avoid many of the decisions and problems mentioned in the last two columns. This column will look at six alternatives.

Some Alberta funeral homes offer pre-owned funeral plans in accordance with the Pre-arranged Funeral Services Act. Pre-arrangement includes specifying the type of funeral desired and making arrangements to pay by depositing the money to cover all the costs in a trust or by paying the money on a time basis. All the details regarding services and financial arrangements must be written into the contract. "Funeral Practices" lists a number of points to consider in a pre-need plan. It's important to check whether there are provisions for inflation in the contract.

In some cases the funeral home will pay part of the increased cost, with the estate paying the remainder.

Some funeral homes will allow you to leave instructions for your funeral with them with no money paid in advance. The estate or insurance benefits are directed to pay the costs.

Cemetery services and supplies can be arranged on a pre-need basis in accordance with the Cemeteries Act. Again, all details should be in writing and any money should be deposited with an authorized trustee.

Before signing, find out if there are buyer privileges, selling privileges or default charges for non-payment. Contracts for pre-arranged cemetery services and supplies can be cancelled by the purchaser within four days after the date you receive your copy of the contract. No reason has to be given.

The Alberta Funeral Information Service at 9639-10 Avenue, Edmonton, TM. 1Y9, provides information on funeral arrangements, costs and traditions. The service distributes free brochures. Collect phone calls are accepted.

Orders should be written. The necessary funds can be set aside in the bank or trust account or made part of life insurance planning. If family members are opposed to some of the arrangements, you should prepare specific instructions and have them well in your will. In this way, your designated executor (although not bound to do so by law) will, in all likelihood, follow your wishes.

A "letter of instruction" can describe the details of the type of service and disposal desired. As well, you should provide details of other pertinent personal data. Let a family member or friend know where the letter of instruction and other important papers are.

For more information, call our office for the Tip-Sheet entitled, "Funeral Practices".

Roll for safety

Stop, drop and roll.

It isn't a new fitness fad or dance craze. It's a technique that could save your life if your clothing catches fire.

Your first reaction if your clothes go up in flames would probably be to panic and run. Don't do it!

By running, you will only fan the flames and make the clothing burn more fiercely. What you need to do as quickly as possible is to deprive the fire of the oxygen it needs to burn.

So stop still. Drop to the ground. Roll over and over to smother the flames.

Covering your face with your hands as you roll will help keep flames from your face and smoke from you nose and mouth. If a heavy blanket, rug, or coat is handy, roll yourself up in it.

Make sure the fire is out before removing your clothes — don't pull burning or smouldering clothes over your head.

Clothing fires happen all too frequently — every year more than 150,000 people in North America are seriously injured when their clothing catches fire. Young children and elderly people are particularly vulnerable in this case.

More than 50 per cent of such fires are caused when clothing becomes contaminated with flammable liquids or vapours.

Whether or not we want to admit it — winter is not far off. If your memories of last winter include drafty windows and high heating costs, you may want to look into some of the following products and programs.

1) The CHIP grant program now covers homes built before 1977. Taxable grants of up to $500 are available for insulation, caulking and weatherstripping supplies. If you have not taken advantage of this grant be sure to do so. There are few homes built before 1977 that would meet recommended insulation airtightness standards.

2) Leaky windows are not only costly energy wasters but make a home uncomfortable to live in. Short of replacing the windows there are ways of reducing the draught. Window kits which include a plastic sheet and an adhesive to seal off windows are available and will reduce air infiltration. You may also want to replace worn weatherstripping on window units and recaulk around the edges.

I have information on making insulated window coverings for anyone interested.

3) If you are in the market for a new furnace this year, high efficiency models are now available. These models operate at 80-90 percent efficiency compared with only 65 percent for conventional units.

Cost is a drawback for these improved heating systems. They cost between $300-$1000 more. Deciding whether it is worth the extra investment depends on how much energy your house uses.

In a home that uses about $400 worth of natural gas in a year, the savings of using a 90 percent efficient furnace would be $125 a year. If the furnace cost $1000 more than a conventional unit the pay back period for the additional investment would be eight years

For houses that use more energy for heating the savings increase looks better. In a house that costs $800 per year to heat, the saving would be $250 yearly with a higher efficiency furnace and the unit would pay for itself in about four years.

We have publications on insulating, caulking and weatherstripping as well as information on Energy Conservation in Mobile Homes. Phone for your copy.

The Further Education Council is sponsoring a one-day stress workshop in Bruce. Causes and symptoms of stress will be covered as well as steps we can take to control stress.

Workshop takes place October 25 — registrations must be in by October 18. Cost is $30 per person or per couple. Register by phoning Evelyn Carlton at 688-2212.

Permits not needed for hauling of hay

EDMONTON — Alberta Transportation Minister Marvin Moore announced today regulation changes which recognize the specific needs of the agricultural community in the transportation of hay and straw for distances not exceeding 50 kilometres.

Under the amended regulations, permits are no longer required when loads of less than 4.0 metres (or 13 ft.) in width are transported during daylight hours, provided that when deck extensions are used, they must be folded or retracted in width to 2.8 metres (9 ft. 2 in.) when the vehicle is empty. Loads in excess of 4 metres (13 ft.) in width as well as loads over 5 metres (16 ft. 5 in.) in height require a special permit from the Motor Transport Branch, which is available at no cost. Loads hauled at nighttime will continue to require lighting and special signing, depending upon the width.

BETWEEN THE COVERS

Have you ever [illegible] what important events [illegible] have happened on a certain day? Have you ever wanted to find out the significance of certain dates? "The Almanac of Dates" by Linda Millgate is the book for you. It lists hundreds of birthdays, events and trivia for every day of the year, in chronological order.

Also new this week is the third mystery-romance by M.M. Kaye, "Death in Cyprus", which joins in her previous popular books Death in Kenya and Death in Zanzibar.

Author Grant MacEwan is always a sure-fire hit, with his knowledge of Western Canada, and his informative writing. His latest book on the new book table is Marie Anne, a biography of a courageous pioneer woman of the Selkirk Settlement.

Also of interest to westerners is The Working Cowboy's Manual by Fay E. Ward. Covering everything from history of the cowboy to equipment, stock and cooking on the trail, it also gives good "how-to" information on various aspects of the job. Numerous illustrations add an extra dimension to this interesting book.

For younger children, a number of new picture books have been purchased recently. Emphasis has been on completing the library collection of winners of the prestigious Caldecott Medal, such as One Fine Day by Nonny Hogrogian; Arrow To The Sun by Gerald McDermott; Drummer Hoff by Ed and Barbara Emberley and an old favorite, Make Way For Ducklings by Robert McCloskey. These books and others have been judged excellent in the quality of their illustrations, and as such make good read-aloud material for youngsters.

Advance registrations for newcomers to Preschool Storyhour will now be taken for the eight-week sessions beginning Nov. 20 and 23. Please call 663-3836 for further information.

The regular library hours are: Tuesday 1-5, Thursday 3-5 and 6-9 and Friday and Saturday 10-12 and 1-5.

Public skating gains

by Joan Murray

The limited time available for public skating in Tofield has prompted the recreation board to offer public skaters the use of the rink with no admission charge.

Regular skating times reserved for this purpose have been set at Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 3:30 to 4:15 p.m. and Sundays from 2 to 2:45 p.m.

At the next regular meeting of the Tofield Recreation Board last Tuesday night, it was decided to offer the Moms and Tot's skating at no charge as well.

This program will be available from 10 to 11 a.m. on Fridays starting on October 19th and will continue until the end of the season.

It is a distinct possibility that breakdancing and Ukrainian dancing programs will be offered in Tofield later on in the year.

A letter has been drafted inviting Ken Hendricks, Regional Recreation Consultant for this area, to attend the next meeting of the Recreation Board. He will be asked to explain the new MCR Grant available for 1985 as well as give information on the Sports Lottery funds.

Tofield Recreation Director, Jackie Dumoche, explained that although several memos have been received noting the amounts designated for sports and recreation, it is still not clear how local recreation departments are supposed to go about acquiring their share of these funds.

She said that several months ago each Municipal Recreation Department had been asked what they thought should be done with the funds and how they should be distributed, but as yet, nothing has been said as to how they can apply for grant monies from this source.

It is hoped that Hendricks will be able to assist the recreation department in applying for their share of the [illegible].

Scholars

Three graduates of Ryley High School received scholarships totalling $2,800 from the Alberta Heritage Scholarship Fund and all are now attending post secondary institutions of learning. Left to right, they are Christopher Clarke, Loretta Warkentin and Lonnie Lauber. The scholarships are awarded to students who maintain an honours level throughout their high school years.

Guide rally is held

On Saturday, the Holden School Grounds were alive with Brownies and Guides from the Arrowhead Area, attending the Fall Rally.

This rally is the traditional kick-off for the new season of Brownie and Guide activities.

The communities of New Sarepta, New Norway, Alliance, Strome, Tofield, Forestburg, Daysland, Sedgewick, Hardisty, Hay Lakes, Camrose, Beaumont and Wetaskiwin hold 70th Brownies, Guides, Leaders and parents to enjoy a day of learning, socializing, games and treats.

The rally was co-ordinated by Dorothy Emerson, Holden Commissioner of Beaver District, Viking International Camping Representative and Dorothy Feigate, Killam, Commissioner Flagstaff Division.

Besides compass work, camp skill activities, fitness fun, art projects and observing candy floss being made (courtesy of Tofield Scouts) the girls observed an exhibition of square dancing by the Swinging Beavers.

A Guide All Around Card was presented to Shala Schweitzer, formerly of Holden, now living in Killam, by Mrs. Van Hees, Arrowhead Area Commissioner.

Schweitzer will now go on to Pathfinders with the Strome group.

Prairie Rebate For Drying Grain

Once again this year, the rebate for propane used to grain dryers is available to farmers, and, with the weather conditions experienced so far this fall, there are likely many farmers that can qualify for this rebate. There are, however, certain conditions that must be satisfied to be eligible for the rebate.

1) Farmers living in an area not serviced by a franchised natural gas distributor qualify for the rebate or,

2) Farmers living in an area serviced with natural gas but the line is not big enough to supply a grain dryer. Also, if your grain drying operation must be portable, then you may also qualify for the rebate.

The rebate amounts to a maximum of 35 percent on propane purchased on or after Oct. 1, 1980. However, after July 1, 1983 all applications for rebates must be received within one year of the date of purchase. A maximum of 4,000 gallons of propane per year is the upper limit on the rebate.

Application forms are available by contacting our office.

Library has story hour

by Joan Murray

On Friday morning, there were only nine children present at the pre-school story hour held in the Tofield Library, although 15 are registered.

Librarian, Liz Hubbard said she thought it may be due to the fine weather because most of the absentee listeners were from rural families who may be busy with harvesting after the recent bad weather spell had virtually stopped this process.

The first session of the story hour is at the half-way mark. There are 15 children registered in each of the two classes held during the week.

They run from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Volunteers at the Tuesday session are Anne Connelly and Cheryl Spicer with May Korobko and Ruth Ellen Appleby working with the Friday group.

Registrations for the second session are now being accepted. They will begin on November 20th and 23rd and will run four weeks before Christmas and four weeks after.

There is a registration fee for each eight-week session and the funds are used to pay for the cost of materials used for posters, name cards and other incidentals.

Feed exchange set

Alberta farmers wishing to sell or wanting to buy hay and straw can use two exchange mechanisms available through Alberta Agriculture.

Alberta Agriculture's district agriculturists in the four northern regions of the province are collecting the names of farmers with forage to sell. Lists of hay for sale are being circulated to district agriculturists in the drought-stricken areas. Farmers wanting to buy hay may contact their district agriculturist for assistance in locating available supplies.

Farmers may also make use of the Alberta Feed and Forage Exchange, a program which Alberta Agriculture has operated for several years.

Glen Binnington, executive assistant for the Alberta Grain Commission which is responsible for the exchange, reports that the exchange currently has several listings of farmers around the Edmonton area with hay to sell. Alfalfa and mixtures of hay are available in both round and square bales. Mr. Binnington encourages farmers to make use of the exchange.

The Feed and Forage Exchange has eight offices in Alberta. Farmers who want to buy or sell feed are asked to contact one of the eight exchange offices.

The exchange records such information as type of hay, quantity, whether it is in round or square bales, and the area where it is available or needed. The needs of the buyer and sellers are then matched. The price is usually negotiated between the individuals involved.

Feed and Forage Exchange offices are located at Airdrie 948-5727; Edmonton 427-7331; Fairview 835-2228; Grande Prairie 532-1426; Lethbridge 328-7721; Medicine Hat 527-7555; Red Deer 340-5303; and Vermilion 853-5313.

Guiding movement grows

by Joan Murray

The Guiding movement in Tofield has good enrollment figures for the '84-85 session.

Brownies have reached their maximum of 24, but there is a waiting list available. Another pack could be started if anyone is interested in leading it.

All ladies interested in taking on such an assignment can call the Brownie leader, Dana Kiss for more information.

Brownies range in age from 6 to 9 years and meet every Wednesday from 6:30-8 p.m. at the C.W. Sears School in Tofield.

There will be 12 Guides meeting in the United Church basement on Thursdays from 7-9 p.m. These girls are led by May Korobko and Margaret Lamptt.

Leader May Korobko, said that the girls have expressed an interest in basket weaving and hope it can be added to their program which already includes cake decorating, fire awareness and first-aid.

Guides have planned a Hallowe'en party for the Brownies because the younger girls will not be meeting on their regular night as it happens to fall on Hallowe'en night. They will host this event on Nov. 1st in the United Church.

Tofield Guides will be hosting the annual District Fair which is structured much like an agricultural fair where the girls are judged on baking, handi-crafts, sewing and other skills. It will be attended by Guides from Spilstead, Tofield, New Sarepta, Beaumont and Hay Lakes.

Korobko, who is also a Guider for the Pathfinders, said that the enrollment in this group has increased from two to six members this year. Elaine Porisky is the Guider in Charge for Pathfinders ranging in age from 12 to 15 years. Last weekend, they camped outdoors in tents at "Moonlit Meadows" located south of Lakeview in the New Sarepta area.

All three groups attended an area rally held in Holden last Saturday.

In 1985, the 75th anniversary of Guiding in Canada will be celebrated with some special things planned for all girls in the movement.

According to Korobko there is one group called Rangers which has never been successful in Tofield in the past, but if there are any young ladies aged 15 to 17 who would be interested they can call her at 662-2790 and a group can be formed.

The Rangers program is structured differently from other groups in that it is mainly set up by the girls who are assisted by their leaders in carrying out the program.

This program is called "Look Wide" and offers sixteen challenge areas which invite members to delve deeper into the promise and law, service, leadership, interpersonal relationships, their future, their heritage, health and fitness, hiking, camping, the arts, home and emergency skill, as well as community, women's and international concerns.

It really was a thanksgiving weekend.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed for what was the final long holiday weekend of 1984.

Members of the farming community were delighted with the good weather that has prevailed in the last while as it enabled a majority of them to complete the '84 harvest.

It was unusually warm on Monday.

The temperature soared to a record-setting level when it climbed to twenty-seven degrees above.

That broke, by one degree, the old record which had been established thirty-three years ago, in 1951.

Monday's mark was the second record high established in less than a week.

The mercury climbed to twenty-three above on Friday, breaking the old record of twenty-two which had been set in 1936.

While the warm trend is continuing, it will have to get up into the high '20's to break any more records over the next ten days.

Stress Management Workshop
Daneve Freeborn, Lifeskills Consultant, will lead this relaxing day of information, discussion & discovery.

IN MEMORIAM

SCABAR – In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother Clara who passed away Oct. 12, 1982
Wonderful memories woven in gold
These are the memories we tenderly hold.
Deep in our hearts her memory is kept
To love, to cherish, and never forget
– Sadly missed and always in our thoughts by husband Art, Gary, Rose and Shauna 6p 9039

CARDS OF THANKS

WE WOULD like to express our heartfelt thanks to all who helped us through the tragic loss of our dearly beloved Kevin. A special thanks to family, relatives, friends and neighbors who were instantly with us when we so desperately needed them. Special thanks also to Walter Pierson and the Camrose Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses who looked after the lunch for us and to all others who brought food and helped as well. Thank you to the pallbearers and we are deeply grateful to the Tofield Funeral Home for their kind assistance with arrangements. We deeply appreciate the many beautiful flowers, the memorials, the food that was brought to the house, the visits, the many cards and kind expressions of sympathy. By your many acts of kindness we know Kevin held a special place in the hearts of many. These expressions will always be remembered.
– Harvey, Esther, Arlin and Taunya 6c 8163

WE WOULD like to thank the relatives and friends for flowers, memorial and cards received in memory of our Aunt Edith Turner. Would especially like to thank Rev. Terence Dunn, Mrs. G. Crispin, the organist and the Anglican C.W. for serving lunch after the service. Also the Tofield Funeral Home for their help. To Bethany Auxiliary Hospital Doctors and Staff we thank you for taking care of our Aunt during the last three years. Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered. – The Family [illegible]

New programs are planned

. . . for gifted children

by Joan Murray

Programs for gifted children will be installed in county schools to provide enrichment in the regular classroom. The emphasis will be on about 30% of the class for enrichment, but the program will be integrated into the classroom activities.

This information was made available to board members at the County of Beaver Board of Education meeting last Tuesday.

They were told that $12,000 is available for this program and funds will be used as follows: $6,000 — materials, $1,000 — identifying students and $2,500 — in-service teachers.

The teachers will identify the students who meet the criteria defining a gifted student and some formal testing will be done.

Some teachers have already been sent to county schools to help set up the program.

It was decided that out of county students attending County of Beaver schools will be asked to have agreements with the board signed by their parents for safety reasons.

In this agreement, parents will be held responsible for the safety of their child from the bus stop to their homes and there will be space for alternate arrangements. The Board will not be held liable for the child after leaving the bus stop.

Mileage for spare bus drivers and substitute teachers will no longer be paid by the Board. Letters regarding this change will be forwarded to notify all concerned.

The Board agreed that they are not in favor of school buses being used for recreation purposes unless it is under an unusual circumstance such as breakdown of the recreation bus.

A finance committee will be formed to review revenues and expenditures before board meetings and will be involved in budgeting. This will be an extension of the present salary committee. Members will be elected to this committee at the organizational meeting on October 23rd.

Other elections to be made at the organizational meeting will be chairman, deputy chairman, and members on the following committees: school bus, finance, educational advisory, building and CAMS (Central Alberta Media Services) film library.

Enrollment figures for September are: C.W. Sears — 288; Tofield — 512; Ryley — 236; Holden — 366; Viking 545; Holden Colony 23; Iron Creek — 8; Viking Colony — 16.

The total, 1939, is down 30 students from the September, 1983 figure; but has remained fairly stable since June, 1984 with a decrease of only seven students since that time.

Ryley accepts bid

by Joan Murray

A contract for the curb and gutter project in Ryley was awarded to Ashdown Concrete Ltd. of Wetaskiwin, at the Ryley Council meeting last Tuesday evening.

Work will be done on 51st Street from 50th Avenue to 54th Avenue and east of that street from 52nd Avenue to 50th Avenue as well as on 49th Street from 50th Avenue to 54th Avenue.

Work is scheduled to begin today (Wednesday).

Morley McEachren and Charles Bethune from Alberta Municipal Affairs Assessment Operations were present to discuss doing a general assessment. No decision has been made.

Two councillors will be attending a Central Alberta workshop on community economic development in Sedgewick on October 23rd. This workshop is sponsored by Alberta Tourism and Small Business.

This information was taken from the unapproved minutes of the Ryley Council meeting held on October 9th.

Landfill site appeal lost

by Joan Murray

Four Tofield area residents were present at an appeal hearing in the County of Beaver office in Ryley on Thursday, regarding a recent decision to have the regional landfill waste transfer station site located NE 2-51-19-W4.

Because their properties are in close proximity to this location, they were mainly concerned that the condition of the road leading to the transfer station would become as unsightly as the one leading up to the present dumpsite in Tofield.

One resident was particularly concerned that the site would be in constant view from her home which is 660 feet from there.

Rick Prentice, project engineer from Reid Crowther and Associates, explained in detail the site plans and passed photos of a scale model of the project around to those present. He also made a detailed drawing of the transfer site building in order to clarify any misconceptions of what was actually planned for the site.

It was noted that the transfer site would not be a garbage dump as such, but would only be used for storage purposes. The waste would be removed at least twice a week as well as be washed down and cleaned regularly to eliminate any possibility of offensive odors accumulating in the area.

Mayor Charlie Sears informed them that town employees would be passing by on a regular basis and would be able to keep a close watch on the situation for any problems that may occur.

The appeals were denied subject to changes being made in the fencing to have the spacing reduced from 6 inches to 4 inches to prevent loose paper from getting out of the compound. Provision will also have to be made for a suitable buffer between the residence to the north and the transfer site building.

Council was approached by a taxpayer to have his property re-assessed. He has forty acres of land which has been classed as farmland in the past but is now assessed at non-farm status. A motion was passed to have an assessment completed and brought back to the next meeting.

Viking and Tofield Lodges are opening at full capacity. Holden has 22 residents and has rented five rooms in the Health Unit. Their financial situation is much better this year.

The Bruce Fireball extension is basically complete.

Chairman Warner brought to Council's attention the small amount of public skating time that is available this season. He said he wanted the councillors to be aware that he did not feel that they were getting their money's worth out of the $9,000 grant that is given to run the arena.

A verbal request was received from Lindbrook Community Hall Association that, because they were running out of options for relocation of their hall they wished to purchase park reserve property from the county in a subdivision east of Lindbrook Store. Council agreed that the assessor should investigate this possibility.

John Warner and Don Rosehart were appointed to sit on the Regional Economic Development Council (REDC). This gives representation from both ends of the county. A meeting will be held on November 7th and local towns and villages will be asked to send two representatives to discuss the formation of an REDC.

Duties of an assistant agricultural fieldsman were discussed and it was agreed that they should include those of the county fire chief as well as assistant to the development officer. This position will be interviewed tomorrow.

Contempt

Alberta Attorney General Neil Crawford has recently been warning Alberta's press, notably the daily press, and possibly the broadcast media, they may be found in contempt of court if they continue to refer to the past records, the past sentences, of people charged with misdemeanors while on parole or on mandatory supervision. Mr. Crawford points out the report may be considered as influencing either judge or jury should the person charged appear before them in court.

What Mr. Crawford says, of course, is essentially true. There is the presumption, regardless of past performance, that a person is innocent until proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. And reporting a number of past convictions of any person may help to persuade a judge or jury, even subliminally, of that person's guilt. It may also persuade the public the person charged must be guilty, and therefore should be convicted once again.

So Mr. Crawford is correct, technically, in suggesting there may be contempt of court.

But we wonder if he is looking beyond the mere technicality. We wonder if he is looking at possible reasons for the sudden interest in the past record of people charged while still under court control. We wonder if he has guessed the public, represented at least in part by the press, is showing a good deal of interest in what appears to be an escalation in the number of crimes charged to people who might reasonably be expected to be constrained . . . as guests of Her Majesty.

There has been a public perception, whether or not it is justified, that sentences awarded by the Courts have been unreasonably chopped by the parole system, to the point a Court system becomes almost meaningless.

It could be that the increase in press attention to past records is simply representative of the general public feeling that such severe chopping of sentences is justice denied . . . regardless of the John Howard Society.

If this is anything like correct, maybe Mr. Crawford should really be focussing on the problem, rather than on apparent symptoms of it.

Wrong already Opposition Leader Grant Notley this week draws attention to the fact Alberta's legislature will open the fall sitting tomorrow, with the Premier's "State of the Province" speech.

Politics is (are?) politics, but it dismays us that, even before he has any idea what the Premier is about to say, Mr. Notley knows it won't be good enough, that before the end of the month, his party will be releasing a detailed response to the Lougheed white paper, analyzing its weaknesses. And offering counter proposals.

We know the job of the Opposition is to oppose. We know its role is to offer counter proposals. But it seems, too, that once in awhile the Opposition should admit the government has proposed a good idea, that there is merit in some of their ideas, and that, all things taken into consideration the Province would be better off for following their particular line.

We know football teams have farm teams to play against, boxers have sparring partners who try always to upset their 'boss'. Hockey teams play against an opposition team, to keep themselves in fettle. All of this we know. But just as the farm team acknowledges a home run, or a goal, from their opponents, it seems to us the Official Opposition should sometimes acknowledge the Government has scored, too. Instead of writing in advance to tell us they'll pick it to pieces.

We admire Grant Notley. Many of his precepts find support with all of us. He has accepted the kind of role many politicians would find impossible, or destroying, and he's been given very few tools to assist in his job.

Yet we don't think it's unreasonable to look for some outlook a little less cynical, a little more constructive. We don't think it's unreasonable to wish that he could evaluate before saying "it's no good . . . what is it?"

We agree the Opposition's role is to oppose. But surely it's expected to be responsible . . . to be contemplative . . . in it's attitude, too.

Re: Ambulance Service

John M. Bauman
R.R.3

The following is a copy of a letter to:
Hon. David Russell
420 Legislative Bldg.
Edmonton, Alta.

Wake up Dave Russell! As Hospitals Minister you have repeatedly refused to respond to the request from Alberta's doctors and municipal politicians for upgraded ambulance regulations. Even the Ambulance Operators Association has made this request. Because of your negligence ambulance service in this province is inconsistent and in many communities inadequate.

Cities like Edmonton and Calgary are able to support an excellent service staffed by emergency medical technicians and paramedics because of a large tax base. In rural areas where we are at greater distances from medical facilities we don't have the population to support such a service on our own. Surely the Lougheed regime could spend fewer dollars on ski hills and golf courses and more on the necessities. Nothing is more basic to me than adequate health care. When I am in need of emergency medical care I need it wherever I happen to be stricken (in my home or perhaps in a ditch along the highway). According to your thinking, Mr. Russell, I am not a patient until I arrive at the hospital but how I get there is my problem. Unfortunately, the present emergency medical system in most Alberta communities is inadequate and in some cases non-existant.

You Mr. Russell, have stated that ambulance service is a municipal responsibility. Why? The provincial government has established and enforces regulations under the Weed Control Act, supposedly to protect our agriculture industry. Who makes these seemingly arbitrary decisions? I'd much rather you concern yourself with the welfare of the people in this province; your actions do not speak well of you in this regard.

John M. Bauman

Harvest year good

Much better than expected.

That was the way many farmers described the 1984 [illegible] had completed threshing operations by the end of last [illegible].

A long, hot dry spell during the growing season had left many farmers anticipating low yields and poor grades

Initial cutting brought surprise to many as yeilds were excellent and grades were much higher than expected

However, right in the middle of harvesting, there were two lengthy wet spells following which frost hit at nights and the result was a drop in grade for the balance of the harvesting season, expectally [illegible]

Much of the canola crop was taken from the fields before [illegible] and as a result, only about three percent got a 2 Canada rating while all the rest got a top grade

Canola yields were about on a par with most years, with an average of about 539 kilograms per acre

Barley turned out to be especially good after hopes for a good year sagged during the lengthy heat wave

[illegible]-quarters of this [illegible] crop received a top feed rating with almost all of the rest getting the next [illegible]tion

Fields yielded an average of about 1 170 kilograms to the acre with that total being comparably to most years

While production was slightly better than had been anticipated, grades fell drastically in the final weeks of harvesting because of damage resulting from ex[illegible].

Just under one-third of the crop received a 3CWRS grade [illegible] got the top grade and almost one-quarter of the entire crop was graded as feed

Farmers throughout the area produced an average of nearly 1,000 kilograms of wheat per acre

Farmers in the Tofield area were hit hardest by poor weather during the harvest season, but they did come out on top production-wise.

The Tofield region produced the highest averages in kilograms per acre in wheat, oats and barley

Barley averaged out at 1,700 kilograms per acre while oats yielded 1,300 kilograms and wheat produced 1,200 kilograms per average acre.

Farmers in the New Norway area gained an average of 600 kilograms of canola per acre and 800 kilograms of flax, to lead the way in those two [illegible].

The best rye production took place in the Daysland region where farmers got an average of 1,300 kilograms per acre.

Echoes from Em

A Pinch of This and A Pinch of That

[illegible]
Or make a batter long ago,
When I was only table high
I used to like to just stand by
And watch her for a little while,
She'd sing a little and maybe smile
And talk to me and tell me what?
Well! Things I never have forgot

I'd ask her how to make a cake
First, she'd say, some sugar take,
Then some flour, an egg or two,
Then put in — to make it good

(This part I never understood and often used to wonder at)
A pinch of this and a pinch of that

Then she'd say, "My little girl,
When you've grown up and childhood's done,
And maybe mother is far away,
Just remember what I say,
For life's a whole lot like a cake,

Yes, life's a thing we have to [illegible]
Much like a cake or pie or bread,
You'll find, my little girl", my [illegible].

[illegible]
Before my eyes the past appears —
A life of laughter, and of tears,
And both the bitter and the sweet,
Have made that life of mine complete

The things I have and the things I miss
Are a pinch of that and a pinch of [illegible]
But now, I think I know the way
To make a life as she would say
"Put in the wealth to serve your needs,
But don't leave out the lovely [illegible].
Put in the great things you mean to do,
But don't leave out the good, the true.
Put in, whatever you are at,
a pinch of this and a pinch of that."

The Tables Are Turned

Remember what I said last week about my kids enjoying the "no jawing" rule laid down by our family doctor? They thought having a muzzled mom was great.

Now the tables [illegible] and the joke is on at least one of [illegible] come [illegible] with a similar ailment and — you guessed it — the doctor told him to keep his chewing, talking and laughing down to a minimum. I'm sure glad that I was improved because I laughed all the way home.

I thought that it was difficult enough for me to keep my [illegible], but there are some things that you just can't expect teenagers to do. One of them is to stop talking, except when they have decided to give mom and dad the silent treatment. Teens just have to talk. This is especially true in the case of [illegible] younger siblings to boss around. Who will growl "Get lost!" every few minutes? The whole thing could lead to shock trauma (Not his, ours.) It is this young man's early morning primal scream that gets me going every day. Now I will have to depend on my cup of tea.

And can you imagine a worse fate for anyone over twelve than being told they can't chew? Eating just isn't the same without the crunch. Soft foods just don't fill up that hollow leg like salt and vinegar chips or a triple decker peanut butter sand[illegible] symptoms but no worry about food losing it's appeal entirely. Let's face it, no teenage boy is going to abstain. In[illegible] for things that don't need teeth. We're talking here of a boy who can slurp up my spaghetti and meat sauce faster than an anteater lunching on a termite hill

Any illness is unwelcome, [illegible] like lying around except when they are supposed to be busy elsewhere. We had him cluttering up the place, suffering in silence, for an entire weekend. Like all persons his age, he can make his feelings known without uttering a sound. And he learned a lot from me last week. He got my snarl down pat. That's the trouble with teenagers, they only pay attention when you aren't trying to teach them something.

County league might fold

The County Senior Hockey League is in critical condition.

Even if the league does survive and operate during the coming winter months, it is quite probable that the name would not be appropriate in that there would not even be one team from the county.

At a league organizational meeting held last week, it was discovered that only three teams were ready to operate in the 1984/85 season.

The defending champion Camrose Blackhawks are ready to go as are the Tofield Terns and Camrose Nursette.

Kingman had planned to return to the fold, but a check has shown that, at the most, only about eight players would be back from last winter as a couple have decided to move to the Camrose Commercial Hockey League and the rest have decided to retire.

The team might stay in operation if players trying out for Nursette don't make that team would be willing to join with the remaining players from Kingman to form a team which, if it does operate, would become a third Camrose entry.

If the Kingman (Camrose) team fails to operate, it could mean the end of the league as there seems to be little interest in operating with just three teams.

League officials were informed last week that the Rosalind team has been forced to fold because of a shortage of players.

The possibility of a team from New Sarepta ceased to exist when league officials were told that someone from the league would likely have to go to that community to organize a hockey club.

There had been speculation that an application for entry into the league might be forthcoming from Holden, but no such application was received.

If the County Senior Hockey League does fold, Camrose Nursette might try to continue in another league, with the Beaverhill Hockey League receiving consideration in this regard.

A spokesman for the Camrose Blackhawks indicated that the team would not consider joining another league and would cease to operate if the present league folds.

If the league does continue, the regular schedule is not expected to start until next month (November) and would continue until February and be followed by playoffs.

Because of the question of whether or not the league would continue, an executive was not elected at last week's meeting. If the league does operate, a new executive would be elected at this week's meeting.

Drawings studied

by [illegible]

The [illegible] drawings for the home economics and industrial arts building addition to Tofield School were reviewed by the Board of Education Building Committee, last Tuesday.

The construction in this project not only allows for the addition, but will also include some renovations to the administration office which will provide for an infirmary with washroom facilities.

In the addition section, there will be a counsellor's office and waiting area, photo and dark room, computer electronics room and a concession kiosk.

The passageway will have additional illumination from skylights in the roof and the use of glass will create the illusion of space where ever possible throughout the project.

They are now ready to call for tender.

Around the town

by Joan Murray

John and Marlene Unrau of B.C. were present as guest speakers at the Tofield Mennonite Church on Sunday. John Unrau was a pastor in Tofield from 1974 to 1979.

Harry and Bea Mosby of Tofield and George and Norma Wylie of Edmonton are proud grandparents once again. Anthony Michael was born on October 11th. His parents, Ivy and Dwight Wylie, live in Vegreville with his brother, Bryan.

Order of the Eastern Star entertained residents of the Seniors Lodge on Wednesday when Lois Young celebrated her birthday and Marie Englesham played her accordion. A muffin party on Saturday was a success with some of the proceeds being used to buy two layettes for the hospital.

Tofield Lionesses presented a $500 scholarship to Christopher Smith who is now attending Red Deer College. Due to a lack of membership, the Lionesses have surrendered their charter and this was the final scholarship they will award.

Invest in Futures: Hire a young Albertan.

For a high return on a low-cost investment, hire a young Albertan. The immediate yield will be enthusiasm, energy, and a willingness to learn. The long-term pay-back will be employees who are productive, hard-working and valuable assets, to both their employers and to their community. Now, the Alberta Government will help you finance this important investment.

We'll help lower your employment costs. The Alberta Government has initiated the Youth Employment and Training Program to encourage you to hire young Albertans. We'll share the cost of wages and training with employers who hire unemployed young people who have been Alberta residents for the past 3 years. Every private sector employer, non-profit organization, school and hospital board and municipality is eligible to participate.

Up to $7,800 a year when you hire post-secondary graduates. If you hire on a full time, 12-month basis, current university, college or technical institute graduates who have been unemployed for the last four months, you are eligible to receive 50% of his or her wages up to a maximum of $7,800 per year. Plus an additional $25 a day if you offer approved full time training. And up to 75% of related instructional costs.

Up to $140 a week when you hire high school graduates. If you hire on a full time basis an 18- to 24-year-old Albertan who is a high school graduate and who has been unemployed for 4 months, you can receive 50% of his or her wages, up to $3.50 per hour or $140 a week for 6 months. If you retain this employee for another 6 months you will receive an additional $3,000. If you offer a full time training program, a $15 a day training allowance will be paid. Young people who have been out of the education system for at least 12 months and who have been unemployed for the last 4 months are also eligible. You will be required to allow your employee one half day for career counselling with the Alberta Career Centre Workshop.

Apply Now. The program begins November 1, 1984 and ends March 31, 1987. Application forms and further information about the program may be obtained from your nearest Alberta Manpower Employment Development office or by phoning 427-8517 in Edmonton; 297-6247 in Calgary; 538-5430 in Grande Prairie; 329-5419 in Lethbridge; 340-5366 in Red Deer; 645-6206 in St. Paul

by Mrs. G.R. Taylor

Matt and Joan Helfrich had Matt's brother and wife from Vancouver, visiting with them during the past week.

Mrs. Kate Nichols, who had been a patient in Tofield Hospital for over the past six weeks, returned home on Saturday of last week.

Visiting with Anne and Pete Milimaka on the Thanksgiving weekend were Millie and Archie Carlim from B.C., who had been visiting with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Brian Carlim, in the Bruce District.

Holden Lodge Order of the Royal Purple are holding a cash bingo in Holden Community Hall on Friday.

Jim and Helen Zwierschke and son, Robert Tiedemann, were visitors during the Thanksgiving weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Tiedemann and family in Edmonton to help Alan celebrate his birthday.

Gladys and Leo Hladilo of Kelowna, B.C. were visiting for several days with Gladys' mother, Mrs. Bertha Chetney.

Mae and Bruce Budd spent the recent holiday weekend visiting with Norman and Micky Saboe in Grande Prairie, returning home on Tuesday and calling at St. Albert on their way home to visit with their daughter, Linda and grandchildren.

Holden Lutheran Church organization will be celebrating their 60th anniversary on November 4th with a dinner in the Community Hall at noon and service will be held at 2 p.m. in the church. The former pastor Rev. Gary Barr, will be the guest speaker. All former members and friends are invited.

Saturday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor were their son and wife, Brian and Dineke Taylor and granddaughter, Cathryn of St. Albert.

Mrs. Clara Armstrong of Penticton, B.C. and friends with whom she was visiting with at Looma, were visiting an afternoon last week with Mrs. Ethel Brekstad.

Holden Lodge Order of the Royal Purple held their regular meeting on Oct. 9th with HRL Mary Semotiuk presiding. Regular business was attended to and correspondence from the Supreme Lodge was dealt with. Lady Nellie Kaluzny gave the report of the trustees for the term 1984-85, with the Lodge budget. Reports of the Chamber of Commerce supper held Oct. 2nd was given by PHRL Helen Bilyk and the Sunshine report by Lady Helen Stecyk. A donation was made to the Village of Holden. Books of bingo tickets for the Oct. 19th bingo had been given out to members and HRL Semotiuk appointed members to various committees. At the conclusion of the meeting, lunch was served with hostesses being Ladies Eleanor Ogonoski and Olga Michalenko.

Holden LCW held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday. Mrs. Dorothea Mathews led the Bible study with Mrs. Ethel Brekstad presiding over the business session. Regular business was attended to and correspondence read. A discussion was held with plans made for the coming 60th LC Congregational anniversary to be held Nov. 4th and also for their annual bazaar and tea on Nov. 30th. Election of officers was held with the same slate of officers being elected to office for another term. At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Ethel Brekstad served lunch.

Four members of Holden LCW attended the workshop on Saturday at Mount Olivet Lutheran Church in Sherwood Park.

Friday morning callers with Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor were their son and wife, Robert and Marie Taylor of Viking and Saylor and Mike Vandenburg of Newburg, Oregon, stopping on their way to Edmonton and Mrs. Taylor went with them.

Mrs. Frances Hanson, who has not been well for the past week, is a patient in Viking Hospital.

Mrs. Mike Chomic, who spent several days in Viking Nursing Home, has been home for over the past week.

Holden and District Home and School Association are holding a general meeting on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Holden School Library.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Budd were visiting in Leduc on Sunday, and attended the birthday celebration of Peter Wylie. Also attending the occasion were Mrs. Mary Zwierschke, and Jim and Helen Zwierschke. Mae and Bruce visited with Mrs. Beth Campbell at Leduc Extendicare Nursing Home, with the Zwierschkes visiting in the evening with her.

Rink plan approved

by Joan Murray

At the regular meeting of the Town of Tofield Council on Tuesday night, it was decided that the town frontend loader would be used to clear the ice surface on the outdoor skating rink that the Tofield Lions Club plans to construct this year.

The club will be required to pay wages for a town employee to run this machine, but this undertaking must be authorized by public works foreman, Ernie Duchesne. There will be no charge for the machine hours. Duchesne will turn the operator's time in to council who will then bill the Lions Club.

This skating rink will operate on a one-year trial basis and will be supervised for the first month to familiarize users with the rules and regulations required while using the rink.

The Town of Tofield will be sponsoring an energy conservation workshop in the future. The Alberta Energy Board is offering this workshop to show homeowners how to reduce their energy bills. It will be a free hands-on workshop which highlights no-cost/low-cost changes which participants can implement to realize immediate savings. Other topics to be discussed are basement insulation, condensation, ventilation and how to calculate payback savings.

The town has only to register participants and provide a suitable space for this event. The Alberta Energy Conservation Branch will provide the instructor and all materials at no cost.

Council has agreed to take necessary steps towards sponsoring a Katimavik program in this community. Katimavik is Canada's national volunteer youth program under which young Canadians between the ages of 17 and 21 join together to spend nine months working on projects in all areas of Canada.

Three groups of 12 volunteers over a period of nine months are sent to the designated area to undertake community work that needs to be done, but just hasn't been affordable.

Council felt that perhaps the cemetery repairs would be a suitable project for this program.

The problem of children not using the existing crosswalk on Highway 834 near C.W. Sears School was brought to council's attention and they felt that Alberta Transport should be contacted to survey this situation to see if another crosswalk needs to be put in or what other possibilities may exist to alleviate the problem.

A by-law establishing an economic development committee in Tofield was passed.

There have been several complaints made to council members about horses being ridden on sidewalks and private property. The offenders will be notified. It was noted that local horse clubs have been approached to issue a word of caution to their members about using common courtesy if they are going to ride within town limits.

Tofield Lodge Notes

Mrs. Young and Lois had visitors on Sunday, Linda and Gary Williams and two sons, from Wetaskiwin. Jamie is Mrs. Young's granddaughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brace of Edmonton visited Mrs. Stinson on Wednesday afternoon. They were in Tofield renewing old acquaintances.

Mrs. Wohlgemuth spent the weekend in Sherwood Park with her daughter, Kathy Lutz and family.

On Thursday, Maggie Petersen went on the senior citizens bus to the Red Barn.

Mrs. Eggen spent a week in Edmonton visiting with Shirley, Orville and Marion, and their families.

Visitors with Mrs. Agnes Anderson the past week were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Loughlin from Abbotsford, B.C., Miss Mary Hoskins from Viking, Mac Anderson from Ryley and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Whitham from Edmonton.

I Remember When . . .

by Ella McRoberts

I remember when a father was the acknowledged head of the family.

My memory goes back a long way — back to that tiny Isle where I was born so many years ago. I was the youngest in a family of six. Preceding me were: Evelyn (Lena), Ivan, Gerald, Leigh and David. My parents, husband, sister, brothers and their wives are all gone now. So all I am left with is memories. Memories of a lifetime, very similar to that of countless others — of happy moments, hard work, hard times, disappointments, worry, periods of illness and great grief.

I attended RWC at Charlottetown and emerged as a school teacher. I had no choice. There were only three professions available for girls at that period — teaching, nursing or secretarial work. I would have preferred the latter, but Mother thought otherwise.

I am now comfortably settled in a nice room in a Lodge. Alberta is very good to its senior citizens. I am among about forty of my own peers, so I have plenty of time to indulge in my favorite activities — reading, Bible study, writing, bridge and keeping abreast, through radio and TV, of world conditions and sports.

So now I will retire to my memories.

In the early 1900's going to church on Sunday was the bright spot in an otherwise uneventful week. Our forefathers had been Presbyterian for a couple of centuries so naturally we too, were of that persuasion. In fact, in those days, the church was the center of our lives.

But I fear that the exhortation of "The Word" was not always the main attraction. Those early preachers were dedicated men, also long winded and rather dull.

No, the going-to-Church habit gave us an excellent opportunity to observe, to mix, to mingle with others.

Metronly ladies would present, dressed in floor length skirts, topped with a high necked, long sleeved waist on the lower back of which was a short group of gathers. Hidden there would be two serviceable "Eyes".

The corresponding hooks were attached to the skirt and when connected, gave the lady confidence that she would not come apart at the waistline. Sometimes the skirt slipped and those gathers grinned at you.

Sensible hats were anchored by hat pins. It was practically illegal to appear in public hatless in those days.

A mother and daughter we knew attended on alternate Sundays, they only had one hat.

The younger ladies were the most fashionable dressed. Their floor length gowns were light colored and beruffled. Their hats were perched precariously on pompadoured heads. The higher the pompadour the more chic the wearer. To achieve the desired effect, many ladies resorted to rats.

Now don't misunderstand. These were not the repulsive four legged variety. No, they were fashioned by human hands from the lady's hair combings. On every dressing table rested a receptacle for these combings. When enough were collected they were wound into a cone shaped delusion resembling a rat. Sanitary? Not very.

I belonged to the younger generation and my preparation for the weekly outings were scant. I simply washed and changed to my "other" dress. Dragged out a pair of black stockings, adjusted elastic garters. Of course I put on my hat, secured by an elastic cord under the chin.

To go to church, one must be respectfully attired.

Lakeshore-McKenzie news items

by Ellen Eaton

Some 13 Senior Citizens went with Casual Tours to the Red Barn on Thursday to attend the annual senior citizens jamboree. Also on the same bus wee senior citizens from Forestburg and Galahad. Our bus driver took us on a tour of the game farm.

Walter and Evelyn Eaton of Seba Beach were visitors at the home of Walters mother, Ellen Eaton on Oct. 1.

Marg Eaton visited her grandmother, Ellen Eaton, on Oct. 4th enroute to her home in Edmonton. Marg had just returned from a holiday trip to Ontario and came down to visit her parents, Leroy and Shirley Eaton on the Eaton farm and stopped to visit Ellen on the way to the farm. While in Ontario, she visited her aunt (Ellen's daughter) Rita Powell at Ancaster as well as other relatives around London and other parts as well as a girlfriend in Toronto. Marg returned to work Friday evening at the University Hospital where she is a security guard.

Leory and Shirley Eaton were guests at a Thanksgiving turkey supper on Oct. 7th at the home of Leroy's mother, Ellen Eaton.

The Lakeshore UCW met in the United Church on Sept. 26th while the Ketchamoot UCW met in the church basement. After both meetings were completed, Lakeshore joined Ketchamoot in a joint meeting at which Mrs. Hazel Patterson had called to outline the different functions of the church, etc. After the joint meeting, lunch was served by both UCW's combined.

The Lakeshore UCW October meeting will be held on Oct. 25th in the Senior Citizens Lodge with a film of interest to be shown.

The Tofield Golden Club is holding a Hallowe'en tea, bake table and old articles table on Oct. 27th from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Golden Club Drop-In Centre. Those with baking or articles for the article table or those donating food for the tea, please get their donations in early, if possible.

Financial Counselling

Every farmer in the County of Beaver has been feeling the "pinch" over the past few years of reduced incomes and increased costs. For many producers, this squeeze has now reached a very critical point. If you need to talk with someone about your situation, Rudy and I are available to discuss your situation and suggest alternatives. We are both trained in this area and have done financial counselling in the past. We also have our Regional Economist to draw upon plus a variety of computer programs at Vermilion, with which we can "cash flow" different alternatives for periods up to five years.

One of the saddest things I see is a farmer who comes to see me when he has no alternatives left. Do feel free to ask us for financial counselling advice before it is too late for your particular farm.

Upcoming Fall Courses

The following courses are being put on for YOU! If interested phone us at 663-3666 to pre-register.

November 19 — Canola Meeting — Viking. This meeting will discuss canola growing, rotations, and marketing. The meeting will be co-sponsored by the Canola Grower's Association and Alberta Agriculture.

November 27 — Cereal and Oilseed Diseases and Insects — Viking. This meeting will look at the major insects and diseases affecting our crops. Control measures will be discussed.

December 4 — Cereal and Oilseed Diseases and Insects — Tofield. This meeting will be a repeat of the November 27 Viking meeting held in Tofield for our "western" producers! Bye for now.

Kid's Cash

When I was growing up, my parents were firm believers in allowance. I remember them giving us the allowance on Sunday, that way we had one or two days to think about how we would spend it. As we got older and wanted bikes and other expensive items they gave us incentive to save. We each had a bank account and everytime we put money into the bank my parents would double it. When it came time to buy the bike, [illegible] pay for half of it. At the time it [illegible] occurred to any of us that we had only contributed one-quarter of the total price. What I learned from getting an allowance was that purchases needed to be planned and saved for — before buying.

If you don't already have an allowance system for your children, think about setting one up. It encourages children to handle their own transactions, to shop around for the best value and to save for major purchases. What better way to learn about handling money than to actually do it.

An allowance can be given to children as soon as they recognize the basic Canadian coins (5-6 years). The amount given will depend on what items the child will buy for themselves. At first they may buy only snacks and toys. The allowance should be reviewed regularly and every effort made to increase the number of items which the children buy for themselves.

It is important that children have some discretionary money left over after buying their "essentials". This will encourage them to make personal choices on how their money is to be managed.

Allowance should not be withdrawn as a punishment. You must establish what chores are a normal part of a child's responsibility. Extra chores might be a way of earning more than the regular allowance.

[illegible] Christmas may be an ideal time to get your children started on a regular allowance. This year they could be responsible for two small gifts from their allowance.

For more information on teaching children money management, phone [illegible] office for copies of publications "Guiding Children in Money Matters" and "A Child's Share of the Family Income."

BETWEEN THE COVERS

A new addition to the library's collection of Local Histories is that of Lafond and the surrounding areas, entitled "Dreams Become Realities". Like many other similar publications, this one covers many families of the area, and includes many photographs.

Two new volumes in the Epic of Flight series are "The Giant Airships" and "America In The Air War". These books are well-illustrated, and comprehensive in their treatment of each subject covered.

Grant MacEwan is always welcomed as an author in this community; one older title recently donated is new to our collection; "Portraits From The Plains". This is a collection of short biographies of Plains Indians, written with great insight into the important contributions these men have made to our country.

Many of you see advertisements from time to time for books from Western Producer Prairie Books and ask for them in the library. Because of the interest in local and regional history, this library has nearly all of that company's publications. Among the newest ones is "Wine and Wheat" by Joan Davies, a fictional account of an English family trying to make a go of farming in western Canada in the pre-war years. "Sweetgrass" by Jan Hudson is a young-adult novel with wide appeal, the story of the coming of age of a 15-year-old Blood Indian girl. A companion book to the latter is "Winners" by Mary-Ellen Lang Collura, about an Indian boy tired of foster homes and wanting to return to his reservation.

Advance registrations are now being accepted for children not previously enrolled in Preschool Story Hour. After Nov. 6, repeat registrations will also be accepted. The next sessions, beginning on Nov. 20, and 23 will run for four weeks before Christmas, and four weeks after.

Regular library hours are: Tuesday 1-5, Thursday 3-5 and 6-9; Friday and Saturday 10-12 and 1-5.

Beta Sigma Phi meets

Beta Sigma Phi is a social, cultural and service organization that has been active in Tofield for the past three years.

They met last Tuesday evening to begin the '84-85 season.

The new executive members are Gail Jordan, president; Anna Connelly, vice-president; Anne Ulrich, treasurer, Jackie Hielsson, recording secretary; and Edith Donnan, correspondence secretary.

This group has seven members and would welcome any ladies 18 years old and up who wish to become a member. An "open house" is being held in the Tofield Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre on October 30th to aquaint others with the sorority and it's functions. It is hoped that new memberships will be gained from this event.

Last year, Beta Sigma Phi held a dance, an Easter bingo, a quilt raffle and a Christmas tea. The proceeds from these events were donated to the Fire Department for their emergency rescue equipment fund, the library, the Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre and to C.W. Sears School for playground equipment.

This sorority group is not a secret organization or connected with any school or college and is non-political and non-sectarian.

It plans its social, civic, service and cultural activities to fit the interests of its own members. They meet twice a month at one of the members homes.

The keynote of Beta Sigma Phi is friendship and provides an instrument for self-development through social activities, adventures of the mind through cultural programs, and opportunities to serve others in ways that one person could not do alone.

There are 32 chapters in 31 countries with over 20,000 active members and allows for a member to transfer when she moves. There are conventions each year which any member may attend.

The opportunity to belong can only be given through an invitation from a member who hopes that you will receive it.

News from Ministik

Mixed for Last Week

On Sept. 28, Verden Sears was pleasantly surprised when several neighbours, friends and relatives gathered at the home of his daughter, Carol Dekinder, for the evening. The best surprise of all was when his three sisters, Alice, Florence and Ray and brother Tom could all be present.

The evening was spent visiting and playing many games organized by Carol.

Many congratulatory cards and gifts were received, and graciously acknowledged by Verden.

The first whist drive of the season was held at the Crafts Centre on Saturday evening with a good crowd in attendance.

Prize winners were Gents first — Verden Sears; second — Stanley Wenger and a tie with Glen Ferguson and Barry Brett; consolation — Woody Dekinder.

Ladies prize winners: first — Isabelle Lee; second — Darlene Brett and Truus Vandermeer; and consolation — Josie Wenger.

Lunch was served by the ladies.

A birthday party honoring Angeline Blackburn on the occasion of her 80th birthday was held in Looma Community Hall with 87 family members being in attendance. Mrs. Blackburn is the mother of Eva Davenport, who was present, along with Joe and Doris Davenport.

Word was received last week of the passing of Alex Boss of Camrose. Alex was born, educated and lived in the Ministik District until a few years ago, when he was married to Lydia Stewart and moved first to Edmonton and then, to Camrose. Funeral services were held on Friday afternoon and interment was in the South Cooking Lake Cemetery.

Members of the Ministik Ladies Club are busy these days, preparing for their annual bazaar which will be on November 2nd in the Community Hall, with Barbara Horricks as convener.

Gertie Stewart of Calgary has been visiting at the home of Joyce and Baden Bowerman for the last two weeks. She was also a guest at the party for Verden Sears. Mrs. Stewart is Joyce's mother.

Sheila and Melvin Dylke of Los Angeles were recent guests of John and Pat Dyke and boys.

The grade five and six pupils of Ministik have had some very late days at getting home this last week as a film crew is busy at the school.

In many ways, "Julie" is Catherine Marshall's own story, reflecting her passion for causes, her quest for faith, and her courageous spirit. Julie draws its inspiration from Catherine's life and from her indefatigable research of an era. Written over seven years, Julie is set in the last part of the Great Depression and is the story of Julie Wallace and her family ... of adventure and romance, of courage and commitment, of triumph and tragedy in a flood prone town in western Pennsylvania.

AMA program expands

The Alberta Motor Association (AMA) has announced that "Starting Early", an alcohol awareness and traffic safety program for elementary school children, will eventually become a national education program.

Starting Early, which addresses the beverage alcohol use issue from a child's perspective is being piloted in Western Canada by the AMA.

Mike Bradshaw, Corporate communications Manager, says other Western Motor Associations have committed to following AMA's lead in endeavoring to have Starting Early become a part of the elementary school health education curriculum.

The announcement came at a news conference in which the course developer, Dr Monica Homer, stated that Starting Early has been met with overwhelming acceptance throughout the United States since its introduction two years ago.

Dr Homer, Chairperson of the Health Education Department at Adelphi University, New York, had been brought to Alberta to lead more than 150 teachers through orientation seminars held in Calgary and Edmonton.

According to Bradshaw, Dr. Homer's appearance this soon after the program's introduction in January, is a good indication of the interest within Alberta in an alcohol awareness program for children.

Support at all levels of the education system — Provincial Government, School Districts, principals and teachers — has been most encouraging he said. "This support is enabling AMA to progress very smoothly through the introductory phase of the Program," says Bradshaw

"And our progress is critical to Starting Early becoming a truly national alcohol education Program."

The AMA will continue to make instructional kits, including all learning aids, available to teachers, schools and community groups free of charge on request.

Hoop action starts

A new basketball season has gotten underway at Camrose Lutheran College.

Both the Vikettes (women) and Vikings (men) saw action on Saturday when they went against former students of the college in annual alumni contests.

Vikings will be back in action this coming weekend when they go up to Edmonton for a tournament which is being hosted by North American Baptist College.

Following that, both teams will take a break and get ready for the annual preseason tournaments which are scheduled for the first weekend of next month (November).

CLC will be hosting the women's division while the men will be playing in Red Deer

Opening games in the ACAC Basketball League are slated for Nov 16th when CLC will be hosting opposition from NAIT.

One-half of the women's team will be composed of players from this area.

From Camrose are Cheryl Galenza, Janet Galenza, Mary-Ellen McBride and Debra Stang while Mochelle Hisey is from Ryley and the Traptow twins, Debbie and Darlene, hail from Bashaw.

Other members of the team, which is coached by Gail Amort-Larson are Judy Diduck, Tricia Harrison, Darlene Haverslew, Tracy Kerr, Val Larson, Vivian Paulgaard and Carolyn Unterschultz.

Stephen Johnson and Kevin Switzer of Camrose were the only area players to earn berths with the Vikings.

Coached by Faith Rostad, other team members include Ken Beard, Chris Clarke, Fernando Fierro, Geoff Greenwood, Gord Henry, Darrell MacDonald, Kevin Mines, Paul Paetsch and Bruce Voelker.

Only the top four teams in each division (men and women) will advance to the ACAC playoffs.

Both teams will be going on the road during the Christmas holiday season.

Vikings will be staying closer to home as the men's team will be going on a tour of California.

Vikettes are going to Europe where their exhibition schedule will include games in Finland, Sweden and Russia.

Amnesty week noted with public displays

This year's Prisoner of Conscience Week is being observed from Oct. 15-21

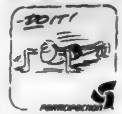
Members of Amnesty International will observe this week on behalf of people throughout the world who are imprisoned for their beliefs or origins, provided they have neither used nor advocated violence and for those in danger of torture and execution.

This year, Prisoner of Conscience Week is being devoted to the theme of "Women Silenced"

Governments around the world are punishing women who speak out or women who are perceived as potential opposition. As prisoners, women are exposed to special exploitation and abuse.

The Camrose A.I Group will be presenting information about women prisoners during a mall display this week.

The general public will have the opportunity to become involved by visiting the display, picking up a brochure, signing a letter on behalf of a prisoner, or making a small donation.



Market gardeners to get own group

The age-old practice of selling fresh vegetables direct to the consumer is thriving in Alberta, with over 300 market gardeners producing 1,700 acres of vegetables each year

A meeting is planned for November 20 in Red Deer with the aim of establishing an association to represent the interests of these market gardeners

"Many growers have expressed interest in forming such a group for several years now," says Lloyd Hausher, Alberta Agriculture's market garden specialist

Any grower who produces a minimum of two acres of vegetables for direct sale to consumers is classified as a market gardener. Mr Hausher adds Farm gate sales are the main marketing outlet for these growers, but some also sell through farmers' markets

Market garden acreage in Alberta has increased by at least 10 per cent annually during recent years

Anyone who would like more information about the proposed association or the meeting can contact Lloyd Hausher at the Alberta Horticultural Research Center in Brooks telephone 362-3391

Tourism holds its own

Despite a continued downturn in the economy, the tourist industry in the Battle River Zone was able to hold its own in 1984, according to reports presented at the BRTA's annual meeting.

A total of 73,395 tourists registered with the different tourist information booths operated throughout the zone.

That is a slight decrease in actual figures from the 1983 total but, BRTA officials pointed out that the booth operated in Bashaw was reduced by one-half during the past summer when the new Highway 21 by-passed the town and the booth for the entire latter part of the summer months.

According to officials, it is estimated that, had the by-pass not occurred, the number of visitors registered would have increased slightly over the previous year.

Visitors to the information booth in Sherwood Park nearly doubled in '84 with lesser increases being noted in Camrose, Leduc, Sedgewick and Viking.

BRTA officials noted that 1984 saw more support forthcoming from the business community.

When the books were closed for the 1984 season, a total of 771 businesses had been BRTA members, a total that is up from the 1983 total of 737.

It was pointed out that almost all municipalities are BRTA members and despite that fact, the municipal membership increased to [illegible].

A favourable financial report was presented which showed that the year ended with a small surplus.

Income for the year ending Aug. 31, amounted to $180,164.66 while expenditures totalled $179,890.99 which resulted in the small surplus of $273.67.

BRTA started the 1983/84 fiscal year with a bank account amounting to $36,666.15 and adding the surplus, the main now stands at $36,939.82.

This surplus is going to come in handy in the coming year as a deficit is being predicted.

The proposed budget for 1984/85 calls for total expenditures amounting to $180,357.14 while revenue is expected to be $360,000.

Fashion show is held

by Jean Murray

A show of fall fashions drew a crowd of 100 to the Holden Community Hall on Friday night.

Helen Zwierzinski, proprietor of Wendy Ann Fashions in Holden, hosted the evening and introduced local models wearing fashions from her shop.

Fall fashions were featured in raspberry, royal blue, grey, black, burgundy, thistle pink, plum red and beige. Popular materials for fall are doeskin suede, wool blends and corduroy.

The models were Linda Sabroski, Pearl Allen, Ann Feryna, Darlene Stambaugh, Grace Appleby, Loni Mason, Kelly Ann Story, Mildred Josey, Bridget Fleming, Susan Tymchak, Diane Daniluk, Bea Fredricks and Doris Ogrodnick.

Soloist, Margaret Gibson, accompanied by Olive Good on the piano, entertained the audience with several selections and had an old-fashioned sing-song during the breaks while the models changed outfits.

There was also a spring fashion show earlier this year and Agricultural Society program co-ordinator, Dawn Penny, said that they hoped to make these shows an annual event.

The Agricultural Society organized the species evening to raise funds to help pay off a loan for the cooling system in the arena.

Lakeland rodeo nears

The countdown to "Showdown '84" is well underway.

This is the finals for the rodeo circuit operated by the Lakelands Rodeo Association.

The three-day rodeo is being held under the sponsorship of the Camrose Agricultural Society and is to be staged on the society's new Fairgrounds, located on the eastern outskirts of the city.

There will be four performances with the first scheduled for the evening of Oct. 30th with the matinee and evening performances the following day and an afternoon competition on Oct. 30th.

The top cowboys from the Lakeland circuit will be in attendance to compete for prize money worth $50,000.

Queens were crowned at each of the rodeos held during the past season and all will be in Camrose seeking the crown of Showdown Queen '84.

An added attraction will see the Stess Family in attendance for their trick riding act.

The cowboys will be competing in bareback, calf roping, steer wrestling, bull riding and saddle bronc.

Other competitions will include junior girls' barrel racing, ladies' barrel racing, boys' steer wrestling and team roping.

Reserved seats for all four performances are available and may be obtained from Byers Country and Western Store.

Former resident has 100th

Recently, a former resident of Central Alberta, Mrs. Ida Teare, celebrated her 100th birthday in Seattle, Wash.

Mrs. Teare was 100 years young on Sept. 6 and was born in Rossville, Kansas in 1884.

She came with her husband, Charlie, as pioneers, to the Didsbury District in 1907. They farmed there for several years, then moved to the Gopher Head area where they continued farming until 1922.

That year they moved to Vegreville to operate a milk wagon for the town.

In 1930, they moved to Ryley where they went into the bakery and restaurant business.

Mrs. Teare's home cooking was known far and wide. Meals were cheap: 35c and coffee 05c.

Then, the depression hit and Mrs. Teare composed and wrote the following [illegible]. It was published in the Vegreville Observer in [illegible].

[illegible]

The year 1930 we all will agree —
It's really the worst we ever [illegible]
We lost all our money in farm[illegible]
It's strange how we managed [illegible]
And it's hard, hard times.
Mr. Ellihill, Miss McKinley and Clifford Lee
They teach in our school and we really can't see
Why the trustees should send them each a nice cheque,
When it's us poor people [illegible].
And it's hard, hard times
Next Dr. MacPherson, the worst of the lot,
Who says he will cure you for half you have got,
Now he says he will cure you for half you possess,
And then when you're dead, he will sue for the rest!
And it's hard, hard times.
There's Kirkland and Hay, Butler and Brown.
The only four merchants around our small town.
But the way we get stung, it's a pity to see.
And it's hard, hard times.
Next comes "Teare", the baker whose bread we all know
He claims it is good, but we really don't know.
[illegible]
buy anywhere,
But when we cut into it, we find it's just air.
And it's hard, hard times.
Then there's Eaton's and Krareng and Bendiksen too
They sell us some meat we hardly can chew
If we kick or complain or make any row,
The next time they will sell us the old family cow.
And it's hard, hard times
There's Hulbert and Ewers and Campbell we're told,
They buy all the wheat at so much per load.
When the farmers get paid, they can't buy a stamp—
For they're grading their wheat all No. 4 damp.
And it's hard, hard times.
Now Joines and Lillo and Woods all repair
Your car while you wait, and give you free air:
And then they put in the gas and say "Now, there you are,
Just dig up the cash or you don't ride in your car"!
And it's hard, hard times.
Then comes Mr. Cranston, our banker you see:
If you need any money, just try him and see.
To borrow a nickel you'll need a gold note.
We think now we're ready to give it a vote
And it's hard, hard times.
Then comes the poor farmer, who toils on the land.
The wind fills his eyes with both dirt and sand.
He raises plenty of wheat, also barley and oats,
But the price is so punk he can't pay his notes.
And it's hard, hard times.
Next comes Mr. Greig, our lumber yard man.
He sells you some lumber, if he possibly can,
He sells us enough for a house it is true,
But our money is all gone before we get through.
And it's hard, hard times.
Next Freeman, our hardware merchant in town:
Has marked all his wares ten percent down.
But hard times are so hard we can't even buy pans,
And now the poor man has to change all his plans.
And it's hard, hard times.
Next Mehus, "the barber" who is on main street,
[illegible]
so hard to save,
They really can't afford that Saturday night shave!
And it's hard, hard times.

Stambaugh is Holden mayor

By [illegible]

Kevin Stambaugh was re-elected as Mayor of Holden on Monday night.

He was duly [illegible] and took the oath of office and assured council that he would perform his duties to the best of his abilities.

Ken Sharpe will once again be Deputy-Mayor. The council [illegible] date and time will re[illegible] the same at every third Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Banking services will remain with the Royal Bank with Stambaugh and Sharpe retaining signing power.

Remuneration and mileage rates remained at $40 per meeting for councillors, $45 for the mayor [illegible] 25 cents per kilometer [illegible] travelling [illegible]. All councillor and [illegible] appointments remained the same.

Charles Bethune, government assessor, was present to inform council that 1985 was general assessment year, but that they could apply for an extension if they so wished. Bethune felt that Holden's present assessment rates were sufficiently equalized as to not require a general assessment.

He said it would cost about $11,000 to have a general assessment done.

Council agreed that a general assessment would not be beneficial at this time and passed a motion to request a one-year extension.

A letter was received from Alberta Utilities and Telecommunications regarding a grant application for funding a new water treatment plant. They cannot confirm funding at this time because of the great number of applications received under this program, but did request additional information for further consideration.

It was decided that Pedmore Engineering be directed to provide plans for this project, an implementation schedule and information regarding future population growth, as required. Council also felt that they should ask Pedmore Engineering to look into the possibility of locating the treatment plant in the vicinity of the present reservoir.

Alberta Environment will be providing restricted certificates to Holden treatment plant operators. These certificates will only be valid for use in Holden. If one of the present operators should leave his position, then the village would have to hire full certified operators to replace him.

Applications for restricted certification have already been applied for and council does not anticipate any problems with this matter.

Council proposes to pave 51st Avenue between 49th and 50th Streets and will apply to Alberta Transport for funding. Preliminary drawings will be sent to Alberta Transport and council has authorized preparation of a by-law to implement special assessment rate changes where necessary.

Purchase of a fire extinguisher for the Village Office was approved.

Administrator Christine McKay will be on holidays from November 18th to 29th. For this reason, the regular council meeting date has been changed to November 12th.

Spilstead news

By [illegible]

The Spilstead Community League held its monthly meeting on Oct. 2. A number of things were discussed. Foremost was the membership in the Community League and it was decided that the week of Oct. 15 to Oct. 20 would be a blitz.

Members of the Community League will be calling door to door to let everyone know just what the community has to offer them and possibly to find out what you may have to offer for the community.

The skating rink flooding was another big one with some wanting it and others feeling it was a lot of expense for a couple of people to enjoy. We would like people in our community to call either Denise at [illegible] or Moe at [illegible] and let us know what you think, or better yet, attend the next Community League meeting on Nov. 6 at 8 p.m.

The community Hallowe'en party will be put on by the Spilstead Pathfinders and other members of the community.

There will be prizes for the best costumes, both children and adult, various games, a fish pond for the little ones and a light lunch for anyone who comes. A delivery of gravel on the parking lot at the Hall arrived this past week.

This past weekend the Spilstead Community League held its very successful harvest dance.

On Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. the Beavers, Cubs and Scouts will be calling door to door on their bottle drive. If you're not going to be home, please put your bottles and cans at the end of your driveway or on your front step.

Anyone having any items to be included in this column, please give me a call at [illegible].

District news from Ryley

by Lena Rai

On Oct. 7, Elmer and Kathleen Anderson of the Lions Golden Manor had a surprise when the United Church ladies made their Thanksgiving truly a happy one when they delivered many articles of food.

A nice evening was held at the Hilda and Herman Jensen's when the family were celebrating Hilda's birthday. A birthday cake and coffee was enjoyed by all. Guests were their daughter, Sharon and Dana Bawden and girls of Camrose, daughter Carol and James MacKay of Tofield, Neil and Bernadette Jensen of Ryley and Mr. and Mrs. Reil.

Robert Lyzle of Tofield really had a big surprise while fishing at Black Nugget Lake when he caught a 23½ inch fish, which weighed 6 lbs., during the long weekend.

David Reil and Ella have moved from Ryley to Sherwood Park.

The Ryley High School volleyball team won their game in Viking last Thursday evening. John Blades is the Rebels' coach.

Leonard and Lorraine Davick are both hospital patients.

Brenda Helgeland enjoyed her long weekend holiday in Rocky Mountain House to visit her son Douglas and Ann and granddaughters Carolyn and Lori, returning home on Oct. 9.

Ada Hostetler and children Carol, Glenn, Lowell returned home Sunday from a trip to Glendine, Montana to attend the funeral of Ada's brother-in-law, Ed. He leaves his wife Violet and seven children to mourn his passing.

Bob and Debra Cruss and children of St. Albert visited their folks on Sunday and had a belated birthday lunch at Leonard Helgeland's. Leonard and Bob had birthdays on Oct. 10.

Dick Blakely is making his home in the Lodge in Tofield after spending some time in Tofield Hospital.

Kenneth Zook is a patient in the Tofield Hospital, also Gunner Osland.

The Ryley Fire Department's dance on Saturday evening was a huge success.

Mrs Salina Stutzman's funeral was held Oct. 5 at Salem Mennonite Church. Mrs. Stutzman was 94 years old. She passed away in an Edmonton hospital while having surgery for a broken hip.

Ministers were Clarence Reimer and Harold Boettger.

Pallbearers were Milo Stutzman, Richard Roth, Roger Stutzman, Dale Lauber, Brian Stauffer and Levi Troyer.

Burial was in Salem Mennonite Cemetery.

On Sunday we enjoyed a turkey dinner at Marilyn Campbell's. Other visitors were her brother Earl of Calgary, Ken Brake of Shonts and his cousin from Chilliwack, B.C. Marilyn's mother and Stan and a friend Trent of Tofield. Later in the day, Marilyn and family attended the golden wedding celebration for Fred and Mable Getheridge, in Camrose.

Sharon and Ray Knudson and children, Linda Berting and children, Henry and Laura Podruzny and Tori of Camrose, Lawrence Anderson and children Jeffery and Colleen of Thorsby, and son Lorne Anderson of Tofield were visitors with the Elmer Anderson's during the long weekend.

Henday award winner

Bill Fowler of Camrose (left) was presented with the Anthony Henday Award in recognition of his outstanding contributions to the cause of tourism in East Central Alberta at the annual Battle River Tourist Association (BRTA) meeting on the weekend. Edna Palmer presented the award established in 1979 by the BRTA. Fowler has been actively involved in BRTA since its formation in 1967 and has also been the president of the Tourism industry of Alberta and is currently the official representative for the City of Camrose. Fowler headed BRTA in 1978/77 and 73.

IN MEMORIAM

HOPF – Melvin, In loving memory of our father and grandfather who passed away Oct 18 1982

When our thoughts go back
As they often do,
We treasure the memories
We have of you
Gone are the days
We used to share
But in our hearts
You are always there.
—Ever remembered by Mabel and family 7p-8182

HOPF, Ralph, In loving memory of our husband, father, and grandfather who passed away October 16 1979

A fervent wish our Dad was here,
There are others you we know
But he was ours, we loved him so.
Dear God take a message
To him in Heaven above.
Tell him how much we miss him,
And give him all our love
—Always remembered and sadly missed by wife Mabel and the family 7p-8181

LUND – In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Ole Lund who passed away Oct 22 1983

The rolling stream of life rolls on
But still the vacant chair,
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of the one who once sat there
—Sadly missed and always in our thoughts by wife Kay Bev, Sheldon, Brad and Corey 7c 8170

YACIUK – In loving memory of Marie our dear wife, mother and grandmother who passed away Oct 17 1983

Wonderful memories woven in gold
These are the memories we tenderly hold
Deep in our hearts her memory is kept
To love to cherish and never forget
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Mike Joan and Doug 7p 8166

CARDS OF THANKS

WE WOULD like to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to all of those who remembered us in prayer during Pete's illness and our bereavement We would especially like to thank Pastor Randy Benson, the organist pianist the Men's Quartet and the Ladies of the Gospel Church for serving lunch after the service Flowers, donations, cards, expressions of sympathy and the food brought to the house were greatly appreciated A special thanks to our neighbors who helped us finish harvesting and to the Tofield Funeral Home May God Bless all of you
Mary Warkentin and family 7p 9066

WE WISH to express our sincere thanks [illegible] those who have ex[illegible] sympathy, both personally as well as by cards and memorials during the recent loss of our loved one Sabina Stutzman.

Clean-up

Friday morning found public works employees hard at work removing the after effects of the heavy snowfall experienced in Tofield and area last Wednesday and Thursday.

The Tofield Farmers Market will be open this Friday in the Community Hall.

This will be the last time until August of '85 that there will be a second market in a month. Oct. 12 saw a salute to the gardeners in the community with a vegetable identifying contest.

Farmers Market caps have been ordered and they should arrive soon. Both the mugs and caps can be purchased at the market.

This week, the salute is to the housewives in the community with a house plant competition. Bring your house plants and they will be put on display and judged by the public and prizes awarded.

To date there are seventeen tables booked with a good variety of items offered for sale. The doors open at 2 o'clock with selling starting at three.

Coffee and cake are available. Come and spend an afternoon at the Tofield Farmers Market.

For more information, call 662-2861.

Playground opens

by Joan Murray

The indoor playground program got underway in Tofield recently and as of Wednesday, there were nine mothers registered for the season as regular mothers, but several others do drop in from time to time.

The program is held in the United Church basement and runs from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. every Wednesday.

Program co-ordinator, Toni Blacklock, said that there is still space for more children and would welcome anyone wishing to come for coffee and conversation while the children play with the playground equipment.

There is a kitchen centre, spaceship area, slide, rocking see-saw, bouncing horse and many assorted playthings for pre-schoolers to enjoy.

Everyone brings a brown bag lunch if they wish to stay for the entire length of the program.

Cheryl Spicer, special events co-ordinator, is in the midst of organizing a Hallowe'en party for the youngsters and after that is complete, she will be thinking of what to plan for their Christmas party.

Warner again heads county

by Joan Murray

John Warner was re-elected Reeve for the County of Beaver at an organizational meeting on Monday morning.

Reeve Warner thanked the council for showing confidence in him and pledged to do his best to live up to this confidence.

Warner asked that the council all work together as a whole to solve financial problems in such a way that services can be kept in place without increasing the cost to ratepayers.

Gordon Maxwell was chosen as Deputy Reeve, and after taking the oath of office, thanked council for their confidence and said he would perform his duties to the best of his abilities.

The Board of Education and Municipal committee will be comprised of the council as a whole.

The Tofield General Hospital and Nursing Home committee will remain the same because the Tofield Health Centre is still under construction and all appointments have been frozen at this time. For the 1984-85 term, this body will consist of John Warner, George Knudslien and Rueben Hoveland.

Council chose Gordon Maxwell, Fred Myer and Don Ronaghan to make up the Viking General Hospital and Nursing Home committee.

Victor Romaniuk will be the county representative to the Vegreville Health Unit. He will also be part of the Beaver Foundation Committee along with Don Ronaghan.

Rueben Hoveland and Gordon Maxwell were chosen to be on the Beaver Ambulance Society Committee.

Councillors Myer, Maxwell and Ronaghan will make up the Disaster Services Committee.

Road Study committee members are Reeve Warner and Councillor Knudslien.

The Reeve and Deputy Reeve are the delegates for EUMD & C (Edmonton Union of Municipal Districts and Counties).

Court of Revision members are Hoveland, Maxwell, Ronaghan, Myer and [illegible]

In the past the Public Works Committee was made up of the entire council, but the general feeling was that this was a cumbersome situation in many cases. A motion was passed to set up the Public Works committee for '84-85 with a named chairman plus six alternates on the basis that the appointed chairman choose two councillors from the list of alternates when a problem arises. They would then review the situation and bring their recommendations to council for ratification.

George Knudslien was chosen to be chairman of this committee.

The Holden Seed Cleaning Plant committee members are Ronaghan and Hoveland.

Maxwell, Myer and Knudslien make up the Fire Committee and Hoveland will continue as the Holden Drainage District Board representative.

The salary committee is comprised of Ronaghan, Myer, Romaniuk and Maxwell.

The following persons will make up the Municipal Planning Committee: Harry Stauffer, Ken Appleby, Dan Lefsrud, Jim Tymchak, Jack Roddick, Morris Erickson and Peter Kriska.

The council as a whole will make up the development committee and the recreation board.

Knudslien, Romaniuk and Myer are the parks committee members.

Councilman Maxwell was chosen as representative for the Agricultural Development Committee.

Romaniuk and Hoveland were chosen to represent the County on the Beaver Regional Arts Board.

County representatives on the Waste Management Authority Board are [illegible] and Myer, with Maxwell and Ronaghan as alternates.

Myer and Knudslien will sit on the new Regional Economic Development Council which is scheduled to meet for the first time on Nov. 7th.

The regular council meeting date will remain at the second Thursday of every month. The second meetings that generally take place on the fourth Thursday of each month during the summer will be left to the call of the chair, as required.

Per diem rates for meetings remained at $100; but the mileage rate was increased to 30 cents per kilometer from 27 cents per kilometer.

Retirees are honored

... by Library Board

by Joan Murray

Peggy Nahirniak and Dorothy Clark, retiring members on the Tofield Library Board, were honoured last Wednesday evening. They were both presented with floral bouquets in appreciation for their many years of valuable service.

These two positions (chairman and treasurer) had been previously advertised in the library column of The Mercury with no response, but at the meeting last Wednesday board members put forth several names for consideration. Phone calls were made to the various persons recommended and several agreed to their names being submitted to Tofield Town Council for approval.

The Library Board will have election of its officers at the meeting following approval of names submitted. The board accepted the resignation of board member Linda Morris. Town council has approved Tom Jacobs as their representative on the Tofield Library Board of Trustees.

While discussing the recent increase in fees it was noted that all senior citizen fees would be available at half-price — $2.50 for town residents and $10.00 for county residents.

The fee increase will come into effect on November 1st for all new memberships and upon renewal for current card holders.

The censorship and selection policy was discussed and the Board re-affirmed it's stand that all users be allowed free access to all materials.

For more information on this topic, copies of the Canadian Library Association's statement of intellectual freedom as amended on Nov. 17, 1983, are available in the library.

Children attending the pre-school story hour program will be asked to wear Hallowe'en costumes this week.

Everybody's MLA

Fifteen years ago no constituency in Alberta would elect Grant Notley. In 1984, we believe there wasn't a constituency in Alberta that wouldn't have been proud to have him run as their representative.

Not everybody would vote for him. Not everybody appreciated his politics. But almost nowhere is there an Albertan who didn't appreciate the MAN.

Few of us achieve greatness in our own time. Fewer still in the suspect nature of politics. Yet such was the measure of Grant Notley that tributes to his worth, his effectiveness, his contributions, are still pouring in to the family home at Fairview.

We're convinced that even Premier Lougheed relied on Grant Notley for the opposition he could get nowhere else. He knew it was honest, not partisan, not politic, but purely a critique, opposition based on a different philosophy, a different starting point, a different view.

Notley had the rare ability to excoriate the government, to flay its actions, to point with dramatic finger to its weaknesses, to humiliate it over failings, yet remain respected and admired as a person, liked by all. And all because everyone knew him to be tireless. To be committed. To be honest!

Few among us are irreplaceable.

Yet we believe Grant Notley to have been one of those few. The government will go on. The NDP as a party will go on. The world of politics will see new faces, new names rise. But we believe the Legislature, and the Province, will be less responsible, less thoughtful, less contemplative, for his loss.

We can't find Kipling's famed poem "IF" at the moment, but as we dredge a few verses from memory, we somehow feel Grant Notley fits the final line: "You'll be a MAN, my son."

Good for Russell

Health Minister Dave Russell has often been the subject of severe criticism in Alberta, for his views on Medicare, and his attempts to bring some sort of control into the field of runaway health costs.

Yet one of his most recent programs has passed almost without notice, either from his critics or his supporters, though we feel it is one the most important, one of the most intelligent, one of the most responsible measures introduced by any government over many years.

The action? Mr. Russell has suggested that hospitals which manage to finish a year without having spent all the money in their budget should be permitted to carry that money forward. He is suggesting they can look on that money, approved a year earlier in the budget, or the estimates, as their own. To be used in their own discretion, for their own purposes. As part of the next year [illegible]

Now this appears to us as bureaucracy at its most intelligent. Bureaucracy which breeds responsibility. Bureaucracy which encourages board members to look on funds as if they might be their own.

For far too many years councillors, trustees, committee or board members, even MLA's, have faced the problem of getting rid of money in a manner they knew was less than entirely responsible, rather than winding up with a surplus at the end of the year. They knew the practice was for those funds to be confiscated, and future budgets reduced by similar amounts, since it had been demonstrated they were not [illegible]

The premise was silly, if not stupid.

The funds might not have been spent because weather militated against completion of the project. Development of the project may have been delayed for one reason or another. Change of personnel may have slowed, but not halted, the carrying out of a project. Even delays in invoicing could affect a budget.

Yet people who could be entrusted with the administration and the spending of many thousands, sometimes millions, of dollars, were constrained by stupid administrative policies, to "get rid of the surplus, the reserve".

Personally, we've actually seen the policy enforced at the national level. And every time it encourages less than responsible spending, because winding up with a surplus is less than responsible. Monies unspent? Why, perish the thought!

Now, Russell proposes to change that. He even proposes to offer some incentive to reverse the philosophy.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if his action shows enough promise that other areas of government, at all levels, follow suit? Wouldn't it be grand if officials, whether elected or appointed, were encouraged to save money for planned projects, to spend as time, circumstances, and need indicate, rather than simply to meet the calendar?

We have long admired Russell's reasonable and pragmatic philosophy and attitude. We think his latest should bring more people to the same viewpoint, instead of stupidly objecting to his Medicare philosophies.

[illegible]

While many people do not realize that alcohol is a drug, it is, in fact, the most used and definitely the most abused of all drugs in our society. A majority of our adult population (75 percent for Canada and 80 percent for Alberta), will consume beverage alcohol at some point in their lives. This will range from very small amounts, through moderate and heavy social drinking, to alcoholism. This is not, of course, to say that everyone who drinks is or will become alcoholic, but rather that anyone can become an alcoholic.

Of those who do indulge, 10 percent will sooner or later develop the disease called alcoholism. What is alcoholism? How is it defined and how can it be detected? There are two definitions in current use that can be broadly used to describe the alcoholic.

Alcoholism exists when a person's drinking is creating increasingly serious problems in the major areas of his/her life — domestic, social and [illegible]

[illegible] the disease [illegible] as progressive, chronic and a cause of personal problems. Note that alcoholism is not tied to cause, i.e., the WHY? but rather to the effect, i.e., the WHAT? That is, what effect is one's drinking behaviour having on his/her spiritual, emotional, mental and social life? If one retains the ability to drink with intention (to know one's limit and stay consistently below it) and if one's behaviour is not problem-causing, then alcoholism does not exist.

If, on the other hand, these conditions do exist, then we, as family members, spouses, children, and friends, should consider that something can and must be done for the suffering alcoholic's well-being. It will help us to remember that:

— No person related or close to an alcoholic should ever allow him/herself to feel total responsibility for the illness. To take the blame for another person's alcoholism is just as unrealistic as blaming the alcoholic for being sick.

— Protection or covering up by another person who makes excuses for the alcoholic or tries to organize his/her life, only serves to prolong the illness. Alcoholism cannot be arrested until the alcoholic begins to take responsibility for his own actions.

— Preaching, lecturing and nagging are harmful rather than helpful. Moral judgement of the alcoholic only adds to his guilt feelings [illegible] increases the need to escape those feelings through alcohol.

— Appeals to what is believed to be the alcoholic's better nature are a waste of time. Trying to persuade him/her to give up drinking because of 'love for the family' seldom does more than develop a feeling of martyrdom. If rehabilitation is to be successful, the alcoholic must give up drinking for his/her own sake.

— Each member of the family should examine personal feelings and attitudes to be sure there is no lingering doubt that an alcoholic is a sick person: that with understanding and the right kind of help there is every chance for recovery. Contact with Alcoholics Anonymous or attendance at AADAC or other treatment centre group sessions will help to develop understanding of the illness and the ability to cope with conflicting behaviour of the alcoholic.

— Remember that recovery will be neither sudden nor swift. Alcoholism takes many years to develop and recovery is also a long-term process. There may be relapses or 'slips', but with proper support and understanding it is possible for the alcoholic to make steady progress toward a satisfying, sober and useful life.

Marketplace

If the shoe fits, buy it — but only if it fits!

Shop for shoes after you've been on your feet a while, when your feet are somewhat swollen and tired. Have both feet measured each time you buy shoes; manufacturer's sizes vary and different shoe styles may require a change in size. If you choose a shoe with tapered toes, you probably will require a half size longer than if you choose a round toe. Most people have one foot larger than the other; fit the larger foot and alter the other shoe to fit the smaller one, if necessary. Wear the stockings you intend to wear with the shoes when you try them on.

Never buy shoes without trying them on. Decide by fit and feel rather than size marking. There should be an extra ½ to 1 cm of space at the tip of each shoe to allow for normal foot expansion. Toes and heels should rest within the framework of a sandal or open-toe shoe. Wiggle your toes, walk on tiptoe and arch your feet. Sit, then walk in the shoes again. As you walk, check for the following:

— If there is any pressure on toes, toenails or the ball of the foot, the shoes are too short or [illegible]

— The counter (back) should grip the heel snugly and should not slip.

The sole should bend easily and should not cut into the foot.

— The leather should not be taut across the top of your foot, nor should the foot bulge out the side of the shoe. There should be no pressure at the side of your foot.

— If the leather wrinkles on the top of the shoe, it is too [illegible].

— Shoes should never have to be broken in to be comfortable. A shoe that is correctly fitted should not and will not stretch. Footwear only stretches because of pressure from the foot, exerted when a shoe is too tight.

Loose Ends

by Carol Livingstone

[illegible]

Ordinarily, I don't mind a wind. An ordinary wind, that is. A bit of a wind can be refreshing, especially during [illegible] had. Light summer breezes cool things off. A brisk fall breeze is bracing. But I must protest against anything that [illegible] zard is raging a season early. Any wind that can push me around, almost rips the truck doors from their hinges and has the entire landscape leaning over like so many aerobic exercisers touching their toes, is too much wind. A little restraint is needed when a wind whistles and howls until I feel like my house is either haunted or falling down [illegible]

Strong winds not only blow farmer's topsoil onto greener pastures, fan forest fires and muss friendly coiffed hair. They keep children underfoot instead of on their bicycles. Going one way it might be "Look, ma, no peddling" but returning needs an Olympian athlete at the controls.

Another disadvantage to heavy huffers coming right down the pike (aka: highway) is the small gas-saving car one drives. At times, lift-off is not only possible but probable. Head winds make the going coming and tail winds shorten both the gas consumption and the trip considerably. But those side gusts have been known to send you scuttling home sideways, like a crab — which is what you are by the time you get there.

The one member of our family who enjoys the wind, however strong, is Sam, our mutt. Of course, if you were that hairy you would feel friskier when it's cooler too. Anyone entering our backyard on a windy day is sure to get knocked over, if not by the wind then by Sam.

We can blame the winds on the space program (all that junk floating around out there is doing 'things' to our atmosphere) or the recent [illegible] but for what it's worth, it is my opinion that the old weatherman in the sky has allowed some irresponsible youngster to play too long with the wind machine. Enough pushing and shoving! After all, if we all wanted to move to Saskatchewan, we are quite capable of doing it on our own.

Holden and district news

by Mrs. G.E. Taylor

Holden area residents are looking forward to the first concert of the season which is to be held in the Beaver Arts Centre theatre on October 26th at 8 p.m., which will be preceded by the annual turkey supper sponsored by Holden UCW, in the Community Hall.

Dennis and Gwen Ogonoski have been receiving congratulations on the birth of their son, Shelby John, born October 15th in the General Hospital. Proud grandparents are John and Emily Ogonoski on the birth of the first "Ogonoski" grandson. Their granddaughter, Denise, stayed with them last week, taking her home on the weekend and Emily and John stayed a few days to make the acquaintance of their new grandson.

Mrs. Kate Nichols, who had been home for a few days after being a patient in Tofield Hospital for over six weeks, had to return to hospital last Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Ida Mason of Edmonton was visiting for several days with her son and wife, George and Lonnie Mason.

Mrs. Frances Hanson, who was a patient for a few days a week ago in Viking Hospital, is home again.

The ladies of St. Gregory's CWL are holding their annual fall supper on Nov. 11th, in Holden Community Hall.

Wednesday afternoon visitors with Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor were their son and wife, Robert and Merle Taylor of Viking, granddaughter Saylor and husband Mike Vannenburg of Newburg, Oregon, who had been visiting her parents for a couple of weeks and were returning home on the Friday.

Mrs. Jean Grinde attended the funeral on Thursday in Skudesness Church, South Holden, of John Bruce, father of Marvin Bruce, who was a former Superintendent of Schools for the County of Beaver.

Brian and Dineke Taylor of St. Albert were Saturday afternoon visitors with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor.

On Oct. 12, Dan Shotkal of Vegreville, father of Paul Shotkal, passed away at the age of 86 years. He is survived by his wife, Irene; two sons, Paul of Holden and Gene of Vegreville; two daughters Leona Bobyn of Vegreville and Susan King of Edmonton; ten grandchildren; one great-grandson; and one sister, Mrs. Barbara Bilyk of Edmonton. Prayer service was held on Oct. 15th and funeral service was held on Oct. 16 in the Holy Trinity Ukrainian Catholic Church, Vegreville. Interment was in the Riverside Cemetery.

A former Holden resident for many years, Mrs. Erna Christensen of Edmonton, passed away on October 11th at the age of 63 years. She was predeceased by her husband, Donald Christensen, in 1980 and leaves to mourn her loss, two sons, Barry of Fort Saskatchewan and Dale of Ardrossan; one daughter, Sharlene Bourassa of Vernon, B.C., six grandchildren; four brothers, Otto, Emil, Albert and Eddie Hoffman, all of Edmonton and one sister, Mrs. Olga Hanson of Holden.

A funeral service was held on Oct. 15th in the Wild Rose Chapel with Rev. Wayne Jensen officiating, followed by funeral services on Oct. 16th in Holden Lutheran Church with Rev. Sid Haugen officiating. Interment was in the family plot in Holden Cemetery.

Former Holden residents, Arthur Olson and Algot and Laura Haltholm of Camrose attended the funeral of Mrs. Erna Christenson on Oct. 16th; also from Camrose were Erna's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Christensen. Other former Holdenites attending the funeral were Mrs. Edna (Maurice) Rustenveld and her daughter Jacqueline of Westlock and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Zwierschke of Vegreville.

The parishioners of St. Gregory's parish celebrated the 25th anniversary of the building of their present church on Oct. 14th.

Out of town guests included Rev. E. Purcell and Rev. E. Creagh, both former priests of the parish. Other guests were from Tofield, Ryley and Polska.

Albin Lukawiecki gave a short history of the church and the Parish Council.

In conclusion, a social hour took place. Entertainment was provided by Ben and Betty Lutz with a group of young boys participating.

Krips heads School Board

by Joan Murray

Viking Trustee, Rod Krips, was elected chairman of the Board at the County of Beaver Board of Education organizational meeting on Monday afternoon.

After being sworn in, he thanked his fellow colleagues for the trust they have placed in him, but he said he would need their help to do a good job, particularly for the good of the children in Beaver County.

Edgar Good was declared deputy-chairman for the 1984-85 term of office.

Former chairman of the board, John Warner, was nominated for the deputy-chairman's position as well but declined. He felt that because he had just been elected Reeve for a second term that morning, he did not wish to have a dual role.

Committee appointments were made as follows: School Bus Committee — Victor Rennanluk, Reuben Hoveland, George Knudsiden and Gordon Maxwell; Education Advisory Committee — Don Monaghan, Rod Krips and John Warner; Building Committee — Rod Krips, Edgar Good, Arnold Swift and George Mason.

A new committee called the Financial Committee will replace the old Salary Committee and in addition to salary matters it will also look at the budget on a monthly basis along with other financial situations that might arise. Members on this committee are Fred Myer, Don Monaghan, Victor Rennanluk, Gordon Maxwell, Arnold Swift and Rod Krips.

Victor Rennanluk is the representative to the Elk Island Regional School Authority Association and Rod Krips was named as his alternate.

The CAMS (Central Alberta Media Services) representative will once again be Arnold Swift. He has held this position for several terms.

George Mason was chosen to be the Zone 3 Alberta School and Teachers Association director.

The meeting date will remain set for the second Tuesday preceeding the second Thursday of each month. However, there was some controversy as to what time the meetings should start. After much discussion a decision was reached setting start time at 9 a.m. for all meetings except those scheduled for October through April which will start at 10 a.m.

The per diem rate remained the same at $100 per meeting, but the mileage rate was raised from 27 cents per kilometer to 28 cents per kilometer.

A short special meeting was held following adjournment of the organizational meeting.

A motion was passed to have the Superintendent of Schools draw up a draft copy which will include all education employees as the long term service award policy which the county already has in place.

It was decided that Trustees Werner and Swift would attend the Town of Tofield Council meeting this night to discuss the storage of county issues in the town's public works yard.

There will be a bus drivers negotiation meeting held in council chambers in Elnora at 9 a.m. on October 31st.

It was agreed that the Town of Viking be allowed to erect a snow fence inside the school yard to prevent snow from drifting onto the Main Street with the stipulation that it be constructed in a safe manner.

Alberta's Excellence Personified

The future brings bigger hurdles... bolder challenges. It demands citizens of strength, character and skill. Citizens ready to strive for a level of excellence seldom achieved. We have such citizens. Now... right here in Alberta and waiting for the future. Young men and women who, though early in years, are already wise with compassion and understanding towards others. Young men and women who are Alberta's Excellence Personified.

We salute these youngsters as we award each one of them the Junior Citizen of the Year Award. They will join the more than 200 young Albertans who have honoured us with their outstanding achievements. Our most heartfelt congratulations!

TransAlta Utilities and Alberta Power, in co-operation with the Alberta Weekly Newspaper Association, have sponsored the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year Award for 23 years.

Hard work

Hilda Klassen was busy shovelling off the sidewalk in front of The Mercury office on Friday morning. The wet snow was very heavy and what was usually a small job turned out to be quite a task to complete.

Competitor

Sixteen year old Cathy Brown will be in Camrose this weekend seeking the Lakeland Rodeo Association's queen's crown. Cathy earned the right to compete after having been crowned as Tofield's [illegible] Rodeo Queen.

Echoes from Em

[illegible]

New friends I cherish and treasure their worth
But old friends to me are the salt of the earth.
Friends are like garments that everyone wears —
New ones are needed for dress-up affairs;
But when we're at leisure, we're more apt to choose
The clothes that we purchased with last season's shoes.
Things we grow used to are things we love best
The ones we are certain have [illegible] the test.
And isn't it true, since we are [illegible] of friends,
That new ones bring pleasure when everything blends?
[illegible]
who thinks as we do,
And who fits, as I said like last summers shoe.
We turn to the friends who have stuck through the years,
Who echo our laughter and dry up our tears;
They know every weakness and fault we possess,
But somehow forget them in friendship's caress.
This story is old yet fragrant [illegible]
I've said it before, but just let me repeat:
New friends I cherish and treasure their worth,
But old friends to me are the salt of the earth!

Trucking insurance sees rules changes

Alberta Transportation Minister, Marvin Moore, has announced changes in regulations relating to insurance requirements for the trucking industry, effective immediately.

While cargo insurance will still be mandatory, the filing of evidence of such coverage with the Motor Transport Branch will no longer be [illegible].

[illegible] the requirement for fidelity bond insurance on C.O.D. shipments [illegible].

In making the announcements, the Minister cautioned that the changes place a greater onus on shippers to confirm with their carriers that adequate cargo insurance and, where necessary, fidelity bond insurance is in place to meet their particular needs.

Moore stated, "These regulations changes are in keeping with this government's commitment to regulatory reform and will help to cut down on the paperwork associated with a carrier's operation."

Soil Testing

Soil sampling and testing is considered as one of many management tools a farmer has at his disposal and its use is strongly encouraged. At the same time, however, take the following considerations to heart when interpreting the results of a soil test.

1) If a farmer submits a one pound soil sample to a lab, what does that sample represent? Firstly, that sample is usually comprised of 10 to 20 samples depending on the acreage of the field. Now, a six inch slice of one acre of land weighs approximately two million pounds. Therefore, the one pound sample submitted to the lab represents 160 times 2 million pounds on a 160 acre field. Therefore, interpretation of the results should keep this idea in mind.

2) There can very often be extreme variability within a field and this is one reason why the person doing the sampling should be careful to stay away from some of these extremes. Slough bottoms, [illegible] and saline areas should be avoided when sampling for a composite sample. Perhaps, if the acreage of these extreme areas is sufficient, they may deserve a separate sample. Many farmers in their second year of sampling on the same field have expressed alarm at a pH drop of .5 or more, say 6.0 to 5.5. Don't become too worried as it is quite common to see pH fluctuations of about .5. Soil pH does not usually change this quickly and the reason for the fluctuation is probably the soil variability in the field. However, if, over a period of years, the pH continues to drop then liming may have to be considered.

It is not the intent of this column to discourage soil sampling and testing. Rather, the opposite is true. It is encouraged. However, it should be used as an aide to management [illegible] and not the decision maker by itself.

As winter (brr) seems to be approaching fast, perhaps a new hobby is on your mind. Have a look at The Golden Book of Colonial Crafts for ideas on candlemaking, dolls, basketry, as well as many outdoor and kitchen skills adapted to modern usage.

But hobbies and crafts make you tense? Then select David Fink's classic in its field, Release From Nervous Tension. Stress prevention as well as exercises and other methods of reducing tension are included.

Famous-people-watchers will be interested in the newest biography on our shelves: The Private Cary Grant by William McIntosh.

Westerners are not always as well-informed [illegible] the eastern part of our [illegible] as we could be. Reading Claire Mowat's book The Outport People provides [illegible] the social life and [illegible] of Newfoundland, and perhaps proves that small-town life is not so [illegible].

There are many new books also for young people and children. The shelving has been re-arranged to make access to these books [illegible] and the newest ones are offered on a rack just inside the door. Come in and have a look; maybe you'll go home with a winner.

I Remember When . . .

by Ella McRoberts

I remember when the first organ was installed in our church. The stiff necked members of the Old Guard had finally succumbed to the pressure of the younger generation. So "That instrument of the devil" had been admitted. Prior to that we had had singing of course. Always led by a bearded old guy with a voice like a fog horn. Soon all the young ladies with any musical ability were angling for the position of organist.

Installation of that organ was a great relief to me. My classmates had had organs for years. A fact of which I was kept fully aware of. I suffered in silence.

Occasionally we had visitors from those other churches. Of course they were always made welcome, but if it was Communion Sunday, the Baptists would rise in a body and depart before the elements were passed.

At that time there was a definite, if unspoken line, between the Protestant groups, an extreme case: a Presbyterian girl and a Methodist were having a casual affair. The girl became pregnant, she alleged that the boy wanted to marry her. But not she. Why? He was a Methodist."

The Communion Service was a long one, but I liked it. The men handled it entirely — women were only second class citizens. The bread on silver plates were passed with dignity. The wine was contained in golden goblets. These were passed and sipped by matrons, moustached and bearded men and dainty girls with reverance.

To say that the ministers at that time were dedicated is an understatement. They must have been, because their salaries were nil. They received the morning's collection, but at a penny a head, it could not have been very lucrative. Of course, a sketchily furnished manse was provided for the minister and his family and a stable for his horse — his only means of transportation.

I have always felt sorry for a minister's wife, with a Manse Committee looking over her shoulder. In the check up after one retiring minister, the Manse Committee found a sheet was missing. A further search located it wrapped around the ironing board. Thus the departing lady was exonerated from theft but not from extravagance.

Every fall, the hard-up congregation would get together and bestow upon the luckless family a generous donation. The poor souls would be deluged with an avalanche of vegetables, native apples, a few sacks of stone ground flour, cured and dried fish, sometimes a keg or two of salted herring and a few containers of preserves — canning and freezing were unknown at that time. But cash? No — no one had any to spare.

But I have always marvelled how well these "Preacher's kids" progressed. Of the Rev and Mrs Murray's six children, three became doctors, two were ministers and the sixth became a successful businessman. How did they manage? I don't know. There were no bursaries nor scholarships. No family nor old age pensions. I think sheer luck was the answer Florence Murray and I went to college together. She went on and became a doctor and spent about forty years in Korea as a medical missionary. She and I kept in touch. She told me she had written her memoirs but as she had nothing sexy to relate, nobody was interested. The book, however, was published after her death. She was in Korea when Russia invaded. I asked her what she thought of the Communists. She said they had done a certain amount of good, but for the way they treated the Christians, she would hate them.

Another minister we had, had a weakness for what he called "Composing poetry". It was rotten, but he had it published. The Manse Committee, on an inspection tour, found boxes containing volumes of his poetry. He could not give it away, much less sell it.

I remember when the first branch of the Women's Missionary Society was organized. It was a giant step for womankind in that male dominated community. They elected a president, a secretary and a treasurer. The meetings were held once a month. They became more or less social affairs.

Miss Boyle, the secretary recorded the minutes faithfully. On one occasion, she read "Following the Treasurer's report, we enjoyed an interesting discussion on cows and the cause of ill flavored milk."

We lived four miles from our church. Mother and Lena attended a WMS meeting using the horse and buggy. The weather was hot and very dry. The president prayed fervently for rain. They arrived home drenched. Lena said "I wish Mrs. McPherson's prayer had not been answered so soon!"

Theoretically, the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational were united in 1925. The latter two cooperated, but the Presbyterians were never completed reconciled.

I visited my old home a few years ago. I attended my old church, wandered around the graveyard where most of my old friends were interred. The church had changed very little, and it is still Presbyterian.

Last week, the Community Playschool began its fall season, although the sudden appearance of winter rather restricted its activity. The Tuesday morning session, which runs from 10:30 a.m. to noon, is fully subscribed, but a couple of openings exist in the Wednesday afternoon session, which extends from 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. Additionally, a short bookmobile program will be held from 10 to 10:30 a.m. on alternate Tuesdays, and this is open to all.

More information may be obtained from Ruth Kleinschroth at 662-3068 or Ivy McBride at 662-3861.

Coming events at the hall include the annual turkey supper, to be held on Nov. 3rd between 5 and 7 p.m., and the Ladies' Club meeting on Thursday, Nov. 8th at 1 p.m. This will feature a 'Lady Beware' instructional session by a representative of the RCMP, and all interested people are welcome.

Plain talk about cable-TV in Tofield

What you should know about cable-TV

Cable-TV brings many more channels to your TV set. It gives you and your family an exciting choice of top-quality programs.
Cable-TV has the American channels you've heard about—CBS, NBC, ABC, and the popular PBS (Public Broadcasting System).

Is cable-TV very expensive?

Surprisingly, you can get all this entertainment on your TV set for less than 65c a day! Ask your friends and neighbors in town who already have cable-TV—most of them will agree that it's real good value for your entertainment dollar.

Watch for the cable-TV people coming to town in early November

If you are not signed up yet, please spend a few moments with the cable organizer when he calls at your home. He will be pleased to answer your questions about cable-TV.

For further information, please feel free to call Wendy on RSTV's toll-free number 1 800 667 3061 We pay the long-distance charges.

Hay Lakes district news

Mrs. A. Arnston

by Mrs. A. Arnston

Weather and road conditions have caused the Hay Lakes School to be closed for three days, October 17-19. The high snow drifts have blocked roads in the village and district and many residents found themselves isolated. The snow plows are attempting to open all roads as soon as possible, in the meantime some residents are shovelling themselves out.

The Hay Lakes Municipal Library Board met in the library on Tuesday evening. The treasurer reported a grant of $1200 has been received from the Hay Lakes Area Regional Recreation Association. Grants will also be received from the Camrose County Library Board once the agreements have been finalized.

A fun evening will be held in the library on Oct. 30, 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., with games, films and treats. For the month of November a games afternoon for children ages four to 12 years and a games night for teenagers is presently being organized.

Faye Leicht has again been appointed as the Village representative on the Library Board. Three members of the board will attend a workshop in Edmonton on November 24.

New books are continually being added to the collection at the library and the public is invited to make use of the many services offered.

The Hay Lakes and District Fish and Game Association met in the Senior's Center on the evening of Oct. 17. The group is planning a family film night to be held in the Senior Citizen's Center on Dec. 7. The cash raffle draw will also be held at this time. Tickets may be obtained from any member. Fifty goose-nesting bales are to be set out when the ice has become frozen. Anyone with suitable slough and wishing bales set there should contact Walter Bapenius at 878-3861.

The Hay Lakes Senior Citizens Club held their first card party of the season on Oct. 12. Prize winners were Ladies first — Mary Lickoch; consolation — Evelyn Pearson; Men's first — Richard Pearson; consolation — Alex Maruszak. A bingo will be sponsored by the Senior Citizens on Oct. 26. Everyone welcome.

The Circle "S" Ladies will meet at the home of Anne Wilhelm on the evening of Oct. 25.

Wahl – Schmidt Wedding

At an afternoon ceremony held on Oct. 6 in St. Paul Lutheran Church at Rolly View, Brenda Wahl and Randy Schmidt pledged marriage vows. Rev. R. Hohnsbein officiated. Brenda is the youngest daughter of Ernest and Marlene Wahl of Hay Lakes and Randy is the eldest son of Wildred and Esther Schmidt of Rolly View.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Rhonda Rost, as maid of honor. Faye Klonteig, sister of the bride, and Debby DeMoines, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. Attending the groom were Bernie Schmidt, Dale Buss and Leif Wahl. Serving as ushers were Kevin Klonteig and Clifford Schmidt.

During the service a quartet sang two numbers. Members of the quartet were Wendy Penman, sister of the groom, Kevin Klonteig, brother-in-law of the bride, Brenda and Donna, cousins of the groom. Kevin played the guitar as an accompaniment for the group.

Following the service, a reception and dance for 225 guests was held in the Hay Lakes and District Recreation Center. Members of the Circle "S" Club were in charge of the supper.

Grant Shippen of Camrose, godfather to the bride, and Clifford Schmidt, cousin to the groom, shared the emcee duties. The toast to the bride was given by Grant Shippen. Debby DeMoines proposed the toast to the groom and Bernie Schmidt gave the toast to the bridesmaids.

Following a one week honeymoon in the U.S.A. the newlyweds have taken up residence at Rolly View on the farm of Randy's parents.

Elsie and Henry Zucht took advantage of the fine weather during Thanksgiving week and motored to Chain Lake, in the Athabasca area, to spend a few days trout fishing.

Ryley Legion Auxiliary observes 50th birthday

by Jean Murray

On Saturday night, Ryley Legion members celebrated the 50th anniversary of their Ladies Auxiliary in conjunction with the grand opening of the new addition to the building.

The Legion Hall was packed to full seating capacity with over 80 in attendance for the buffet supper and dance. Legion members from Holden and Tofield, as well as many community members, helped to commemorate this event.

Ladies Auxiliary Zone Commander, Harriet Brown, informed the crowd that this was the 50th anniversary of the year that all Ladies' Auxiliaries in the province were united under one command.

She congratulated Ryley Legion on their new addition before cutting the anniversary cake with Auxiliary President, Mildred Stenerud.

Stenerud presented Legion President, Walter Williams, with a cheque for the building fund.

Williams said that the total cost of all renovations, including those done on the interior walls and ceiling of the old section of the building, was [illegible].

They are still accumulating funds to complete payment of this project and Williams said they will be sponsoring a dance every weekend to help raise money.

The addition houses men's and ladies' washroom facilities plus a bar area.

The District Commander, Owen Jones, was present and he reminded everyone that there would be a Zone Rally in Holden this Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

Telethon is on Friday

Six o'clock on Friday could be the start of an exciting evening when Camrose's first-ever telethon goes on the air.

When the telethon comes to an end six hours later, over three hundred (300) volunteers will have been involved in all phases of the television event, from planning, to manning cameras, working behind the scenes and providing entertainment.

Funds generated by the telethon will be used to assist senior citizens to pay for their share of constructing a new seniors center in Camrose.

The telethon, to be shown on Channel 10, will originate from the new centre which is located on the north shore of Mirror Lake, [illegible] to the County Office.

The largest-ever viewing audience for a television program originating on Channel 10 is expected to tune in and people are invited to visit the centre during the telethon with seating for nearly 400 people expected to be available.

In addition, people who do not (or who are not able) subscribe to cable television, will be able to keep track of progress made during the six-hour event as CFCW (790) will be airing regular reports throughout the evening.

Interest in the telethon extends beyond the boundaries of the city limits with [illegible] tively participating in the telethon in a number of roles.

Answering telephones and accepting pledges during the evening will be the mayors from five villages: Hans Strochlaff of Edberg, Frank Jackson of Forestburg, Barb Lade of New Norway, Dennis Radtke of Hay Lakes and Dale Debnam of Bittern Lake.

Other rural participants include members of county council, former councillors, county administrative personnel and interested county residents.

CFCW personalities will also be on the telephone along with city elected officials and administrative staff, representatives from various clubs and organizations, senior citizens and a student representative from CCHS.

Two previous editions of The Canadian listed some of the entertainers who will be in attendance and adding to that list will be comic Ken Valgardson, a kindergarten class, gospel duo, bagpipers, square dancers and a number of soloists.

The seniors' share of the cost of constructing the new center is $610,400 and to date, a busy group of seniors has managed to pass forty-four percent of that objective, having already raised in excess of [illegible].

For people wishing to call and make a pledge during the course of Friday evening, the telephone number for the telethon is 672-8853.

County loop survives

In itself, the County Senior Hockey League is not dead.

But, the name might change.

It has been determined that the league will survive and operate in the forthcoming 1984/85 season without any entries from the County of Camrose.

Three of last winter's teams will be returning to the fold and will be joined by a new entry.

Tofield Terns will be the only team in the league that doesn't have the City of Camrose as a home base.

Two Camrose teams returning for a new season will be the Blackhawks (defending champions) and Norsette.

The newest entry doesn't have a team name as a sponsor is being sought with the team to consist of former Kingman players who will be joined by students from CLC.

League president Colin Christenson has indicated that ice times for games in Camrose are not likely to be during prime time hours because of the lateness in determining that the league would, in fact, operate during the coming season.

A start to the 1984 portion of the regular schedule will be determined by ice availability.

League officials were hoping to meet this week and draft a schedule as well as to elect a new executive.

ALBERTA
SMALL BUSINESS WEEK

OCTOBER 21 - 27, 1984

Look for activities in your area by contacting your local Chamber of Commerce

Alberta Small Business Week is a cooperative program designed to enhance public awareness of the thousands of small businesses in every community in Alberta and to assist small business operators in finding out about some of the services available to them to make their business successful.

The organization of Alberta Small Business Week is through the federation of local chambers of commerce in Alberta with assistance from Alberta Tourism and Small Business, Federal Business Development Bank and the Alberta Chamber of Commerce.

SUPPORTED BY YOUR LOCAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Invest in Futures:
Hire a young Albertan.

For a high return on a low-cost investment, hire a young Albertan. The immediate yield will be enthusiasm, energy, and a willingness to learn. The long-term pay-back will be employees who are productive, hard-working and valuable assets, to both their employers and to their community. Now, the Alberta Government will help you finance this important investment.

We'll help lower your employment costs. The Alberta Government has initiated the Youth Employment and Training Program to encourage you to hire young Albertans. We'll share the cost of wages and training with employers who hire unemployed young people who have been Alberta residents for the past 3 years. Every private sector employer, non-profit organization, school and hospital board and municipality is eligible to participate.

Up to $7,800 a year when you hire post-secondary graduates. If you hire on a full-time, 12-month basis, current university, college or technical institute graduates who have been unemployed for the last four months, you are eligible to receive 50% of his or her wages, up to a maximum of $7,800 per year. Plus an additional $25 a day if you offer approved full-time training. And up to 75% of related instructional costs.

Up to $140 a week when you hire high school graduates. If you hire on a full-time basis an 18- to 24-year-old Albertan, who is a high school graduate and who has been unemployed for 4 months, you can receive 50% of his or her wages, up to $3.50 per hour or $140 a week for 6 months. If you retain this employee for another 6 months you will receive an additional $3,000. If you offer a full-time training program, a $15-a-day training allowance will be paid. Young people who have been out of the education system for at least 12 months and who have been unemployed for the last 4 months are also eligible. You will be required to allow your employee one half day for career counselling with the Alberta Career Centre Workshop.

Apply Now. The program begins November 1, 1984 and ends March 31, 1987. Application forms and further information about the program may be obtained from your nearest Alberta Manpower Employment Development office, or by phoning 427-8517 in Edmonton; 297-6247 in Calgary; 538-5430 in Grande Prairie; 329-5419 in Lethbridge; 340-5366 in Red Deer; 645-6206 in St. Paul.

Storm policy announced

. . . by School Board

The County of Beaver Board of Education has issued a reminder of the Board's policy for school and bus operation, in stormy periods.

This policy is an established fact and has been in force for a number of years and parents are urged to follow the policy.

Released by Superintendent of Schools, William Schoenan, the policy for the present school term is as follows.

1. Schools in the County of Beaver will operate on all regular school days. Should school buses be cancelled due to hazardous road conditions, all pupils will be excused from attendance. Teachers will be expected to attend and will be utilizing this time for preparation purposes.

2. Should an overnight storm cause blocked roads or the serious danger of blocked roads, school bus runs will be cancelled. Radio station CFCW (Camrose) will broadcast messages, starting at 6:30 a.m., informing parents of the cancellation.

3. Should it be necessary to send pupils home by school bus at some time during the school day because of stormy conditions, these procedures will be followed:

1) The Principal of the school has authority to send school buses home at any time during the school day.

2) Radio station CFCW will broadcast messages that rural pupils are enroute home.

3) Parents, school bus drivers and others who are informed on road conditions are asked to telephone the Principal, the County Councillor or the County Office at Ryley should they suspect that stormy conditions will block roads.

4. Road and weather conditions vary considerably throughout the County. For this reason, each school will operate independently under this procedure. It is possible that morning runs may be cancelled at some schools and not at others. Similarly, buses may be routed home during the school day at some schools and not at others.

5. Parents are reminded that it is their right to decide whether or not their children will get on the bus in the morning should conditions be stormy or hazardous.

6. Please be certain that all pupils are dressed adequately warm each day. A school bus can become stranded on any given day due to road conditions or mechanical breakdown.

Meetings, Meetings

Small community organizations are the backbone of rural life. How else would we have 4-H clubs, hockey teams and Agricultural fairs? The method by which most decisions are made is to have meetings. We've all been to meetings that start late, have no agenda and seem to go on forever, but get nowhere.

Following are a few characteristics that effective groups have in common. You may want to hi-light a few to incorporate into your group this coming year.

1) The atmosphere is comfortable and relaxed. It is a working atmosphere in which people are involved and interested.

2) There is a lot of discussion in which everyone participates. If the discussion gets off topic someone brings it back quickly.

3) The task or objective of the group is well understood and accepted by members.

4) The members listen to each other. People are not afraid of feeling foolish by putting forth a different or creative idea.

5) There is disagreement. Disagreements are not suppressed or overridden by premature action. The group seeks to resolve conflicts rather than dominate the dissenter.

6) Criticism is frequent and have a constructive flavor that is oriented toward removing an obstacle that is preventing the group from getting the job done.

7) The chairman of the group does not dominate. In fact leadership may shift from time to time depending on the circumstances. Different members, because of their knowledge or experience, are in a position to act as resource for the group.

The issue is not who controls, but how to get the job done.

8) The group will frequently stop to examine how well it is doing or to identify what blocks it's encountering in reaching goals.

Your group probably possesses some of the above characteristics. It doesn't hurt to point out to other members the positive characteristics of the group. Keep these guidelines handy for review when enthusiasm and attendance seems to be lacking. Maybe you need some changes in one of the above areas.

Passing time

There was no school for Beaver County students last Thursday. The road conditions were so terrible that school bus services had to be cancelled. Aaron and Rachel Murray managed to wile away the day with an old train set handed down from their dad's younger days.

Tofield is financially sound

by Joan Murray

The Department of Municipal Affairs recently conducted an annual inspection of the Town of Tofield's 1983 financial statement and 1984 financial policies.

A letter from Municipal Affairs commenting on the inspection report was received on Monday night at the regular meeting of council and it revealed that Tofield continues to enjoy a sound financial position.

In this letter, council was commended for their financial management and was urged to closely monitor their financial position.

An overview of their municipal operations indicated that the Town of Tofield continues to be directed in a very capable manner by both council and administration.

County Reeve, John Warner and councillor Arnold Swift attended this meeting to explain the practice of storing county school buses in the Towns Public Works yard. They agreed that they have three buses stored at present and because this practice has worked so well in the past they wished to continue doing so. They will take the matter of rent or other charges back to County Council for further discussion.

Reeve Warner asked that the town take care of clearing snow from the C.W. Sears School parking lot and driveway because the county grader is too large to do an adequate job. In return, he felt that the county could clear some town roads, such as SR 834 and the Creamery Road.

Council agreed that this would be a fair exchange of services provided the county put up a snow fence to prevent heavy drifting of snow in that school's parking lot. The Reeve agreed they would do this as it had always been done in the past anyway.

Public Works Foreman, Ernie Duchesne, brought up the problem of bus drivers parking their personal vehicles inside the public works compound and asked that they be directed to keep their vehicles in the space provided outside the compound.

It was agreed that this directive would be passed on to the drivers concerned.

AGT representative, John Ferguson, was present to explain the new procedure being put into place for locating underground telephone cables when excavating is required.

Council decided that the town Recreation Director, Jackie Dumochel, be given the go ahead signal to take advantage of the Priority Employment Program (PEP) which would allow for the hiring of a winter facilities labourer. The salary for this position would be partially funded under the PEP Program and the town would only have to pay $1,200 over and above the grant to have an extra employee working from November 1st to April 30th.

It was agreed to give the Businessmen's Association permission to locate a drop box for non-perishable food in the Town Office. These goods would then be given to the Ministerial Society for distribution among needy families. Council agreed to support this program wherever possible.

An organizational meeting was held following the regular meeting Monday night and resulted in the following committee appointments: (first named to be chairman).

Finance and By-laws — Marie Worton and Jack Lampitt; Health, Welfare, Police and Garbage — Ed Regehr and Thomas Jacobs; Fire, Lights and Utilities (water and sewer) — Hans Christensen and Jack Lampitt; Town Property, Cemetery, Development and Zoning — Thomas Jacobs and Marie Worton; Public Works (roads, sidewalks and ditches) — Hans Christensen and Tom Lyle.

Deputy Mayor appointments were: November and December — Regehr; January and March — Lampitt; March and April — Worton; May and June — Christensen; July and August — Jacobs; September and October — Lyle.

Hospital Board appointments were frozen and include Charlie Sears and Jack Cargill.

Other committee members appointed were: Regehr for the Beaver Ambulance Society Board and Rural Development Project No. 4 as well as the Regional Economic Development Council along with councillor Jack Lampitt, who was also named as representative for the Battle River Tourist Association.

Marie Worton is the Beaver Foundation representative for another term.

The new committee for Economic Development will have as it's members Dave Hare, Cliff Sommer, Duane McIlhone, Marg Lammerts, Wes Lawson, Ed Regehr and Jack Lampitt.

The town administrator will act as the Economic Development officer.

Library Board members for the 1984-85 term are Judy Hastings, John McMath, John Praat, Peggy Smith, Helen Gray, Florence Sutherland, Cliff Sommer, Thomas Jacobs, Irene Salisbury and Jack Cargill.

The Parks and Recreation Board will be made up of Ken Stauffer, John Praat, Bob Moen, Andy Nimchuk, Alberta Watt, Jack Lampitt and Tom Lyle.

Members on the Municipal Planning Commission are Warren Watson, Cliff Sommer, Arnold Swift, Don Kondrat, Hans Christensen and Tom Lyle.

Development Appeal Board members are Thomas Jacobs, Jack Lampitt, Marie Worton, Charlie Sears and Ed Regehr.

Lori Pilon will act as secretary of both the Municipal Planning Commission and the Development Appeal Board.

Regular meetings will take place every second and fourth Monday of every month commencing at 7 p.m.

Just For Fun

by Joan Harvey

Remember how wonderful and scary Hallowe'en used to be? Gate Night was the most exciting for me, turning over outhouses, soaping windows, removing gates and misplacing them, rolling toilet paper down Main Street, playing White Rabbit. We would imagine ourselves as having scared people into such a state that they wouldn't even think of not giving good things to the devils and draculas of the following evening.

Hallowe'en night has finally come for us to dress up in very authentic, specially hand-made costumes, depicting ghosts, witches, goblins, ghouls, all shapes and sizes, umpteen different types of hobos and tramps, or greatly exaggerated caricatures of faded glamour girls. We would gleefully and unafraid, knock on any door and know . . . just know . . . we were going to receive something special and tasty, and if we didn't . . . well . . . the worst we ever did was soap a few windows because we were too busy collecting goodies from everyone else. It was a wonderful mystical night of make-believe.

Our house smelled of sweet apples and hot carmel. Shiny red apples were sitting on counters to be coated in candy or imersed in washtubs full of clear cold water for dunking.

Those marvelous Macs floating around in that crystal clear water just waiting to be bitten. They would snap their skins as we snagged them with our teeth and the juice would run down our chins to be wiped off on bat wings and ghostly arms.

It was sad to have the end of the evening come so quickly, but, the little town in which I lived always had a huge flaming bonfire on the fairgrounds at midnight. There would be fire-works, and weiners to roast, as well as hot potatoes, and if we were really lucky one of the local merchants might supply us with marshmallows. If we could get them, we would set off firecrackers and light sparklers to race about the grounds with. If anyone had seen this menagerie from the sky, I am sure they would have thought it to be a really Hallowed evening with wit- [illegible] flitting to and fro in the darkness.

All the kids in town would mill about the fire and check each others pillow sack to see who got what and discuss who did what to whom. There was always a bully or two trying to steal [illegible] goodies, but we usually ganged up on him or one of the chaperones would intervene. The bullies were never shunned, we just asked him to join in and if he didn't well . . . there was not too much we could do at the time, because we were too busy having fun to worry about it.

Hallowe'en was fun then, I am only sorry to hear that some of the witches and ghouls never grew out of their make-believe selves and are now slowing killing the spirit of Hallowe'en for us all. All we can do is try and re-create this atmosphere of eeriness and adventure for our children in the form of community parties and careful planning of their outings. Having done this, a Ghoulish Halloween Night to you all.

Spilstead

Due to the inclement weather of the past week, the membership drive and the bottle drive were cancelled. Instead they will be rescheduled as follows, with the membership drive being held from October 22-27 and Cubs, Scouts and Beavers bottle drive is on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. If you are unable to be home please put your bottles and cans at the end of your driveway or on your front step and our boys will gladly pick them up.

The community Hallowe'en party is all ready for the big night. Instead of going door to door with your children, bring them along to the party at Spilstead Hall. The party begins at 7 p.m. with games, costume judging and goody collecting, for all ages (young and old) and coffee, juice and a light lunch. The admission to our community party is the goodies you would normally give out at the door and something for the lunch. Everyone from the area is most welcome. Any questions regarding the Hallowe'en party, please call Denise at 662-2373 or Moe at 662-2752.

As I See It

by Dr. Walt Buck, M.L.A. Clover Bar

The fall sitting of the Alberta Legislature began last Wednesday. The Premier's "State of the Province" speech was basically a reiteration of the summer's government press releases, and didn't really present many positive prospects for real economic recovery for Albertans! In my opinion, it was an apology for failure by this government to really come to grips with the "people problems" in our province.

This brings me to the point of where we must look toward a free-enterprise alternative in Alberta. A great number of people have approached my colleague, Ray Speaker from Little Bow and me to act as catalysts to assist in developing an option for voters in the next election. That option will not be "liberal" or "socialist" in nature, but will be a responsible free enterprise option with a "common sense" approach to the issues facing our province!

We are planning a "foundation convention" in Red Deer on November 23rd and 24th. This convention follows a series of meetings held in various regions of the province over the past several months. At the convention, we plan to establish a framework of basic principles, policies and a constitution for a responsible, responsive and credible alternative!

If you would like more information, you are welcome to contact my legislature office, 214 Legislature Building, Edmonton, T5K 2B6, or phone 427-2231 (collect).

Lodge holds tea

by Joan Murray

The Tofield Lodge annual tea and bazaar drew a large crowd in spite of the bad weather that even had the schools in Beaver County shut down for the day.

More than 80 community members were at this event to take part in the quilt raffle, craft sale and fish pond activities.

Collette Carlisle won the door prize.

Lodge resident Maggie Petersen made 20 quilts for the quilt auction which netted $965 to be put towards Lodge improvements. She had some occasional help from volunteers throughout the past year, but most of the work she did on her own.

A total of $1,300 was raised from this event and it is hoped some of that amount will be used to purchase a microwave oven for the kitchen.

The next major fund raising event for the Lodge will be the annual strawberry tea in the spring of 1985.

Shonts has national champs

by Joan Murray

Tom Bodnar and Sylvia Perry, a couple from Shonts, both brought home the title of Grand Aggregate Champion from the National Black Powder championship held in Camrose, B.C.

To win has championship status, Bodnar took first place in the 300 yard open bench rest, 50 and 100 yard off-hand, 50 and 100 yard open bench, 100 and 200 yard sport cartridge rest, 100 yard off-hand sport cartridge, 50 yard free style pistol revolver and 25 yard off-hand pistol cartridge events.

Perry achieved her title through her success in the women's 100 yard cross sticks, 50 yard off-hand and 100 yard bunch rest events.

She also surprised everyone by winning first in the men's sport cartridge 50 yard off-hand event in which she surpassed her competition Tom Bodnar.

Between the two of them, the couple owns 13 guns that they use in competition. They both take part in designing and building their fire arms as well as molding their own shot. Their handcrafting skills are supplemented with assistance from a gunsmith in Trochu.

They actively pursue hunting of large and small game, the hides of which they tan and mount for use in making various articles such as rugs and clothing.

Bodnar is a director in the Tofield Gun Club and Sylvia Tofield was one of the oldest black powder clubs in Canada when they celebrated their 25th anniversary last year.

The club was instrumental in the formation of the Canadian Black Powder Federation which began in 1970. It sponsors the national trophy that has been won by eight Western Canadians since the first national championships took place in Kindersley in 1971. The second championships were held in Tofield, but this is the first time the trophy has been brought back to this area.

Tom Bodnar is 31 years old and was born and raised in the Tofield area. He makes his living as a roadmaster for the CNR. He said he was never really interested in black powder shooting until he won his first trophy at Tofield in 1991. The strong friendship aspect he found in the club is what keeps him involved with muzzle loading fire arms. He feels that in competition one is not only in competition against others but also has to compete against the guns and finds it all very challenging.

Twenty-five years old, Sylvia Perry is a native of Rocky Mountain House and has been in the Tofield area for the past year. She took first place for shooting a black bear with a muzzle loading rifle in a fish and game competition and has the hide tanned and mounted on the basement wall to verify the fact, as well as the trophy she received. She started in black powder competition a year before Bodnar and also competes in rifle rodeos, and calibre events shooting at moving targets.

The national championships in B.C. had 80 shooters come from various provinces as Trophy winners

This collection of trophies is owned by Tom Bodnar and Sylvia Perry. Bodnar brought home the huge one in the centre from the National Black Powder championships held in British Columbia during the summer. Perry captured the Grand Aggregate Champion title for the women's event. There are many other trophies, too numerous to include here that this couple has won over the three years they have taken part in muzzle loading rifle competitions

Bakers seek honours

by Joan Murray

Corrie Ann Rabbie and Karen Swarc, two first place winners in the Robin Hood Baking contest at the Tofield Agricultural Fair this summer, have a chance to win an even bigger award now that photos of their winning entries have been entered in the National contest that is to be held at the Robin Hood Multifoods offices in Willowdale, Ontario, in December.

Rabbie took first place for the best Sherwood Forest cake at the Fair level and if her entry wins in the national contest, she could be visiting Nottinghamshire during a trip to England, and stay at Nottingham's newest hotel as well as visiting Sherwood Forest, Robin Hood's legendary birthplace.

She would also be entertained at a banquet and visit such historical sites as Nottingham Castle, the Nottingham Lace Centre, Belvoir Castle and Chatsworth House.

Karen Swarc, the cookiegram champ at the Tofield Fair, would be eligible to win her own personal computer if her entry is successful at the national level.

Should either of these two ladies be a national winner, the Tofield Agricultural Society will receive $1,000 to help improve it's facilities.

These contests took place at fairs all across Canada throughout the year to celebrate Robin Hood's 70th anniversary.

Mary Lye, consumer services supervisor at Robin Hood Multifoods Ltd., said that there are 220 entries in the national contest with the winners to be announced later this year.

Winners will be notified immediately after results are received, hopefully in time for Christmas.

Beaverhill grows

The Beaverhill Hockey League has expanded to allow it to start the 1994/95 season.

The new entry is a team from Redwater and their admission brings the league back up to six teams.

Returning from last winter are Holden, Tofield Satellites, Lamont, Mundare and Vegreville.

The regular schedule will begin next week and will continue until the end of February and then, playoffs will follow with the top four teams involved.

Holden and Tofield will kick off the new season when they meet in the Tofield Arena on Nov. 9th.

The Mercury has received a copy of the 1994/95 season and will pass a copy along to CPCW.

However, both the radio station and the newspaper would appreciate it if league officials would forward a list of league executive members and team contacts, prior to the start of the schedule.

Child ident program is set

. . . for Sears students

by Joan Murray

The C.W. Sears P.T.A. has decided to hold a Child Identification Program in Tofield. The date, November 26th, was tentatively set at their meeting on Tuesday night.

This program is wholeheartedly endorsed by the Tofield RCMP Detachment and they are willing to provide fingerprinting equipment, identification cards and instruction for fingerprinting to members of the PTA.

Child identification information cards are retained by the parents and would provide valuable assistance in the event of a missing child that has either been lost, abducted or a victim of a crime.

It is advisable to keep these cards in a safety deposit box or similar safe place for reference if ever required in the future. They would not be kept on file anywhere and the parent will be given the only copy in existence. This effort is made to ensure that the child's human rights are not violated in any way.

Police would be involved only in assisting the PTA in collecting data for this program.

The purpose of this program is mainly to heighten public awareness of the problem of missing children. It could serve to enhance any search activities that may be required in the future, but it does not prevent the disaster from happening.

This program will also involve the distribution of information to facilitate discussion between parents and children. police, teachers and others about protecting children from becoming victims of a child abductor.

Awareness of the missing children problem will help to reduce the incidence of child abduction and molestation. The first step in the case of a missing child is to contact your police. If anyone would like to volunteer to help with this program, contact Rose Simpson.

Another topic discussed at this meeting was the implementation of a second language program into the C.W. Sears School curriculum.

A questionnaire was sent out at the beginning of October with 268 children. Ted Laidlaw, survey chairman compiled some general impressions from the 126 responses received.

He found that interest in languages other than French was minimal.

A majority of parents were opposed to any form of compulsory French instruction from kindergarten to grade 3. The main reason for this opposition appeared to be a concern that other subjects might suffer and that the overall performance rating of some children could be lowered.

A sizeable majority (62% of respondents) were in favour of a second language, French was clearly preferred, even if such a program had to be compulsory for reasons of financing or timetabling. Some of these respondents would prefer to see an optional approach if this was possible.

Many of the parents were opposed to a compulsory approach, but would not be opposed to an optional approach

Light up

A concerted drive is being made by one safety-conscious organization in Canada to require motor vehicles to drive with their lights on at all times, for greater safety. Accidents are proven to be cut by twenty per-cent, they report.

Motorbikes are required by law right now to wire their lights in the always-on position.

The idea crossed our mind over the holiday week-end when we wished more vehicles would light up sooner, at least as dusk approaches, if not all day.

Very often it's lack of understanding, or thought, that contributes to the greater highway danger. We can remember being young and bright-eyed, thinking there was lots of light for us to drive by. We could see the road clearly enough. We didn't need to waste headlights.

But we forgot there are older drivers whose vision may not be as sharp, who may need lights to mark these other vehicles. We forgot there is lots of light as you drive into the setting sun, but the driver approaching, and heading into the evening, may not see the cars coming toward him because they're in shadow. We forgot that it's hard to tell when it's safe to pass another vehicle . . . you're concentrating so much on the vehicle in front you can't take as much time to see the vehicle coming toward you, out of the dark.

We forgot that many vehicles are colored so they almost match the highway as the sun fades into dusk, and the cars almost fade out of sight.

Running with lights on isn't free. The insurance companies say it costs an average of about 37 cents more each year to keep them on in the daytime.

You know, you can't buy much insurance for 37 cents.

But even if you could, insurance isn't much comfort if you're bruised, or maimed. Or killed.

We should all light up sooner. All of us who drive.

DON'T PUT WINE IN GROCERY STORES

Dear Sir

We are enclosing a news release on wine and beer in grocery stores. We believe this is a fair representation of the facts, also that the public should hear both sides of the issue.

I am available for comment.

A private member's bill, which would make the sale of wine and beer legal in grocery stores, will be up for debate in the present session of the Alberta legislature.

Sponsor of the bill, Mr. Brian Lee, M.L.A. for Calgary Buffalo, states explicitly grocery store sales will not increase consumption. He expresses confidence that the public will exercise common sense and will drink moderately, even though alcoholic beverages are more available.

Potential benefits of the legislation, according to Mr Lee, would be a reverse of the trend to hard liquor, a new source of revenue for hard-pressed independent grocers, and the creation of 1800 new jobs.

The Alcohol-Drug Education Association of Alberta is strongly opposed to Mr Lee's bill on the grounds that an increase in availability will result in an increase in consumption. The position of the Red Deer based organization is confirmed by a recent statement made by Dr. Robert E. Popham, Director of Social and Biological Studies Division of the Addiction Research Foundation in Toronto, Dr. Popham says: "There is substantial and growing body of evidence which indicates that the greater the availability of alcohol in a society, the greater the prevalence and severity of alcohol-related problems.

According to the Des Moines Register, wine consumption in Montana increased 256% [illegible] legislation making sales legal in grocery stores. Government revenues have dropped off $2.6 million a year, and any jobs which may have been created have been more than offset by layoffs in government liquor stores.

The Alcohol-Drug Education Association of Alberta is a citizens movement making public the facts about the harmful effects of the use of alcohol, drugs, and tobacco, and advocating abstinence as a safe and socially acceptable lifestyle. The organization joins forces with the Canadian Medical Association, the Insurance Bureau of Canada, and Mothers Against Drunk Driving in promoting raising the drinking age to 21 years as a proven means of reducing injury and death in highway accidents.

Speaking of by-elections, the report came recently that Premier Lougheed has indicated already that no election will be called in the near future to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Grant Notley.

We could wish some reason for the delay had been indicated, so that we would know whether to feel hostile or charitable over the announcement.

It may be that Mr. Lougheed is recognizing the fact that NDP forces in the northern riding had never given any thought to an alternative candidate, and very generously may be giving them time to regroup, to field a new candidate.

Or it may be that he is saying he doesn't want the bother of another Opposition worker, while he has no real need for another Government supporter.

It could suggest he doesn't want to find out how voters feel these days.

Or it could indicate he is listening carefully to suggestions that it may be time for him to call another general election soon. Politically, there is no obvious reason, but there are increasing complaints, increasing flubs by ministers, members and staffs, and just possibly the chance that he is getting infernally tired of the whole thing.

If he does indeed, feel that way, it's hardly surprising. For how else could anyone feel when it doesn't matter how hard you try, how much you give of yourself, how well you know you're doing an outstanding job overall, when all you get is flak. Criticism that you didn't do this. Criticism that you did do that. Complaints that something didn't work out. Or that people behaved like other people. That you didn't possess omnipotent power, omniscient vision.

A savant many years ago made the very sage observation that a people deserves the kind of government it gets, but we think he was very much mistaken. Over many years, it has been our general feeling that most of the time we get better government than we deserve, due largely to the dedication of most of them whom we elect. Sure, some take advantage of us, but we deserve them, too. On balance, what have any of us done to deserve better government?

Entrapment neuropathy has a nice ring to it. Much better than merely complaining of a pinched nerve. By either name, it is a common problem.

Our nerves connect our personal computer, the brain, to all parts of the body and, through the sense organs, to the outside world. The peripheral nerve bundles contain [illegible].

The former carry information [illegible] while the latter convey the signals that result [illegible].

Depending on the signal received, the muscle may pull the hand from a hot stove, relax in a warm tub, or stroke [illegible].

Many of our peripheral nerves take long, tortuous courses, snaking through holes in bone, squeezing between muscle planes, and tucking under bands of ligament. Frequently they share the pathway with arteries and veins, and the available space may become crowded.

When a nerve becomes kinked or partially squashed by the pressure of neighbouring structures, it is said to be entrapped. In some body areas the location of the problem can be determined by measuring the speed of electrical conduction along the nerve

The most common cause of abnormal pressure on a nerve is the rupture or slipping of a disk in the low back. One of the nerve roots forming the sciatic nerve gets pressed against the bony spine and pain is felt in the buttock or leg.

Two of the three nerves going to the hand are likely to be compromised. The carpal ligament spans the palm side of the wrist, forming the roof of the carpal tunnel, the passageway for the median nerve and other structures. The space available may be reduced for several reasons, pinching the nerve and causing the carpal tunnel syndrome. A similar mechanism may squeeze the ulnar nerve at the elbow.

Pain and paresthesia may result. Anesthesia means no feeling; paresthesia means altered feeling — numbness, tingling, or "pins and needles". With prolonged pressure on motor (rather than sensory) fibers, muscle weakness and wasting occurs, and signals urgent action.

In most cases, nerve entrapment, being a mechanical problem, requires a mechanical solution; this means surgery.

Medically Speaking is published with the cooperation of this newspaper and the Alberta Medical Association.

Consumer Report

The Toy Report

Christmas is coming, and so is the [illegible] shopping!

Toy buying can present some real challenges, especially for the inexperienced. But, take heart, on the market is an invaluable little book called The Toy Report, produced by the Canadian Toy Testing Council, a volunteer non-profit organization.

In this book, you will find toys which have been tested by the true experts, the kids themselves, both in the home and in group settings such as schools, nurseries and hospitals. Based on their reaction, the Council rated each toy with a view to its design, function, safety and most of all, its play value.

It covers a wide range of toys available on today's market and includes infant and toddler toys, stuffed toys, outdoor toys, games and puzzles, arts and crafts, and even science and electronic toys. Also included are listings of suitable toys for disabled and handicapped children.

You will [illegible] of the age ranges within which a toy receives maximum usage, as well as price ranges for the individual toy.

The Toy Report is a general toy buying guide which enables the Canadian consumer to choose wisely amongst the many toys available on the market, and many parents and grandparents have found this guide [illegible].

If you are concerned about buying poor quality toys or falling for that hard-sell advertising that promises more than you think it can deliver, take a look at The Toy Report and relax.

The Toy Report will be available, from mid-October, through the Consumers' Association of Canada (Alberta).

A LITTLE HELP FROM YOUR FRIENDS

As Canadians were wrestling with January snows, a cyclone was tearing through the small African country of Swaziland. In one community alone, it washed away two vital irrigation pumps that delivered water to the communal garden, the only source of fresh vegetables for the 50 families living in the remote area. Without the $1,300 from the USC to replace the pumps, the garden, which doubles as a center for demonstrating agricultural techniques, and gives focus to 200 lives, will die of thirst. Hallowe'en Apples

There's something about [illegible] child in us all. All, that is, except a certain related-through-our-marriage fellow who insists that Hallowe'en is for kids and costumes are not meant for those who have been shaving for twenty-five years. Surrounded by witches, punk rockers and margarine tubs at a costume party, he thinks that he is the only sane person in the room, and he may be right. But Hallowe'en isn't necessarily a time for sanity.

I'm going to dress up for trick or treating this year. I've said that before but this year I really mean it. I've always been partial to dressing up; it's the clown in me, I suppose. There's something about putting on a costume, painting my face or donning a mask that releases all inhibitions and allows me to return to being a child. And how many chances does a mother get to do that? Besides, no one will know me. I've got this great outfit, you see, and with make-up my own mother would never admit to knowing me.

I might get a few strange looks. Let's face it, even in make-up I look a mite old to be hollering "Hallowe'en apples!" For one thing, I'm taller than most of the other kids.

I'm not about to chicken out, either. Once I've made up my mind about something, nothing can change it. Except maybe the weather — I'm a fair weather trickster. Or the knowledge that, should my make-up run or my wig slip, I won't be able to show my face in public for weeks. And if the make-up leaves me strangely tinted as it has before, I'll be asked not to show it in private [illegible].

My children don't know about my masquerade plans. I don't want them warning the local constabulary that a large Whateveritis will be out scaring little kids and begging to share their sweets. Then again, maybe they'd simply try to dissuade me from going out, on the grounds that mothers aren't supposed to have fun doing kid things. I don't think so, though. They know that if there's one thing I enjoy doing, it's kid things.

early grades, they have no wish to see such instruction imposed on other children against their parents' wishes.

In view of the survey results and ultimate conclusions of the chairman, it was decided that the C.W. Sears administration should look into having an oral, non-compulsory French language program implemented into the school curriculum, possibly to begin in the 1985-86 term.

C.W. Sears Principal, Dave Smith, explained the school policy on opening exercises. He said that they have adopted a policy which includes saying the Lord's Prayer and having patriotic exercises at least once a week.

Hallowe'en will be more than just a fun day this year for C.W. Sears students. Smith said that in addition to the usual Hallowe'en fun there would be a Share and Care activity whereby the youngsters would place non-perishable foodstuffs into a specially decorated box at the front entry. These items would then be distributed by Social Services to needy families in the Tofield area. Contributions and distribution would be made on a totally anonymous basis.

Plain talk about cable-TV in Tofield

What you should know about cable-TV

Cable-TV brings many more channels to your TV set. It gives you and your family an exciting choice of top quality, programs.

Cable-TV has the American channels you've heard about—CBS, NBC, ABC, and the popular PBS (Public Broadcasting System).

Is cable-TV very expensive?

Surprisingly, you can get all this entertainment on your TV set for less than 65c a day! Ask your friends and neighbors in town who already have cable TV, and most of them will agree that it's real good value for your entertainment dollar.

Watch for the cable-TV people coming to town in early November

If you are not signed up yet, please spend a few moments with the cable organizer when he calls at your home. He will be pleased to answer your questions about cable-TV.

Holden hosts Legion Zone rally

by Joan Murray

The Holden Legion hosted the Legion Zone Rally on Saturday. This event was a distinct move on the branch's part to show a renewed interest in becoming more actively involved in Legion affairs.

Ernest Rudy, Holden Branch President, is one of the youngest members to hold his position. Owen Jones, Zone Commander, congratulated Rudy on getting involved with getting things going in Holden. He said that in the past older members had been reluctant to pass on authority to the younger members and he would like to see this change. To emphasize this point he said, "We (the older generation) will not always be around to carry on the Legion."

Jones said that the Legion does more for communities than any other organization in Canada and this has been proven time and time again. He stated "every little bit small branches can do to support the community makes a big effort as [illegible]

Representatives from Holden, Ryley, Tofield, Edgerton, Chauvin and Waterwright were present and each president gave a verbal report of happenings at branch level.

Tofield Legion president, Ralph Dunham, reported that they now have a pub license for their branch. The membership stands at 300 plus. Their Kids Day event held this summer was very successful and they also have an active pool group and dart club.

Tofield will host a pool tournament this weekend and Vic Fairbrother extended an invitation for all branches to compete.

Walter Williams, Ryley president, said they have had an active year with socials every Saturday night as well as various darts and cribbage events. They were parade managers for the Ryley Sports Day parade, have donated $1,000 to the Senior Citizen's Club and have a full poppy campaign planned.

Holden Branch president, Ernest Rudy, reported that they were open during the Holden Homecoming celebrations this summer, and have completed many renovations to their hall in preparation for this rally. Their lottery pool fund-raising effort has been very successful and they have plans to open the hall once a week on a Friday or Saturday night.

Rudy said their main goal now is to encourage new members to join their branch. He would like to see Holden host a darts tournament in the near future and said plans are in the works to form a curling team.

Because Ryley has borne the brunt of support for the Sea Cadets so far, he would like to assist them in this matter. At present, the Holden Branch sponsors a high school scholarship and will be looking into obtaining a piano for the Holden Senior [illegible] Lodge.

Waterwright president, Mark Ponech, reported an 498 membership total, but said that although this is commendable, if only a few do a majority of the work, numbers do not indicate it's activity level. He reported that the past year's community involvement included the children's playground, meals on wheels, junior hockey and baseball, sea cadets and youth bowling.

Their annual Legion-Elks supper was successful and they also hosted a golf tournament and the provincial curling bonspiel.

Edgerton has 80 members and president, Jim Miles, reported they have acquired two new members, but expressed his regret at having lost one his member who passed away during the summer.

He said his branch has much the same problems as the others with only 10-12 members turning out for meetings.

They sponsor the Battle River Cadets in co-operation with Chauvin where their first inspection was held this year. Finances are good in Edgerton and they did some painting renovations in the summer. The main source of revenue comes from monthly raffles. Miles extended an offer to have Edgerton host the golf tournament in 1985.

Mary Murray from the Chauvin Legion Branch expressed a concern for the decreasing membership in her area and said they too lost a life member recently. This branch provides assistance to the Salvation Army and C.N.I.B. and canvass for the Heart Cross and Cancer funds as well as donating to the hospital and school funds.

Harriet Brown, Ladies' Auxiliary District Commander, filled in for Legion District Commander, Tom Barnes, who was attending another rally at Cold Lake. She read his report and mentioned that the membership and planning committee has a goal to increase the interest of young people and to help get them involved, leadership and planning seminars will be held in various areas as soon as possible.

Dominion Command is celebrating it's Diamond anniversary (60 years) in 1985 and will have as it's motto "Pride In Our Past, Faith In Our Future".

Brown then gave the Ladies Auxiliary District report and went on to explain the structure of this organization for the coming year.

Reporter interviewed

by Joan Murray

Brian Boles, a grade 6 teacher at Tofield School, had his class of 22 students interview this reporter on Thursday morning, as part of their language arts program.

Aaron Murray introduced the interview personality and Chris Lauresen conducted the question period by calling on the students who had queries to make.

A great number of questions were asked during the half hour session and students showed an interest in how stories [redacted] goes into making up an article for [redacted].

Boles said that this visit gave the class a chance to interview someone as well as answer some of their questions relating to writing and reporting which they are in the process of studying right now.

The teacher explained that most [redacted] people have the feeling that writers are unreachable in far away places and that this class venture gave them a view closer to home which allowed them to see more clearly what is involved in this profession.

He said the students were happy to have all their questions answered.

The class will be conducting more interviews of local personalities in the future. This was the first one and gave them a chance to evaluate their efforts and discuss how they might improve on the next one.

This visit also gave the teacher an opportunity to introduce the subject of bringing newspaper articles to class for current events. A subject which he has planned to introduce to his class soon.

Info meeting is held

by Joan Murray

More than 60 Tofield residents were attracted to That Place on Monday evening to take part in an information night program sponsored by Canadian Pioneer Management Company.

This meeting was coordinated by a Tofield resident, Larry Gillrie who will be taking over for Chuck Curtis as the sales representative for a subsidiary company called Pioneer Life Assurance Company.

Gillrie started with the company in August and as chairman of the evening's program [redacted] ecutive who had come from all parts of the Western Pro[redacted].

These guest speakers covered all aspects of Canadian Pioneer Management, making it known to all present that their group includes Pioneer Life Assurance Company, Pioneer Trust Company, Canadian Pioneer Securities, Canadian Pioneer Realty and Development Limited and an American insurance company called Life of the Northwest.

W.H. Blaisdell, executive vice-president and general manager of Pioneer Life Assurance, related Pioneer's outstanding success from its founding in 1969 to the present.

He said, "We have established ourselves from an idea with virtually no capital, to a full service financial in[redacted] of $260 million dollars in just 15 years."

[redacted] people whose faith in an idea has created a highly competitive group of companies serving the needs of western Canada.

A film was shown to illustrate Blaisdell's [redacted].

Dave Blasser, a native of Strome and marketing manager for Northern Alberta, outlined benefits of Pioneer Life product line and said the [redacted] could play a major role in the growth of the company through their support of Pioneer programs.

At one point in the evening program, it was made known that this company had funded the construction of the mall on [redacted] the Treasury Branch, Owl Drug Mart, IGA store and [redacted].

This meeting was Pioneer's 632nd and total attendance at the information night programs has exceeded 40,000 since they began in 1972.

Tonight's turnout was said to be one of the largest yet as most have only attracted from 25-40 at previous meetings.

Meant For Last Week

On Saturday, a very successful bottle drive was held with Beavers, Cubs, Scouts and parents participating even though the weather didn't cooperate. On the subject of the unseasonably cold weather, the membership drive will be on-going when the temperatures improve.

Plans are all completed for the community Hallowe'en party tonight (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. The admittance to the party is the goodies you would normally give out at the door and something for the lunch, which will be served in the Hall.

There will be various organized games, a fish pond for the little ones and costume judging for all ages (from the youngest to the oldest)

The games will be organized by the Pathfinders, Scouts and other young members of the community

The monthly meeting of the Spilstead Community League will be held on Tuesday, at 8 p.m.

Please remember to come, as the decision about the flooding of the skating rink will be made by the response we receive from the community.

The license has finally arrived for our bingo, so the first one will be held on Friday, Nov. 9th at 8 p.m. Our monthly bingo will always be held on the second Friday of each month Everyone is most welcome

May and Joe celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in the Ardrossan Recreation Centre recently.

The guests were greeted by May and Joe as they entered the hall.

Michelle McGowan, great-granddaughter, was in charge of the guest book.

Jack McKinnon, youngest son of May and Joe was master of ceremonies for this occasion. He welcomed the 200 guests on behalf of May and Joe before introducing Rev. Ream, who offered a prayer of thanks before the buffet supper.

Toast to the happy couple was proposed by Doug Matheson, a long-time family friend, and a reply was made by Jack on behalf of his parents. The traditional bride's table was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake.

The head table was composed of the honored couple, bride's attendant Bessie Hall, best man, Bill Wentworth, Barbara Lepine, Rev. and Mrs. Ream, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Buck, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Marsh.

Walter Buck, MLA, presented May and Joe with a certificate of congratulations.

Warren Thomas, County of Strathcona Reeve, presented May and Joe with certificates of congratulations.

Ed Marsh presented a picture of the olden days and a picture of 50 years of the family was presented by daughter, Vi Kallio.

The evening entertainment began with Vaughnie Gramatovich singing, followed by a skit on the wedding day of 50 years ago, played by Linda Sabroski, Jack and Don McKinnon, narrated by Judy McGowan and some old-time music was played by cousins of the bride, Arnold and Glen Jones.

To conclude the program, a special poem written by Jill Ekland, youngest daughter of May and Joe, was read on 50 years of love.

The marriage of May and Joe was blessed with 14 children of which the 12 remaining sons and daughters were in attendance.

John and Laura Jones, brother of the bride, celebrated their 51st anniversary on Sept. 16, 1984. A corsage and buttoniere was given to them from May and Joe.

Relatives and friends from out of town came from Czar, Ponoka, Devon, Holden, Vegreville, Drayton Valley and Athabasca.

Out of province guests were from Kelowna, Blue River, Port Alberni, Coquitlam, Robson, Kitimat, Wonowon.

Many cards and floral arrangements were received.

Dancing and visiting for the balance of the evening was followed by midnight lunch.

Cargill heads auxiliary

by Joan Murray

Executive members of the Tofield Auxiliary were elected at the annual meeting held recently.

The new officers are Bev Cargill — president; Dorothy Shewchuk — vice-president; Jane Good — secretary; and Iris Francis — treasurer.

Volunteer committees were formed. Pat Litwin and Carol Daspel will be responsible for crafts and special projects. Melita Wall and Jeannie Sears will take care of tuck cart requirements. Yvonne McAllister will organize tray favours.

The hospital bulletin board will be updated and organized by Gladys Severson while Rose Charters will be responsible for phoning duties. Yvonne Brown will compile pictures and articles for the scrapbook.

"I Care" badges were presented by Delores Roth to Pat Litwin, Jane Good and Bev Cargill for their part played on last year's executive.

The Auxiliary has plans to implement something new for patient enjoyment in the form of a mini-banner on December 6th.

It was noted that old calendars with pretty pictures would be useful for the bulletin board and all donations of such calendars would be appreciated. They also have need of golf pencils to include with little notebooks for tray favors.

The annual bazaar and tea date is set for Saturday and the Auxiliary expressed its appreciation of the tremendous support the community has given them over the past two years.

Invest in Futures: Hire a young Albertan.

For a high return on a low-cost investment, hire a young Albertan. The immediate yield will be enthusiasm, energy, and a willingness to learn. The long-term pay-back will be employees who are productive, hard-working and valuable assets, to both their employers and to their community. Now, the Alberta Government will help you finance this important investment.

We'll help lower your employment costs. The Alberta Government has initiated the Youth Employment and Training Program to encourage you to hire young Albertans. We'll share the cost of wages and training with employers who hire unemployed young people who have been Alberta residents for the past 3 years. Every private sector employer, non-profit organization, school and hospital board and municipality is eligible to participate.

Up to $7,800 a year when you hire post-secondary graduates. If you hire on a full-time, 12-month basis, current university, college or technical institute graduates who have been unemployed for the last four months, you can receive 50% of his or her wages, up to a maximum of $7,800 per year. Plus an additional $25 a day if you offer approved full-time training. And up to 75% of related instructional costs.

Up to $140 a week when you hire high school graduates. If you hire on a full-time basis an 18- to 24-year-old Albertan, who is a high school graduate and who has been unemployed for 4 months, you can receive 50% of his or her wages, up to $3.50 per hour or $140 a week for 6 months. If you retain this employee for another 6 months you will receive an additional $3,000. If you offer a full-time training program, a $15-a-day training allowance will be paid. Young people who have been out of the education system for at least 12 months and who have been unemployed for the last 4 months are also eligible. You will be required to allow your employee one half day for career counselling with the Alberta Career Centre Workshop.

Apply Now. The program begins November 1, 1984 and ends March 31, 1987. Application forms and further information about the program may be obtained from your nearest Alberta Manpower Employment Development office, or by calling 427-8517 in Edmonton; 297-6247 in Calgary; 538-5430 in Grande Prairie; 329-5419 in Lethbridge; 340-5366 in Red Deer; 645-6206 in St. Paul.

The October meeting of the Community League was held in the hall with a good attendance and Pat Paterson chaired the meeting. Several guests were present.

Elaine Farmer and Barbara Herricks attended a workshop in Fultonvale Complex which pertains to community leagues.

A turkey bingo was planned for Dec. 7th with Darlene Brett, Sue Nordin and Carol Dekinder as convenors.

The local rink is to be repaired and will be in use late in the season. Several men volunteered to do this work.

A social evening followed the business session.

November 12 is the annual meeting and new officers will be elected.

Olivine Sears left on October 7th to spend some time with an old friend at Port Coquitlam, B.C. and then went to Duncan to visit her sister, Agnes and family. While there, her husband, Verden, daughter Carol and son-in-law Woody Dekinder motored out and they all came back to Mission where they celebrated Verden's brother, Joe's 80th birthday. They arrived home on the evening of Oct. 18th.

Your correspondent was also in B.C. at that time, visiting her sister-in-law and brother-in-law, Avril and Jim Woodend in Victoria, for a week.

Edith Prochnow is a patient in Tofield Hospital, having suffered a heart attack.

The Ladies Club meeting was held at the home of Barbara Herricks.

Final plans were made for their annual fall bazaar on Nov. 2nd with Barbara as convenor, giving the ladies their duties.

Lunch will be served.

Lunch hostesses Barbara Herricks and Gladys Swabey served. The November meeting will be at Dolly Roddick's home.

The Club's annual Christmas party will be in the hall on Dec. 5th. There will be exchange of gifts and the traditional dinner served.

A whist drive was held at the Crafts Centre on Oct. 12th.

Energy workshop set

by Joan Murray

An energy workshop has been scheduled by the Town of Tofield to take place on [illegible] 21st at 7:30 p.m., in the Tofield Community Hall.

Free information on how to slash home energy costs will be available during this two-hour workshop. It should provide enough facts to start cutting energy costs immediately and is designed to show how to formulate an entire plan of attack for home energy cutbacks.

Tofield Town Administrator, Lori Pilon, said that they will need at least 20 participants to make this event a reality and that anyone wanting to take part can contact her at the Town Office.

Nearly 100 energy conservation products including [illegible] board insulation, cellulose insulation, low-volume showerheads, power-saver cord, socket fluorescent lights, spring-loaded weatherstripping and storm window kits, will be on display for examination and evaluation of their functions.

This type of workshop shows home-owners how to choose between no-cost and low-cost home improvements, cut water heating costs, properly insulate the basement and more.

The instructors, materials and equipment will be provided by Alberta's Energy Conservation Branch.

Cross is Ryley mayor

by Joan Murray

A. Robert (Bob) Cross was re-elected Mayor of Ryley by acclamation at an organizational meeting on October 22nd.

Councillor Larry Andrukow was declared deputy-mayor by acclamation for another term.

Finance committee members for the 1984-85 term will be Councillors Jack McKoen and Larry Andrukow.

Cecil Stenarud and Ed Albrecht will make up the fire, light and police committee.

Utilities and public works will be handled by Councillors Andrukow and McKoen.

Jack McKoen and Bob Cross were declared members of the by-law, land use and development committee.

Councillors Stenarud and Albrecht are responsible for community services affairs.

The Regional Economic Development Council representatives will be Mayor Cross and Councillor Albrecht.

Ed Albrecht was named the Beaver Foundation Board member and Cecil Stenarud will remain as the representative on the Ryley Local Recreation Board while Larry Andrukow will represent the Village on the Ryley Municipal Library Board.

It was decided that Jack McKoen act as the representative for the Village of Ryley for the Rural Development Project and he would also remain as their representative for the Battle River Tourist Association.

Bob Cross was named land use and development officer and Ed Albrecht will remain as the representative on the Tofield Municipal Hospital Board.

Mayor Cross will continue to represent Ryley on the Regional Landfill Authority Board.

Remuneration of Mayor and Councillors will remain the same at $40 per meeting for the mayor, and $30 for councillors.

Expense account rates are $35 per month and the mile rate was set at $.30 per kilometer.

The date and time of the regular council meeting will remain the second Monday of every month, at 7:30 p.m.

Landfill project is delayed

by Joan Murray

It does not look like the Beaver Regional Landfill project will be ready for use this year.

Victor Istace, secretary-treasurer of the Beaver Regional Waste Management Authority said that it was originally supposed to be ready by November 15th this year, but early winter conditions combined with numerous technical holdbacks have made completion in 1984 an impossibility.

The Authority faces yet another setback with the local Board of Health's refusal to approve the proposed transfer site at Tofield.

About this time last year, Istace said the Authority was under the impression that the distance regulation that states a residence may not be nearer than 1000 feet to the transfer site could be relaxed in certain circumstances.

The site at Tofield would have been 650 feet from the nearest residence and a recent appeal to this location, held in the County Office early in October, was denied. The local Board of Health was represented at this hearing and recommended some changes be made to the transfer site plans, but made no mention of a problem with the distance factor at this time.

At a meeting last Tuesday, the Authority agreed to support the Town of Tofield's decision to appeal the Board of Health decision to not approve the Tofield transfer site location. The appeal hearing was held on Thursday in Vegreville.

This appeal was denied and Tofield town administrator, Lori Pilon, said their only other option is to take their appeal to the Provincial Board of Health. It is not yet known if this action will be taken or not.

Transfer sites at Viking, Bruce and Holden have been approved by the Vegreville Health Unit. The one at Lindbrook is presently going through subdivision proceedings and the Kinsella site has yet to be approved by the CNR head office in Montreal. The land for this site is owned by CNR.

Construction work has begun at the Viking, Bruce and Holden sites, but will not start at the Regional Landfill site at Ryley until title to the land has been received. Vic Istace said the title is in the process of being transferred and will be completed as soon as possible.

At a meeting on October 23rd, the Authority received three tenders for the erection of transfer station buildings and accepted Midwest Steel Product's bid of $11,386 provided Midwest accept the fact that this price would remain in effect when the sites are ready.

They accepted Watson Tofield's bid of $137,030 for option 1 of the contract for construction of foundation and utilities at the landfill site.

They also accepted a proposal from Ryalta Industries to construct and install a used oil storage tank for the amount of [illegible].

It was agreed to carry on with the Regional Landfill project on a day to day basis and to do as much as possible without getting into too much difficulty with frost conditions.

The next meeting of the Authority will be held on November 19th at 7:30 p.m. in the County Office.

Food bank opens

There has been a food bank established in the City of Camrose, called the "Camrose and District Food Bank" and due to open on Dec. 1st.

The following people are the new executive for the society: president Brian Steick, Camrose, 672-4832; vice-president Mary Trautman, New Norway, 855-2280; secretary Kay Procter, Tofield, 662-4131; and treasurer Anne Laskosky, Camrose, 672-[illegible].

The Tofield drop-off point is in the Seniors' Centre on Main Street in Tofield.

The centre will be open on Tuesday's and Friday's only. All donations are welcome.

Wickman grandstands

[illegible] for a tongue lashing recently as Edmonton Alderman Percy Wickman played to the gallery.

[illegible] sitting on their hands as the provincial government considered the Electric Energy Marketing Act. Instead of sitting by while rates rise, they should be actively defending the interests of Edmonton power users, declared Alderman Wickman.

The new bill, charges Mr. Wickman, makes Edmonton residents responsible for subsidizing the cost of electric power to rural residents. "It's very unfair to Edmonton" he is quoted as saying. "The problem is our Edmonton MLA's are not standing up for the rights of Edmontonians."

But how does Alderman Wickman have the nerve, now, to complain? Where was Mr. Wickman when the marketing act was first introduced by the Lougheed government, when the act gave substantial benefits to Edmonton power users. At the expense of power users in Camrose. At the expense of power users in Calgary. At the expense of power users in Red Deer . . . or for that matter, anywhere in the TransAlta distribution system. Indeed, initially even in the Alberta Power system.

When the marketing plan was first introduced, Edmonton had the highest cost electric generating system in the province, and every other user had to subsidize that city. Somehow we can't recall Alderman Wickman complaining then. Alberta Power wasn't far behind, and it seems the point has now been reached that Edmonton has to contribute to costs in the area served by Alberta Power. But so do the users in Camrose, in Calgary, and so on.

The point has not been reached when Edmonton's generating costs are lower than those of TransAlta, so Edmonton users are still being "assisted" by TransAlta customers, Mr. Wickman notwithstanding.

And if Edmonton selfishly insists on going ahead with its Genessee generating plant, ahead of schedule, not only will their rates rise sooner than is necessary, but so will ours also.

Is Alderman Wickman simply throwing up a smoke screen to take everybody's eyes off the court decision they don't have a just claim on all the long distance telephone tolls they claim? Does he have some other ulterior motive? Is he simply playing politics? Is he plain dishonest?

Or is he merely myopic? Who is subsidizing whom?

Crown at fault

Alberta has no legal responsibility to Neil Truscott, who spent eight months in jail for a crime he didn't commit, feels Attorney General Neil Crawford. Mr. Truscott was convicted on the testimony of a former girl friend, who, it was later discovered, perjured herself.

Mr. Crawford suggests Mr. Truscott should sue the witness, not the Crown, though he admits he might be willing to discuss the case with Truscott or his representative.

But surely this is heinous. This is a cop-out. This is a denial of justice . . . the kind that gives major misgiving to those who argue for stiffer penalties, right up to the death penalty. The Crown is copping out.

The Crown felt perfectly happy to accept the testimony (false) of one witness, without bothering to check it. It could only have been a spirit of vindictiveness which led RCMP, having "got their man", to try to get him again. If he were guilty as charged, then he was also guilty of perjury, so they set out to prove his alibi was a fabrication . . . and thus to get a further conviction.

Shielded from this spiteful, vengeful effort to increase his sentence, Truscott would even now be in jail for a crime he didn't commit, since nobody would listen to his story. It was only when the Prosecution proved his defence was true that the story came to light.

The critical question is, why was this proof not sought BEFORE the court hearing? Why did the prosecution not try to back up its case beyond the one unsupported witness? Why was the Court willing to settle for such uncorroborated evidence?

And when it is the judicial system, the Court of Alberta, which has erred, why is Attorney General Neil Crawford not willing to admit it, and accept responsibility?

Our view of British justice is that the Crown should be so jealous of judicial integrity that Mr. Crawford should be not just agreeable, but anxious, to discuss the matter. And to square it, insofar as that is possible.

JEROME MANCHUR

The following article on warble grub control was written by J. Weintraub, Entomologist with the Lethbridge Research Station. It stresses the importance of a continued effort to treat cattle for warbles.

Fall Treatment for Warble Grub Control

So you have treated your cattle faithfully for many years and they seem to be warble-free. You hear jokes [illegible] an endangered species in Alberta. You are tempted to skip the treatment this year even though it can be conveniently combined with other fall operations and you know [illegible]

[illegible] to yield to such temptation because warble grubs are formidable survivors. Left untreated, they can rapidly [illegible] doing the effort that has gone into their control during these past few years.

The Lethbridge Research Station, in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Alberta Agriculture, has found several aspects of warble-grub populations that indicate the need for a continued strong effort. Our yearly warble-grub survey revealed that grubs surviving the treatment or coming from the occasional [illegible] the cattle in the following spring and summer.

A recent study of calves [illegible] that a surprisingly high proportion of the untreated animals were infested. The average infestation was 71% varying from 20% on one ranch to 100% on several ranches. Most of these animals carried only a few grubs [illegible] maintained good to excellent control in their treated herds.

Evidently a large population of young stock exposed to only a few surviving warble flies will have a great impact in spreading the infestation. Furthermore, dry conditions in the late spring and summer such as have occurred in southern Alberta in 1984, favor the emergence and egg-laying of warble flies.

[illegible] feature of warble-grub populations is their distribution within a herd. [illegible]ey are not distributed evenly among cattle, but clump on a few animals.

In Alberta and other areas where control programs are established, localized "hot spots" with higher grub infestations occur even where cattle are accessible for handling and treatment.

Therefore, it is important to maintain the ongoing chemical control that has been effective in reducing both the number of infested cattle and the number of grubs that survive the treatment.

Why wear a poppy?

by Don Crawford
(Reprinted from the Legionary, October, 1984)

"Please wear a poppy," the lady s[illegible]d
And held one forth, but I shook my head
Then I stopped and watched as she offered them there,
And her face was old and lined with care,
But beneath the scars the years had made
There remained a smile that refused to fade

A boy came whistling down the street,
Bouncing along on care-free feet
His smile was full of joy and fun
"Lady," said he "may I have one?"
When she'd pinned it on he turned to say

"Why do we wear a poppy today?"
The lady smiled in her wistful way
And answered, "This is Remembrance Day,
And the poppy there is a symbol for
The gallant men who died in war
And because they did you and I are free—

That's why we wear a poppy you see"
I had a boy about your size
With golden hair and big blue eyes
He loved to play and jump and shout,
Free as a bird he would race about
As the years went by he learned and grew

And became a man—as you will too
He was fine and strong, with a boyish smile
But he'd seemed with us such a little while
I still remember [illegible] face that day
When he smiled at me and said Goodbye
I'll be back soo[illegible] Mom so please don't cry

But the war went on and he had to stay
And a[illegible] could do was wait and pray
His letter[illegible] told [illegible] the awf[illegible] fight
I can see [illegible] in my dreams at night
With the tank[illegible] and guns [illegible]

And the mine[illegible] and bullets the bombs and fire
[illegible] at last at last the [illegible]
[illegible] why we wear a poppy son"
[illegible]
Then said Thank[illegible] lady, I'm glad to know
That [illegible] ke an awful fight

B[illegible] did he come back all right?"
A tear [illegible]led down each faded cheek
She [illegible] her head but didn't speak
[illegible] away [illegible] a sort of shame
And [illegible] me you'd have [illegible],
For our thanks in giving is oft [illegible]
Though our freedom was bought—and thousands paid!!!

And [illegible] when we see a poppy worn
[illegible] reflect on the bur[illegible]
By those who gave their very all
When asked to answer their country's call
That we at home in peace might live
Then wear and poppy Remember—and Give!

Loose Ends

A Blizzard by Another Name

Airports were closed, leaving travelers stranded.

Winds up to 60 kph had over 20 cm. of snow sifting and drifting into untidy heaps at inconvenient places. Visibility was one, very short block.

There were so many fender-benders that the police threw up their hands in dismay at the flurry of calls. It took the radio DJs 15 minutes to list all the school closures. My husband had to drive the company 4x4 home because his car [illegible] to stay on the road. My truck, old and brittle, stalled because I didn't coddle it for 30 minutes before attempting to crawl downtown. Our dog had an icicle skull cap and no dry place to lie down because his house was filled [illegible].

Sounds like a blizzard, doesn't it? Not according to those learned weather watchers, Environment Canada. They say that what we were experiencing was not a blizzard, officially, because it wasn't cold enough. These are the same people who said the 'disturbance' would likely reach our area late that night. I listened to this prophecy while watching the streets disappear under three foot drifts that afternoon.

Not cold enough to be a blizzard, huh? The rosy cheeks, chilled earlobes, runny noses, fogged up glasses and icey fingers on every person unfortunate (or dumb) enough to be out in our weather must have been caused by sunstroke, [illegible]

This reluctance to call a blizzard a blizzard could have something to do with our natural reluctance to face the fact that Old Man Winter chose to hit us with everything but the snowplow on his first visit. Then again, maybe the weather wizards were trying to keep our spirits up by calling it another name. Thanks, but like anyone who has lived on these prairies for more than six months I think I know a blizzard when I'm in one, officially or otherwise.

Years ago an instructor for a writing class told us to watch soap operas for good examples of creative writing. I've come to the conclusion, fiction being what it is, that [illegible] weather reports. Unofficially, [illegible]

These grade two students from C.W. Sears School waited patiently for their turn to join in the march around the school last Wednesday. In addition to all the fun and general goofing off that [illegible] participated in a care and share program by bringing non-perishable foodstuffs that were placed in boxes to be distributed by a community service organization to needy families in the Tofield area.

Musicians entertain

A small but enthusiastic crowd braved the late October cold to hear Holly Arntzen and her musical group in the Arts Centre in Holden.

Holly captivated the audience with her original songs and ballads presented in her own professional style. The accompanying musicians were also highly talented and enjoyable.

The next program in the current series at the Arts Centre will feature a real family show with Canada's foremost ventriloquist, Maralee Dawn and her friends.

The date for this performance is set for November 16.

Hallowe'en Hi-Lites

Ghosts, goblins and punk rockers — we'll see them all tonite!!

When putting the finishing touches on your children's costumes remember to add a strip of flourescent tape — to ensure they can be seen in the dark. Instead of a mask, use the following recipe for face paint. It's so easy the kids can make it themselves. Mix together 2 tsp. cornstarch and 1 tsp. water. Add 1 tsp. cold cream and food coloring as desired. Put on face, keeping away from eyes.

Having a few people over after trick or treating? Use a hollowed out pumpkin as a table centerpiece and a punchbowl. Paint a Jack-O-Lantern face on the pumpkin using permanent marking pens. Refrigerate the pumpkin shell until you're ready to use it — it'll keep the punch cool.

After Hallowe'en don't discard your pumpkin. When cooked, the pulp becomes a delicious base for pies, quick breads and even cheesecake. To cook the pumpkin simply cut the shell in half and place shell side up on a cookie sheet. Bake in a 325°F oven for about one hour or until soft. Scoop out the pulp and use it in baking or freeze it for later use.

Roasted pumpkin seeds are a delicious by-product of the pumpkin. After seeds and pulp are scooped out of the pumpkin, rinse the seeds removing all pulp and strings. Soak seeds overnight in a salt brine (1 tsp salt to 1 cup water). Drain seeds and dry on a paper towel. In a bowl combine 3 tbsps. of melted butter, seeds and 1 tsp. salt. Bake for 1-2 hours at 225°F on a cookie sheet. Stir occasionally and watch for burning. Seeds should be crisp.

Hope you have a safe and fun Hallowe'en!

Remembrance Day planned

by Joan Murray

On Remembrance Day, this Sunday, war veterans, their families and friends and many other community members will gather together to honour those who gave their lives for their country.

Services will be held in Tofield at 11 a.m. in the Community Hall. This will include the laying of wreaths, a moment of silence and prayer. Legion members will assemble in the Legion Hall at 10:45 a.m. and march to the Community Hall.

After services, members of the Legion will march to the cenotaph for a short ceremony. The public will be welcome to take part if they wish.

Remembrance Day ceremonies in Ryley will begin at 1 p.m. with the wreath laying ceremonies at the cenotaph and the march to the Community Hall for church services.

Rev. Sid Haugen will perform the service. Following services, a dinner will be served in the Legion Hall.

In Holden, services will take place at 1:30 p.m. Rev. John Hauptman will conduct church services. Wreath laying ceremonies will be held at the cenotaph on Main Street.

The Legion Hall will be open to the public following these ceremonies.

Poppy sales are going on throughout the county and are available at various local [illegible].

Proceeds from sales will go into the Legion Poppy Fund and are used to help disadvantaged war veterans and their families.

Taking oath

Don Mazankowski, M.P. for Vegreville, is shown signing the register following his swearing-in as member of Parliament for the 33rd Session which commences on Monday. With him is his wife, Lorraine, and the Clerk of the House, C.B. Koester, who administered the oath of office.

Beaverhill opens

The Beaverhill Hockey League [illegible] new season of play this coming weekend.

Tofield Satellites will be at home to Holden on Friday night and then, on Tuesday night, Tofield will host Mundare.

Games on Saturday night will be played in Lamont and Mundare.

There was an extremely slim possibility that a second team from Tofield might be admitted to the league.

T[illegible] Toros of the Wild Rose Senior Hockey League (formerly the County of Camrose Senior Hockey League) had planned on applying for entry yesterday (Tuesday) after their league had folded on Monday night.

Because the complete 1984/85 schedule for the Beaverhill Hockey League has already been drafted and approved, league officials considered it doubtful that the Toros would be able to enter the league this [illegible].

Peter Budinski of Mundare has been returned to office as league president and commissioner.

Secretary-treasurer and registrar is Joe Komarnisky of Holden while Lloyd Masiak is the league statistician.

Final rites are held for Eva Mary Brown

by Joan Murray

On August 21st, in Lockport, Nova Scotia, 101 years ago, Eva Mary Harding was born. She grew up there and later received her teaching certificate before moving to Ponoka in 1905.

She arrived on the very day that Alberta became a province and was very proud of that fact. For several years she taught in rural schools and in the Town of Ponoka.

Eva Harding married Ernest William Brown in 1914 and moved to Ryley in 1917 where they ran a retail store until their retirement in 1946.

At this time, the Browns relocated to Vancouver to spend their retirement gardening and living quietly. Ernest passed away in 1956, but Eva continued to live there until 1972.

Her daughter, Dr. Josephine Brown, was practicing medicine in Athabasca and invited her to stay in her home. She remained there for a short time before moving into the senior citizen's apartment residence in the area.

Eva remained active and independent in her apartment, only taking the evening meal with her daughter until October 25, 1983.

At this time she went to an extended care home, but still remained very active in spite of her failing eyesight and slight memory loss up until her death on October 25, 1984, exactly one year to the day from the time she entered this facility.

Her son, Ernest and his wife, Harriet still reside in Ryley as does their daughter, Patricia who is a relief pharmacist there.

Eva was buried in the Ryley Cemetery on October 29th.

A Future for Angela . . . A Future for the War Amps
And when there are no more War Amputees?

A question we are asked and we have a very good answer. Angela Craig is a member of our Child Amputee Program and wears a special myo-electric arm and hand the War Amps helped to provide. This kind of help and the many programs we operate will continue far into the future because when there are no longer War Amputees we will become THE CANADIAN AMPUTEES FOUNDATION and will continue to offer children like Angela every hope for the brightest future.

Holden and district news

by Mrs. G.A. Taylor

Mrs. Helen Stecyk was a visitor the past week with Mrs. Kate Nichols, a patient in Tofield Hospital.

Jim and Helen Zeterschke drove Mrs. Nichols up to Edmonton on Tuesday afternoon of last week to have X-rays taken, then brought her back to the hospital.

The Remembrance Day Service of Holden Royal Canadian Legion will be held at 1:30 p.m. in Holden Community Hall after the usual parade and laying of wreaths at the Cenotaph. Rev. John Hantman will be the speaker.

Many residents of Holden and District attended the prayer service on Sunday evening held for Rev. Oleksy Zachariasewych who passed away suddenly October 28th at the age of 63 years. He is survived by his brother, Myron of Philadelphia.

Prayer service was held on Sunday in the Holy Ghost Ukrainian Catholic Church in Holden. A prayer service was held on Monday in St. Josaphat's Ukrainian Catholic Cathedral in Edmonton and Divine Liturgy was held yesterday (Tuesday) in St. Josaphat's Ukrainian Cathedral. Most Rev. Demetrius Greshuk D.D. assisted by the Eparchial Clergy officiating at the ceremony with interment in St. Michael's Cemetery. Rev. Zachariasewych has served the Parish of the Ukrainian Catholic Parish of the Holy Ghost, and held services in Daysland and Kopernick for many years.

On October 27th, the Holden Royal Canadian Legion held a very successful zone rally with Legion Auxiliary ladies also attending.

Mrs. Sopiwnyk is a patient in Tofield Hospital and Mrs. Annie Komarnisky is also a patient there. Mrs. Eleanor Ogonoski was visiting with both ladies last week.

Robert and Merle Taylor of Viking were Sunday afternoon visitors with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor.

Mrs. Frances Hansen is a patient in Viking Hospital.

The ladies of St. Gregory's R.C. CWL are holding their annual fall supper on Sunday evening in Holden Community Hall, from 5 to 7 p.m.

Just for fun . . .

by Jane Murray

November has always seemed like a nothing month to me. I guess it's because there is no cheery holiday to celebrate and the long winter lies just ahead.

Most months have either a cheerful holiday or a bright long week-end to celebrate. I began to analyse the months one by one and this is what I came up with:

January — New Year's Day — a happy time of new thoughts and hopes for a new and happier time to come.

February — Valentine's Day — a month for lovers to pledge their hearts and children to exchange funny little amusing cards.

March — the beginning of spring — new light after a long cold winter of snow and endless shades of white on the horizon.

April — Easter — family gatherings, chocolate eggs and a new outfit for everyone.

May — May Day — the beginning of flowers and beauty for us to enjoy during the warm summer to come. Wonderful celebrations begin on this day, as all communities seem to have a fair or parade for all the enjoy.

June — summer begins. Children anticipate days of freedom ahead as school comes to a close. Holidays of camping and travel begin.

July — Independence Day — fireworks (if you can get them) and parades, abound around us in the warm sun. A feeling of freedom and security seems to fill the air

August — Hottest month of the year — swimming and camping are at their peak. Everyone is trying to cram in as many good times as possible before the regular yearly routine begins again.

September — Mothers freedom month — her ticket to sanity, as once more her brood trots off to school.

October — Hallowe'en — a time of craziness for everyone as they dress up in their wildest fantasies and become legally rotten for one night of the entire year.

December — Christmas — the long waited for and much anticipated holiday is finally arrived. Warm feelings of family togetherness and the joy of giving (and receiving) are evident wherever you look.

This leaves poor sombre November to remember the times of war and the deaths of many. Mothers and Fathers silently mourn again the passing of their sons in their prime. Wives think of their lost lovers and fatherless children, with sobriety and yet thankfulness for the peace that was gained.

November serves to remind those who are able to remember from experience and to teach those who have never known the horrors of war, that past wars have gained us this peace we now have. It serves as a lesson hard learned that fighting and killing is futile and that living together in peace and harmony has become a more accepted way in our world today.

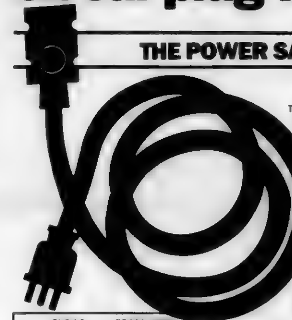
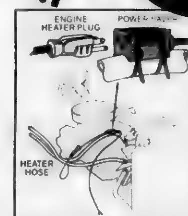
THE POWER SAVER



The POWER SAVER is a thermostatically controlled cord that delays the operation of your block heater until your engine cools down enough to require heating. Energy savings are gained in two ways. Firstly, during the cool down period, which may be several hours. Secondly, by monitoring the heater hose, the POWER SAVER turns on and off (at -7°C, +20°F) to maintain the right engine temperature for quick, easy starts.

$10.00 each



EASY TO INSTALL!
No special tools required. The POWER SAVER simply mounts on the heater hose of any liquid-cooled vehicle.

THE POWER SAVER is available at your local TransAlta Utilities office by sending a cheque or money order only payable to:

Round Hill Home Variety Plots

There has been a lot of interest in the barley variety plots alongside the Round Hill road. The plots were established by the County of Camrose Agricultural Service Board. I was able to obtain the following yield data. I question you on the yields though, as one cannot accurately judge yields till they know of the conditions surrounding the plot plantings and care. I will be discussing these conditions at a Variety Meeting in Ryley on March 12, 1985. For the time being the yields were:

County	Bushels
Diamond	74.5
Abee	73.7
Leduc	71.7
Okal	68.8
Argyle	68.3
Kingman	66.3
Johnston	65.7
Bonnenna	65.3

Plain talk about cable-TV in Tofield

What you should know about cable-TV

Cable-TV brings many more channels to your TV set. It gives you and your family an exciting choice of top-quality programs.

Cable-TV has the American channels you've heard about—CBS, NBC, ABC and the popular PBS (Public Broadcasting System).

Is cable-TV very expensive?

Surprisingly, you can get all this entertainment on your TV set for less than 65c a day! Ask your friends and neighbors in town who already have cable-TV—most of them will agree that it's real good value for your entertainment dollar.

Watch for the cable-TV people coming to town in early November

If you are not signed up yet, please spend a few moments with the cable organizer when he calls at your home. He will be pleased to answer your questions about cable-TV.

For further information please feel free to call Wendy of RSTV's toll free number 1 800 667-3061. We pay the long distance charges.

Artist buys school

by Ian Palmour

Moving into an old Bruce school is a dream come true for artist Phyllis Palmer.

Palmer, who graduated in May from a four-year course at Emily Carr College of Design in Vancouver, discovered the building while visiting friends during the summer of 1983.

The snapshot she took back to Vancouver kept her dreaming all winter about its endless possibilities.

This summer, Palmer purchased the school from the Bruce Stampede Association, renovated the upstairs and is making plans for a basement studio.

"It's so peaceful and quiet here," said Palmer, "and I love having all this space."

Palmer worked 17 years for the Edmonton Journal and one year for the Vancouver Province before deciding to make painting a full-time career.

Her paintings, many on wood instead of canvas, tend to be iconographic with emphasis on texture.

Report from Parliament Hill

by Ian Mazankowski

Transport Canada Minister, Don Mazankowski, has announced that tolls on the St. Lawrence Seaway will remain at current levels for 1985.

It had been anticipated that the Seaway tolls could increase this year by eight percent.

The Minister stated that this measure was undertaken "in recognition of the difficulties facing farmers and other Seaway users who are [illegible] recovering from the debilitating effects of the recent economic recession."

Mazankowski said Prairie grain growers will benefit from the freeze on the tolls. "The freeze means that those farmers won't face an increase in seaway tolls and that means a saving of between $1.5 and $2 million for them next year." The Minister added that his actions were consistent with a commitment he made to Western farmers during the federal election campaign. Last year, Western grain producers shipped almost 26 million tonnes of Canadian grain through the Seaway.

The St. Lawrence Seaway celebrated its 25th anniversary this year, marking a period during which it has become firmly established as one of the world's major transportation systems. Since 1959, more than 184,000 cargo vessels have carried more than one billion tonnes of goods worth some $300 billion through the deep seaway.

Stayed For Last Week

Last weeks' guests with Jean and George Kleinschroth were Edna and Phillip Matheson of Ardrossan and Catherine McDonald of the Isle of Lewis, Scotland and her daughter, Chrissana Gauci of Coquitlam, B.C. They are all cousins of George.

Bill Matheson of Hanna, also called on Tuesday to pay a visit with George and Jean.

Mrs. Effie Nasichuk returned last Thursday from a three-week visit with friends in different parts of Kansas. She accompanied Pearl Kellogg of the Fultonvale area.

Jean Ferguson and Eva and Doris Davenport attended the annual bazaar and tea held at the Robin Hood School in Sherwood Park, on Wednesday afternoon.

The annual meeting of the Crafts Centre is on November 20th.

Perry Duckworth of Sparwood, B.C. has been spending the last week with his sister, Pat Dylke and family. Pat and Perry spent Saturday and Sunday at Coaldale with their father, Rock Duckworth and brother, Ken.

Theresa Rogier left on Monday to spend the winter months in her trailer at Mesa, Arizona. She went by way of Vancouver to visit friends before heading south.

4-H reorganizes

by Douglas Brown

Members of the Tofield 4-H Beef Club met on Oct. 31 to reorganize.

There are 23 members with six being new.

There will be 23 club calves, six carcass calves and eight heifers.

It was decided to have weigh-in at the Laurence Kallal farm on Nov. 3 with maximum weight to be 600 pounds. The annual turkey bingo will be held on Dec. 5 in the Tofield Community Hall.

New, updated record books were shown by club leader, Don Wood and he suggested the books be kept in a binder. Members are asked to bring rope to make halters at the next meeting on Nov. 14th.

Elections took place with the 1984-85 executive being president, Cathy Brown; vice-president, Trudy Rude; secretary, Karen Antoniuk; treasurer, Candyce Ray; historian, Teresa Eleniak and reporter, Douglas Brown.

The adult committee will be Allen Gill, Howard Brown, Don and Carolyn Cunningham, Kathy Eleniuk, Charlie Ray and Yvonne Brown.

An executive meeting was held Nov. 4 at the home of Cathy Brown to make up the 1984-85 agenda.

Next meeting will be on Nov. 14 at eight o'clock in the Arts and Crafts room on the Fairgrounds.

Sunshine Club plans a very busy season

The Ryley Senior Citizen Sunshine Club are well into the fall and winter activity program.

Two pot-luck suppers have been held as farewells to members leaving Ryley. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Chambers were presented with an engraved plaque before moving to Penticton, B.C. and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Pawelko were also presented with a plaque before moving to Leduc.

Ceramics, weaving and sewing are in full swing preparing articles suitable for Christmas giving. They will all be available on November 10 in the Senior Citizen Centre.

The games program will start about the middle of November and all persons fifty-five years of age and over are welcome to participate.

Provision has been made for floor curling, floor shuffleboard, carpet bowling, table tennis, pool, and shuffleboard. Socials are planned for each Saturday night.

Hallowe'en noted

by Jean Murray

More than 30 would-be door-to-door trick or treaters were saved from having to trudge around in the bitter cold on Hallowe'en night when they and their parents attended a community party in Spilstead Hall.

The youngsters were treated to cartoon films and fresh popped popcorn and played many games for prizes and fund during the evening.

There was a fish pond activity and a very messy balloon shaving contest as well as the traditional best-costume competition.

Each family brought treats and something for the lunch table and the crowd made a big dent in all of it.

Towards the end of this enchanted evening, the costume-clad children had hotdogs and pop before collecting their bags of goodies on their way out the door.

Golden Club has tea

The Golden Club held a successful tea and sale recently, as well as a homebaking and bargain table. A miniature log cabin, made and donated by Carl Niemitz was auctioned and brought a good sum.

Nancy Mazur donated a quilt, also to be auctioned.

The club received a letter from the Department of Transport, commending the club's men for the good job they did cleaning the Amisk Creek Campsite throughout the summer. The money from this project has enabled another payment of the mortgage, which is being reduced at a very satisfactory rate.

Last Wednesday, instead of the usual activities, Myrtle invited "Marie and her accordion" to entertain with music to which many danced.

Plans are in motion for a Christmas pot-luck dinner for club members.

FLASH . . .

The Wild Rose Hockey League has folded without a game having been played.

Formerly the County of Camrose Senior Hockey League, the new league was disbanded on Monday night when a fourth team couldn't obtain enough players.

Details of the league collapse will be reported next week.

Hastings Lake

by Lois Pearce

It was a perfect evening for a turkey supper on Saturday, and the Hall was full on this very social occasion.

The next event planned is the Christmas Concert on Dec. 16th.

Jan Addison and Joan Dunham will be directing a musical play and they would like any number of children, aged six and over, to take part in it.

The first rehearsal will be on Saturday, Nov. 10th at about 10 a.m., and participants are invited to come to the Hall then, or to phone Jan at 663-2104 to ask for further details.

The Ladies' Club meets on Thursday of this week at 1 p.m. to hear the RCMP presentation 'Lady Beware' in the Hall.

Scouts invested

by Joan Murray

On Tuesday night, Dick Thomas, chairman of the Tofield Scout Association presented neckerchiefs to Kyle Morris, Mark Bratke, Cliff Hudson and Miles Johnson to complete their investment into the Scouting movement.

The Scout Troop in Tofield welcomed new members, Lee Crawford, Lonnie Chin, Shane Weatherald and Dale Flynn on their investment night on Thursday evening.

Kenny Proctor and Rasheed Kashani will be invested at a future meeting as they were unable to attend that night.

Scout leader, Don Kondrat performed the investment ceremony

Hereford sale held

The 17th annual Four Star Polled Hereford Production Sale was held on Oct. 31st at the Howard Brown farm near Tofield.

Despite the very cold weather, a good crowd attended and the bidding was active as the 56 lots of Tofield Herefords sold for an average of $1,942. The cattle sold widely throughout Alberta from as far north as Saskatchewan and one herder to Nova Scotia.

Top selling female was an April calf sired by Mr. Tangent that sold to Reinhold Cattle Co. of Olds for $4600. High selling bull was a January bull calf that sold for $1,975, to James Prichard of Camrose.

Local buyers were D & E Fenna, Eldon Jeffery, Bolster Farms, Ralph Causey and Sons, Michael Wood, George and Agnes Schroeder, J R Moore, Darren Ray, all of Tofield and Triple F Herefords (Elwood Fleming family) of Kingman.

REDC is investigated

by Joan Murray

The County of Beaver is moving towards forming a Regional Economic Development Council (REDC).

An information meeting was held in the County Office on Wednesday evening to decide whether an organization of this sort would be acceptable to municipalities.

Representatives from Tofield, Viking, Ryley, Holden and the County were present to express their feelings on the subject.

Ron Hancock from Alberta [illegible] in Camrose gave information regarding the formation of an REDC, its functions and [illegible].

He said that economic development in the County of Beaver has been slow for the past thirty years and that up to now, this area hasn't felt the recession in the same way that the rest of the province has. It was his observation that the [illegible] down to the growth level that [illegible] area.

Hancock told the representatives that this county is not able to export their unemployed to other areas as it did when economic times were good. This has resulted in a 12 percent [illegible] rate in Beaver County and it could get worse. How much worse, he was unable to predict.

The general feeling of those present this night was that if an organization of this sort had been in place ten years ago, the county would have more industrial development today and the economic situation might have been better than it is.

In order to form an REDC, resolutions from municipal councils will have to be passed indicating their willingness to participate in this venture.

Sommer heads EDC

by Joan Murray

Cliff Sommer was elected chairman of the Tofield Economic Development Committee (EDC) at their first meeting, held last Monday evening.

Marg Lammeris was elected vice-chairman.

Regular meetings will be held on the first Wednesday of every second month, commencing on January 2nd, at 7:30 p.m. in Council Chambers of the Tofield Town Office.

Terms of reference were presented and discussed. It was agreed that a budget of $480 for 1985 be requested from Town Council.

Topics tabled until the next meeting were: preparation of an economic development plan; review and make recommendations regarding a by-law to provide for licensing of certain businesses; and of the sign section of the land-use by-law.

It was decided to investigate downtown and highway entrance revitalization.

There was also some discussion regarding tax incentives for businesses that make improvements to their building and higher assessments for properties with dilapidated buildings as well as tree planting for highway entrances.

A letter from Tofield resident, George Dinsdell was presented regarding the establishment of a quality sled dog race in the Tofield area. Dinsdell indicated that it is a project of large enough proportions to require support from the community for this two-day event to succeed.

If enough support is shown, the first annual [illegible] Sled Dog Derby could take place on January 12th and 13th, on the Kallal property adjoining [illegible] Lake.

Additional activities for this weekend in January suggested by Dinsdell were a cutter parade and rides, snowmobile poker rally, sweepstakes draw on dog teams, snowshoe races and a dinner and dance.

The committee agreed to send a copy of Dinsdell's letter to local service clubs and [illegible] within the community and to inform Dinsdell of the EDC's support of this project as well as providing him with names of contact persons from each group.

The starting of a [illegible] Club in Tofield was discussed and supported by the committee.

Road's condition protested

. . . by area residents

by Joan Murray

A delegation of eight residents from a subdivision west of Tofield attended County Council meeting on Thursday to voice their dissatisfaction with services they receive with respect to the gravel road that goes through their subdivision. They felt they were not getting enough service in relation to the high property taxes they now pay.

It was made known to council by this delegation that, in their opinion, this road was dangerous for vehicles, especially school buses, to travel on.

The road in question was originally built by the subdivision developer some years back and this group said that in addition to what they deemed to be a poor grade of gravel put on this road by the county, drainage was also a very bad problem in wet weather conditions.

County Reeve, John Warner, councillor for this area, had previously been out to assess the situation and said he was aware of how bad the road was, but informed the group that the grade of gravel used on their road was the same as was used anywhere else in the county.

It was pointed out that [illegible] a load can contain more sand if it comes from the middle of the stockpile.

It was also brought to attention that the gravel program in the County of Beaver had to come to a premature halt due to the early winter conditions and had been utilized several times throughout the year by bad weather conditions. This year, the program started in the east end of the county and worked to the west. In the spring, it will start in the west and go east.

Reeve Warner said that the county was doing the best it could under the circumstances.

Delegates were told that the county would do what it could [illegible] but their request for tax reduction could not be addressed to any extent at this time. Municipal Affairs was to appear before council following their delegation to discuss taxation on acreages. Council also said that they would be getting more information from the Minister of Municipal Affairs on this subject at an upcoming [illegible].

Two representatives from Municipal Affairs came before council to discuss the problem that certain property owners in the County of Beaver were experiencing. Al Fenton, from the Assessment Inspection Branch, said that the most affected were acreage properties with large homes located further out from the major centres.

He said that Municipal Affairs has been monitoring the Trust fund

Alberta's Law Society is being urged by Consumer Affairs Minister Connie Osterman to rescind a ruling it made recently forbidding its members to put trust funds from clients into trust companies, but insisting instead that they go into chartered banks, or outside the province.

What Mrs. Osterman is fearing is that the money may go outside Alberta and be used to compete with us. And she is definitely right.

But the law society is right, too. It is running scared . . . doubly scared . . . these days, after being burned in several ways. First, of course, was the situation two years ago when the Ontario government seized the assets of three trust companies in that province, in a controversy which still has those companies, and their assets, tied up in the courts.

With a great deal of justification, Mrs. Osterman moved immediately to temporarily freeze assets in Alberta of the same trust firms, in order to safeguard Alberta investors as much as possible.

But the lesson was not missed by the Law Society, some of whose members were temporarily put into difficult positions when the monies they needed were not immediately available, because the trust companies were frozen.

And the Law Society was already looking with a jaundiced eye at affairs such as this, because it had been fighting for two years already the embarrassment and the inroads on its guarantee funds caused by the massive defalcation of one member in Calgary and another in Edmonton.

No wonder the Law Society is trying to make some things certain, to remove the uncertainties.

In this respect, it seems to us, Mrs. Osterman herself has part of the solution at hand, if only insofar as it concerns trust companies registered in Alberta.

The problems have grown almost directly in proportion to the number of trust companies that are utterly and absolutely controlled by one firm or one person. Overwhelming individual ownership has made it possible for them to be instruments of one corporation's, one person's policy, not always in the best interests of the many, many small investors.

Were Mrs. Osterman to insist that trust companies, like banks, must reflect very widely distributed ownership, ownership which sought the good of the overall organization rather than the clique at the centre, the Law Society would probably be far more interested.

As things stand, they actually do seem to be acting in their clients' best interests.

Shooting craps?

Public hearings are being held across Alberta these days as the automobile insurance industry struggles with an order from the Human Rights Commission to find a way of reducing automobile insurance premiums for young, single, male drivers, a system which the Commission complains is impossibly unfair, in that it fails their test on the basis of age, of sex, and of marital status.

So It's triply unfair.

We'll admit that rates for these young men are severe. (It's also true that rates for their sisters are rapidly increasing.)

We don't know how many members of the Commission ever shoot dice, or craps. But we doubt, if they know what they're doing, if they'd give equal odds on scoring a point of, say, 11, as they would of crapping out.

Or if they're playing bridge, if they'd give much hope to winning a contract if they held only an 8-count in their hand to begin with.

The analogies may not be too good, but we don't think they're too bad, either. The insurance companies are saying that all the laws of probabilities say the young male driver carries the highest accident rating, and that, on that basis, the odds (the prices) have to be higher.

It's hard to think of anything less sexist, less discriminatory, than insurance actuarial figures. They're impersonal, they're factual, they're coldly analytical.

Driving a vehicle is still a privilege, not a right.

And that privilege carries a responsibility to society. Despite better-built vehicles, despite safer roads, despite faster vehicle response time, and better design, the accident rate still holds.

For the Human Rights Commission to suggest, as some members do, that every one should start off with low insurance rates until they prove they're a poor risk is like accepting the philosophy that every dog is entitled to one bite.

When it comes to dogs, it doesn't matter how well they may have been trained, we insist they be kept on leash and muzzled in public places.

Yet the Human Rights Commission tries to ignore the laws of probability when it comes to driving and be "more fair" to young, single males. From experience, we really do sympathize with this group, but how fair is it to load the rest of society with higher costs, costs which aren't actuarially sound, simply to give relief to the group whose own performance earns the highest rate?

Switching Siblings

If any of you have been watching the new Bill Cosby show, you must have noticed how true to life it is. The part that has struck home with me is the way the children fight with one another. We get a lot of that at home. All one has to do to set the other off is touch, look at or live in the same galaxy as the other.

I often wonder what it would be like to have a family of nine like the one my husband grew up in. He says they didn't fight so it must have been love when his sister threw that fork at him, impaling it in his forehead. I have only two squabbling sibling here and that's enough to send any mother out looking for passing gypsies. (If they won't steal them, I'm willing to pay.) If I had seven more, they would not be called quibblers. They would be called orphans.

It's a known fact that brothers and sisters usually fight about nothing. Parents know this, because when we scream, "What are you fighting about?" they answer, "Nothing." Also, when they are attacked by another generation they stick together like reptiles. I never gave a separated they whine, "Gee, can't I even play with my own brother?" It's a no-win situation.

I certainly don't remember fighting with my sisters that way. My best weapon was totally ignoring whoever was yelling at me, usually my younger sister. We got along fine now. We could never live together but the urge to kill seems to have left.

There was a time when I thought that mine were the only children who had made a blood pact to injure, maim and redistribute each other's body parts. Now I know better. Practically all children fight with their siblings. That fact cheers me somewhat. None of us know why our children pick away at each other but it helps to know that we aren't alone. Perhaps we should have a support group for suffering mothers hoping to defang their offspring. (MARS: Mothers Against Rivalrous Siblings — it could also be where we'll send them if they don't stop arguing.) I'd volunteer myself as president but there's always the possibility that I will fall one over backwards for passing gypsies. (If they won't steal them, I'm willing to pay.) If I had seven more, they would not be called orphans.

Epilepsy month Declared

4119-4th Street N.W.
Calgary, Alberta, T2K 1A2
October 23, 1984.

Dear Sir:

November is "Epilepsy Month" internationally and we are marking the occasion by launching a major publicity drive throughout our province.

The vast majority of people with epilepsy can control their disorder with medication and a healthy lifestyle. Individuals with epilepsy are involved in the mainstream of life, such as business people, athletes, lawyers, teachers, housewives, etc. Within the last ten years however, misunderstood persons with epilepsy has at times been as high as 25%. What an immense waste of human potential!

The best estimate of the number of Canadians who have epilepsy is more than 240,000. Approximately 12,000 new cases are detected each year, 75% of which appear in individuals under 18.

Our provincial federation is distributing information with regards to seizure recognition, medication and first aid as part of our education programme. Further information is available by writing to the address above. Should any of your readers be interested in receiving our proposed provincial newsletter, we would be pleased to add their names to our mailing list. We are also interested in building a volunteer bank of people who can contact in rural areas to assist us in organizing local educational events.

Albertans presently enjoy the services of three regional Associations located in the major centres of Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge. The Federation of Epilepsy Associations of Alberta (soon to be renamed Epilepsy Alberta) was formed in 1979 but is only now establishing itself as a viable support mechanism for the Epilepsy Associations in Alberta. The Federation hopes within the next five years of [illegible] associations in Red Deer, Medicine Hat, Grande Prairie, Fort McMurray and St. Paul. Established associations stress the importance of self-help, counselling and placement, employers awareness, programmes, public education — formal presentations, advocacy, client counselling, general information on epilepsy and medication, symposiums, information sessions and pamphlets, newsletters, etc.

A national organization, "Epilepsy Canada" is well underway with the assistance of a National Health and Welfare Grant and is shaping into a strong national body. The structure is designed to support the Provincial organizations whose mandate it is to support local or regional associations or chapters in areas such as public relations, fund raising, public education and regional expansion/co-ordination.

You can appreciate the job that lies ahead is a monumental one and will require the support of many, many Albertans [illegible] Public Awareness is a must to dispel negative public attitudes which create a greater disability than the medical disorder itself. Please help us to help those with Epilepsy!.

Yours very truly,

Margaret Trotman

Festival syllabus available

The 1984-85 Camrose and District Music Festival Syllabus is now available.

The syllabus may be obtained downtown at Wilkie Electric, Don Smith Music, Tom's Stereo and Sound Specialist or in the Duggan Mall.

The festival association provides the syllabi free of charge to participants and teachers. To prevent last minute problems in obtaining music, it would be wise to order now.

The entry closing date for the April 22-27th Music Festival is Feb. 24, 1985.

The next meeting of the Camrose and District Music Festival Association will be held on Nov. 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the Performing Arts Centre. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Program For The Future

We often hear of a friend or relative who was left in a sorry state of confused financial affairs when her husband died. What can be done to prevent this from occuring?

Any woman who is married or in a marriage-like relationship risks becoming impoverished by the death of her partner. The statistics continue to show that most elderly single people live in poverty, and that most of them are women. It remains true that, on the whole, women outlive men.

Therefore, for your own well-being, take an active interest in your family's finances and in provisions for your support should your partner predecease you.

It's important for women to take the time to understand their financial situation, and especially so for farm families where the women are not involved in the paid labor force.

Take a look at the following questions:

Does your husband have a will? Where is it? Who is the executor? Who is our lawyer, our accountant, insurance agent, etc? What type of bank accounts do we have? Which ones? How much? What type of insurance policies do we have? (Cars, trucks, fire, property, etc.) How much life insurance does my husband have? Is that enough? Where is the policy? Roughly, what is the total value of our farm? On the wive, women outlive men. How much? Are the loans insured?

If you don't know the answers to these questions, you can get them from your husband, your bank manager, your insurance agent, and your lawyer. Ask them specific questions and write down the answers. Alberta Agriculture's publication "COPE . . . with Family and Financial Papers (no. 1813-41)" provides a good place for recording this information.

You might find the idea of preparing yourself for widowhood difficult to handle. Start by becoming involved in day-to-day business affairs. Learn how to pay the bills, show an interest in helping with the income tax return; discuss investments and insurance. Gradually you will find yourself more comfortable discussing the above-mentioned questions.

Your reward for all this effort is knowing that you are prepared for a difficult situation. You can enjoy life now, because you know that when you have to, you can stand on your own two feet.

Be Busy Rich

There are two ways to be rich. One is to have a lot of money. The other is to have very few needs.

Muddy cattle lose cash

Cattle fed in muddy conditions cost the producer money. In extreme circumstances, daily feed intake can be cut by as much as 30 per cent and daily gains may drop by 25 per cent.

Ross Gould, Alberta Agriculture's beef cattle specialist, says that now, before freeze-up, is the time for producers to consider making permanent improvements to [illegible] feedlots that [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

Mr. Gould says that recent research from Agriculture Canada shows that for a feedlot steer, every four days spent in a muddy pen can add as much as one day to the total time spent in the feedlot.

"At current prices a pen of 100 steers in a muddy lot could per month," he says.

The drain on profits doesn't stop in the feedlot, Mr Gould says. The packers apply a "tag discount" on extremely dirty cattle that can cost the owner as much as 3 cents per pound live weight.

Further costs can arise if veterinary inspectors require the packer to hold, feed and test excessively wet and dirty cattle until they are dry enough to slaughter.

The packer can lose $3 00 to $5 00 per head on processing hides and loss of by-products from a muddy animal. There is also an extra cost in time needed to process dirty animals.

Mr. Gould acknowledges that redesigning a feedlot can be expensive, and says that every feedlot owner must look at his own situation. "Improvements might not pay if there's only a week or two of mud each year," he says.

"But losses from a couple of months of mud will pay for a lot of improvements."

Proper slope, bedding mounds and concrete aprons in heavy traffic areas are the three features which can help to reduce mud problems in a feedlot.

Ideally, feedlots should have a slope of four to six per cent for good drainage. While this may be difficult to correct in an existing lot, Mr Gould suggests that producers at least reduce any water flow through the pens by diverting outside water with ditches or terraces.

Concrete aprons 10 or 12 feet wide with a slope away from feed bunks and waterers will reduce mud problems in these heavy traffic areas. Many feedlots are designed so that the apron has a step 12 to 16 inches wide and 4 to 6 inches high at the bunk to prevent steers from soiling the feed with manure.

Where possible, bedding mounds should be made of clay loam or silt loam soil free from manure or other organic matter. The mounds should have a 20 per cent slope and be five feet to eight feet high. A mound should provide 25 square feet of surface for each animal.

More information on bedding mounds and concrete apron design is contained in Farm Building Plan Service leaflets which are available through district agriculturists.

Cool, Clear Water

Thumki is a village in Nepal where people draw their water from three ponds — when it rains — and when it doesn't — from a pond one hour away. The USC recognizes the problem of an adequate water supply in villages like Thumki and has allocated $9,055 which will pay for the installation of a reservoir, intake chamber and seven taps to carry water for 280 people, 100 cattle, and for the irrigation of two vegetable plots. situation in Beaver County for the past few years and had concluded that properties had become overassessed in relation to current market values. Their only purpose (today) was to bring this problem to council's attention and suggested an update of existing assessments.

It was agreed that this matter should be discussed with the Minister of Municipal Affairs at the upcoming convention. Administration was directed to set up an appointment with the minister.

Councillors attending this convention will research the facts involved and be prepared with proper data as to the market value of all types of properties in Beaver County when they keep this appointment.

The minutes of the Development Appeal Board hearing held on October 11th were scrutinized and discussed at length in an effort to find some information that would help them to understand the Local Board of Health's recent decision to not approve the proposed transfer site at Tofield.

At this hearing and previous to that time, the Local Health Board had given no indication that this site would not be approved. Although there were some recommendations made to changes in the site plans, nothing was said about the distance factor not conforming.

Council felt that if they and the Regional Landfill Authority Board had known that the distance factor was a problem, a lot of time and expense could have been saved. A good deal of time was spent discussing ways of preventing this kind of unnecessary waste of time and money in the future.

REDC . . .

County Administrator, Garth Bancroft, was instructed to draw up some terms of reference for representatives to take to their respective council meetings for [illegible].

It was agreed that all towns and villages in the county would have to work together to get some form of industrial development started somewhere in the county and not let politics interfere with progress.

They all felt that any small businesses from industrial development in the county will benefit everyone, no matter where it is situated.

Ron Hancock pointed out that tax money is very important to [illegible] and maintain what already exists in this area.

The consensus was that one representative from each local EDC should be part of a steering committee that would work towards getting the REDC underway.

Representatives present at this meeting were Ron Hancock — Alberta Tourism and Small Business; Garth Bancroft — County Administrator; George Knudsen — county councillor, Gordon Maxwell — county councillor, Bob Cowan — Mayor of Ryley; Ken Sharpe — Deputy Mayor from Holden; George Ritchie — Viking Economic Development Committee, Ed Hegehr and Tom Lyle — Tofield Town.

Municipal borrowing studied by committee

Julian Koziak, minister of Alberta Municipal Affairs has announced the formation of a debt guideline steering committee

This steering committee will review current municipal borrowing practices, recommend guidelines for evaluating borrowing applications and, if necessary, recommend [illegible]

"In the past five years, annual municipal loans have nearly tripled and municipal debt owing to the Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation has more than doubled," said Mr. Koziak. "I look forward to this committee establishing a workable formula regarding borrowing and debt guidelines."

This steering committee was a result of an October, 1983 minister's advisory committee recommendation that [illegible]

"An independent consultant, well experienced in the municipal and financial field, be retained to consult with municipalities of different sizes, the Local Authorities Board and the Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation to establish a workable formula or model regarding borrowing/debt guidelines and/or limitations that can be easily administered and readily understood by all concerned."

Sitting on the committee will be Town of Taber Mayor Van Van Orman and County of Barrhead Reeve Joe Smith. Van Orman and Smith were nominated by the Alberta Urban Municipalities Association and the Association of Municipal Districts and Counties respectively.

Also sitting on the committee will be Jack Fleming, director of municipal services branch; Charles Shelley, chairman of the Alberta Local Authorities Board; and Herb Strohback, general manager of Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation

The committee is expected to present its recommendations by the end of 1985.

I Remember When . . .

I started school at the mature age of four. I have a dim memory of when my sister was called up to class I [illegible]

[illegible] by building built about 1875. It had three windows on each side and two small black boards. The desks and seats were made of heavy planks, the boys assigned to one side and the girls to the other. The teachers desk and a stool were at the front and a heater was in the centre. A pail of water stood on a box and a tin dipper hung above it. The walls were plastered and cracked in places. Large maps covered many defects. Here I learned my ABC's.

We had an unusual system of grading. We began with the primer and then were promoted by "Readers". They were known as First Book, Second Book, Third Book and [illegible] which were cleaned by spitting on them and wiped with a "slate rag". Teachers were on starvation wages but they were masters of the school and a hefty strap insured that position. Parents backed the teacher. If a boy got the strap in school he would likely get it again when he got home. We were not even allowed to [illegible]

The boys with one exception accepted the strap without protest. The exception was [illegible] he was called up to the front for some misdemeanor he would put on a real contortionist's act to escape punishment. I can still hear him pleading "Oh — teacher — teacher — please don't — I'll be good — I'll be good". But he got the strap anyway. We onlookers suffered as much as he.

At that time there was no regulation regarding school attendance. A pupil could stay out for a few weeks or a few months and no one cared. The older boys were often kept at home to work. The parents on the whole were not very education conscious. The boys would unwillingly return to school for the winter months.

Families were large and grew larger as daughters matured and added to the number. Illegitimacy was prevalent but not condoned. I remember mothers comment was always the same "The poor girl". These come-by-chance children would simply be absorbed into the girls family and their father would go scot-free. I had five or six illegitimate schoolmates, three of them belonging to one girl, all with different fathers. Her youngest was a cripple and he came to school in a cart to which a dog was harnessed. He occasionally be brought a cat along in the cart. No one ever considered putting these children up for adoption.

Our teachers were not all strap happy. Miss Boyle was almost too compassionate. We [illegible] and Mattie because they were lousy. Miss Boyle persuaded us to include them in our games. We happened to be playing Blindman's Bluff. A tam pulled down over our eyes [illegible] The tam was passed around the ring. Miss Boyle had achieved the bond of sisterhood she had promoted. We all got head lice.

Maud and Verna were competitive classmates. They were members of a large respectable, comfortably-off family, but they were congenital cheats. Their entire family had that tendency.

Our geography text book was a large volume and contained full page maps of countries, their provinces and counties, clearly defined. Every week or so we would be told to draw a map showing [illegible] names and capitals. I think we were supposed to color them too with crayons.

I suppose it was a form of art but art was never my favorite subject. My maps [illegible] na's were perfect. The teacher was lavish in her praise and displayed them. I suppose with the hope that this would be an incentive to the rest of us. Then I, by no accident overheard a very potent conversation.

In order to get good results one had to use a bit of ingenuity. Just place the map on a window pane and lay the drawing paper over it. Copying was easy. Hearing this was a great boost to me. It restored my confidence that anything Maud and Verna could do, I could do better.

We had written exams at the end of each month. Before passing out the papers the teacher would collect all the text books. In this particular exam Maud and Verna said they had not brought theirs. They had hidden them in the [illegible]

Each in turn would ask permission to go to the outhouse. She could pick up the book and brush up on the subject. I do not know if it was intuition, observation or just my natural miserable nature that made me suspicious. Of course, we could not tell the teacher. Tattle tales were despised. Besides, I had no proof. So I just stopped speaking to them [illegible]

We had no frills in our education system. All grim work. In our reading assignment we had to spell and give the meaning of every difficult word. And we were drilled in grammar so that we could parse in our sleep, verbs — transitive or intransitive, tense, mood, etc., etc. Nouns — common or proper, gender, number, etc.

Every year we would pick up a few more subjects and carried them till the end.

Buying a new furnace

The efficiency of home furnaces has improved tremendously in the past few years. The new models typically operate at 80 to 90 per cent efficiency compared with only 65 per cent for conventional units.

The only drawback is that the improved heating systems cost between $300 and $1,000 and more. A common question from homeowners [illegible] replace a furnace is, "Is it worth the extra investment?"

"The answer depends on how much energy your house uses," says Don Wharton of Alberta Agriculture's home and community design branch. The average bungalow in Alberta uses about $460 worth of natural gas per year for space heating alone, not including water heating, service charges or taxes.

In this case, replacing a conventional furnace with one that is 90 per cent efficient would lower the yearly bill to $335 and save $125 per year. While that is a reasonable saving, if the homeowner has to pay an extra $1,000 for a high-efficiency furnace, it will take eight years for the fuel savings to pay for the additional investment.

"For houses that use more energy for heating, the savings increase and the investment in a new furnace looks better," says Mr. Wharton. In a house that costs $900 per year to heat, the saving would be $250 yearly with a higher efficiency furnace, and the unit would pay for itself in about four years.

The answer of whether to buy a high efficiency furnace depends on your own situation. Check the heating bills first and ask the advice of the local gas utility before deciding.

Tillie Nordwaski was born on Jan. 7, 1908. She passed away suddenly at her home Oct. 24.

Tillie came to Canada from Germany at the age of 17 years. She married Fred Nordwaski, April 17, 1926 in Edmonton. Together they farmed near Ryley until they retired into the village of Ryley in 1958.

She is survived by two daughters, Agnes Stambaugh of Holden and Audrey Teske of Ryley. Four grandchildren, three great-grandchildren, and two brothers in Germany. She was predeceased by her husband Fred on Jan. 2, 1970 and one sister and one brother.

Funeral services conducted Oct. 27, at Ryley Lutheran Church with Rev. Sid Haugen officiating. Interment in Holden Cemetery.

Fashion show is staged

[illegible]

There were 70 home-made garments and 11 hand-crafted sweaters and other woollen items entered in the sixth annual fashion show and tea held in the Tofield Community Hall last Tuesday evening.

This fashion show was sponsored by the Hearthstone and Especially For You. All fashion items were modelled and created by local seamstresses and their families.

Tofield Dance School prepared and served refreshments for the tea.

In addition to the parade of fashions, guests were able to view displays of hand weaving, floral arrangements, cabbage patch dolls and clothing, local art works and various knitted articles.

Judy's Flowers supplied the flowers and decorated the stage while Marg Lammerts was responsible for organizing the models. Judy Murray was in charge of music.

Wendy Rindale was introduced as the new owner of the Hearthstone and floral bouquets were presented to the staff.

A sewing demonstration of the new Singer machine was given during intermission and door prizes were won by Zelda Hallett and Leona Malkowich.

Author speaks

by Joan Murray

Students from grades 9, 10, 11 and 12 of Tofield School listened to a visiting author last Tuesday morning in celebration of National Young Alberta Book Month.

Bert Almon, an Alberta poet who teaches creative writing at the University of Alberta in Edmonton, read several of his works to the students and explained how his writing stems from things he has observed in everyday life.

Tofield School Librarian, Stephanie Blades, said that the students enjoyed the visit and engaged in an active question period following the [illegible].

At the end of the event, Almon was presented with a Tofield School t-shirt to commemorate his visit.

Many asking if they see 'rats'

Many Albertans have reported seeing suspicious rat-like rodents scurrying across streets, roadways, lawns and gardens, says Mike Dorrance, supervisor of problem wildlife with Alberta Agriculture. "Many other suspicious critters are brought home by the family pet," he says.

Upon close inspection, most of these rodents turn out to be young muskrats and not Norway rats as many people fear.

Dr. Dorrance explains that at this time of the year juvenile muskrats disperse from the family unit and seek new territory. Since many sloughs and potholes are dry this year, muskrats are having to search over a greater area to find food and water. Consequently, muskrats are being found in the most unlikely locations.

The two main features that distinguishes young muskrats from Norway rats are the hind feet and tail. The tail of the muskrat is one color, usually dark brown to black, and is laterally compressed; that is, possessing a ridge on the top and bottom. The hind feet of a muskrat are much larger than the front feet and the toes are partially webbed.

The tail of the Norway rat is round in cross-section and bicolored; dark above, light underneath. The hind feet of a rat are small and have no webbing at all.

Alert parents to bubble gum balls

OTTAWA, October 19, 1984 — Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada today alerted parents to the danger of small children choking on bubble gum balls found in certain packages of "Cheezies".

The warning comes as a result of three cases of young children choking on the bubble gum balls they found in Hawkins Brand "Cheezies", a product sold mostly in [illegible].

In the case of this particular brand, the presence of the cellophane-wrapped gum balls was not declared on the outside of the "Cheezies" package. As a result, the gum was unknowingly put into the [illegible] they tried to eat it they ended up choking.

Other brands of the same product may also contain the gum balls, but these are appropriately labelled so that parents can take precautions in letting their children eat them.

Parents are advised to check carefully any bags of "Cheezies" they give their [illegible] the gum balls are removed.

Holden and district news

by Mrs. G.H. Taylor

Holden LCW held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday. Rev. Sid Haugen was in charge of the Bible study, held before the business meeting. Regular business was attended to and correspondence read and dealt with. Final plans were discussed and made for the annual fall bazaar and tea to be held on Nov 24th. A brief report was given of the 80th Anniversary celebration and homecoming of the Holden Lutheran Congregation. Mrs. Margaret Olsen read the Love offering. At the close of the meeting, lunch was served.

A former Holden resident after the Second World War for a few years, Guy Clifford Pelsey of Edmonton, passed away on Nov 3rd at the age of 66 years. Mr. Pelsey served overseas during the 2nd World War. He is survived by his wife, Peggy in Nanaimo, B.C., one daughter, Mrs. Ray (Carole) Ream of Sherwood Park; one son, Gregg of Edmonton; and three grandchildren. The funeral service was held last Wednesday from Howard and McBride's Chapel with Rev. Doctor T.L. Leadbeater officiating and [illegible] Field of Honor in Beechmount Cemetery.

Mrs. Eva Hrabec (Chomiak) of the Vegreville Nursing Home, formerly of Borschiw, North Holden, passed away on Oct. 28th at the age of 91 years. She is survived by three sons Peter of Holden, Bill and Andy of Ryley; seven daughters, Mrs. Ann Andrukow of Viking, Mrs. Mary Brown of Terrace, B.C., Mrs Emily Muzechka of Vegreville, Mrs. Lena Mochinski of Wetaskiwin, Mrs. Martha Kiziak of Holden, Mrs Susie Kozack and Mrs. Ernie (Barbara) Sawchuk, both of Edmonton; 31 grandchildren, 26 great-grandchildren; two brothers, Fred of Vegreville and Steve of Ryley; and two sisters, Mrs. Ann Hrabec of Ryley and Mrs Mary Kubin of Vegreville.

She was predeceased by her husband, John in 1974; two sons, Maroslov and Harry, her parents, Motive and Solomea Chomiak; three sisters; one brother; two grandsons; one granddaughter and one great-grandson.

Funeral service was held on Nov. 1st in St. John the Baptist Ukrainian Catholic Church in Borschiw with the Basilian Fathers officiating and interment was in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Edith Carlson and Mrs. George Taylor were visiting last Thursday with Mrs. Kate Nichols, a patient in Tofield [illegible].

Mrs. Terry Lusk, Mrs. Annie Komarnisky and Mrs. Sepwinyk are patients in Tofield Hospital.

Mrs Helen Zwierschke visited with Mrs. Kate Nichols on Monday.

Mother Lode

Every year thousands of cars like these end up as junk ... many before their time. In many cases, it's simply because their owners think it would cost more to fix them than they think the car is worth.

We're changing that idea

Instead of the scrap heap, more and more of these cars are ending up in our repair shop. It's not likely that we will ever put a salvage yard out of business, but we can put your car back on the road in "like new" condition. Stop in and talk to us—our estimates are free.

Stock up on vegetables

Climbing prices for fresh vegetables during the winter months in Canada make stocking up with locally grown produce a good idea. This can easily be done by visiting the many market gardens located throughout the province or by attending a local farmers' market.

According to Phil Dixon, vegetable specialist with Alberta Agriculture at the Alberta Tree Nursery and Horticulture Centre in Edmonton, there is still good Looking back at the season, Mr. Dixon wasn't always sure Alberta growers would have the selection and supply that is now offered. "Growers began with a cool spring which meant a slow start for many crops," he says. "Reseeding had to be done with a lot of crops because of rotting. June and July were normal but in central-northern Alberta, it was the hot August that made the crop respectable. Without the heat to increase the maturity of the crops, an early fall frost could have been devastating."

By dividing the province into areas, it's easier to look at the industry, says Mr. Dixon. Growers in the Peace River valley had a productive year, although they felt the crops were about seven days behind a normal year's harvest schedule. Fort McMurray growers had the same type of year. Edmonton-area growers had their first killing frost on August 29, which took care of the cucumbers. Otherwise, the Edmonton growers had a good years with lots of produce still coming off. Red Deer growers had some hail this year but those who missed the hail report a good year. Southern Alberta growers with irrigation were saved from the dry year, and also report a good

The heat of August has meant a good supply of beets, carrots, onions, cabbage, potatoes, winter squash and rutabagas. These will be available throughout the fall and some into winter. All of these crops are good for Consumers interested in making sauerkraut, which is a good method of storing cabbage, will be especially pleased with this year's fall cabbage, says Mr. Dixon. The size is large and the quality is ex-

Holden hosts self-help sale

by Joan Murray

A wide variety of self-help craft items were on sale at the Holden Lutheran Church on Friday.

Mary Schmidt of Tofield, Self-Help Crafts representative, said that all the bags, including her efforts, are received on a voluntary basis.

As customers paid for their purchases, Schmidt explained to them what the Self-Help organization was all about.

Self-Help Crafts is a marketing outlet for skilled crafts people from many developing countries around the world. Some of the materials used in constructing these articles are jute, wood, wheat straw, brass and leathers.

Craft items are purchased from approximately 60 suppliers in 20 different countries. The program focuses on artisans who have few vocational opportunities because they live in poor countries, or because they are refugees, handicapped persons or members of a disadvantaged minority group.

Holden and area citizens had their choice of brass ornaments, carved wood products, batik, jute mats and hangings, tooled leather, embroidered and hand-woven linens, hand-crafted greeting cards, baskets, leather and fur moccasins, baskets, jewellery, sculptured glass ornaments, dolls and toys.

The retail price of items is determined by the producers and all costs of transportation, customs, warehousing and administration are added to this base price.

Schmidt gets her stock from the Self-Help Crafts office in Calgary and said that she keeps the inventory at her home near Tofield when no sales are going on.

She said that, so far, there have been sales in Tofield, Camrose and Leduc with another in Viking tomorrow (Thursday), one in Sherwood Park next Saturday and a final one to be held on December 8th in Tofield at That Place Restaurant.

Anyone who wants more information or is interested in purchasing self-help articles when there is no sale going on in this area, can contact Mary Schmidt at 662-2121.

Grain Overload of Cattle

Eating large amounts of highly fermentable carbohydrate-rich feeds, such as grain, may cause a very serious disease from excessive production of rumen acid. The following terms all describe the same condition: founder, acidosis, rumen overload and carbohydrate engorgement.

This condition occurs most commonly when feedlot cattle are placed on grain rations too quickly, and in animals on self feeders, or by accident, such as a critter getting into a grain bin by mistake.

Signs of the Disease

The speed of the onset of symptoms varies with the the nature of the feed, being faster with ground feed than with whole grain. The severity increases with the amount of feed eaten. During early stages, the only abnormality is a full rumen, and occasional abdominal pain evidenced by kicking at the belly. In severe cases, within 24-48 hours animals will be found down, staggering or standing quietly by themselves. All affected cattle are completely off feed. Drinking of water will make symptoms worse. Lots of diarrhea is usually present. Dehydration is severe.

Treatment

Since a number of medical treatments and surgery may be required, a practising veterinarian should be consulted. In some cases, when fattened cattle have accidentally engorged on grain, emergency slaughter may be the most economical course of action.

Prevention

Grain overload is a "management disease" and can be prevented in many cases. Cattle must be allowed to adapt gradually to higher levels of grain in the rations during the critical period of introduction.

One of the safest procedures is to feed a milled mixed ration, consisting of 50 to 80 percent roughage and 40 to 50 percent grain as a starting ration for seven to ten days, and monitor the response. If the results are satisfactory, begin decreasing the level of roughage by 10 percent every two to four days down to a level of 10 to 15 percent roughage with the remainder grain, of grinding quietly by themselves All affected cattle are completely off feed. Drinking of water will make symptoms worse Lots of diarrhea is usually present Dehydration is severe.

A second method is to begin with small amounts of grain which are increased every two to four days by increments of 10 to 12 percent. Roughage is supplied separately. The disadvantage of this system is that the hungrier dominant cattle may eat much more than their calculated share without consuming sufficient roughage.

On a practical basis, in this system the cattle are usually fed twice daily and brought up to a daily intake of grain which satisfies their appetite: then the grain ration is offered free choice in self feeders. Unless there is enough feeding space at the self feeders, the submissive and slower eating animals will often overeat, therefore careful monitoring is necessary.

A new approach for the prevention of rumen overload is to inoculate undigested cellulo weath rumen bacteria containing a large population of lactic acid utilizing bacteria from an adapted animal. In a 21 day trial, the rate of gain and feed efficiency were improved in cattle inoculated with ruminal bacteria from adapted cattle before they were put on a high level of grain.

Conclusion

If you would like more info on this, we have a good pamphlet which you can ask Rudy or myself for Bye for now

Tofield will appeal transfer site denial

by Joan Murray

At a meeting last Tuesday night, the Town of Tofield Council decided to appeal to the Provincial Board of Health regarding the proposed transfer site.

The local Board of Health met on November 1st and after hearing submissions from the Town of Tofield, Gene Leskiw of Alberta Environment, Rick Prentice of Reid Crowther and Partners, Ed Collom, Executive officer of the Provincial Board of Health and their own environmental health inspectors, the appeal to have this proposed transfer site approved was denied.

A written presentation will now be prepared by Tofield Town Administration and will be taken to the Provincial Board of Health for an appeal hearing sometime in the near future.

Council approved a request from Ken Rempel and Henry Nachtigal to have the town install street lighting by the Gospel Church. The church is used for various evening activities and members of the church were concerned with vandalism and children's safety.

The Alberta Heart Foundations request to hold their annual campaign in Tofield during the month of February, in 1985, was approved.

Council ratified the names submitted by the Tofield Economic Development Committee for the positions of chairman and vice-chairman. Their budget request will be taken into consideration at budget time in 1985.

A resolution has been passed to approve, in principle, the formation of a Regional Economic Development Committee.

Hoop league organized

A newly organized high school basketball league will swing into operation early next month (December).

The Battle River Basketball League will commence operation on Dec. 5th with fourteen schools competing in two divisions.

All of the schools involved are classified as 2A (ranked according to school population).

The schools entered in the East Division will be Daysland, Hughenden, Ryley, Sedgewick, Tofield, Viking and Wainwright.

Entered in the West Division are teams from Caroline, David Thompson, Delburne, Pigeon Lake, Rimbey, River Glen and Sylvan Lake.

The top four teams from each division will advance to compete in a zone championship tournament for the right to continue along the provincial playoff trail.

Only two games will be played during the first week of action when Daysland travels to Viking on Dec. 5th and Tofield will be at home to Sedgewick on Dec. 7th.

Realignment of all high school zones in the province went into effect at the beginning of the 1984/85 school year and in this region, meant a merger between two zones in Central Alberta.

It is expected that the existing County of Camrose High School Basketball League will continue to operate but, at presstime, entries in that league had not been finalized.

Camrose and Wetaskiwin from the old Hiway 13 League will operate in a new league whose other entries will include Innisfail and Rocky [illegible]

New Norway, a former member of the Hiway 13 loop, has decided to play a season of exhibition and tournament basketball.

Watson wins school tender

. . . for Tofield addition

by Joan Murray

At the County of Beaver Board of Education meeting last Tuesday, Watson Tofield was awarded the contract to construct the Tofield School home economics and industrial arts shop addition.

The bid for this contract was [illegible]

This total excludes the estimated costs of $110,000 for equipment and furniture, $60,000 for architectural fees and $20,000 for the Clerk of the Works.

The total project is expected to cost $856,794. The Government has approved the project and grants of $800 per square meter should cover most of it. Responsibility for the balance lies with the Board of Education and they will be publicizing a by-law to borrow money for this project.

After negotiating for almost a year, the Board has ratified a new agreement for 1984 with the bus drivers.

The Board has agreed to support one Beaver County high school student to both the Forum for Young Albertans and the Forum for Young [illegible]

Students who wish to participate will be asked to write an essay and selections will be made from the submissions received.

The Young Albertans Forum will be held in Edmonton in May for one week. The Board agreed to contribute $350 towards the entry fee and living expenses. This event is geared to teaching students about political systems, government structures and how the Provincial Government works.

The Forum for Young Canadians will be held in Ottawa for one week in March and June. The Board agreed to contribute $450 towards registration fees and living [illegible]

Jim Warren, president of the Local Advisory Committee (LAC) presented a written request to the Board to have the grade one class for the '85-86 term split into two separate classes because, at present, there are 32 kindergarten students registered.

No clear answer was given at that time, but this request will be taken into consideration for budgeting purposes in 1985.

Approval has been given to tender the purchase of one 36-passenger and one 48-passenger bus for use in the [illegible]

Enrollment is still dropping in the County of Beaver. In September, the total was 1,929 but at the end of October it had decreased to 1,914.

Ryley names rep

by Joan Murray

Councilman Jack McKoen was chosen to represent the Village of Ryley on a Regional Economic Development Council, at their regular council meeting last Monday night.

This action indicated council's positive attitude towards the formation of an REDC in the County of Beaver.

The Ryley Recreation Board has applied for a major cultural grant to be used for the men's ball diamond at the Sports Grounds.

Approval has been given to allow the One Hundred and Ten Workshop Association to place a large paper dump container within the Village of Ryley.

Councillor Cecil Stensrud was chosen to attend the Disaster Services Management Program Seminar that was held in Edmonton this week.

This information was taken from the unapproved minutes of the Village of Ryley Council meeting on Nov. 12th.

Election by satellite

While the country is still interested in the recent federal election, and all the hoopla it developed on national television, more than passing comment should be made on the leadership convention held late in August by Western Canada Concept.

Not so much for the people involved in it, or the party's platforms, as for their recognition that this is late in the 20th Century. That television, computers and satellites are here to stay. And to be used.

Recognizing this, the party contrived the first-ever television and satellite election of a leader. Instead of bringing delegates to the convention, the party brought the convention to delegates, vastly reducing expenses and time involved.

All that was necessary at the constituency level was to secure a centre where reception by satellite receiving dish was possible. After watching convention proceedings on the screen, delegates cast their ballots under strict supervision ... right at the constituency center. After being tabulated, results were phoned to the convention centre, at the television studio, and totals could be re-broadcast to the entire organization.

Actually, the technology was relatively simple, but as a change from the established order, it is a real breakthrough. Many of us could be interested in a party as practical as that.

It might remove a great deal of the crowd hysteria, the hoopla, the bands and the bars. But it does seem that it might foster more thoughtful, more intelligent, more responsible voting.

Shaken Vows

Anniversaries are funny things. You don't always know if you should celebrate or send sympathy cards.

Another year of wedded bliss has just expired at our house, making it a grand total of 18. How do two people manage to put up with each other that long? If anyone knows the answer to that, please call and let me know or, better yet, call my sister (collect — that woman loves to talk!) She has been wondering how anyone could live with me and not contemplate homicide after the first two weeks. Being related through blood (spilled and mostly mine), she had no choice but she's never been able to figure out how anyone could actually be living with me of their own free will. (She doesn't know about the ropes.)

Have you ever stopped to consider what it's like living with the same person for 18 years? After awhile, couples either get comfortable like old slippers or else they toss away the shoe that has been making the blisters. I guess we're the slippers type but don't let that fool another few years there will be no need for vocal communication at all. We'll be so finely tuned to that we'll read each other's minds. Perish the thought. Even after 18 years a woman needs a bit of mystery. I'm sure that one thing that keeps this marriage going is his trying to figure me out. He's promised that, should he ever learn that secret, he'll tell me.)

The other thing, of course, is love and the fact that by staying together we save two other people a lot of grief hair seems to have altered a shade or two, here and there.

Recently I have noticed that there are similarities, not in the way we look but in the way we think. Many times one will say something and the other will cry, "That's just what I was thinking!" It could be that in another few years there will be no need for vocal communication at all. We'll be so finely tuned to that we'll read each other's minds. Perish the thought. Even after 18 years a woman needs a bit of mystery. I'm sure that one thing that keeps this marriage going is his trying to figure me out. He's promised that, should he ever learn that secret, he'll tell me.)

The other thing, of course, is love and the fact that by staying together we save two other people a lot of grief

Pensions are increased

The universal Old Age Security pension paid to people age 65 and over was increased in October to $272.12 a month.

New legislation passed by Parliament on June 30 provides that people who now receive only partial old age pension payments because they have not resided in Canada the required time span, may now be able to receive the full pension.

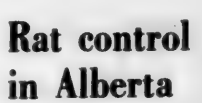
The maximum monthly Guaranteed Income Supplement payment has increased to $336.47 for single persons and to $336.67 each for married couples.

The new legislation passed by Parliament in June provided for an increase of $60 during 1984 for single pensioners receiving the Guaranteed Income Supplement, and for married couples where only one spouse received the Guaranteed Income Supplement and the other is not eligible to receive Spouse's Allowance payments. The first $30 instalment was paid to this group in July and they will receive the remaining $30 in December.

The $60 increase approved by Parliament will mean that many persons not previously entitled to the Guaranteed Income Supplement benefits because their income was slightly too high may now qualify for benefits. Spouse's Allowance is paid to persons between the ages of 60 and 65 who are married to Guaranteed Income Supplement recipients. In October the maximum monthly payment was increased to $482.84.

Under the new legislation passed, the surviving spouses of deceased pensioners, who have continued to receive Spouse's Allowance payments, will also receive the $60 increase in addition to the regular increase. The current maximum monthly payment for this group has increased to $508.08

Rat control in Alberta



Did you know that under ideal breeding conditions one pair of Norway rats can produce 350,000,000 descendents in three years?

Sounds incredible, but it is apparently true. A pair of rats can have a litter of 10 or more every month, and the offspring are ready to begin reproducing in three to four months.

And did you know that rat droppings, urine and hair can transmit infectious jaundice, salmonella and other intestinal bacteria diseases to man as well as trichinosis via fleas? Rats can also transmit bubonic plague via fleas, rabbite fever via a direct bite and other diseases to both domestic animals and to man.

On the farm rats consume, contaminate and cause the spoilage of tonnes of grain by chewing holes in storage bins, etc. They also foul fresh produce, eggs and even live poultry. And in industrial areas, they destroy merchandise, woodwork and other material as well as chew wires.

In Alberta losses estimated from if rats were to become established in Alberta, the annual loss to the province would be over $40 million! That they have not become established in the province is due to the vigilance of its citizens and to Alberta's rat control policy. Under the Agricultural Pest Act, it has been the legal responsibility of every Albertan since 1951 to prevent the establishment of Norway rats and to destroy any that gain entry to their premises, whether those premises are owned or simply being occupied. And every city, town, village and rural municipality is required to appoint a pest control officer to handle local rat control problems. At the present time Alberta has more than 250 part-time municipal pest control officers who investigate reports of rat sightings and supervise any action that is required.

Seven full-time rat control officers are employed by Alberta Agriculture along the Alberta-Saskatchewan border. They maintain permanent poisonous bait stations on the farms and in the grain elevators in the area as well as in garbage disposal dumps, and they generally supervise the control measures.

Alberta Agriculture supplies the rodenticides to the municipalities along the Sask. border. They are distributed by the pest control officers Nearly 10 tonnes of ready mix poisonous bait are supplied to this 800 km long border area, known as a buffer zone, each year. It is enough to control the estimated 30,000 - 40,000 rats which invade it annually.

The number of rats that get into the rest of Alberta probably averages about 200 a year but it may go as high as 1,000 in some years. Of the 75 to 100 infestations that are discovered each year, many are single rats but a few can involve as many as 50 rats. The approximate number of rats that are destroyed in Alberta in a year would probably be [illegible]

If you would like more details on Alberta's rat control program, and if you would like to know how to identify a Norway rat, you should get a copy of a publication entitled "Rat Control in Alberta". In addition to containing information on rat control methods, eliminating their sources of food and rat-proofing buildings it has a section on the identification of the Norway rat. This section contains some excellent drawings of the Norway rat, the roof or black rat, the wood or pack rat, the pocket gopher and the muskrat.

Copies of Rat Control in Alberta, Agdex 683-21 can be obtained from district agriculturists or the Print Media Branch, Agriculture Building 7000 - 113 St. Edmonton, Alta T6H 5T6

CP Rail urges crossing safety

by Susan Lemay

Trying to beat a train to save a few extra minutes could mean the rest of your life.

The race for the railway crossing was a highlight of many old movies in real life there's nothing funny about such a scene.

Drivers are in a hurry, fail to observe railway crossing signs often, pay no attention because there are no trains day after day, without seeing a single train. Pat Woodward, an investigator with the Canadian Pacific CP) Department of Investigation in Calgary, said last week.

CP Rail was in Red Deer last week to educate the public about railway crossing safety, and to answer questions about the Operation Lifesaver train that was here the day after. Although it seems a single train, Woodward said in many incidents the drivers disregard the mechanical warning devices — bells that could hear flashing red lights they could see.

Even if the locomotive engineer sees your vehicle on the track, he cannot stop quickly nor steer the train around you. A combination of weight, speed, reaction and breaking time means this deceleration will be gradual. A train will travel a considerable distance before it comes to a stop. A train travelling at 100 km/hour or 60 m p h will take about [illegible] seconds or [illegible] kilometres to come to an emergency stop, Woodward said. Even at 30 km/h or 20 m p h, that same train will take the [illegible] and half feet.

Statistics show the most accidents occur in the province [illegible] Alberta, Woodward said.

Many drivers do not understand the [illegible] and [illegible] concerning safety, he added.

Ministik and district news

by Catherine Roddick

Good For Last Week

The Ministik Ladies Club's annual fall bazaar was held on November 2nd in the Community Hall. Before the bazaar was officially opened by convenor Barbara Herricks, a floral arrangement was presented to Jean Ferguson, past convenor of 33 bazaars, by President Gladys Swabey, from members of the club.

Gladys praised Jean for her deep love, dedication and hard work as a member of the club. She also mentioned that the club was a charitable organization and all members are dedicated to it.

Jean thanked all for her flowers.

A raffle was held and tickets sold previous to the bazaar on two gift certificates. The first one was won by Orville Erickson of Tofield, the second by W. Clifford of Tofield RR2.

Two hampers were won by Jackie Peterson and Irene Scott of Tofield.

Ten games of bingo were played and winners were Ronald Ferguson, Sandy Scott, Michael Nasichuk, Jean Ferguson, Violet Nasichuk, Bob Hyde, Ralph Leach and the blackout was won by George Lee. Lunch was served by the ladies and a social evening ended a successful bazaar.

George Sears of Tofield spent three days with his parents, Verden and Olivine Sears and attended the bazaar.

Several ladies from Ministik attended the Tofield Hospital Auxiliary bazaar and tea in Tofield on Saturday afternoon.

Barbara Herricks, Betty Williams, Gladys Swabey and Lil Leech and girls, Carol Crystal, Darren Dekinder and Olivine Sears attended awards night in Ardrossan [illegible] recently.

Darren Dekinder received an honors award in grade 12. Crystal Dekinder, a merit award in grade 10 and Avery Loch a merit award in grade 10.

Lil Leach, vice-president of the Ministik Ladies Club, presented the Club's annual award to Jo-Anne Coy who had the record highest marks in grade 12, an award the club presents each year.

Edna and Glenn Ferguson and Dolly Roddick attended the 50th wedding anniversary celebration in Belvedere Hall in Edmonton, on Saturday evening, honoring Jean and Paul Nahayowski. Dinner was enjoyed by 230 guests and many presentations and plaques were presented during the evening.

The annual meeting of the Craft Centre is scheduled for Monday evening.

Olivine and Verden Sears and Carol Dekinder, and John and Sandra Bjornson attended the funeral on Wednesday morning of Margaret Beierbach of Edmonton. Margaret was the grandmother of Sandra Bjornson and a cousin of Olivines.

ID program is planned

by Joan Murray

A fingerprinting program gets underway at the Tofield Arena this Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The C.W. Sears PTA is sponsoring this event which is endorsed by the Tofield RCMP Detachment.

Parents are asked to bring only their children and all children participating in this program must be accompanied by their own parents.

This will ensure that information cards only go into the hands of the parents. It is recommended that these I.D. cards which contain the fingerprints, picture and personal data of the child be kept in a safe deposit box or place of equivalent security.

C.W. Sears PTA Vice-President, Rose Simpson, said that she has had several comments to the effect that one does not have to worry in small towns such as Tofield with regards to abductions and missing children. But, there is a question of what to do when parents take their children shopping in Edmonton or other major centers.

In the event that a child is ever missing the existence of prints may be helpful in identification. This could provide accurate information on location of a child's body or on the more positive side, provide relief that the prints do not match those of their child.

In some cases prints may be of use in identifying a runaway child who refuses to reveal his or her identity or a mentally incapacitated child who cannot identify him or herself.

This program is relatively inexpensive and is done by volunteers at no cost to parents.

The Tofield I.D. program will include handouts of information on missing children from the Child Find organization in Calgary as well as a list of tips on how to help prevent child abduction and precautions one must take to maintain this goal.

There will also be books on hand that would be helpful to parents who wish to "street-proof" their child with regards to child abduction or molestation.

Titans are 3rd

The Tofield Titans captured third place in the 2A senior girls' volleyball zone playoffs held in Sedgewick on Nov. 17. The girls earned a playoff berth on Nov. 10 in Wainwright advancing along with Sedgewick and Ryley over teams from Hughenden, Daysland, Wainwright and Viking.

The team gave an excellent account of themselves at the championships in Sedgewick, finishing first in their pool to advance into the playoff round.

Teams competing there were from Rimbey, Riverglen (Red Deer), Delburne, Sedgewick, Ryley and Tofield.

At the day's end, a very strong team from Rimbey finished in first place, advancing to Provincials later this week. Ryley girls, who have been strong this season, finished second and the Titans of Tofield came in third.

On Nov. 14th in Ryley the county championships were held and Ryley beat Tofield for the trophy.

County seeks travel funds

by Joan Murray

The subject of transportation grants got some attention at the County of Beaver Council meeting last Monday. It was felt that this county is not getting their share of grants in relation to other surrounding counties.

A remark was made that theoretically, the fact that the County of Beaver has five MLA's should work to an advantage, but in reality it does not. It seems that counties with only one MLA are better represented in the area of transportation funding.

It was said that in the fall session of government, electoral boundaries for MLA's could be changed and this might reduce the number of representatives in Beaver County.

The county administrator will investigate the possibility of submitting recommendations to the Boundaries Commission. If there is still time for these recommendations to be heard, then a brief of concerns will be prepared and forwarded to the Commission.

Council has decided to rescind a previous motion that was made allowing for eight councillors to be elected instead of the present seven.

A letter from Municipal Affairs advised council that it did not recommend that they have eight councillors because this could pose a problem when voting, the vote could end up tied and in this situation there is a chance that little would ever get accomplished.

The County of Beaver will continue to operate with seven councillors, but some changes were made in the divisional boundaries. If the county didn't change the boundaries then Municipal Affairs would have to in order to meet the criteria for representation by population in each division.

Tofield Gun Club representative, Wally Lee, attended the meeting to inquire about property available in the County that could be used for an outdoor shooting range.

Lee said that the club is in a bit of a bind with the present outdoor range located a few miles north of Tofield. The lease expires in two years and is not renewable.

He wondered if the Blackfoot Grazing Reserve could be used for this purpose. Council advised him to approach the Blackfoot Grazing Reserve Steering Committee about the requirements and told him that a Springer Spaniel Dog Club already had approval for using part of the reserve.

The only thing that the club would need to approach council for in this matter would be for a development permit at the time they decided to set up their range.

Round Hill forms crime watch group

A Crime Watch program has been organized for the area around Round Hill.

Ninety people were in attendance at an organizational meeting which was held in the Round Hill Elks Community Hall.

The group will be known as the Round Hill Battleford Trail Range Patrol Association.

Elected to serve as the organization's first president was Rudy Famulak.

Vice-president will be Dave Strilchuk while Harvey Uzelman will fulfill the secretary's duties and the treasurer's chores will be handled by Cheryl Banack.

Constable Vern Maerz of the Camrose Detachment of the RCMP attended the meeting to outline information in regards to the Crime Watch program.

Crime Watch kits have been ordered and a meeting will be called when the kits have been received.

The organizational meeting was arranged and chaired by County Councillor, Mike Marlowe.

League has good start

After two weeks of regular play, it looks like the Beaverhill Hockey League could be in for an exciting season of action.

Holden is the only team that hasn't racked up a victory, but the Beavers have given a good account of themselves in their only two outings.

Lamont is the only undefeated team, but they've played only one game.

Tofield Satellites and the new entry from Redwater are sharing first place while Lamont, Mundare and Vegreville are tied for second place.

Holden played Mundare last night (Tuesday) with results to be reported next week.

The coming week could be a difficult one for Tofield as the Satellites are on the road for three games, starting tonight (Wednesday) in Vegreville before going to Lamont on Saturday and they play in Mundare on Tuesday.

Holden Beavers will have their first home game of the season on Friday when they will be hosting Redwater and on Tuesday, the Beavers will go to Lamont.

Tofield lost its first game of the season on Tuesday when they were trapped 7-3 by Mundare before they rebounded to double Redwater 6-3.

In a free-wheeling contest, Vegreville outgunned Holden 10-7 while Redwater whupped Vegreville 10-3 and a game between Mundare and Lamont was postponed.

Ryley news

About 50 competitors took part in the Ryley Curling Club's turkey shoot last week. Kathleen Loveland and Bill Shyba won two turkeys each. Single winners were Vic Idaev, Jim Charpentier, Jim Lien, Henry Bekker, Jean Stritchuk, Vincent Charpentier (children's event), Cecil Bimrod and Inez Urvilla.

Don Stritchuk received his turkey for the opposite hand event.

Students from Ryley and Holden took part in the Senior High Curling Funspiel before the shoot began. A Event winners were the John Blades rink including Lori Koetke, Kelly Storey and Betty Danilak.

The B Event winners were Dean Kokotyn, Duane Pope, Reg Kozoway and Darcy [illegible].

In senior girls' volleyball, Ryley placed second in the conference tournament held in Wainwright recently and won the County tournament last Wednesday evening.

Marg Berrecloth from Tofield was the winner of the Honda Trike donated by Andrukow Farm Sales of Ryley for the turkey shoot ticket raffle sponsored by the Ryley Curling Club. Proceeds from ticket sales will be used to help reduce the amount of the curling rink's mortgage.

Winter Feeding Programs for Growing Cattle

Cow-calf producers that have not yet sold their 1984 calf crop and are thinking of keeping these calves for a period of time should consider the type of feeding program they intend to use and the intent of that program. In other words the feeding program is influenced by the expected selling date of the calves.

Let's look at three different selling times and the feeding programs associated with them.

1) Calves remaining in the feedlot until slaughter. Rapid gains of 2 lbs. per day or more require a high grain ration. Cross bred calves from European breeds have the potential for high daily gains and still have acceptable slaughter weights and carcass quality grades. Under this feeding program would require higher quality hays, grain and possibly additional protein supplement.

2) Calves sold as feeder cattle at some time during the winter or spring. Moderate gains of 1.5-1.75 lbs. per day are common in this category. Most buyers of feeder cattle discount fleshy cattle. Therefore, the costs associated with high rates of gain may be too high and consequently not a paying proposition. The rations for this category are a little lower in energy, protein, calcium and phosphorus as compared to the ration for higher gains.

3) Calves going back on grass next summer or calves that must be grown out before being put on full feed. "Frame before fat" and "compensatory gain" are two terms that fit into this category. Rates of gain usually approximate 1.0-1.5 lbs. per day. The rations may not need additional grain or protein, depending on the quality of forage being fed.

Important points to remember in any ration:

— the quality of roughage affects the requirement for additional energy and protein.

— high quality legume forages, if consumed at adequate levels, can supply adequate energy and protein in the growing ration to achieve gains of about 1.0 lb. per day without supplemental grain.

— grass hays usually require supplemental grain and protein.

— when protein is the most limiting nutrient, a protein supplement is usually a more economical source of protein than is grain.

All things considered, the best way to determine whether your ration is adequate is to feed test. Remember that average rations using average feeds may not be applicable to your situation. The results of a feed test on grains and forages can be a useful tool in "fine-tuning" a ration to get the most out of your feed for the least cost.

Correction

It was noted in the Spiritwood news column in last week's paper, that a bingo was to have been held on Friday evening.

This was totally incorrect. The next bingo to be held under the sponsorship of the Spiritwood Community League is scheduled for Dec. 14th and will offer turkeys and hams as prizes.

The mistake was the fault of The Mercury and for that, the paper extends a sincere apology to any inconvenience suffered by anyone in regards to this mistake.

Christl to appear in Overture Series

Singer Margaret Christl will be appearing in Camrose on Thursday evening.

Her appearance marks the third concert to be presented in the current Camrose Overture Series.

Thursday's concert will be presented in the Convocation Centre at Camrose Lutheran College and curtain time is eight o'clock.

A native of the British Isles who now makes her home in Alberta, Christl sings traditional songs from Ireland, Scotland and England and as well, will sing a number of her own "folk music" songs.

A preview of Christl's talents is available tonight (Tuesday) when she will be appearing on a national CBC Television production.

Tickets for Thursday's concert will be available at the door.

THE TIMES ARE CHANGING

It is now 39 years since Dr. Lotte Hirschmannova, C.C., founder of USC Canada, first organized large-scale shipments of food for children released from concentration camps in Czechoslovakia. In 1984, USC Canada will support development programs in six countries in Bangladesh, Botswana, Indonesia, Lesotho, Nepal and Swaziland which will encourage the communities to grow their own food. That is the USC Canada, 56 Sparks, Ottawa, K1P 5B1.

Ryley hosts workshop

by Joan Murray

More than forty ladies attended a stress workshop in the Ryley United Church on Friday.

The workshop was sponsored by the "Friends In Deed" ladies group from this church. Group president, Madeline Andrukow, said it was decided by members to reach out to the ladies in the community with an interesting workshop with a timely topic.

The audience agreed that stress was a major conflict in their lives and showed much interest in what the guest speakers had to say.

Bobbi Nirkel, a guest speaker from Three Hills told listeners about stress situations in her life and how she handled them to reach her present state of well-being. She was asked to speak at this workshop because her background included much inner conflict which she had initially dealt with by being rebellious and taking drugs.

Vegreville Health Nurse, Hilda Tucker, gave instructions on how to deal with stress and talked the audience through a short relaxation technique exercise. She has previously completed a course on stress as part of her education qualifications.

At the close of the day, one of the spectators stood up and formally thanked the church group for having this workshop and said she felt it was worth much more than the few dollars admission she had paid.

Madeline Andrukow said that if there is good response from this workshop, then there is a possibility that a couples' stress workshop may be held some time in the future.

Tofield Lodge Notes

Maggie Peterson, Lois Young, Agnes Anderson, Pearl Thompson and Margaret McClyment went on the Senior Citizen's bus to Edmonton recently.

Last Wednesday, Mrs. Mireau entertained members of the Lodge and a number of other friends on the occasion of her birthday. A birthday cake and ice cream were served and music numbers were enjoyed.

Last Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Agnes Anderson and Maggie Peterson went to Viking and attended the bazaar and tea at the Viking Lodge.

Mrs. Edith Bailey has returned to the Lodge after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Art Lampitt in Sherwood Park, following eye surgery in the University Hospital.

Report from Parliament Hill

by Don Mazankowski

Transport Canada Minister, Don Mazankowski, has announced that the Government of Canada building in Vegreville will undergo renovations.

A Public Works Canada contract for $53,730 has been awarded the H & S Building Enterprises Ltd. of Edmonton to undertake exterior work on the Vegreville post office.

The front steps are to be removed and replaced by a new access which will include a wheel-chair ramp.

Mazankowski said he welcomes the renovations because "handicapped persons will now have unimpeded access to the building."

The project is expected to be completed by the end of this year.

Holden

by Anne Danielson

A bake sale will be held in Holden Lodge on Dec 1 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. Proceeds from this bake sale will be used to purchase a piano. A number of organizations have pledged donations towards the piano.

Mrs. Friesen is a patient in Tofield Hospital and Zay Fadya is in Viking Hospital.

Holden and District 4-H Beef Club made several decisions at a recent meeting. Club reporter David Van der Torre says their club will plan to make a Christmas visit to Holden Lodge and have a singing of songs there on Dec. 14. They also plan to donate $300 to the Holden Lodge, $67 to Telarama, $100 to Battle Lake 4-H Camp and $150 to the Holden Complex.

4-H club organizes

by Aaron Murray

The Tofield 4-H Crafts and Laughs Club held their organizational meeting recently. The election of officers was held and the results were president — Bernadette Zintel; vice-president — Sara Lang; treasurer — Teresa Eleniak; secretary — Michelle Paulson; club reporter — Aaron Murray; historian — Deanna Brown; club leader is Mrs. Yvonne Brown and project leader is Mrs. Kathy Eleniak.

The club received $100 from highway clean-up which is to be donated to the 4-H Centre at Battle Lake.

The meeting of the executive was held at the home of Bernadette Zintel to draw up the schedule for the year. At the first project night, the new club members will be starting to work on their Unit I project book. The other members will be starting to work on their soft leather work, which is to include making mitts, moccasins and gloves.

Anyone interested in joining the club are welcome to come. The first project night is to be held on Nov 21. For more information contact Mrs. Yvonne Brown at 662-3861.

Holden and district news

by Mrs. G.E. Taylor

Bob and Carol Carlson and three children of Calgary were recent weekend visitors with his family, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Carlson.

Calling on Friday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor were their son, Brian Taylor of St. Albert and Jim Dick of Edmonton.

Mrs. Bill Kachman has been a patient in Viking Hospital for several days.

Holden Lodge Order of the Royal Purple catered to the banquet held Saturday evening in Holden Community Hall, by UGG.

Sunday afternoon visitors with Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor were their son and wife, Robert and Merle Taylor of Viking.

Holden Ladies Auxiliary R.C. Legion held a regular meeting last Wednesday evening with President Helen Stecyk in the chair. Regular business was attended to correspondence read and dealt with and reports received. A donation was made to the Provincial Ladies Auxiliary and the Salvation Army. Election of officers was held with Mrs. Helen Hrabec elected as president and Mrs. Doris Hunchak is secretary.

Holden Lodge Order of the Royal Purple held their regular monthly meeting on Nov. 13th with HRL Mary Semotiuk in the chair. Regular business was attended to correspondence read and dealt with. The secretary's and treasurer's semi-annual reports were given and the report of the finance committee was received.

A final report of the bingo held Oct. 19th was given and the final donation to the 83/84 project is to be made. Members were reminded that, at the December meeting, the usual memorial service would be held. At the conclusion of the meeting, lunch was served with hostesses being Ladies Nellie Kaluzny and Olive Good.

Tom Iwaskow of Holden passed away on Nov. 12th. He is survived by his wife, Myrtle; one daughter, Abigail; two stepchildren, Martin Danesik of Edmonton and Mrs. Brian (Karen) Lemke of Olds; one granddaughter, Jennifer; and numerous other relatives. The funeral service was held on Thursday at St. Gregory's Roman Catholic Church with Father O'Neill officiating and interment was in the Holden Cemetery.

Melvin Fjellstrom, Mrs. Ethel Brekstad and Mrs. George Taylor were Monday visitors last week in Tofield; Ethel and Mrs. Taylor calling on Mrs. Kate Nichols, in hospital.

Mrs. Jeannie Bilyk was a visitor last Monday with her mother, Mrs. Sopwinyk, a patient in Tofield Hospital.

On Nov. 13th, Albert Johnson of Holden passed away suddenly at home, at the age of 81 years. He is survived by his wife, Winnifred; three sons, Oran of Edmonton, Douglas of Prince Albert and Brian of Ryley; 16 grandchildren; ten great-grandchildren; and four sisters. He was predeceased by three brothers and one sister. The funeral service was held on Saturday in Holden Lutheran Church with Rev. Sid Haugen officiating and interment was in Holden Cemetery. Albert had been a long-time resident of Holden and his father, the late Lars Johnson, was one of Holden's pioneers, operating a livery business in the early 1900's.

A member of one of Holden's pioneer families, William G. Logan passed away on Nov. 13th at the age of 78 years. He leaves two sons, Bryan of Pennant, Sask., and Kenneth of Edmonton; one daughter, Barbara Hickey of Onoway; four grandchildren; four brothers, Louis of Sexsmith, Henry of Edmonton, Olaf of Westlock and Melvin of Nanaimo, B.C., and one sister, Mrs. Hugh (Atlanta) Russell of Edmonton.

The funeral service was held on Friday in the Wild Rose Chapel of Connelly-McKinley Funeral Home and interment was in the Evergreen Memorial Gardens with Rev. Carl Weiski officiating.

The Logan family were long-time residents of the Holden district and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Logan farmed just north of Holden where Mr and Mrs. Stanley Komarnisky are living, before retiring to make their home in Edmonton.

Mrs. Kate Nichols returned home from Tofield Hospital last Thursday afternoon after being a patient for the past three weeks. Mrs Helen Zwierschke drove up to bring Kate home.

Mrs. Frances Hansen is home after spending a few days in Viking Hospital.

Thoughts For The Day

Sunday

God grant me the serenity
To accept the things that can't be changed,
The courage to change the things that can be changed,
And the wisdom to know the difference.

Monday

To watch the sun set in the west without regretting;
To hail its advent in the East — the night forgetting;
To have enough to share — to know the joy of giving;
To thrill with all the sweets of life — is living

Tuesday

Take time to think, it is the source of power,
Take time to play, it is the secret of perpetual youth;
Take time to laugh, it is the music of the soul;
Take time to love and be loved, it is a God-given privilege.

Wednesday

I shall pass through this life but once.
If, therefore, there is any kindness I can show,
Or any good I can do any fellow being,
Let me do it now!
Let me not defer or neglect it,
For I shall not pass this way again.

Thursday

Begin the day with friendliness.
Keep friendly all day long.
Keep in your soul a friendly thought —
In your heart a friendly song.
Have in your mind a word of cheer
For all whom come your way,
And they will greet you too; in turn —
And wish you a happy day.

Friday

For everything there is a season and a time for every matter under heaven;
— a time to be born and a time to die,
— a time to break down and a time to build up;
— a time to weep and a time to laugh.
— a time to cast away stones and a time to gather stones together;
— a time to mourn and a time to dance;
— a time to keep and a time to cast away.

Saturday

Friendship is the comfort the inexpressible comfort of feeling safe with a person.
Having neither to weigh thoughts nor measure words,
But pouring all right out just as they are,
Chaff and grain together,
Certain that a faithful friendly hand will take and sift them,
Keep what is worth keeping and with a breath of comfort,
Blow the rest away.

CELEBRATION IS PLANNED

November 1, 1984
Box 220,
High River

Dear Sir:

During 1985, the High River United Church is planning celebrations of the 100th year of the organization of Protestant services in this community

A Presbyterian ordained minister, Rev Angus Robertson, was one of the early circuit riders who conducted worship services here Some of these were held in homes, but many were in Buck Smith's Stopping House located on the site of the present United Church.

November 28, 1885 was the date when the Presbyterian congregation was formally organized The Methodists were established a few years later In June, 1925 the United Church of Canada was inaugurated. The Presbyterian and Methodist congregations in High River voted to enter that Union So 1985 is the year of our Centennial and we are planning a year of celebrations providing a unique opportunity to explore our roots and to give praise to God, the Giver of all good things

Former ministers and their families, former members, adherents, and friends are warmly invited to participate in this historic celebration. Special events are being planned for every month of the year Pictures and historical information would be greatly appreciated. Brochures containing more detailed information are available Please write Helen McIntyre, Box 274, High River, T0L 1B0

Yours Truly,
Helen McIntyre,
Publicty Chairman
Ruth Frey,
Honorary Historian

Tis one long year since you passed away

Twas a sad and rueful fateful day
We still think of you when see we a train

But even more when we sell our grain
Forgotten by most folks you may be
But not by the farmers who pay the new fee

Ever remembered and sadly missed by the farmers around Holden

Tofield debates crosswalk

by Joan Murray

At their regular meeting on Monday night, Tofield Town Council discussed the Transportation Safety Branch findings from their recent investigation of the demand for a new crosswalk in the vicinity of Logan Street on Secondary Road 834 near the C.W. Sears Elementary School.

The Safety Branch investigation yielded that a crosswalk exists at the intersection of S.R. 834 and 56th Avenue and that this is a main access to the residential subdivision. Sidewalk facilities are available on both sides of 56th Avenue as well as the west side of S.R. 834 from the intersection to the main entrance of the C.W. Sears School.

They felt that this situation forms an ideal pedestrian corridor for residents from Belvedere Subdivision to cross the highway and children to go to school safely.

It was their belief that this pedestrian route is presently well used by many school students, but that there is a small gap between the Mennonite Church fence and the pump station fence south of the church site that is being used as a short-cut route. The number of students using this short-cut are minimal but the branch recommended that it be closed.

It was their opinion that the demand for a new crosswalk in the vicinity of Logan Street is not urgent, but because of the construction of the new health centre in the area, they expect an increase in pedestrian movement across 834 at Logan Street and they feel that the establishment of a new crosswalk at Logan Street would be an appropriate measure.

They made several other recommendations for changes in location of signs and erection of new ones.

Council agreed to consider their recommendations and to make the necessary changes in signs as soon as possible.

Council has plans to include cats in their dog by-law which would then make it a domestic animal by-law. The dog catcher has informed council that there are a number of what seems to be stray cats roaming about the area. She recommends that when these cats are picked up, they be held in confinement for an appropriate period of time and if no one claims ownership of the animals in that time period, then they will have to be put to sleep.

The dog catcher's recommendations will be taken into consideration when the town administrator investigates the feasibility of cats being included in the dog by-law.

It was decided that the dog by-law be changed in such a way that would restrict each household to having no more than two dogs. At present, the by-law can be interpreted to read that each person may have two dogs.

Municipal Planner, Mark Lawrence was present to discuss with council proposed amendments to the General Municipal Plan for the town. No major changes are expected as most work was done to consolidate the information into a more readable form.

Public Works Foreman, Ernie Duchesne, reported that Christmas lights will be put up some time this week. The problem of snow-blocked sidewalks was addressed and council agreed they should be cleared when necessary. It was felt that the service road into Tofield and all intersections be given priority when sanding after a snowfall.

Council approved, in principle, the library budget for 1985 as was presented by Librarian Liz Hubbard, pending further investigation into the amount of dollars available from grants.

A letter from Ron Hancock of Alberta Tourism and Small Business which had been received at an Economic Development meeting in Tofield last week, was reviewed. It seems there are a couple of prospects from England that have indicated interest in Alberta.

Representatives from the Jet Printing Company of England will be making an exploratory trip to Alberta in December. Their project will be a commercial printing operation which includes letterheads, booklets, four color work, business forms, etc.

The other enquiry was regarding the purchase or start up of a small butcher shop.

Both these projects will go into rural Alberta. Council was in agreement that a letter be written indicating their interest in having these projects locate in this area.

The council meeting dates for December will be the 10th and 17th.

200 youngsters IDed

by Joan Murray

More than 200 youngsters in the County of Beaver were fingerprinted at the Child Identification Program held in the Tofield Arena on Saturday.

C.W. Sears P.T.A. Vice-President, Rose Simpson, said she was surprised to see only five teenagers involved in the program.

She felt that perhaps the parents were under the impression that the program was only for the very young.

This is not the case as older children can benefit if they happen to become incapacitated in an accident situation and are unable to provide identification information.

Simpson also noted that some parents seemed to feel that only their female children needed to be fingerprinted. In the information provided by the Child Find organization, many of the missing victims were young boys.

The program mainly served to bring the problem of missing children to the attention of the general public.

It is hoped that this effort will help parents to communicate with their children about preventative measures with regard to situations involving abduction or molestation.

Simpson said that baby fingerprints were too difficult to do but their footprints can be used for identification purposes.

If enough parents show interest in taking part in another program such as this, one could be held after Christmas.

Interested parties can contact her at 662-3553.

Energy seminar held

by Joan Murray

The energy workshop held in the Tofield Community Hall last Wednesday evening was attended by 23 members of both the urban and rural community.

District Home Economist, Maureen Bauman, helped to get the evening underway when the trained workshop leader from Alberta Energy and Natural Resources was delayed for about an hour.

She explained how to tighten up heat loss in the home by increasing ceiling insulation, installing new or replacing old weatherstripping around doors and caulking around windows and doors.

Bauman also told the crowd that the Canadian Home Improvement Program (CHIP) was a good program to take advantage of if the home was built before 1977.

CHIP grants will be reduced to cover 30 percent of cost of materials that the government will reimburse the homeowner for, at the end of this year. It has been 60 percent up to now and at the end of March, 1985, it will be discontinued altogether.

Donna and John McShane were present and consented to give information as to how their energy efficient home was constructed and what energy saving methods were used.

Another energy efficient home dweller, Ron Hubbard, gave an interesting rundown of how his home was built to keep energy consumption to a minimum.

The workshop leader arrived about this time and made his apologies to the crowd before getting on with the workshop activities.

He talked about ways one can reduce heat loss in a home as well as how to reduce electrical, gas and water consumption in order to save money on all utility costs.

Each member of the crowd received a shower insert to conserve hot water usage and a package of electrical outlet insulators to help lessen heat loss from the home.

Hamper drive opens

by Joan Murray

The Community Christmas Hamper drive is beginning in the Tofield area once again this year, to help make Christmas more enjoyable for those in need.

This time, instead of handling the entire operation alone, as they have done in the past, the Eastern Star organization will spearhead the drive in cooperation with local businesses, church service organizations and other community members.

It has become too great a workload for this group to carry out by themselves.

Donations of non-perishable foodstuffs or cash may be left at the Tofield Town Office.

Donation cheques should be made out to The Tofield Community Christmas Hamper Fund.

The committee members for this project are Vivian Murray, Carol Doepel, Evelyn Moore and Eileen Harper.

Persons interested in more information about the drive can have their questions answered by contacting any one of the committee members.

Royalty

Jennifer MacCormac and Kley Krystal received their plaques for being princess and prince of the Katchemut Creek Family Horse Club over the past year. The presentation was made at the club's annual trophy dinner in Tofield on Sunday afternoon.

Politics?

We would predict more than usual interest in the trial of Premier Hatfield when it comes up in a couple of weeks.

On Dec. 10 Mr. Hatfield will again be charged with possession of narcotics, after RCMP supposedly found a package of the stuff in his [illegible] waiting room.

We expect public interest because there seem so many anomalies, so many inconsistencies in the case, that it seems circled about with political undertones, vengeful motives, and aspects which don't ring true.

The premier was escorting the Queen at the time, and while it is even conceivable, if he is indeed a user, that he might feel he would want a "downer" at the end of the busy schedule . . . as some people might want a drink . . . surely no intelligent person (and Premier Hatfield is indeed intelligent) would surround himself in such a situation with so much . . . some $1,400 worth.

RCMP first leaked the news of an impending arrest to some level of the press, then sought to deny it. Then they decided to go ahead with it after all. This sounds like a really convincing case, doesn't it?

Then to top things off, the prosecutor had to apply for a delay while a new charge was being laid, because the policeman who laid the first charge hadn't actually seen "the stuff" in the premier's brief-[illegible]

Now really!! The Mounties are supposed to be top drawer police workers, not Keystone Cops. It almost passes belief that a charge could go all that way, in such a serious case, and yet leave an error as obvious as an open door, if there weren't some kind of conspiracy, of malice, of politics, involved.

After all, how many premier's bags are searched? Or how often? Or how many cabinet ministers, for that matter? For what reason? Was this just a co-incidence? Was it a routine search . . . and are Premier's bags routinely searched as they escort the Queen? Was it a tip-off? By whom? For what purpose? To what end?

We'll be interested in the Court hearing. We'll be interested if Premier Hatfield ever learns who pointed the finger at him.

Dear Sir:

Many of you know USC Canada which was founded by Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, C.C., in 1945

The USC is trusted, not only by the people of Canada, but by the people in the third-world countries in which we work

We are still short of our campaign target by $2.7 million, which is needed for the financing of projects to help men, women and children out of their immense poverty and ease the pain of their hunger and hopelessness.

We at the USC are aware that pockets are not bottomless, and there is even a limit to the heart's capacity to feel Each has its own limitations, but we are appealing to you to please look deep into your hearts and pocketbooks and send your donation today We promise that, no matter how small, it will accomplish a great deal of good.

As the holiday season approaches, please share with those who are so desperately looking to us for help.

Drunk drivers

There should be a great deal of interest and support for a new 38 minute movie portraying the horrors which can be created through drunken driving.

Released very recently, the film was produced by Ontario's Attorney General Roy McMurtry, and is intended to be shown to drivers convicted of impairment. The film features victims of impaired drivers, showing them in their crippled or maimed state, playing their own voices, plus the tortured voices and emotions of relatives of those who have been killed.

Mr. McMurtry hopes to persuade more and more of the public what a lethal mixture develops through booze and gas. Let's hope he's right.

But what would happen if the film were shown to judges? Would it help them hear the growing demand from the public for stiffer penalties for impaired driving? Would it help them believe the public really feels it isn't funny anymore to maim or kill on the highways with too broad a basis of liquor in the blood?

An interesting flashback just occurs: It was Judge Carl Rolf who first introduced the horror movie to impaired drivers in Alberta. The Edmonton based judge was the first in Canada to offer this as part payment of a sentence to drivers who would accept the treatment. It was probably more than a dozen years ago, and we recall his early comment on how impressive, how effective, it seemed to be.

Marketplace

You feed 'em, you hold their little hands, you learn computer talk to help them with their homework, you agonize helplessly over the first heartbreak You watch them grow into what you hope will be happy, responsible, productive adults . . . and wait as that bittersweet moment draws nigh. The moment when flesh-of-your-flesh says "Well, guys," (Guys? What happened to Daddy?) "Well, guys . . . I'm Moving Out."

When the moment does arrive, you feel like you walked around the corner into Mr T's fist Whammy! Your child's life flashes before your eyes Have I done everything I could? How is she/he going to survive in that big, cold world? Did I miss anything when we talked about money/love/vitamins and how to buy a paring [illegible]

Well, "guys" . . . chances are you missed SOMETHING But cheer up, it probably wasn't a life-or-death issue However, you can take steps, even now, to ensure that your kid (who will continue to be "your kid" for a good long time), is aware of the pleasures and pitfalls of going [illegible]

Send for Moving Out, a magazine for young people aged 16 to 25 Published by Alberta Consumer and Corporate Affairs, it offers practical, no-nonsense advice on budgeting, landlords, food, room-mates, apartment-shopping, coping with credit and more It even offers suggestions on how to face those "on-my-own blues" plus a two-page directory of legal [illegible] and consumer agencies (A comforting thought when [illegible] that your newly independent offspring may be the sort who will stubbornly elect to seek help from ANYONE but you, for the first while!)

Moving out is as much a state of mind as a physical reality You can help your young adults "move out" without ever leaving home simply by helping them become more responsible for themselves, and more responsive to the needs of the household As your children grow, for example begin to relinquish your grip on some of the funds you have allocated for their upkeep, and place the onus on them to spend wisely Making respon-[illegible] and very often a trial-and-error process Those first halting steps toward financial maturity may be painful, but you can bet your child will remember vividly having to forego an entertainment with friends, because she already blew the bundle on junk food, or wearing last year's ski jacket (the sleeves of which are now too short), because the whole winter's clothing allowance got spent on designer jeans and fashion jewellery!

You can also help your teenagers learn by talking to them about common household expenses such as food and utility bills, and rent or mortgage payments They will benefit from knowing how [illegible] how you plan your finances to meet them. Are you looking for a new apartment or house? Are you buying a car or a new appliance? Your teenagers will learn a lot by helping and observing you make these buying decisions

When the inevitable announcement IS made, perhaps it won't be a flat "I'm moving out". Hopefully, it'll sound more like "I've been thinking a lot about moving out . . . I really think I can manage it now." This is a decision tempered by forethought, judgement and mature evaluation of options

Bored, Bored, Bored!

Strange things happen when a child is bored.

Boredom can strike suddenly and at any time of the year, like two days into summer vacation or after all the gifts are opened on Christmas day, when it rains or a best friend is unavailable. Sometimes it leads to mischief, like tying all your brother's socks in knots, using an entire roll of dad's masking tape on a paper project, sharpening every pencil crayon in the house to a 2" nub or, in the case of a teenager, eating a months' groceries in an afternoon.

However, if you watch closely — and bored children should always be watched closely — you might see that boredom leads to children rediscovering their ability to amuse themselves, a lost art in this electronic age.

Old books that have been gathering dust on shelves are brought out to clutter the living room (books must be well-spread to be well-read) Long forgotten in the bottom of a closet, small cars are carried out to travel through a maze made of standing books, complete with ramps so the cars can fly into the nearest plant pots.

The old art of drawing pictures is renewed. I've seen the front of my fridge disappear under rocket ships and funny-looking creatures (labeled "Mom") within 30 minutes

Brothers rediscover how much fun it is to argue over board game moves and can even get mom involved, if she isn't quick. Remember 'Hangman'? The last time my kids were bored (15 minutes ago) they added a new twist - each little man they hanged [illegible]

Suggestions from mom sometimes help. "Bored, huh? Well, I can sure find something for you to do" gets quick results Handing them cleanser and brush and pointing to the bathroom clears the house of bored children faster than you can say "Mr. Clean"

It's far better to let them aleviate their own boredom though Having things done for them is what caused the problem in the first place And a mother having to find ways [illegible] in some cases, shorten someone's lifespan.

Report from Parliament Hill

[illegible]

Don Mazankowski M.P. for Vegreville and Minister of Transport announced that the federal government will provide savings to Western producers of more than 20 cents per gallon on farm fuels.

Mr Mazankowski made the comment following the government's November 8th economic statement Farmers will be eligible for a fuel tax rebate of 3 cents per litre on purchases of gasoline and diesel fuel for off-highway use in commercial activities This rebate will take effect on December 1st, 1984 The current refund system for the 1.5 cents per litre excise tax on gasoline will continue to operate as at present

The Vegreville M.P [illegible] will result in an annual savings of $1500 - 2000 for an average Western Canadian grain producer

Mr Mazankowski noted that these estimates for savings are in addition to the 1.8 cents per litres rebate announced for farmers to compensate for increases in the Petroleum Compensation Charge

In the recent election campaign, the Progressive Conservative Party advocated a fuel tax rebate to ease the financial difficulties experienced by many primary producers. Mr Mazankowski said: "We have been consistent in implementing our pre-election pledge to provide specific and immediate relief from the cost squeeze facing Western producers. This complements the freeze which I announced last month on tolls for the St. Lawrence Seaway, the increase in the 1984-85 initial payments for feed barley and designated (malting) barley, and the government's announcement that the [illegible] Fund will provide a $123 million final payment for the 1983-84 crop year, as well as an additional payment prior to spring seeding."

Mr Mazankowski also advised that other campaign commitments affecting agricultural producers have been referred to a parliamentary committee and will be addressed in the April 1985 budget. These items include the taxation of part-time farmers (Section 31 of the Income Tax Act), Agribonds, and the taxation of capital gains on farmland. . . . . .

Hockey league is close

After slightly more than two weeks of action, it looks more and more like the Beaverhill Hockey League is in for an exciting winter.

Only eight points separate the top and [illegible] one is undefeated and winless Holden has been competitive in each of that team's four outings.

Redwater, the league's newest entry, has raced into sole possession of first place with Mundare just a step off the pace and then there's a three-way tie for third spot.

Last night's (Tuesday) action saw Holden play in Lamont while Tofield travelled to Mundare with those results to be reported next week.

Tofield will be at home to Holden on Friday night before hosting Vegreville on Tuesday while Holden will be at home to Mundare on Tuesday.

Redwater moved into sole possession of first place by racking up two wins after they [illegible] Lamont 7-4 and then outgunned Holden 10-7.

Mundare moved into second spot with two wins as they doubled Holden 10-5 and stopped Vegreville 10-7.

Tofield Satellites, with only seven returnees in their line-up, lost twice and now the team has a 2-3 won-lost record for the new season.

Coach Ross Causey feels that the team is just starting to gel and indicates that they will be a highly competitive team in the not-too distant future.

Satellites went to Vegreville last week and after falling behind 4-1, rebounded to tie the game with only twenty-six seconds left only to have Vegreville score with just two seconds showing on the clock as the home team won 6-5.

Tofield's goals were netted by Cam Morrison, Doug Gilbert, Ed Rachinski, Brian Dixon and Ernie Nachtegal.

It was a goalies' duel in Lamont on Saturday night with the Satellites and the home team being scoreless after two periods of exciting action.

Vaugh Dyck scored for Tofield early in the third period and Lamont tied the game with four minutes left and scored the go-ahead goal with ninety seconds showing on the clock. A clinching goal was scored in the dying seconds with Tofield's net empty in favour of an extra attacker.

Palmer-Earling news

by Mrs. Emma Knudsen

Albert Johnson 81, passed away suddenly in his home at Holden on Nov. 13. He was born on his father's [illegible] May 27, 1903 in the Palmer Earling area in his parent's log house. Later, as a young boy the family moved into Holden and operated the Holden Livery, Feed and Sales Stable. From 1923-1928, Albert worked in the sawmills of Oregon and on May 2, 1932 he married Winifred Pope of Ryley.

Albert served his country as a volunteer in the RCAF 1941-1945. He was a zealous worker for the Social Credit Party and served his community as a baseball and hockey coach and player, town councillor and mayor.

He leaves to mourn his wife and three sons, Douglas of Prince Albert, Sask., Brian of Ryley and Oran of Sherwood Park; four [illegible] and Clara of Edmonton, Ethel of Vermilion and Mable of B.C., also 14 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren. Predeceased by his father Lars, mother Sophie, three brothers, Johnnie, Louie and Alvin, and one sister Agnes.

Funeral services were held at Holden Lutheran Church on Nov. 17 with Rev Sid Haugen officiating. Pallbearers were Gordon Pope, Dale Stensrud, Kendall Johnson, Ron Stefura, Dean and Robert Johnson.

Committal in Holden Cemetery. The Tofield Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Robert (Bob) Cross was re-elected Mayor of Ryley by acclamation. Councillor Larry Andrukow was declared deputy mayor, Cecil Stensrud and Ed Albrecht will make up the fire, light and police committee.

Chauncey Larson of Watson Lake visited his grandmother Alice Larson, Selma Bratrud and was at Keith Bratrud's for his birthday.

Mrs. Marilyn MacMillan and Chrissy of Wetaskiwin weekend at Lawrence Hovland's when her husband Don MacMillan spent a few days with his folks at Burnaby, B.C.

Selma, Keith and Lyle Bratrud's and Joyce Bergquist and Shyla Piro of Bawlf were Sunday guests at Peter Rempel's in Edmonton for Christopher's sixth birthday.

The Zion LCW met Wednesday with Mrs. Ed Knudson and Lillian Reum as co-hostess, when 15 ladies were present. The Bible study was led by Rev. Cliff Knutson. A donation was given to Lutheran World Relief. The LCW Christmas party and congregation supper will be a joint affair Dec 28. Next meeting is in December with Delores Bratrud. The Zion LCW served lunch Nov. 18th at the CLBI in Camrose.

Cleaning For Christmas

Cleaning house is a never ending task. Still, many of us like to give the house a bit of extra cleaning and polishing for the holiday season. New and improved cleaning products beckon us to buy, buy, buy! How can you keep house without breaking your budget?

Most cleaning products include a few basic ingredients that do the work. If you know what they are, you can buy them and use them for less than the same thing in a new improved product.

Following are some common problems with low-cost solutions!

"I always fill my casseroles too full. They spill over and then make a mess in my oven. What's an easy and inexpensive way to clean it?"

The active ingredient in oven cleaners is ammonia so use it full strength. Put a cupful in the closed oven overnight. The next morning, put on your rubber gloves. Pour the ammonia in a bucket of warm soapy water and add a few tablespoons of washing soda. Dip in some crumpled newspaper and wipe the oven clean. You may have to use a scouring pad on tough spots.

"There is a greasy film on my windows!"

Ammonia is a super grease cutter. You can make yourself an all purpose window cleaner as follows: take a measuring cup and put 45mL of ammonia and 15 mL of vinegar into it. Fill the cup with water to the 250 mL mark. (If you prefer a blue window cleaner, add a few drops of blue food color.) Use in a spray bottle.

"I've heard that abrasive cleaners will scratch and dull my bathroom enamel. What else can I use?"

Tri-sodium phosphate (TSP) is the basic ingredient in scrub and shine products. Use 3 mL along in 4 L of hot water and your fixtures will sparkle and shine. Be sure to wear gloves.

The same solution will also work very well for cleaning bathroom tiles. Painted surfaces and linoleum also clean well with this solution.

"I have a lot of brass and copper. Do I have to buy a separate cleaner for each?"

No. You can make one cleaner to use on both. Equal parts of salt, vinegar, and flour makes a very effective cleaning paste. Rub the brass and copper with this mixture until perfectly clean then wash in hot suds and polish. Be sure to rinse away all acid traces and dry thoroughly.

"How can I get the fruit stains out of my tablecloth?"

Try applying Glycerine and [illegible].

Tom Turkeys A Better Buy

If you were thinking of choosing a small turkey for Christmas because you won't be having that many guests, you should reconsider your purchase. This year, the supply of light turkeys will be smaller and the market will be dominated mainly by heavier birds.

Tom turkeys are a better buy because they have a higher percentage of meat to bone than light birds have. Of course, there are the leftovers, but they should not cause too many problems. Turkey goes well in sandwiches, salads and soups, not to mention many prepared dishes such as lasagna, meat pie and pilaf. If you want to prolong your enjoyment, you can also freeze the leftovers.

Don't numbers drive you right up the wall, across the ceiling, and down the other side? We seem to have so many of them; Social Security, telephone, credit cards, addresses, postal codes and license plates. These are only the main ones. Then there's the take-out restaurants that say "Take a number please". The food may be fast but the numbers sure are slow.

You can really tell that we are becoming a numerical nation when you chance to meet an old acquaintance who says, "I know your number but, I can't place the face." Then you find yourself staring at him, mentally repeating "176592 . . . 176592 176592?" but, you still can't remember his name or even the face.

Counting sheep has changed. I find myself reading little white slips of paper attached to the side of their fluffy white fleece.

"Inspected by No. 1 . . . inspected by No. 2 . . . inspected by No. 3" . . . and so on, as I see those fluffy white wooly bodies lightly leaping over the fence.

My worst encounter of the numbered kind has been trying to get results from a wholesale outlet. First tip I have for you is to never use your name on the correspondence or over the phone. The reply is always addressed to some alias named Mrs. Murra, or Ms. J Marrow, or J Morrat and/or occupant. All they will respond to is your number. Its the one that they always give to you without your consent let alone your knowledge. I've written a little poem about this kind of problem. I'm sure you will see my point of view on the whole numbers racket.

C. B. Patrol planned

by Joan Murray

Beaverhill Rural Crime Watch Association recently sent out 100 letters to members in a effort to find out how many C.B. radio units would be available should a C.B. Patrol system be set up.

At a meeting in Shaw Hall on Thursday night, it was reported that there were 34 C.B. radios available and of these, 12 have base stations.

Len Kowalchuk and Sanford Boettger are organizing this patrol system and will be pinpointing, on an area map, where the units are located.

They also plan to look into purchasing a radio to be used in the RCMP car. After these things are done, the system should just about be ready to be put into action.

The persons involved in the patrol will not be acting in the capacity of a policeman. Their job will be to observe and record information and to report any information of value to base control for action by the police.

Ray Berg, Dean of the Faculty of Agriculture and Forestry at the University of Alberta in Edmonton, was the guest speaker and his topic was agriculture and the world's food needs. He explained how the Canadian farmer fits into the world food picture.

He said the individual farmer has to apply better technology and improve his farming skills to increase productivity. Berg also said that farming families need to educate the children to take over the farm business.

Much discussion was carried on about delinquent membership dues and how best to deal with the problem. It was decided that letters would be sent out to members with unpaid dues to inform them of the situation.

If the balance of dues owing are not paid for six months after the end of the year they are owed, then all signs and cards will have to be forfeited along with their membership. If these dues are then paid, they can become members in good standing once again.

The next Rural Crime Watch meeting will be held in March in the Tofield Senior Citizen's Drop-In Centre.

Teacher strike threat looms

Possible strike action is being considered by a majority of teachers in this part of the province.

Teachers in one region have already called for a strike vote while a second area will consider that possibility during a meeting scheduled for next week.

Alberta Teachers Association (ATA) in the Battle River School Authorities Association have called for a government supervised strike vote while teachers in the Elks Island Regional School Authorities Association will decide if they want to hold a similar vote, when they meet in Viking.

Only teachers belonging to the Camrose Roman Catholic Separate School Division are not contemplating such action at this time, as they are currently negotiating a possible two-year contract with school [redacted]

Nearly 2,000 teachers could be affected, if a strike is called in the two regions.

At a meeting held last Tuesday in Lacombe, over 90 percent of the teachers in BRSAA rejected the latest boards' position. Subsequently, the teachers, by a vote of 98.2 percent, authorized that a govern[redacted]

BRTA sets area tours

Bus tours have been arranged for next year (1985) by the [redacted]

Following the success of tours during the past summer, a total of nine tours have been arranged for next year.

Planning for next year was announced at the BRTA's monthly meeting in Viking by tour chairman, Robert Brown.

Six one-day tours of the zone have been planned and other arrangements have been made for a four-day Badland to prairie tour; a six-day north scenic excursion, and a three-day outing to Jasper.

All tours are fully escorted and brochures are now available at the BRTA Office in Camrose.

During the meeting in Vik[redacted] members were told that the Town of Bashaw was looking for a new site on rerouted Highway 21, for a tourist information booth locale.

Alberta Transportation has agreed that Meeting Creek Directional signs may be erected at Bridge crossings which cross the creek on Highways 21 and 53.

A membership report indicated that only Beaumont, Veteran and the Counties of Beaver and Wetaskiwin were municipalities within the zone that did not have BRTA memberships.

It was agreed that BRTA should have displays during shows that are scheduled for Calgary, Edmonton, Red Deer and Wetaskiwin.

The next BRTA meeting is to be held in Castor on Dec. [redacted]

Some very interesting work from Beaverlodge indicates that canola yields can be increased from 27-40 percent by placing canola seeds three inches apart. Research showed that a reduction of seed drill spacing [illegible] did not significantly affect yields. However, when the seed drill row spacing was reduced to 3 inches (from 6 inches) the canola yield increas[illegible] of significantly.

This probably occurs [illegible]:

1) There is less competition at 3 inch spacing as the seeds are placed further apart in the drill row than in 6 inch spacings. The ideal seeding [illegible] 3 inch diamond. This is when canola yield will be optimum.

2) The seed is probably placed into a more packed seedbed, especially if the 3 inch spacing is accomplished by cross-[illegible].

How can the seed be placed in a 3 inch row? One of the ways is by pulling one seed drill behind the other, but at a bit off center. The other method is to simply cross-seed, reducing your seeding rate each time by one-half of your normal amount. For practical purposes, cross-seeding will probably work best. Give it a try this spring on at least part of one of your canola fields and see if this [illegible].

This concept and many more were discussed at two meetings we held — Nov. 19 at Viking and Nov. 27 at Tofield. If you missed these, try to attend future meetings so we can all learn from each other how to do a better job with [illegible].

Skaters are busy

by Joan Murray

The Tofield Figure Skating Club has a total of 60 skaters this year. Lessons got underway in the middle of October and will continue until April.

Of this total, there are 42 learn-to-skate students, five junior skaters and 13 senior skaters. They have lessons on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. All their hard work culminates in an ice carnival that will be held on February [illegible].

The skating pros for this year are Jeannette McLean and Arlene Kleinschroth. McLean is the senior pro and has been with the Tofield club for the past five years. She is originally from Camrose, but now resides in Edmonton. Kleinschroth is new this year and comes from the Ministik area, west of Tofield.

The skaters fees do not cover all the costs the club incurs and to raise funds, they will be holding bingos and selling chocolate bars and have most recently put on a successful turkey supper.

They are holding a bingo tonight (Wednesday), in the Tofield Community Hall at 7:30 p.m. and have scheduled another for December 12th.

The skating club executive is elected at their annual meeting in April.

The executive for the 84-85 term are president — Vivian Weatherill, vice-president — Bev Knudslien; secretary — Carol Widemann; treasurer — Linda Morris and test chairman — Doris Brown.

Holden and district news

by Mrs. G.R. Taylor

[illegible] long-time resident of Holden, Mrs. Olive Augustine of Edmonton, passed away on Nov. 18th at the age of 83 years. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Lorraine Borwick of Edmonton; one son, Don Augustine of Edmonton; six grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren. Mrs. Augustine was predeceased by her husband, Ole Sigurd Augustine. Funeral service was held on Thursday at Howard and McBride's Chapel. Cremation was held in the Edmonton Crematorium. Rev. Bruce Cowley officiated at the service. Mr. and Mrs. Augustine farmed for many years in the Holden District before retiring from farming and then making their home in Edmonton.

[illegible] and Eric were Thursday visitors the past week in Tofield with their daughter and family, Mrs. Vivian Andrusky and children.

The Holden Senior Citizens Lodge is holding a bake sale on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. There will be a variety of goods for sale and the proceeds are to be used towards the purchase of a piano for the use of the residents.

Clare Anderson and Mrs. Frances Hansen were Tofield visitors last Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Friesen, a resident of Holden Senior Citizens Lodge, has been a patient for the past several weeks in Tofield Hospital.

The Holden and District 4-H Club held a regular meeting recently with business attended to and reports given. The club's reporter, David Van de Torre, advised that the club [illegible] tions, these being towards the Holden Senior Citizens Lodge, also a telerama, Battle River Lake 4-H Camp and the Holden Complex. Rutabagas are good Although Alberta's rutabaga acreage is down this year, the quality definitely is not.

Alberta farmers have harvested about 2.5 million pounds of rutabagas for consumers to enjoy during the winter, says Phil Dixon, vegetable crop extension specialist with the Alberta Tree Nursery and Horticulture Centre in Edmonton.

If anything is holding back the rutabaga market, it's that many people aren't familiar with this vegetable and don't know how to use it, says Catherine Sinnott, food specialist with Alberta Agriculture.

The rutabaga, or swede, crop for winter storage is planted in late June and early July, and harvested starting in October, explains Mr. Dixon. Large machine harvesters pull the rutabagas out of the ground by their tops, twist off the tops and place the roots in trucks that drive alongside the harvester.

With proper storage conditions, which consist of a temperature of one degree Celsius and relative humidity of 90 to 95 percent, rutabagas can be stored for six to seven months and still maintain high quality.

In the store, consumers often see rutabagas coated with wax. Growers apply the wax when they take the rutabagas out of storage to help improve the vegetable's shelf-life when it reaches the retailer.

"Once you get them home, rutabagas will keep in the vegetable crisper of the refrigerator for several weeks," says Ms. Sinnott.

The sweet mild flavour of rutabagas lends itself to combinations with other vegetables and fruit. Ms. Sinnott suggests serving rutabagas on a vegetable tray with a dip, as an addition to stir-fry dishes, or cooked and [illegible] in a combination with potatoes, carrots or apples. You can also add rutabagas to soup or stew, or enjoy them boiled, steamed or cooked in a pressure cooker.

Rutabagas provide a valuable source of vitamin C during the winter. A 125 mL serving of cooked rutabaga provides about one-half of an adult's daily requirement of this vitamin.

As for that nagging question about what is a turnip and what is a rutabaga, it doesn't matter, says Ms. Sinnott. "Since turnips and rutabagas are so similar, you can use them interchangeably."

Shower for December Bride-Elect

Zion Church was the scene of a miscellaneous shower Thursday night to honor Karen Bergquist R.N. at Camrose Hospital and a granddaughter of Selma Bratrud of this area.

Bonnie Hellekson was the emcee for a short program. Scripture reading by Jeannette Knudson. Solo rendered by Marlene Birchall, poems read by Selma Bratrud and Joyce Bergquist, followed by a game. In the basement the many gifts were opened, accompanied by her sister, Shyla Piro. Karen expressed her thanks before lunch was served. The next night Karen was honored at another shower at Bawlf Lutheran Church. Curtis Jans and Karen Bergquist will have their wedding on Dec. 1st at Bawlf Lutheran Church.

On Nov. 13 Mark and Lori Schneider (nee Pederson) moved into their new house.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hellekson, Haakon and Levina Ronsberg and Norman and Sharon Ronsberg and family, motored to Frontier, Sask., to attend the baptism on Nov. 18, of their relative, David and Dorothy Norheim's infant son.

Julius and Gladys Nickolson of Camrose were Sunday visitors at Palma Paulson's.

Farmers attend meet

On Nov. 19, nearly fifty farmers attended an informative meeting on canola production and marketing, in the Viking Community Centre.

The course was jointly sponsored by the Canola Growers Association, Alberta Agriculture and the ASB — County of Beaver.

Einar Loveseth, canola grower's rep, opened the meeting and Jerome Manchur, district agriculturist, was the first speaker as he emphasized ways to increase the amount of canola produced per acre.

Wayne Tuck, a farmer north of Viking, then commented on the yield of Triton, a triazine tolerant canola he grew last year. It averaged about 21 bu/ac, with 30 percent hail damage. Stewart Campbell (United Oilseeds) and Jerome Manchur, upon commenting on Triton, agreed with Wayne Tuck that Triton would play a role in heavily weed infested land.

Einar Loveseth, after dinner, commented on the grain advance for canola. This is available at the local elevator. Paul Cassidy (from Palliser Grain) next talked about future canola prices.

Stewart Campbell (from United Oilseeds, Lloydminster) explained the Canadian oilseed situation. Much more canola, than many suspect, is bought by local crushing plants in Canada. Campbell indicated that crushing plants add $635,000,000 as a direct impact to the western economy.

Jerome Manchur followed with slides and a talk on chemicals and canola.

Hastings wins trip

... for public speaking

[illegible] Hastings of Tofield has won himself a three-week all expense paid trip to the United Nations.

Hastings emerged as the winner of the trip when he took first place in the annual public speaking contest hosted by the Oddfellows and Rebekahs.

Included on the itinerary for the winner from Tofield will be a visit to Ottawa in the company of other winners from Western Canada, along with winners from Montana and Washington.

Colin McKinley of Vermilion was the runner-up in the competition which was held in the Three Links Hall in Camrose. Other competitors were Troy Bothoff of Czar and Shane Grove of Lougheed.

Judges for the public speaking contest included Mary Durand, Mary Pattie and Glen Lott.

Shauna Palmer, a student at CCHS, was recently presented with the Rebekah Scholarship after she had attained the highest academic standing among students in grade ten.

Members of Jubilee Rebekah Lodge in Camrose recently installed officers to serve for the next year.

Noble Grand is Dorothy Mutchler; Vice Grand is Clara McLean; secretary is Helen Kopach; financial secretary is Mildred Haugen and treasurer is Grace Veale.

Local members of Rebekahs and Oddfellows were involved in a province-wide raffle whose winners were from Calgary, Alix, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat.

The Alberta Wage Subsidy Program

Helping Alberta business and farm employers provide job opportunities for Albertans now.

If you are an employer who has more work than you can handle right now, the Alberta Wage Subsidy Program can help you pay the wages of the extra people you need.

Or, the program may be able to provide financial assistance to help you retain an employee that otherwise might be laid off.

Hire that new employee you need now and receive reimbursement of up to $2.50 per hour.

For each new employee you hire, the Alberta Wage Subsidy Program will reimburse your business or farm operation for 50% of the employee's wages, up to a maximum of $2.50 per hour.

Most businesses and farms are eligible to participate.

The subsidized jobs must provide full time employment of at least 32 hours per week. The jobs must be continuous for at least three months, so seasonal employment certainly qualifies. An employer may be subsidized for up to 30 positions and funding for a position or employee is available for up to a maximum of six months.

New employees must have lived in Alberta for the past three years and cannot be members of the employer's immediate family.

Applications for maintaining existing employees will be considered on a case by case basis. The same subsidy will apply.

Funding is available now so contact Alberta Manpower today.

Applications are now being accepted.

Application forms and further information on the Alberta Wage Subsidy Program as well as other Alberta Manpower programs may be obtained from:

by Sharon Seady

Recently the Round Hill-Kingman kindergarten class, their teacher, Mrs. Doris Pasychnyk, and some of the parents were on a field trip to the Camrose One World Institute where they enjoyed a puppet play. They were also to the Camrose Fire Station, the Veterinary Clinic and the Camrose City Police station. Since the beginning of the school year they have been on field trips to the Round Hill elevator, Byers Flour Mill, Safeway, the Sprout House and the Camrose Library.

On Nov. 21 several people from this area were to the Camrose Senior Citizens Center to participate in floor curling competitions. Those who went were Wilfrid and Kathleen Johnson, Fred and Louella Coykendall, Thelma and Elwood Flemming, Joe and Rosie Kozack, Nellie Kozack, Delia Swanson, Roy Williams, Bert Asp, Shirley Wilson, Willie Bjorgum and Bill Simonson.

Sharon Seady, along with several other County librarians, was to Edmonton on Nov. 22 on a book buying trip for the school.

Round Hill district notes

The Round Hill Elks celebrated their 40th anniversary on Nov 17 with a number of charter members present, including Lloyd Fouts the first exhalted ruler, Sam Boychuk, Bill Harberg, Tom Campbell, Charlie Knudson and Leo Gudmundson were presented with Round Hill Elks' Lodge hats and certificates for their years of service. A special presentation was made to Stan Banack for his dedicated years as a first officer. Dave Storms and Basil Jacula were presented with past-exalted ruler jewels. 15 year pins were presented to Doug Fjeseth and Vernon Campbell. A 30 year pin was given to Stan Banack and 40 year pins were presented to Tom and George Campbell. The master of ceremonies for the program was William Banack and presentations were made by District Deputy George Campbell. Congratulations were brought to the Lodge from MLA Gordon Stromberg and from a number of lodges in District 8.

The Round Hill and District Agricultural Society held their annual meeting on Nov. 16 at the Elks Hall with approximately 32 members present.

Various committees reported on events that had taken place over the past year. The Hall committee reported that the new addition to the hall is under construction and volunteer labor is planned for mid-January. A hall board was elected consisting of Willie Banack, Laurie Lindstrand, Art Hohn, Mary Jane Orcheski and one representative for the W.I.

Home Improvement Contracting

Houses always seem to need work. Handy people do it themselves. The non-handy usually hire someone. This column will help the non-handy hire the contractor, establish the contract and pay for the work to be done.

Telling the contractor, "I want a red brick fireplace in that corner" is not the way to start. You may know what you want, but your first task is to provide enough detail for the contractor to meet your expectations. Start by identifying carefully drawings, pictures and specifications of the project you want completed. The better the description, the more satisfying the final project is likely to be.

Finding the right person for the job takes time, but since the quality of the job depends on his or her skills and standards, time spent searching could be a good investment.

The type of worker you hire will depend on the complexity of the job. Builders and general contractors can handle all phases of any building operation. If they don't have someone on staff for a specific task, they will sub-contract the work. Builders and contractors would be used for major home renovations, such as [illegible] changes.

Home improvement contractors and remodellers specialize in work such as roofing and siding, but may not be qualified to [illegible] more general [illegible] work.

Hire a specialist for jobs [illegible] and air [illegible].

The contractor's qualifications, reputation and price will influence your choice.

In Alberta, some tradespeople are required to carry certification to work for money. A journeyman's certificate is assurance the workman has worked at least three to four years in the business and that he has passed a provincial government exam. An apprenticeship certificate is one step above the journeyman qualification. The holder has completed a technical school program, has worked for three to four years and has passed the provincial government exam.

Besides checking the credentials, you should also check the contractor's reputation. Talk to previous clients and see the work if possible. Call the Better Business Bureau to check the reputation of the business.

If the renovator or contractor comes to your home to solicit, negotiate or conclude a contract and accepts money before the contract is completed, the company must be licensed under the Prepaid Contracting Business Licensing Regulation.

Contracts exempt from this regulation are business-to-business transactions, general contractor to sub-contractor/trade transactions, contracts covered by the Alberta New Home Certification Program and contracts defined in the Ground Water Development Act.

You should also know the Direct Sales Cancellation Act can apply to contracts under the Prepaid Contracting Business Licensing Regulation. Contractors who solicit and negotiate and conclude a sale away from their normal place of business should have the Direct Sales Cancellation Schedule as part of their contract. Do note, however, this cancellation privilege does not exist in all home improvement contracts.

For more information contact Robert L. Pittman, Alberta Consumer and Corporate Affairs, 2nd Floor, Provincial Building, 4920-51 Street, Red Deer, Alberta, T4N 6K8. [illegible]

Report from AADAC

Women And Alcohol

"Although excessive drinking has long been considered a 'man's problem', we now know better. Women have as many drinking problems as men and are learning to recognize the danger signals of problem drinking."

Diagnosis — early intervention — treatment of alcohol problems, are women's needs different from those of men? The literature seems to indicate that they are. Some of the factors for nurses to take into consideration are the following:

1. Women more often drink in response to a family-related crisis, such as divorce or problems with children. Though drinking to cope with stress is common to both men and women, the particular problems that women share in our society are often different. The roles assigned to women have tended to produce different behaviours, goals, self-images, and life experiences. These all impact how, when, where and why a woman drinks. They also have implications for program planning.

2. For instance, it is still less socially acceptable for a woman to drink heavily. Therefore, she more often remains hidden — drinking alone, frequently at home. Also, the acceptance of an alcoholic label prior to treatment can effect her self-esteem and identity to a greater extent.

3. Mood-altering drugs are more often prescribed for women — dual addiction is a greater possibility.

4. It takes fewer years of heavy drinking for a woman to develop a physical dependence on alcohol. Due to such things as size, proportion of body fat, and hormone level, the effect of alcohol on a woman's body is different than on a man's.

Listing these differences is not meant to make them seem to be insurmountable obstacles. Rather, such lists indicate that the topic is now being discussed, the possible problems examined, the solutions sought.

The AADAC counsellor in your community can help you learn more about this subject. For instance, many health care workers have found the "It's Just Your Nerves" resource kit, consisting of a flipchart, guidebook and optional 15-minute film is a useful tool in their health teaching. It provides a group with a structured way of looking at women's drug and alcohol use and abuse and of discussing problems related to prevention and treatment.

Medically Speaking

by Dr. Bob Young

They have 3,000 miles more to go, but I have no doubt that they will make it. They've got that kind of determination. Amelia (she told me I could use her real middle name) and her husband wanted nothing more than to get some exercise, especially on rainy days, when they bought their exercise bicycle several years ago.

They certainly were not interested in setting any distance record, although I detected a trace of pride in their voices when they told me of their accomplishment.

Husband and wife share the bicycle (the second one, the first wore out about four years ago), and, high in their apartment overlooking Victoria's harbour, have together pedalled 22,000 miles. "Real miles, not those silly little kilometers the runners use."

Mister is the more diligent of the two, pedalling five miles every day without fail. Mrs. admits slacking off occasionally, skipping a day now and then. Ten miles a day is 3,650 miles a year — just over six years to travel 22,000 miles. In one more year they will have cycled once around the globe.

And that's the story. Amelia, by the way, is 86, her husband slightly younger.

Exercise for seniors used to consist of "sittin' and rockin'," although in earlier times the hard work of day-to-day living kept people in shape.

Now age is no barrier. Every seniors' center provides exercise classes, and many include swimming sessions. Dancing and mobile activities such as carpet bowling complete the mix. The caloric expenditure may not equal that seen in the health clubs and aerobic classes, but it is impressive just the same.

Seniors' special needs are reflected in the type of exercise taught, and physical education instructors have developed routines that are safe yet useful. Some activities, body positions, and movements are not suitable for older people. These have been either dropped or modified to provide the benefits in other ways.

The benefit is twofold. The exercise, as Amelia and her husband have found, keeps them feeling great. At the same time the socializing, in the exercise room or swimming pool, keeps the mind alert as the body is kept trim.

Medically Speaking is published with the cooperation of this newspaper and the Alberta Medical Association.

Hay Lakes district news

by Mrs. A. Arnston

Elizabeth Schultz of West Germany was a recent visitor at the home of Erhard and Gretel Haak. Elizabeth and Gretel are sisters.

Karl and Lydia Schaffer of Kimberly, B.C. were guests at the Erhard Haak home while here to attend the Grey Cup game in Edmonton.

Emil Sollid of Edmonton called on old time friends in the Hay Lakes District on Nov. 20. Emil lived in Kelowna, B.C. for many years and in the spring of 1984 moved to Edmonton. He was born and raised in the Sulitjelma district in Hay Lakes and enjoyed visiting with his former neighbours.

The population of the Village of Hay Lakes increased by two with the birth of two baby girls. Born to Ray and Becky Vandersluis on Nov. 12 in Camrose Hospital, a daughter, Kyla Verleen, weighing 6 lbs. 15 oz.

Born to Clarence and Carol Huebner on Nov. 19 in an Edmonton hospital, a daughter Christin Page, weighing 7 lbs. [illegible]

Faye Leicht and Viva Arnston attended the Provincial Programmer's Workshop held in Edmonton at the Northwoods Inn Nov. 19-21. The workshop was sponsored by Alberta Recreation and Parks. Informative sessions on programming were given by qualified instructors.

The Children's Games afternoon held in the Rec Center on Nov. 17 proved most successful. The event was sponsored by the Hay Lakes Municipal Library.

Christmas promotion supported in Holden

by Joan Murray

Holden shoppers have until Saturday night to enter the free draws and take advantage of the many specials offered by various business establishments in the Village, this week.

The Chamber of Commerce started the annual Christmas Shopping promotion on Thursday and hope it will encourage local citizens to do their shopping at home.

The Harry Christian Memorial Award for Citizen of the Year will be presented immediately following the Holden Chamber of Commerce Christmas Banquet.

All nominations for the award have been received and are in the process of being evaluated. The deadline for nominations was Nov 15th.

Past winners of this award were Bobbi Schweitzer in 1983 and Bruce Budd in 1982

The Citizen of the Year award was started in 1981 as a memorial to Harry Christian for his active participation in the Holden Chamber of Commerce.

Tickets for the dinner and dance, scheduled for Saturday evening, can be purchased at all participating stores. There will be cocktails at 6 p.m., dinner at 7 p.m. and dancing starts at nine o'clock.

The children will be treated to cartoons and a visit from Santa, plus free candy bags, on Saturday, starting at 3 p.m. in the Beaver Regional Arts Centre

This portion of the promotion is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the Arts Society and the Elks Lodge.

Toastmasters possible to serve Tofield area

by Joan Murray

Michael Drummond has been a member of the Toastmaster's Club in Edmonton for three years. He lives in the Lindbrook area and would like to organize a club in Tofield

He has contacted the Economic Development Committee who in their turn took it to the Town of Tofield. Both bodies have indicated they are in favor of this venture.

Drummond feels that the club would be in harmony with the goals of the EDC in that it provides growth for the individual with regards to leadership and personal achievements.

Membership in Toastmasters offers a means of learning and improving one's communicative abilities within an atmosphere of fellowship and fun. It provides opportunities for personal and occupational advancement by improving one's abilities and experiences.

It is Drummond's opinion that Tofield's growth is really a result of the growth of individuals within the area and with their further personal growth, through the Toastmaster club economic growth would tend to be a result.

Drummond said that he had gained a lot of self-confidence and expertise in making presentations to both groups and individuals since he has been a member He feels that the ability to handle unexpected situations and his increased ability to run business meetings has made a profound affect not only on his career, but also his private life.

Once there is sufficient interest generated, he plans to invite some of the Toastmasters from other clubs to give a demonstration meeting in Tofield, possibly in the new year.

Those attending this meeting will be given a chance to become charter members of the new club. Ten charter members are required to form a club

Drummond said that these clubs are really catching fire all over the country and already dozens have cropped up around the City of Edmonton.

For more information, contact him at 923-3833 or 465-5864.

Bible trivia game invented by Manchur

by Joan Murray

One cold day in January, a rural couple from the Tofield area, Jerome and Sandy Manchur, decided they would invent a Bible trivia game

The result was Wordpower I, a collection of 300 cards each containing five questions and answers For three months they laboured over the Bible text, gleaning questions that each thought would be suitable for their new game.

Meanwhile, they took out a bank loan to put with some savings that would be used for printing and other expenses. Gospel Contact Press in Camrose printed up 2,500 copies of their game and of these, 1,400 have been sold since September 1st

Dennis Ebberley, a private distributor in Calgary, is currently handling sales, but recently, the Manchurs contacted some of the more prominent games companies for distribution and Waddington Games have agreed to handle their product and are in the process of setting up a marketing plan.

It is hoped that this company will have Wordpower I on the market in time for the Christmas rush.

Sandy Manchur said that the Calgary distributor has been getting repeat orders and he is optimistic about future sales

Marketing games is not their main occupation. Sandra and Jerome Manchur met in Edmonton while he was completing his Masters Degree in Agriculture. They were married in 1983 and moved to Tofield about a year ago. Their daughter Melinda was born six months ago. Sandra is a homemaker and Jerome is the District Agriculturist in the County of Beaver.

He has worked in Rigby since 1979, but took a year and a half off to complete his Master's Degree. The Manchurs now reside on a farm a few miles southwest of Tofield.

If all goes well with the sales of Wordpower I, this enterprising couple plan to come out with a new and more difficult version called Wordpower II They even have hopes of creating a children's version.

Anyone interested in getting a hold of a copy of Wordpower I can buy one at That Place in Tofield, Waterman Book Store in Camrose and Kelly's Hardware in Viking.

Food bank opens

by Joan Murray

Those in need within the County of Beaver can now derive help through the Camrose and District Food Bank which officially opened it's doors in Camrose on Saturday.

Food Bank secretary, Kay Proctor, who is also the County of Beaver representative, said that one family in this county has already been given aid in the week previous to the opening.

The Food Bank office in Camrose is open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays, but donations can be made at the Tofield Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre every morning.

At present there are no other drop-off points in the County of Beaver, but Proctor said she hopes to remedy this as soon as possible. If there is a group or business in any of the other towns or villages who would be willing to have their premises used as a donation drop-off point, call her anytime at 662-4131 or 662-3811.

Referral slips will be distributed to churches and schools this week and needy families noted on these slips will be referred to Proctor who will take the situation to the Camrose Food Bank for immediate attention.

Beaver leads Edmonton

The County of Beaver recently set the pace for educators in Edmonton.

Board of Education members in Beaver (Tofield, Ryley, Holden, Viking) recently agreed to devote a fund of some $12,000 which was available to provide enriched courses for the brighter than average children within the school system there.

Two thirds of the money will be spent on materials for enrichment, about an eighth of it to identify the students, and the balance for teacher in-service training.

About a fifth of the pupils are expected to benefit from the extra material and courses designed to challenge them so they won't just coast along and grow depressed in a system below their capabilities.

By contrast, the Edmonton public school system recently told parents, in effect, there are too many problems in trying to do something for the brighter than average. Enrichment wasn't the subject there, so much as acceleration, which means moving a student through more than one grade in a year.

The difference makes us feel that Beaver's pupils, and parents, are better served than those of Edmonton.

Teachers have no difficulty in recognizing slow learners, and accepting their special needs, but they seem curiously reluctant to accept the equally challenging problem of the gifted child, the above average student, the pupil who needs more challenge than the system provides simply to avoid boredom . . . and under-achievement.

Too rapid acceleration . . . "we don't want them ready for university at 13" . . . can indeed be a problem, but exaggerations such as this serve no purpose. Insisting that pupils remain with their own age group entirely ignores the fact that children mature at different levels, and physical maturation is not so important in their educational progress as mental maturation.

We don't believe Beaver will find twenty percent of their pupils are "gifted" . . . if one in five of them are gifted by today's curriculum, then surely it has sunk to unbelievably low levels. But we do wish them well in their effort to recognize the needs of the pupils who exceed the norm, for the future well-being of the country and for that matter the world, pretty basically, lies in the moulding of these superior young minds.

Strike vote

A spokesman in a local group a few days ago commented about a mutual friend "You have to feel sorry for him . . . his group hasn't had a wage increase this year." And it brought the comment from another in the same group "Why feel sorry for him? At least he's still working full-time. What about so-and-so . . . he had to take a CUT of ten percent in his pay. And let's not forget poor ol' 'what's his name' . . . he got cut a hundred percent! They'd both think they were lucky if they could just get what they used to get, without any increase."

The conversation comes to mind as teachers in the Battle River region prepare to take a strike vote in their negotiations. Not long ago it came out that advisers at the central level suggested to teachers that for once they would be wise to listen to the arguments of poverty that might come from schoolboards, that these indeed represented the true picture of many of the ratepayers.

But secure in the knowledge there hasn't been such a situation for more than thirty years, it seems the run of the mill teachers chose to ignore the advice from one of their professionals. Now they can't understand why bargaining is so hard.

We all know someone in our community who figured he (or she) was lucky to hold a job if they only lost ten percent. We all know someone who faced the hundred percent chop. We all know farmers whose expenses have soared more than their incomes. And we know farmers, too, whose incomes have been chopped as a result of government action. Or inaction.

It really seems strange indeed that someone should suggest pity for someone who hasn't had a pay increase this year. Or that a strike vote would seem logical when incomes, when jobs, when profits, when sales are so precarious.

Christmas Reminders

We have Christmas reminders throughout the year.

July — the first hint is entitled "Christmas in July" on the cover of a woman's magazine. Who are they kidding? There is a heatwave outdoors.

August — I disown my sister for saying, "I have all my Christmas shopping done." Of all the nerve! Just when I'm trying to decide what my son deserves for his birthday. Then, following that birthday my son is disowned for saying, "For Christmas I want . . ."

September — arrival of Sears Wish Book. It's still green outside so we shelve it until the first snowfall. Then, living inside a Hallmark card, I am prompted to search for the cards I packed away last year. And the newspapers alert me to the fact that there's only 125 days till Christmas. Postal deadlines? Don't be silly; there's oodles of time!

October — Hallowe'en stuff is out on the store shelves and we have another holiday turkey to cook. Thanks to the magazine racks filled with enticing Christmas recipes, crafts and decorating ideas, our holiday plans seem plain, ordinary and unimaginative, our tree ornaments old and worn. Is it too late to start a tradition? My kids make up their Christmas lists. My own list is a problem because I have everything I need and don't need anything I want.

October 25 — a friend says Christmas is two months away. Lots of time yet.

October 26 — "Two months? That's only eight weeks! That's only 48 shopping days!"

November — the Hallowe'en displays are replaced by Christmas wrappings, cards and gift ideas. Where did I put those darn cards? That's what I get for putting them in a safe place.

Santa starts making personal appearances in shopping malls. Maybe he can suggest something for Grandpa! I intend to start shopping but one week I have money in my pocket and the gift list is at home; the next week I have the list but no money.

December — the Big Day closes in, faster and faster. I move slower and slower . . .

I love Christmas. I even love all the reminders, although they never make a bit of difference. I never shop early, seldom have my parcels mailed on time and it is unlikely that I'll find those missing cards until December 26. I go through the same thing every year. It wouldn't be Christmas if I didn't.

Planning for farmers

Farm Corporations

This is the seventh article in a series on planning for farmers. Many farmers have incorporated their farming interests, or if they have not incorporated, they wish to know the criteria for determining whether they should incorporate their operations. This article discusses the farm corporation — its composition, the qualifications it must meet, and the advantages and disadvantages of incorporating. In addition, the concept of a buy-sell agreement among the corporation's shareholders is discussed.

A corporation is a fictitious or artificial entity which exists separate from its shareholders or members. Its assets are its own assets and do not belong to its shareholders. Its liabilities are its own. The shareholders have an interest in the company, determined by the number of shares they hold.

A farmer who decides to incorporate may do so by rolling his farm assets, tax deferred into a company. The company will continue to maintain its farm corporation status as long as it uses substantially all of its assets in a farming business in which the transferor, his spouse or child is actively engaged.

Prior to incorporating, the advantages and disadvantages should be considered. A corporation provides the following advantages:

The best known feature of a corporation is the limited liability which the shareholders enjoy. The shareholders' personal assets and liabilities are separate and distinct from those of the company. Creditors will only have access to the assets of the company, as long as the shareholder has not signed any personal guarantees.

The corporation is a useful tool in obtaining income tax savings through income splitting. Salaries may be paid to husband, wife and the children who are employed by the company. (You should note that a farmer operating as a sole proprietor may also employ his spouse and children.) The shares of the corporation may be owned by husband, wife and children. Thus, the growth of the company would be split among the family members. Any dividends paid by the company would also be split among the individuals who own the shares.

— A significant advantage of a corporation is the opportunity to defer the payment of tax. Where the individual's personal rates are higher than the corporate rate, an immediate tax savings can be obtained through the use of a corporation. If the distribution of profits can be deferred, the individual has effectively deferred the payment of tax and had the use of the tax saving during the accumulation period.

— The death or withdrawal of a shareholder does not dissolve the company.

— A corporation can establish certain employee benefit plans such as pension plans and group life insurance, dental or health insurance plans.

The establishment of a corporation may present the following disadvantages:

Corporations are costly to set up. As well, annual filing of tax returns for both the individual shareholders and the company are required.

An individual may deduct up to $2,000 of capital losses from other income if the capital losses exceed the capital gains in the year. A corporation does not have this opportunity.

Any assets which are transferred to a corporation will be "locked in" and will be subject to taxation if the assets are removed from the company.

A corporation is unable to use the five year block average system.

Any transfer of livestock to the corporation will be treated as a sale and the proceeds may have to be included in personal income for tax purposes in the year of transfer.

Once a farm corporation has been established, it may be necessary to set up a buy-sell agreement among the shareholders. A buy-sell agreement provides for the transfer of shares upon the death of a shareholder. The agreement would require the surviving shareholders to purchase the deceased's shares in the company, at death. Life insurance should be maintained on each shareholder's life to provide the funds to implement the agreement.

This type of agreement would not be required where a parent intends to transfer his shares in the farm corporation, tax deferred, to a child. However, it would be useful if brothers and/or sisters are the shareholders of the company, or if two or more non-related individuals own the shares.

It is apparent that farm corporations are complex organizations. Many points must be considered prior to incorporating the farming operations. Once the farm operations have been incorporated, it may be practical to establish a buy-sell agreement among the shareholders. Adequate insurance coverage should be maintained on each shareholder to provide the cash to implement the agreement upon a death. Before making any decision, the advantages and disadvantages of incorporation should be thoroughly discussed with your professional advisors.

SCIENTISTS INJECT GENES INTO PLANT CELLS

Agriculture Canada scientists are leading the way in what could become a major plant breeding revolution. They have begun injecting trait-carrying genes into individual plant cells.

Only a handful of laboratories around the world are exploring this new technology, called micro-injection. The federal department's Ottawa Research Station is one of these.

The long-term aim of the research is to inject genes carrying specific desired traits, such as rapid growth, higher yields or disease-resistance, into commercial crops. The result will be superior varieties for Canadian farmers.

NETWORKING BY EGGS

An egg circle? You may well ask. For more than a decade, USC supported women's co-operatives in Lesotho have taken over the egg production, and are marketing them through a network of depots across the country. As the prices are lowered, there is less dependency on imports from South Africa. This year the USC will provide funds to build Lesotho's 14th egg depot at Mokhotlong. USC Canada, 56 Sparks Street, Ottawa, K1P 5B1.

Reach For The Top team is practicing

by Joan Murray

Four students from Tofield School will appear on CBC's Reach For The Top program.

The date is not yet known, but the team's coach, Willard Bandola, said it should be sometime in January of 1985.

This is the fourth time Tofield School will be on the program. Bandola said the students are already practicing, but team members will not be chosen until shortly before the show is scheduled for taping.

Last year, Tofield competed against Sexsmith High and beat them 415 to 145 before being eliminated by Edmonton's Austin O'Brien High.

Kindergarteners learn about pizza

by Joan Murray

On Wednesday morning last week, rural students in Dawn Twerdoff's kindergarten class walked from the C.W. Sears School downtown to the Casa D'oro Restaurant on a field trip.

On Thursday, Marilyn Eisenbraun's class went.

Casa D'oro proprietors, Marie and John Riemer, led each class on a tour of the kitchen and explained how pizza is made. Later, the children put the necessary ingredients on several pizzas which were later consumed and washed down with soda pop.

The teachers were assisted by several helping mothers who volunteered their services in keeping the little ones as orderly as could be expected under the circumstances.

Round Hill

by Joanne Banack

The Round Hill Recreation Association met on Nov. 27 at the home of Tom and Joanne Banack with seven members present.

Discussion focused on the priority employment program. Several applications for the skating and curling rink caretaker positions have been received. The positions will be filled as soon as final approval of the program is granted.

Dave Stritchuk reported that the curling rink will open its new season in the very near future.

A motion was passed to reimburse those people who have hauled water to the skating rink. After a brief discussion on some bills, the meeting was adjourned.

A turkey bingo, sponsored by the Round Hill Elks, was held at the Community Hall on Nov. 30. The event was a huge success with over 200 people attending.

The Round Hill Senior Men's Hockey team was defeated by the Camrose Goodtimers on Nov. 28 in Camrose.

Agricultural Services

Doug Johnson
Manager, Holden

Two heads are better than one

Farming can be a demanding business—for both you and your lender. As lenders, we don't pretend to have all the answers. But we do have a wide range of specialized farm banking services that are second to none. When it comes to providing knowledgeable farm lending assistance as part of the package, we think that our Branch Manager and Area Agrologist are a hard combination to beat.

Together, they can offer you the benefits of a strong background in farm credit analysis and help design a loan package that's right for your operation. And, if they need to draw upon other members of the Royal Bank team to help meet your special needs—they'll do that as well!

If you think that we can be of assistance in arranging your farm finance and general banking needs, drop by and see us. And if two heads are truly better than one, let's see what we can do together as a team. After all, that's part of our responsible banking approach!

Heating and Ventilation

I had planned this reminder to confined livestock producers to come out with winter approaching. As if I need to remind anyone winter is already here. Winter is the season during which the performance of livestock buildings becomes critical. Since this performance is closely related to the effectiveness of environmental control systems, preparing these systems for cold weather operation is essential.

The heart of most environmental control systems, and the only component of some systems, is ventilation. All livestock buildings require natural or powered ventilation to control relative humidity, air quality and temperature. During cold weather, the heat lost through ventilation can be considerable, although efficient operation of the system can minimize this loss. The mechanical components of the ventilation system should be cleaned and adjusted at regular intervals, but this maintenance is particularly important when winter is approaching. At the low winter ventilation rates, dust on fan motors, blades and louvers can reduce the output and efficiency greatly. Air inlets and duct systems must be set for the low air flows required during the winter. Proper distribution of the fresh air is usually more important than the volume of air introduced when the temperature of the air is -30°C. The ventilation system must provide uniform distribution of the air without creating draughts at animal level.

When supplemental heating systems are used, the equipment should be tested and serviced during the fall. There is no reason for waiting until the middle of the cold snap to discover the furnace doesn't work. Heating systems should act in conjunction with ventilation systems, rather than competing against them.

When we refer to environmental control systems, the key word is control. Too many producers install good heating and ventilation equipment, but neglect the control of this equipment. Both manual and automatic controls require careful attention and periodic adjustment. Thermostats and other sensors are particularly sensitive to dust, moisture and air currents in the barn so proper placement and maintenance are important.

The ability to create a good environment in a livestock building is the principal justification for the substantial investment in these facilities. Taking time to ensure that the ventilation and heating systems are operating properly is one way to guarantee a return on this investment.

Curling 'spiel set

. . . with new ideas

by Joan Stanley

"So you think you're tough," is a challenge issued by the Tofield Curling Club to all curlers that wish to take part in a new concept in curling at the Tofield rink on December 15th and 16th.

This event involves a one on one competition with a few variations in the usual curling rules. There will only be two contrants per sheet.

Scoring will remain the same as in a regular curling game. Six rocks are to be thrown for each end and games will be four ends long. Sweeping is not allowed nor will there be anyone holding a broom.

One on-ice official will dispose of dead rocks and assure each end. Scores should take about 30 minutes to play. The prize money will be $2,000 in total with the first prize being $1,000.

A qualified draw from local draw will be used with four curlers from A event and four from B event will qualify curlers for the play-offs on Dec. 16th.

Sixty-four entrants are expected to compete in the Tough 'Spiel and there are already 30 names accepted. More entries will be accepted until the middle of next week.

Entrants are accepted on a first come first serve basis, but there will be a waiting list kept.

This kind of event has not been held in many other locations before Curling Club past president, Murray Lindsay, had seen one at the Granite Curling Club in Edmonton and brought the idea to Tofield. So far entries have been received from curlers in Northern Saskatchewan, Southern Alberta and various areas throughout the County of Beaver.

Volunteers are still needed in order to make this a successful fund-raising event for the Tofield Curling Club. All volunteers, prospective competitors and other interested parties are asked to call 662-3987 or 662-3665.

Just For Fun

by Joan Stanley

"Count your Bites and Lose Weight!" I read somewhere. It must have been graffiti because when I tried it, my results were disastrous. Do you realize that twelve stalks of asparagus only makes up 25 calories. That comes to 1 calorie per bite, even if you hate the various little devils. Comparing this to an overweight person's delight pennant, I found that one measly nut is 12.5 calories. Do you know how many nuts you can cram into your mouth and still call it just a mouthful? At least ten and even twenty if you happen to have an exceptionally large mouth or imagination, is the answer I came up with. That works out to at least 125 calories per bite.

If you limit yourself to 300 bites per day this is how everything works out. Eating only asparagus, the most calories you could consume would be 150 calories. But for the shunned goober lovers it works out to 125 times 300 bites and the total calories per day is 37,500.

I have been writing this little mathematical conclusion for those of you who continue to think that calories don't count and for those of us who would like to believe, and hope and pray every day, that they don't. Unfortunately for us, all of us that I have mentioned, I have living proof pounding away at those typewriter keys, plus a library of every diet and various keep slim books ever published. Not to mention the paraphernalia I have collected in my basement over the last ten years. that is supposed to have miraculous qualities that will either twist, rub, steam, shimmy or cycle off that extra twenty pounds of pluperpects. I cannot bring myself to say that three letter word.

I have come to the conclusion, after many tidbits of advise from my five foot six inch hundred and twenty five pound friends (?), that I am destined by fate to live out my life in pursuit of the state of the art slim. Their advise has always been on how I look slim. Hah! That's easy for them to say, they were there that way. I have forgotten how first I want people to [illegible] But then I start [illegible] pressed that [illegible] my sanity first.

Lakeshore-McKenzie news items

by Ellen Estes

This reporter wishes The Mercury Staff, editor, all reporters and readers a Merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year. This comes a little early as I will be away from Dec. 16th until February.

Edna and Arnold and son Wayne Jones of Lakeshore-McKenzie District motored to Rosthern, Sask., to attend the funeral of Edna's nephew, Dennis Lehman, son of Edna's sister, on Nov. 27th. Arnold and Wayne returned on Nov. 21st. Edna remained in Southern visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary Wilkie and other family members. She returned home on Nov. 27th.

Recent visitors at the home of Ethel and Verlyn Moss were their friends, Allison Gee and her girlfriend, both of whom are on a world youth agriculture exchange from Australia and New Zealand, working near Paynton, Sask. On this visit, they were entertained on a motor tour to Edmonton to Jasper, Banff, Calgary, Lake Louise and other places of interest, then back to Saskatchewan before going home to Australia and New Zealand. Ethel and Verlyn had visited at Allison's aunts home when they visited Australia and New Zealand on a farm tour a year ago. Allison and her friend had visited at the Moss home twice before earlier in the summer while touring in Alberta and Alaska.

Bonnie and Thomas Lavoie returned recently from a holiday visit to Japan.

Visitors at the home of Ellen Eaton during November were her son Walter and Evelyn Eaton of Seba Beach; her niece Grace and Floyd Hubbard of Lavoy; her granddaughter Mary Eaton and her friend of Edmonton; her cousin Clarence Phillips of Edmonton; friends Kay and Walter Norton of Ryley; and later Mary Eaton came. Also local callers Ellen's son Leroy and Shirley Eaton, their son Ron Eaton, Mrs. Ethel Moss, George and Ida Niemeris, Mary Tiedemann, Mavis Jacobsen, Helen Tiedemann; and friends from Ryley, Holden and Minitik. Sorry if I missed other callers or visitors.

The Lakeshore McKenzie UCW are holding their December meeting with their usual exchange of gifts during the second week in December.

Mrs. Mae Ferguson motored to Edmonton on Nov 3 taking with her daughter Loretta Weir and her mother Mrs. Roberts; where they were guests at the home of Mrs. Robert's grandson, Brent and B ars Bailey also there were Brent's parents, Marguerite and Don Bailey and his brother, Brian and Debbie Bailey, all of Edmonton, also his aunt Phyllis and Don Fitzpatrick, their son Tammy and Tammy and son, also their daughter Joan and Ken Horn and two sons, all of Calgary. Brent and Barb entertained at a birthday dinner in honor of his grandmother, Mrs. Roberts, 98th birthday with most of her family present. Mrs. Roberts lives in the Tofield Senior Citizen's Lodge.

Mrs. Mae Ferguson and daughter Loretta Weir visited Mae's other daughter, Mrs. Doris Brown on Thursday of last week.

Recent visitors at Mae's were her son Nelson and Reni Ferguson and children of Sherwood Park also her granddaughter Wanda Weir and her friend Michelle Erickson of Edmonton. Wanda is working in the office of the Department of Highways.

Anyone wishing to have news published during my absence, phone The Mercury office in Tofield, or better still, take over as news reporter from now on.

Andrea Lukawecki, daughter of Mr and Mrs Albin Lukawecki of Holden was presented with the first Bev Miller Memorial Scholarship. She also received an honours plaque academic pin and a plaque for achievement in chemistry. Making the presentation was Ralph Gorrie Superintendent of Schools for the County of Minburn at an awards night in Vegreville Composite High School

Bazaar held

Due to a generous public and a cooperative membership, the Ryley Sunshine Club experienced a very successful bazaar, bake sale and tea, held in the Senior Citizens Centre.

Trudy Wismes drew the winning tickets for the club and Mrs. Edna Gjerde of Camrose won the hand-made quilt, Grandma's Flower Garden.

Because of the response to the raffle, it was decided to give a second prize which was won by Melissa Pattison of Edmonton.

On Nov. 28, Mrs. Gail Jennings and assistant of Alberta Conservation and Energy, held a workshop in the Centre.

Numerous inexpensive ways of reducing energy costs were explained and illustrated on the overhead projector as the various articles were examined by the group of fifty who attended.

Seniors will be attending the Rebekah Lodge Christmas supper today (Wednesday) and on Dec 19, will be holding a Christmas party in the Centre.

On Dec 12, Ryley grade ones, under the direction of Mrs. Liz Peterson will be favoring the senior citizens with Christmas carols in the centre.

Auxiliary meets

by Jean Murray

At a meeting of the Tofield Hospital Auxiliary recently, it was decided not to canvass for the New Year's baby hamper

They will still sponsor the project, but will ask all businesses and individuals who wish to donate money or gift certificates to call Tannis Shaw-Badry at 662-3994 before Dec. 15th.

There are only 26 days left until the new year and this hamper will be presented to the parents of the first baby born in the Tofield Hospital in 1985

In other business it was reported that magazines with large print will soon be available to the patients.

Jane Good and Dorothy Roth attended the week-long Alberta Hospital Auxiliaries Association convention last week.

Discover the many ways the Heritage Fund is working for us

96% of the Albertans who took part in a recent survey want the Heritage Fund to continue. But a significant number (60%) want to know more about this unique fund and how it works for us all.

Albertans want answers to questions like How does the Heritage Fund help diversify our economy? How does it help create job opportunities? What is it doing for our children Our health and recreation?

Other questions are about the funding sources of our Heritage Fund Alberta has never had a retail gasoline tax so where does the money for the Heritage Fund come from? And how is it used?

Mrs Olive Augustine, 83, passed away in Edmonton Nov 18 after a lingering illness When almost four years of age she came with her family from England and arrived in Calgary in 1905 After her marriage they lived north of Holden and later in Edmonton She leaves to mourn her loss one daughter Lorraine Borwick and one son Donald Augustine, six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Funeral services were Nov. 22 in Edmonton, Howard and McBride in charge of arrangements She was predeceased by her husband Sigurd Augustine and an infant daughter, Dorothy

About 50 competitors took part in Ryly Curling Club's turkey shoot last week. Kathleen Hovland and Bill Shyba won two turkeys each. Others from here winning were Jim and Vincent Charpentier, Fred Benard and Jim Lien.

Monday eve callers at Joe Chrystian's were the Joe Knudson's.

Mrs. Rick Shopka, Beaumont was a visitor Thursday at the Tom Bruce's.

Five rinks from Skudesness were floor curling at the Senior Citizen's Complex Monday at Camrose and got third. Tuesday they were there discing and they got second.

Ten ladies were present Nov 22 at the L.C.W. at Skudesness basement when Delores Bruce conducted the Bible study. Meditations read by Valerie Forre Helen Vassberg and Valerie Forre are now on visitation. Janitors for December are the Bob Beatties.

During the past year our L.C.W had served at nine Church functions and three funerals. Edna Aker, Card secretary, had mailed out 77 cards, sympathy cards—23, birthday—33, and babycards—two.

Thank you cards read from Clara Forre, Mabel Mondahl, Clayton and Brenda Mellsen of Pakistan and Don and Dianne Olson. The Canadian Lutheran Ladies Cook Books had just arrived and are for sale, see Marlene Seney. Cash donations given to Hastings Lake Bible Camp, Bethany Children's Home, Gwynne, Cheer Fund, Centra Cam and Etheopia Food Bank.

New hoop loop opens

A new high school basketball league will commence operations this week

The Battle River Basketball League will operate with two divisions with teams from this area going in a division that consists of schools in Daysland, Hughenden, Ryley, Sedgewick, Tofield, Viking and Wainwright.

Entered in the other division are Caroline, David Thompson, Delburne, Pigeon Lake, Rimbey, River Glen and Sylvan Lake.

The regular schedule will open tomorrow (Wednesday) evening when Daysland travels up to Viking and a Friday match-up will see Tofield at home to Sedgewick.

The top four teams in each division will gain the right to a zone championship tournament at the end of the regular season.

The new league was organized to encompass the new boundaries which were established in the area of high school sports throughout the entire province

Daysland and Pigeon Lake were members of the old Hiway 13 High School Basketball League.

A third member of that league, New Norway, has decided to play exhibition and tournament ball only this coming winter and will not be joining any league.

Miss Andrea Lukawiecki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albin Lukawiecki of Holden, was the recipient of several awards at the annual Awards' Night at Vegreville Composite High School, held recently. Ralph Gorrie, Superintendent of Schools, County of Minburn, presented Andrea with the Bev Miller Memorial Scholarship which is valued at $400. This award is presented annually to a female student with a high academic standing enrolled in the Faculty of Science in any university in Canada. Andrea was the first student to receive this award. She also received an honors' plaque, an academic pin in addition to a plaque for the highest mark in Chemistry 30, being 97 percent. She is the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lukawiecki to attend university. While at school in Holden, all the girls were active with the Guide and Brownie organization.

Mrs. Frances Hanson who had been a patient for several days in Viking Hospital, has been transferred to the Viking Extendicare Nursing Home.

Mrs. Mary Chomic has been a patient in Viking Hospital for over the past couple of weeks. Her daughter and husband and family, Helen and Allan Warwa, were visiting with her Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Jessie Chwihula is a patient in Viking Hospital. Mrs. Ethel Brekstad drove her there Saturday. Ethel also called on her aunt, Mrs. Frances Hanson in the nursing home.

Holden and District Home and School Association will be holding a general meeting on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Holden School Library. There will be a film show on bus safety. Guest speaker, John MacGregor, bus superintendent, will be present to answer any questions.

COUNTY OF BEAVER No. 9

PUBLIC NOTICE

(School Act, Sections 107 and 111)

By-Law No. 576 Dated: November 22, 1984

ATTENTION ELECTORS OF THE COUNTY OF BEAVER NO. 9

The Council of the County of Beaver No. 9 intends to construct the following at the Town of Tofield, in the Province of Alberta

1. The concrete block with brick facing construction of a Home Economics and Industrial Arts Room for Junior and Senior High School at Tofield School in the Town of Tofield, a capacity of 48.
2. The renovation of the administration area at Tofield School, in the Town of Tofield, no capacity.
3. Furniture and Equipment estimated at One Hundred and Ten Thousand ($110,000.00) Dollars.
4. Clerk of the Works fees estimated at Twenty Thousand ($20,000.00) Dollars.
5. Architect's fees estimated at Fifty Thousand ($50,000.00) Dollars.

Total Estimated Cost of Project	$900,000.00
Less: General Revenue Funds	$290,000.00
Net Amount of Borrowing:	$610,000.00

In order to carry out this project, the Council of the County of Beaver No. 9 intends to apply to the Local Authorities Board for authorization to borrow an estimated amount of six hundred ten thousand ($610,000.00) dollars.

The Council of the County of Beaver No. 9 will have to repay the borrowed amount by debenture repayable in twenty five (25) consecutive annual instalments with interest at the rate as determined from time to time by Alberta Municipal Financing Corporation (currently fourteen (14%) percent per annum).

The Council of the County of Beaver No. 9 anticipates that six hundred ten thousand ($610,000.00) dollars of the estimated borrowed amount of six hundred ten thousand ($610,000.00) dollars will be recoverable from the School Foundation Program Fund, leaving the Council of the County of Beaver No. 9 responsible for approximately zero ($0.00) dollars.

Excluding Building Quality Restoration Program projects, the actual division of costs between the School Foundation Program Fund and the Council of the County of Beaver No. 9 will be determined within 3 years from the time the Minister approves the tender or other scheme of construction.

If you do not agree that the Council of the County of Beaver No. 9 should borrow this amount, you may petition for a vote in accordance with the provision of the School Act.

The petition must be signed by at least:

(a) 2% of the electors in a district or division having 10,000 electors or more, or

(b) 5% of the electors in a district or division having less than 10,000 but 5,000 electors or more, or

(c) 10% of the electors in a district or division having less than 5,000 electors but 500 electors or more, or

(d) 15% of the electors in a district or division having less than 500 electors, and be received by the Council of the County of Beaver within 15 days of the last publication of this public notice of the proposed debenture borrowing. The last publication date will be December 5, 1984.

Special Touches

The best part of Christmas is preparing for the event! It doesn't have to be expensive, hectic or artificial as many critics would have us believe. You don't have to be a superwoman either. Planning is the key to a happy holiday. A good plan will help you be selective about what you can and can't do.

The simplest idea will add that extra-special touch that will always be remembered. With a plan and a little ingenuity, you can save time and energy, and have a good time! Here's a few ideas that may help you develop your plan.

Christmas Spending

Open a special Christmas bank account and set aside the amount that you can reasonably afford to spend on gifts and entertaining. A limited bank account is the first step to encouraging some careful planning.

Entertaining a Crowd

A buffet is great for a large group; but don't serve foods that will require knives for cutting. There is nothing more annoying than the balancing act. Bite-size pieces of meat or fork-tender foods are easiest to handle. Casseroles are a delight for a busy hostess. They can be simple or elegant, are usually quick to prepare and most can be frozen, ready and waiting for the holiday season. Use your good old reliable recipes. Cooking for a crowd is no time to experiment.

For a quick, but effective centerpiece, spray-paint a brick silver or gold, place candles in holes or brick (you may need some putty), and arrange evergreens around the brick. For a more dramatic effect put a mirror under the centerpiece.

For Two

Many families cannot get together every year. A Christmas for two can be very special. Instead of trying to duplicate what you're missing, start your own traditions. A fondue by the Christmas tree, a wiener roast under the stars . . . live it up!

Just You and the Kids

Young children love appetizers — better known in six-year old jargon as finger foods. Raw vegetables with a special dip, sausage rolls, fancy crackers topped with nibblers like cheese, pickles and sardines. If you dare, make your own version of "Chicken McNuggets"! Christmas is a special time for children so plan your meal especially for the little ones. Popcorn balls dotted with red gumdrops will top off the meal. A celebration that the children in your life will always remember! I even knew a few adults that would enjoy this idea!

Gifts

In some families a $5 limit per gift works well. The gifts have to be creative because there isn't much you can buy for $5 these days. Shopping takes more time and some of the gifts are homemade, but at least all the bills are paid before the end of the year.

If shopping depresses you, choose a theme for your gifts each year — it will limit the number of places you have to go. Some themes are suitable for any age. For example, bedtime — a nightgown for mom, a good book for dad, PJ's for Junior, and slippers for grandparents. Theater and sports is another good theme. Purchase tickets to the event that will suit the person. Games, magazine subscriptions, incredible edibles, are all themes that may give your planning and shopping more direction.

Never underestimate the value of the gift of time. I.O.U. one day off. I.O.U. 15 hours of babysitting. I.O.U. a chauffer for the day. Nothing could be more meaningful to a busy homemaker.

A New Twist For Gifts

For giant gifts too big to put under the tree, tie a ribbon that leads from the tree to the gift.

For extra fun, leave treasure hunt clues that lead to the sought-after gift.

Creative wrappings can add a special touch. A snowman of cotton batting or a tree cut of felt with sequins for lights — even a candy cane is more interesting than a bow. Blow up a small balloon and draw a smiling face or write greetings on it. Write the reciever's name in ribbon, shiny card or glitter.

And Finally . . .

Stop in the middle of the hustle and bustle and think about the scene you are creating. Is it what you want?

Have a happy holiday!

Thanks to Lynn Stegman, D.H.E. at Red Deer, for the above ideas.

Hockey race tightens

The race in the Beaverhill Hockey League tightened up during the past week as Mundare moved into a tie with Redwater for the lead.

Lamont and Tofield are now tied for third place while Vegreville dropped to fifth spot and Holden is still seeking to record its first victory of the season.

Satellites hosted Vegreville last night (Tuesday) while Mundare was in Holden with results to be reported next week. A game in Lamont was postponed.

Tofield will be hosting Lamont on Friday night in the Satellites' only game of the coming week.

Holden Beavers play in Redwater on Friday and will be at home to Vegreville on Tuesday night.

According to an unofficial source, a number of games scheduled between now and Christmas will be postponed, but detailed information in this regard had not been received at presstime.

Redwater kept a share of first place with an 8-6 triumph over Vegreville but then dropped an 8-6 decision over Mundare who also stopped Tofield 7-2 to move up in the standings.

Tofield rebounded to post a 5-2 decision over Holden who had earlier been trimmed 14-6 by Lamont.

Canola debated

On Nov. 27, twenty-six people gathered in the Tofield Drop-In Centre to spend a few hours discussing one of the area's major crops – canola.

Jerome Manchur, D.A. from Ryley, opened the course with a slide presentation on canola diseases.

Jim Jones, with Alberta Agriculture in Edmonton, followed with a slide presentation on some of the commonest insects. Special interest was given to the bertha armyworm.

Throughout the meeting, Jerome Manchur talked of production tips as tools to increase [illegible] yields. Cross-seeding was emphasized, as placing seed at three inches has resulted in yield increase of 27-80 percent (Beaverlodge data).

Many more concepts and ideas were discussed. More information on this course can be obtained by phoning Manchur at 663-3555.

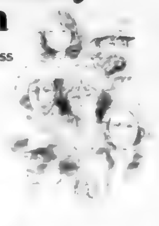
The Alberta Wage Subsidy Program

Helping Alberta business and farm employers provide job opportunities for Albertans now.



If you are an employer who has more work than you can handle right now, the Alberta Wage Subsidy Program can help you pay the wages of the extra people you need!

Or the program may be able [illegible]

Hire that new employee you need now and receive reimbursement of up to $2.50 per hour.

[illegible] subsidized jobs must [illegible] employment of [illegible] per week. The [illegible] must be continuous for at [illegible] three months, so seasonal [illegible] certainly qualifies. An employer may be subsidized [illegible] positions and fund[illegible] position or employee is [illegible] up to a maximum of [illegible] months.

New employees must have lived in Alberta for the past three years and cannot be members of the employer's immediate family.

Applications for maintaining existing employees will be considered on a case by case basis. The same subsidy will apply.

Funding is available now so contact Alberta Manpower today.

Applications are now being accepted.

I Remember When . . .

by Ella [illegible]

Our rambling farm house bulged at the seams. It housed my parents, four boys, two girls and occasionally a few relatives, a dog, a few cats and a rabbit.

The house had been built and occupied by two families. Beneath one half was a good cellar and under the other was just a hole in the ground. We kids referred to the latter as "Haywood's cellar". We had no idea who Haywood was, nor of his partner. Dad bought the house from them in 1890.

We had a farm. It had rich red fertile soil, but Dad, although a hard worker, had not a very keen business sense. I well remember the time he backed a note for one of his cronies and the aftermath of that mistake. The cronie defected so Dad had to come through with the cash. In order to do so, he had to sell Joe, a big beautiful Percheron. We wept when Joe was led away, but he came back. I can see him yet, standing by the closed gate, looking wistfully into the yard. We were heart broken but we could not take him in.

A steep cliff alone prevented the [illegible] and frequently turbulent waters of the Straits from invading our "lower field". Out in the Straits and in [illegible] with our house a buoy bobbed, whistling it's warning of dangerous reefs to sailors. Inland that whistle sounded more like the bellow of a bull.

Our house was a huge affair. Five bedrooms upstairs and room for two or three more in the attic. The large upper hall was bisected by a staircase fitted with a railing on each side. The hall was cold and draughty so a heater had been installed to the right of the stair, it's pipes extending over the stairs and disappearing into the chimney.

One night Lena, Leigh, David and I, lingered in the hall absorbing the heater's welcome warmth. David balancing himself on the newel posts, said, "I bet I can kick those pipes."

He could and did, and the hot pipes tumbled down the stair, spewing soot. Lena propped up the remaining pipe and sent me for Dad. He thundered up the stairs in his stocking feet. Well, we finally got the mess cleaned up. Then Dad looked around him and demanded "Now where is that young limb of Satan?"

Satan's Lamb was not with us, but we found him, in bed, sleeping blissfully under a welter of quilts. By morning, Dad's anger had cooled off.

We had plenty of space on our main floor too. There was a hall, a dining room, a parlor, three porches and a veranda. The kitchen and pantry were huge. Wooden floors throughout. Cleaned weekly with pails of soapy hot water and a scrub brush. Those were the good old days. There is little similarity between the living conditions of those days and those of the present time. Compare the lighting systems. Coal oil lamps vs electricity. Filling lamps and the lantern with kerosene and polishing their flues was a daily chore. So were the carrying of wood and water and carrying out of ashes. I never saw a loaf of home-made bread nor a dish of ice cream in our house, but we survived. We were tough.

I was about 7 or 8 when some relatives gave us a pair of tame, black rabbits. Clever, our family cat, quickly disposed of the smaller one, the female. The male survived and flourished. We called him Rape - Just why I don't know. He developed into a big, lazy, useless lout, but we loved him.

His chosen resting place [illegible] at full length he would measure over a yard. He had long hind legs and could, if necessary, run like a deer. But having no tail he could not turn a corner. He would fall flat.

Rape wandered fearlessly and afar. If he did not turn up by dark we would go looking for him. But we did not always find him. Later on, some funny looking kittens began to appear in our neighbourhood. They had long hind legs and had no tails. Rape got the credit, or blame. He lived a good long life. His wiskers gradually whitening over the [illegible].

Our family was rather cliquey. The three older ones hung together and David and I were inseparable. Leigh was [illegible] vehemently declaring that he was not going to be the dog of the family all his life. He was Dad's favorite. Dade like to [illegible] with a howling infant until midnight. When the clock struck 12, Leigh shut up.

I remember that old clock well. I liked to hear it striking at night. Gave one a feeling of security. Some of our neighbors had weighted clocks. On winding the weights crept up, looking like dangling rats. Another friend had a clock with wooden works. It was very old but kept good time. Winding our clock was Dad's last chore of the day.

The older members of the family practically brought us younger ones up. They fed us a lot of fairy tales. The one about the Devil's Darning Needle was the most disturbing. This was an insect in retrospect, about three inches long. We were told that if this thing heard us swear, it would sew up our mouths. One day David and I were in the kitchen alone when one of these creatures buzzed in the open window. David squared his shoulders, grabbed the broom and advanced on the enemy. "Come on, damn you!" he challenged. Literally and figuratively speaking, another myth went out the window.

New clinic opens

by Joan Murray

The Tofield Denture Clinic, located in the old Co-op Building on Main Street, had a good turnout at a grand opening on Saturday.

In addition to the many individuals attending this event, there was a group from the Tofield Lodge who toured the premises.

The two denturists, Wilf Wittmeier and Rick Dudzik, explained the various aspects involved with repair, relining and replacement of dentures.

Wittmeier said that dentures are fabricated on the premises and repairs generally take about an hour while relines take about one day. Impressions for new sets can be taken at any time, but are usually done by appointment.

[illegible] a new set of dentures every five years and relines every two years at no charge to [illegible].

Wilf Wittmeier lives just [illegible] his wife, Barb and their two daughters. Wittmeier worked in Camrose as a denturist for two years before opening a clinic in Edmonton in 1978.

Rick Dudzik and his wife Janice live in Gibbons.

The Tofield Clinic has originated out of the Wittmeier Clinic Ltd. in Edmonton and Fort McMurray. It will initially be open every Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., but when things get busier, the days worked should increase.

Advisory committee formed

As of Nov 29, Tofield School has its own Principal's Advisory Committee (PAC).

Members are Gail Jordan, Lynn Tiedemann, Joan Smith, Mrs Erwin Wiens, Elaine Pariaky, Lynn Gains, Gail Capogreco, Anna Connolly, Jennifer Fournel and Yvonne Brown.

The idea for such a committee was first proposed to parents at the school's Let's Get Acquainted evening on Oct. 3. Since then parents have been encouraged to serve on a committee which would advise through its principal, Mr. Pollock, on school matters.

At its organizational meeting, which saw Elaine Pariaky elected as chairman and Gail Jordan as recording secretary, the committee decided to adopt as its purpose: "the promotion of positive school-community relationship by receiving and giving information to parents, advising the principal of concerns and, in general, supporting the school, its students, teachers, administrators and support staff."

Mrs Pariaky stressed the advisory nature of the committee's powers. Committee members agreed that it would be important to listen carefully (without judging) to all feedback they receive from parents, students and teachers. It was also decided that the committee could best accomplish its purpose by not revealing, at meetings the names of people who address concerns to them. It was felt the substance of a complaint and/or compliment was more important than was the name of the person who commissioned the matter.

Under new business it was decided to encourage students, through announcements and the school newsletter, to participate in a planned re-union of the very successful Idiot Program that was organized by the C.W. Sears Parent-Teacher Association.

In other new business, a concern was raised regarding the Human Sexuality Unit in the new Grade 4-6 health program. Mr. Pollock reported that public meetings for grade 4-6 parents would be held in each community prior to the implementation of the new program.

Before adjourning, it was decided that all PAC members (as a group) would be encouraged to visit Tofield School before the next meeting which was scheduled for Feb. 7.

Heard The Last Word

The last wheat drive of the fall season took place at the Crafts Centre on Nov 16th with a much increased number of people there to play.

Prize winners were gents — first — Glenn Ferguson, second Lawrence Gill, consolation, George Niemetz. Ladies — first — Crystal Dekinder, second Claire MacLean and consolation Frances Garford.

Lunch was served by the ladies and more wheat drives announced to take place shortly after the new year.

The November meeting of the Ladies Club was held at the home of Dolly Reddick on Nov. 14th

A customer's report by Barbara Horricks of the annual fall bazaar held in the hall on Nov. 2nd proved to be once again a most successful affair.

A generous donation is to be sent from the club through the Red Cross to the starving in Ethiopa. The annual donation to the T.B. Seals is also to be sent.

The roll call for January is to be canned food for the food bank in Tofield.

There were four November birthday's and all received a birthday card. They were birthdays of Lil Leach, Margaret Paterman, Gladys Reddick and Holly Reddick.

Lunch was served by Clare MacLean and Dolly Reddick.

The Christmas Cantata sponsored by the Ladies Club is on the evening of December 9th.

Lunch will be served. This is a special Christmas treat for all who attend.

Plans have been finalized for the turkey bingo to be held at the hall on December 7th.

For information, phone Darlene Brett, Sue Landis or Carol Dekinder. Lunch will be served.

Recent visitors with Tom Ferguson were Adam and Elaine Campbell of Edmonton.

It's O.K. to be yourself this Christmas

When we party during the holidays we often have a drink or two to loosen up, relax, get in the "mood". We use alcohol as a way of getting into the spirit. But why? Because we go to a party doesn't mean you have to get drunk. After all, it's who you are that's important, not who you become after too many drinks.

Today you have a choice. You can choose to say "I prefer something non-alcoholic." You can say "Nothing" and drink that will take you almost nowhere and between just enough and too much. No one will think you're being anti-social.

It's a choice between being yourself or being someone else.

Here's to the true Holiday Spirit

AADAC

Nearing completion . . .

If good things take time it would explain the wait for the Women's Shelter in Camrose. The centrally located facility is almost complete and will be ready for the official opening on Dec 14. Over 1300 bricks were placed on the house which residents can purchase for $10 each. There are still almost 1000 bricks available so get 'em while they're hot!

Opening is planned for women's shelter

by Eileen Brandt

Plans for the official opening of the Women's Shelter in Camrose on Dec. 14 at 2 p.m. are in the final stages.

Mona Sparling, vice-chairman on the Board of Directors for the Camrose Society, the Women's Shelter, has been co-ordinating the opening for two weeks and is pleased to announce that "everything is ready".

Sponsors for the opening are the Camrose Society for a Women's Shelter and Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (from whom the mortgage money for the house was obtained).

The first item on the agenda is a greeting from Margie McCrea, the first and continuing chairman of the Women's Shelter Board.

Greetings from the Federal Government will then be given by Arnold Malone, MP, and MLA Gordon Stromberg will speak briefly. Greetings from Mayor Rudy Swanson and County Reeve Bob Prestage will follow.

The regional representative of CMHC, Kathy Meadows from Red Deer will then make a presentation. Lastly, a short speech from Rene Morrisette, the Regional Director for Central Region of Alberta Social Services and Community Health.

After the speeches there will be refreshments, prepared by [illegible] group, followed by a tour of the shelter.

The home will be open to the public from 3-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m.

Once the building has residents, it will be closed to the public for tours.

Echoes from Em

When the evening shadows lengthen
And the night time settles down,
I like to sit and ponder
On the good folks in our town—
The folks who have a moment
For the children at their play
And wave a cheery greeting
As they pass along the way.
The kind of worthy people
Who would always be your friend,
Good folks who'd never fail you—
Who'd be faithful to the end.
Ah, yes, I like to ponder
When the evening stars appear,
On the good folks of the village
Who spread happiness and cheer
The kindly folks who linger
At your bedside when you're ill
And think of naught but comfort
As they do your bid and will.
My heart is very happy,
As the moon beams from above,
For the good folks around about me,
For their kindness and their love.
For folks who never falter
When there's something they may do—
A burden to be lifted,
Or a friendship to renew.
And I hope when shadows deepen
And my bark puts out to sea,
I'll be guided to that harbor
Where good folks may welcome me.

Report from AADAC

Addiction: A Family Crisis

Families are a unit. When there is a problem within it everyone is affected. When the problem is a drug or alcohol addiction the entire family is in crisis. Donald F. Meeks, of the Adiction Research Foundation of Ontario, says, "An alcoholic's family is often seen as both the cause and the victim of the drinking problem."

In the early stages, it is common for the family to go through a period when they pretend the problem doesn't exist. (Often it is hard to tell the difference between heavy social drinking and alcoholism.) Even the subject of drinking or drugs is avoided. Everyone pretends that everything is all right in an attempt to avoid conflict, pain, embarassment — and more drinking or drug abuse. But seldom will the problem go away if it is ignored.

The family may withdraw [redacted] neighbours. They may stop going to church or to parties. There is a desperate attempt to hide the problem from anyone outside the family. They make all kinds of excuses for the alcoholic or addict to other people including his or her employer when queries are made over tardiness or excessive absenteeism. Whatever the surface appearances, underneath them are anger, frustration, anxiety, tension, resentment.

As the problem intensifies, the family begins to bear an increasing burden of guilt and shame. Their love and affection for the person causing them pain are severely tested. Children as well as adults are affected. They often have to take responsibility over younger brothers and sisters. They may be frightened and insecure, ashamed to bring friends home. At school they become aggressive or withdrawn. Their grades [redacted]

As the family relationships deteriorate further, some may even turn to drugs themselves. At AADAC we have had cases of spouses of alcoholics turning to tranquillizers, or anti-depressants, or alcohol. All of the family will exhibit problems that have evolved due to the years spent trying to cope.

Meeks says, "Often the alcoholic is the last member of the family to accept the existence of a serious drinking problem and the need for help. In this case, the wife, or husband, and other relatives should seek help for themselves." Family therapy will help the family to discover ways to make a healthier, more satisfying life. They are helped to find ways to help the alcoholic stay sober. Everyone, including the children, participates. Sometimes, in order to bring about a permanent healthy change, the whole family will have to examiane how the problem has affected them and how they have, in turn, affected the drinker and the drinking. The whole family may have to change. New ways of relating must be [redacted]

When the drinking stops, the original problem will still have to be dealt with. This is a time when the adjustments are difficult and help is essential.

We at AADAC are ready to give you this help. If you are experiencing some of the problems described here, please contact the AADAC office in [redacted]

DEATHS

STOCK — Robert, of Tofield, Alberta, died on Nov 26 1984 in Tofield Lodge, at the age of 77 years.
Survivors include 1 sister in law, Tina Noble Medicine Hat, numerous nieces, nephews and friends.
Funeral services were held Thurs. Nov 29 1984 at 2 00 p m in Bardo Lutheran Church with Pastor Kevin Langager officiating.
Interment followed in the Tofield Cemetery with Tofield Funeral Home in charge of arrangements. 14c 8345

IN MEMORIAM

FERGUSON — In loving memory of a dear husband father and grandfather Andrew Ferguson who passed away December 11 1979

We will always remember the way he looked
The way he spoke and smiled
The little things he said and did
Are with us all the while
He meant so very much to us
That nothing we can say
Can tell the sadness in our hearts
As we think of him each day

- Ever remembered and sadly missed by his wife Jean and family 14c 8341

by Joan Murray

At the Holden Chamber of Commerce's annual Christmas dinner in the Community Hall on Saturday night, the Citizen of the Year award was presented to the Holden Historical Society.

Society President Helen Zwierschke accepted the plaque on behalf of all the members.

Chamber President, Don Hultholm, said that the award has traditionally gone to an individual, but because of the hard work and dedication these members put forth in getting the Holden history book into print, it was felt they were most deserving of this [illegible].

The following members' names are inscribed on the plaque: Helen Zwierschke (president); Annie Tchir (secretary); Marvin Hultholm (treasurer) and directors — Dave Farina, Ethyl Drekstad, Irene Olson, Michael Mulick, Grace Appleby, Jim Zwierschke, Katy Kryzka, Alfred Sorensen, Kathleen Hurum, Pearl Allan, Earl Hardy, Olive Good, Emily Chrystian, William Ogredsack, Kathleen Kawalilak, Nick Laskaski, Leona Keetka, Lyle Grossland, Mary Laskaski, Anne Farina, Ezra Eberhardt, Albert Grinde and Peter Kryzka.

These members dedicated their time, every Tuesday afternoon in the Senior Citizens Centre, compiling, editing, printing, typing and proofreading materials for the history book right from the day the project began until its completion this summer.

Three years ago the Historical Society was formed specifically to produce a book of the history of the Holden area, but many of the members also served on various committees involved with organizing the Holden Homecoming celebrations which took place in August.

Zwierschke said that although their original project has now been completed, the Society will continue to operate and is looking forward to taking on a new one.

Their thoughts are running in the general direction of a library or, possibly a [illegible].

Special guests who attended this eventful evening were 1983 Citizen of the Year, Bobbi Schweitzer and her husband, Bert and Chamber of Commerce past president, Don McKenzie and his wife, Holly.

Master of Ceremonies Ken Sharpe was assisted by the Holden Chamber of Commerce executive, president Don Hultholm, vice-president, Marie Therriault and secretary Christine Mackay, throughout the program.

Town talks garbage hauling

by Joan Murray

The Town of Tofield is seriously considering not having a garbage transfer site located in Tofield.

At the Council meeting on Monday night, town representative Ed Regehr was directed to inform the Beaver Regional Landfill Authority of their position when he attends a meeting of the Authority in Ryley tomorrow (Thursday) night.

Earlier in the year, a site location that the Council felt was ideal for a transfer station was appealed by adjacent landowners. County Council denied this appeal, but when the site location was taken to the local Health Board for approval, the county representative spoke out against it and the site was not approved.

The Town appealed to the Provincial Board of Health and were again turned down. Town Council said that this denial was made not on the basis of health reasons, but because the province felt it was a local problem and it should be handled at that level.

Council was in agreement that a lot of time, effort and money had been spent to arrive at this stage and were not pleased with the procedures taken.

Therefore, they decided that rather than expending any more time or money on finding a new site, they would first consider the alternative of hauling garbage directly to the regional landfill site at Ryley.

Town Administrator, Lori Pilon, has been directed to investigate the cost of a new three-ton compactor truck to handle future waste disposal needs for town residents if this alternative should become a reality.

If this were to be the case council concluded that rural residents would have to haul refuse either to the Lindbrook site, the regional landfill site, or any other transfer site in the county that was most convenient for them.

A by-law which deals with the running at large of dogs and cats within the town limits was passed. In essence, it now says that no more than two dogs can be kept in any one residence within the town limits. This was the only change made to the existing dog by-law, but a second part dealing with cats was added.

Residents are not allowed to keep more than three cats at any one time on land or premises within the town limits and must not allow said cat or cats to run at large.

If a complaint is received, the dogcatcher is authorized to use any humane method to capture the animal and take it to the pound. It will be held there for three days excluding Saturdays and Sundays in a maximum of five days after the time of capture.

Owners may redeem their cat from the pound within the aforementioned impoundment period by paying a $10 penalty plus a pound fee of $5 per cat per day or part of day the cat is confined.

If cats are left unclaimed when the impoundment period expires, they will be sold or disposed of at the discretion of the poundkeeper.

Council agreed to close the gap in between the lift station and the church along Highway 834 near C.W. Sears School, to deter school children from crossing the highway at an unmarked location. It was agreed that sidewalks along Highway 834 be kept clear of snow, as is necessary, to make them passable for pedestrians.

A request to have the Town forego rent on the Community Hall for the Carol Festival that took place on Sunday night was approved. A policy was then set to have this rent donated every year from now on when the annual December community Christmas carol festival takes place.

Dog derby is planned

by Joan Murray

The first annual Bainsville Sled Dog Derby is scheduled for the second weekend in January.

Organizer, George Dinstel said that in the past such an event has proven to be a successful and enjoyable endeavor in Canmore, Rocky Mountain House, Fox Creek, Grande Prairie and Fort McMurray as part of the Alberta Sled Dog racing circuit.

There are approximately 30 competitive racers in Alberta and Dinstel feels that it is possible for anywhere from 20-30 teams to be competing in the Tofield Derby.

This sport ranges from New York State through northern United States and Trans Canada Brunswick to Alaska, where it is the sport for the 1988 Olympics in Canmore.

The derby will be held one-half mile north on Highway 834 on the Charlie Kallai property which borders Bainsville Lake.

Jim Ross of the Tofield Lions Club is organizing the Poker Rally for ATC vehicles and snowmobiles. They are still looking for more entries.

Kelchanee Creek Family Horse Club will have draught teams out for hay rides. The races will contain four events: an eight and six dog professional class; a three dog novice class; and a weight pull. Those events are open to

Paying wages

More than once we've been told that police forces locally have been told to work on a quota of traffic tickets, to help balance the budget. But we've never been given any substantiation. Whether it's right or not we haven't any idea.

But two areas have presented themselves recently where police activity should pay handsomely, although probably only one would help the City force.

We can't think how often we've heard indignant complaints over the number of drivers who speed through the intersection of 50th Street and 48th Avenue, usually during the noon-hour rush, and actually, knowingly run the red light, not just the orange, as they force their way through on the tail of the traffic ahead of them. We've seen it, too, and we agree with our friends that frequently it is the massive truck or trailer, whose driver obviously dares you to hit him, while a little less often it's a smaller vehicle.

It might not provide a bonanza for long if word got around that tickets were being issued, but it might provide lots of revenue in the meantime, and it might help sort out problems for a number of drivers who have to stand their vehicle on its nose to avoid contact with someone denying *them right-of-way.

Another activity that should provide all kinds of revenue would be a sort of Check Stop to look at the way headlights are operating. Mostly this should be out on the highway, and we know RCMP don't particularly like this sort of thing, but someone surely should be doing it, in the interests of highway safety, not of revenue.

It's only days ago we were told by a driver about the number of one-eyed vehicles he had encountered just between here and Wetaskiwin. We think it was 56, but we do know it was more than two per mile.

Add to that the number whose lights aren't properly aimed, and you have a major hazard. One of the worst hazards, in our view, is the vehicle whose lights are not installed properly, so that even when the driver dims his lights, one is still blinding out at full strength. Or the driver who has installed his own Bosch or Halogen or whatever superlights, without proper adjusting facilities, so they cast a super beam straight at the approaching driver. Or the driver who purposely adjusts his beams upwards "so he can see better."

They probably don't compare with the drunk driver, but we wonder how many accidents can be charged to them?

Universality

"Only those in need" is the claim now being made by the National Citizens' Coalition, as they refer to the federal government's long-held policy of universality in the granting of family allowances, pensions, and other social security programs.

We have high regard for the Coalition, but we think in this instance it is misguided. Indeed, it even marshalls its arguments very badly.

In 1984, it points out, Ottawa collected $28 billion in personal income taxes, but paid out 64 percent of that amount, $18 billion, in interest charges on our national debt alone.

So what? Would the interest charges have been reduced ten cents if baby bonuses had been cut back? If UIC payments were chopped? If pensions were subject to income tests? Would it make any difference if the interest was charged to corporation tax? To liquor tax? To excuse tax? Or all the others? Why single out income tax?

They point to a national opinion poll done for the Liberals last June in which 86 percent of respondents favored cutting social service payments to households with annual incomes over $40,000.

Of course they would. $40,000 is more than almost all of the 86 percent earned themselves, so naturally they're in favor of cutting it. But would 86 percent have favored the chop if the figure were $30,000? $20,000? Or the poverty level? In other words, did they vote on principle, or merely on self interest? After all, if it's only to assist those in need, surely the poverty line is where it should be set.

We don't want another army of inquisitors appointed to determine whether or not your income is high enough to cut you off the family allowance. We don't want civil service appointees authorized to disqualify your pension because you obviously don't need it . . . you're spending too much on horses, or booze, or holidays abroad, or political parties. We don't want to see citizens subjected to the kind of unfeeling harassment thousands have faced in recent months from the income tax man. And let's not dismiss this by saying as soon as the elected representatives found out it all changed . . . we never would have believed it could happen in Canada at any time, but look at how hard it has been to change it.

After The Party Is Over

There are hundreds of diets on the market these days. If some enterprising person should write it up, I'm sure one of the most popular would be "The After Christmas Diet" I feel this way because almost everyone you talk to (including, alas, many of us) is going on a diet after Christmas. This need undoubtedly comes from our urge to overdue on the goodies during the holidays — an urge even the skinniest feel they must do penance for.

In case there are a few of you out there who wish to follow this wonderful diet just like [illegible] and how it differs from any of the others, here are a few highlights that I feel it would suit:

To begin with, it would be a very simple diet to follow (and only a stimpleton would, some might say). It should start immediately following the devouring of the last mince tart, the crumbs of which are washed down with the final cup of eggnog. From that point on the only foods allowed past your lips are those containing less than ten calories per cup (or for those weighing to lose in metric, approximately 300 ml.).

Easy as far? Take it from me, it won't seem like a diet at all. It will seem like cold turkey withdrawl — but then, isn't everyone suffering from that right after Christmas?

This diet could also be called the "No Excuse Diet" (so-named because all our excuses have been used too often), and is a must for anyone who has ever gained weight over the festive season.

This means anyone who has not been a pedded room under lock and key — you know how difficult eating is while decked out in a straitjacket.

"The After Christmas Diet" does have a few things in its favor. For one, it is inexpensive. How could it be otherwise? Eating nothing costs nothing. But the best part is the fact that it w'l never be necessary to remain on this diet for an extended period of time, waiting for the pounds (or kilograms) to melt slowly away. The whole thing will be over in a matter of days. With the weight and your strength dropping quickly, in no time at all you'll find the new, slimmer You lying prone in a dead faint on the floor.

After that, it won't matter anymore.

Dear Voters

There is a coming election.

Did you know that there are four seasons — Spring, Summer, Fall and Retirement. Look into your future, medical science has fouled up. In 1915, life expectancy was 46. People didn't reach the muddle age of today. Today many people live to be over ninety and some over a hundred.

Today we are supposed to have freedom of rights. Insisted we are [illegible] the [illegible] ages as far as medical science is concerned. For your information, visit your local hospitals, nursing homes, and your old people's homes for you are next - you'd better believe it. How do you feel about being put in seclusion, put away in many cases when it would be better to die with dignity? We all have some dignity. They put up with mores and different diseases and are given pills to ward the agony.

They protest about being handled, they would sooner be left alone than to have their regimens done by someone else.

Medical science has seen flight to outer space, but medical science has prolonged unnecessary suffering to the incurable.

I happen to be one of them. I have a useless body out of shape, paralysed on one side, sight defective on one side and put in seclusion. I don't like to have too many visitors for I am hard to communicate with the feel sorry for those who don good manners. Little do they realize that they may be next — it [illegible] be needed.

When a quality of life fails to exist and the patient is incurable, doctors through a panel of physicians should allow one to sleep, or when it is the patients choice or designated parties as the case may be.

Will the recipient of this read it and pass it on to some friends so it may be discussed and be on the ballot in the next federal election. Human Rights Committee

It is difficult for many to go to the above mentioned institutions and because of their own guilt or fear, they don't. People live longer, so your chances of being in one is [illegible]

So in the coming election do your part, Human Rights Committee — give one the right to do with one's own life what one wants to when a quality of life doesn't exist

Yours truly,
Earl P. Winter

The Spilstead Community League and Group Committee held their monthly meeting on Dec. 4th with a fair number in attendance.

The Group Committee part of the meeting welcomed the Assistant District Commissioner Walter Busenius and vice-president Rev Bob Smith from the Wildrose District Council.

A number of topics were discussed and it was noted that more parental participation with fund raising, attending Group Committee meetings and most important, making sure that children arrive on time and are picked up promptly after their meetings.

The gentleman who was to explain about rural garbage pickup was unable to attend but County Reeve John Warner was in attendance and informed the gathering that a county transfer station for garbage would be set up in this area in the new year.

He also explained the county's situation with regards to roads in the area.

On Friday, at 8 p.m. the Spilstead Community League will be holding a ham and turkey bingo in Spilstead Hall.

On Sunday, at 2 p.m. the Community Christmas concert will be held at Spilstead Hall. This is a family affair with everyone in the community most welcome to attend.

The Spilstead Community League will be holding the New Year's Eve dance on Dec 31. Advance tickets only for this dance. Tickets are available from Denise at 662-2373 or Moe at 662-2752.

Hockey race tightens

The race is still close in the Beaverhill Hockey League although the top four teams are starting to pull away [illegible]

Only six points separate first and fourth place in the standings following last [illegible]

[illegible] to sole possession of first place, followed closely by Redwater with Tofield Satellites jumping into third spot while Lamont fell to fourth place.

Vegreville is fifth and although they again made close games of their most recent outings, Holden is still winless after eight starts.

Holden hosted Vegreville last night (Tuesday) with results of the encounter to be reported next week.

Tofield is playing in Redwater tonight (Wednesday) and will be playing in Holden on Friday and Tuesday's games will see Holden in Lamont while Tofield goes to Mundare.

Mundare moved into sole possession of top spot when they edged Holden 8-6 and then whipped Vegreville 10-4.

Redwater outgunned Holden 13-8 and had a game in Lamont postponed.

Tofield moved up in the standings by whipping Vegreville 7-3 [illegible] Lamont 7-6.

In the other game played, Lamont blanked Vegreville [illegible].

Winsnes 50th is celebrated

by Joan Murray

[illegible] received best wishes and congratulations from family and friends on Sunday afternoon in the Ryley Community Hall, in honour of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Master of cermonies, George Knudslien, introduced the head table members, Bertha and Bill Winsnes, their son Gary and his wife Hildy with their two children, Lanaya and Trevor; and their other son Dale, his wife Janet and their children, Stewart, Kevin, Willy and Trudy.

Gary Winsnes related his parents' history starting with the fact that Bill's origin is Scandinavian and his [illegible] Dakota before moving to the Ryley area where he was [illegible].

Bertha grew up in the Ryley area and studied nursing in Ponoka, but was unable to complete the courses because of financial difficulty. She later completed a hairdressing course.

[illegible] in Round Hill and went together for ten years before [illegible] on December 14th, 1934.

The couple settled on a dairy farm at the westend of Ryley, [illegible] dressing for several years. Gary was born six years later and Dale came along four years after that.

At that time Bertha quit hairdressing and worked with Bill full-time dairy farming.

[illegible] 1967. Dale now lives in Regina and works for the Department [illegible] wife Hildy is employed as a registered nurse.

Dale and Janet moved out to the home place in 1971 when his parents moved into the Village of Ryley and they are still operating on a mixed farming basis.

The senior Winsnes' operated the A-1 Unit in Ryley for 26 years and retired in 1976. They are both active in [illegible] is still involved with the Rebeccah Lodge.

She is an avid landscape painter and was one of the first to organize the art show [illegible] in Ryley. She has always been talented in handicrafts and while the boys were growing up, she participated in their Dairy Club by designing floats. Some of her creations have won prizes in the Edmonton exhibition and other events in the past.

Lanaya and Trevor sang a duet tribute to their grandparents who were also entertained with a highland dance number by Trudy and her friend Molly-Jo Garstad, a piano solo by Lanaya and several readings by the Dale Winsnes family from a collection [illegible]

Congratulatory telegrams were received from John S. Batiuk, MLA for the Vegreville Constituency; Premier Peter Lougheed and [illegible]

Village Administrator, Sheila Fitt presented the Winsnes with a gift from the [illegible]

The anniversary cake was decorated by Janet's mother, Ann Graham and the lunch was catered to by the ladies of [illegible]

Farmers aid Ethiopians

by Joan Murray

On Thursday morning on a farm southeast of Tofield, Ernie and Alvin Dueck starting loading grain that will be shipped to Ethiopia to help relieve the plight of the starving population in that country.

December 8th was the date originally set for this shipment, but because grain donations are still coming in to the Dueck farm, the deadline has been extended for an extra week.

Tofield resident, Henry [illegible] Mennonite Central Committee Food Bank project promoter for Northern Alberta, said that he is "very grateful to hear how good the response was". Thiessen has held this position in the MCC Food Bank project since it began over ten years ago.

On October 28th the MCC sent one of their executive members, Ray Brubaker, to Ethiopia to find out what the situation was and if the grain was reaching the suffering individuals.

At an MCC conference in November in Duchess, a report from Brubaker indicated that contrary to some previous media news reports, the food was, in fact, reaching the Ethiopian people.

His report said that the situation over there has not been exaggerated.

The food received is being distributed by the Christian Relief and Development Agency which is an inter denominational organization of 26 different churches. Since 1975, 22,000 metric tonnes of food aid has been distributed in Ethiopia.

The donations of grain that were accumulated at the Dueck farm were transported on a truck driven by Ernie Dueck on Thursday and Friday, to a gathering point at Linden. From there it is trucked down to the Vancouver docks where it is loaded onto ships destined for Ethiopia.

MCC promoter Thiessen said that as long as donations keep coming in, the grain will continue to be shipped. These donations can come from over and above a farmer's grain quota.

Thiessen said the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) is matching every dollar donated in wheat with three dollars in cash.

This government agency is involved with developing the underdeveloped countries of the world and by this action have indicated their support of this MCC project.

The MCC food bank will accept donations from anyone who is willing to contribute. Charitable donation slips will be issued as required. More information can be obtained [illegible].

Accident claims man

One man was killed, a second was injured and three others escaped injury in two separate traffic accidents in the area.

[illegible] Sutton of Tofield RR1 was killed instantly when the vehicle he was operating was in collision with a vehicle driven by Stewart Constable [illegible]

The mishap occurred on the Kingman Highway at which is referred to as the transformer [illegible] about six miles south of Highway 14. The accident took place on the morning of Dec. 2nd.

Constable was injured in the accident and was taken to Tofield Hospital from where he was later released after [illegible]

A three-vehicle accident took place on Dec. 4th on Highway 14, about three miles [illegible]

Vehicles involved in the mishap were operated by Mike Shewchuk of Tofield, Joyn Butler of Youngstown and Stan Dybka of Sherwood Park.

No injuries were reported from this accident which resulted in extensive damage to all three vehicles.

Both accidents were investigated by the Tofield [illegible]

1984 has been a year which some would like to forget and which most have not gained financially. 1985 holds the promise of a new year with new hope, ambitions and opportunities. Perhaps one of the nicest aspects of the future is that we don't know what will happen. This frees us to move ahead positively, expecting positive things to happen.

One of the basic important things to learn about living optimistically is to let the past rest. Let's learn from what we did yesterday, with the view to improving our performance tomorrow. Don't let old mistakes haunt you and slow you down.

It is so vitally important to let the past alone, learn from it, and go on to make a better tomorrow. Justifiably, as of late, there has been much talk of doom and gloom. However, all is not such. It is true that we tend to become what we think about or dwell upon. We can go through life either looking at it as "half-full" or "half-empty". The way you view a half a cup of water can be indicative of the way you view life. Try to look at things and live in a postive manner.

Once you have adopted a positive attitude, look for ways to increase your success at things — whether it be to improve your business' profit, family relationships, or relationships with others. For 1985, think of the ways to increase your success and write them down on paper. Keep that list with you during 1985, looking at it periodically, revising and adding to it.

Dwell for a moment on the riches and blessings you do have. Farming is not only a business, but a way of life. Enjoy the freedom and enjoyment which your farm gives you and your family. Be thankful for loved ones — family and friends. Be thankful that we live in a country when we are still more or less free to pursue what we [redacted] can be a new beginning for you — a chance to improve and to correct the errors you made in 1984. Use 1985 as a year to advance in your personal, family, social and business life by being positive.

With the
94-97% EFFICIENT
Amana ENERGY COMMAND™ GAS FURNACE

Saves 20% to 45% on heating costs!* And heats your water, too!

The Amana Energy Command furnace sets a new standard of gas heating efficiency 94% to 97%. That compares to 54% to 67% for most ordinary gas furnaces. That's because ordinary furnaces let a lot of heat escape up the chimney. But, the Amana Energy Command traps that heat saving you money on your heating bills.

The Energy Command furnace features:
• Exclusive Heat Transfer Module, HTM®. The heart of gas heating efficiency. A compact, highly efficient heat exchanger that has helped make Amana a leader in heating efficiency for over 12 years.
• No Chimney Required. Because the Energy Command furnace traps escaping exhaust heat others lose it can vent through the wall like a dryer.
• Easy Installation. Fits anywhere an ordinary upflow furnace does. Ideal for replacement installation. Operates quietly without special noise reducers.
• Operates on Natural Gas or L.P. Heating inputs of 45,000 to 100,000 BTUH, the most common furnace sizes.
• Heats your water, too! With the exclusive optional water heater, the Energy Command furnace (80,000-100,000 BTUH Model) can provide 2 to 2½ times as much hot water as ordinary 40 gallon water heaters.

At 80,000 BTUH, if you replace	Least Efficient Furnace on the Market, 54% AFUE	Average Efficiency Standing Pilot Furnace 62% AFUE	Average Efficiency Electronic Ignition Furnace 67% AFUE	Electric Furnace

Food For Entertaining

Christmas is near and the menu looks splendid! Now, I'm wondering if the food will look as good as it tastes. I wonder, "How can I make the Christmas dinner mashed potatoes look any different than last week's mashed potatoes?" You've wondered that too? The answer is to decorate the top with a wreath made of parsley, using slices of stuffed olives as accents.

Other ways to give your holiday food a holiday look are to make orange cups to hold the cranberry sauce. Or put vegetable dip in a green pepper or hollowed out red cabbage.

If you're serving a punch, hang small candy canes on the rim of the bowl. Float orange and lemon slices that have been studded with whole cloves for a finishing touch. Don't forget about your slow cooker for warming hot punches.

In our house cinnamon buns are the traditional Christmas breakfast. Instead of making a pan full of buns try shaping the rolls to make a Christmas tree. Garnish after cooking with thin icing and glitter candies. A sure hit!

Expecting company this year? Prepare for your guests by filling your house with smells of apple and spice. Simply warm on the stove a quartered apple, 1 tsp. whole cloves and a cinnamon stick. Cover with water and let simmer, while the smells fill your home.

If those guests are last minute surprises you'll be wanting a snack that's quick and easy. One snack idea needs only bacon and bread sticks. Then warm in a 350°F oven for seven minutes. Another quick snack requires a cucumber, mayonnaise and some shrimp. Score the cucumber its whole length with the tines of a fork. Slice and top the cucumber slices with a dallop of mayonnaise and a small cooked shrimp. Garnish with finely chopped chives.

Christmas is a joyous time of year. Let's remember to do only what creates peace and harmony in our own homes.

Hockey update

This year there are approximately 130 kids involved in Tofield Minor Hockey.

They range in age from 6 to 16 years.

Last week there were several games played.

Atoms

Tofield Starbirds played Fort Saskatchewan in a 9-4 win. They also defeated Sherwood Park 1-0 in an exhibition game.

Tofield Torpedos beat Fort Saskatchewan 6-4.

Pee Wees

Tofield Blazers were defeated 3-2 by Camrose on Wednesday, but beat them the next game 6-0.

There will be a pee wee tournament this weekend in Tofield.

Bantams

The Bantam "A" team played Camrose on Saturday, but were defeated by a 5-1 margin.

The Bantam Ti-Cats game against Ardrossan ended in a 4-4 tie and they lost to Fort Saskatchewan 9-1.

Bingo winners named

The Holden and District Agricultural Society held a turkey bingo on December 3rd.

Winners were Dolores Gonzman, Greta Keith, Joe Lazaruk, Irene Korbyl, Aaron Lutz, Marie Malick, Matt Helfrich, John Hnytsko, Emily Ogonoski, Annie Kiebiech, Ann Motkoski, Rose Dery, Vi McCracken, Eugenia Shimko, K. Misyk, Joyce Wilkinson, Rhonda Gerbrandt and Sophie Jober.

The door prize was won by Peter Yasmaniski.

Proceeds from this bingo will be used towards cost of installing the new compressor last winter.

Residents of the area are reminded that the Holden and District Agricultural Society sponsors a cash bingo every Wednesday at 8 p.m., in the Holden Complex.

Recent winners of the $500 Bonanza Club draws were Marilyn Skytoro and Jacob Micklich.

IN MEMORIAM

SHUPENIA – In loving memory of Metro who passed away suddenly December 14th 1983

A heart of gold stopped beating
Hard working hands at rest
God broke our hearts to prove to us
He only takes the best
The leaves and flowers may wither
The golden sun may set
But the hearts that loved so dearly
Are the ones who won't forget

Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by loving wife Ecaterina & family 15p 8390

RODDICK In memory of my loving husband James who passed away December 15 1967

Your memory is like the heart of a rose
The older it gets the sweeter it grows
Deep in our hearts is the love of the past
For there it was planted forever to last – Always remembered by your loving wife Dolly 15nc

CARDS OF THANKS

I WOULD LIKE to say a big thank you to the gentleman that returned my lost wallet to the bank of Montreal also to Cheryl for her part in it God bless you both

General Meeting to Address Pressing Issues

Chairman, Andy Hunke and members of the I.D. 16 Advisory Board. Left to right are Sheila Hood, representative from Little Smoky, Ken Mulligan, representative from Sunset House, Carol Read, representative from Grovedale; Bud Hardman, representative for New Fish Creek and Chairman of the Board, Andrew Hunke, M.C., Roy Brideau, Administrator of I.D. 16 and Art Baron, representative from Valleyview and area.

Other representatives at the meeting, left to right, Harvey Pellen, Chairman of the Agricultural Service Board; Terry Becker, representative for environment, Tony Paquette, Foreman for Transportation in Valleyview, Mr. DeWilde, Regional Transportation representative from Peace River.

At 1:30 p.m., November 16 the community of New Fish Creek called a general meeting to discuss pressing issues concerning their area. The hall was rented by the members of the New Fish Creek Community Club.

Mr. Bill Farney called the meeting to order by welcoming the members of the I.D. council, invited guests and interested members.

Permission was requested to tape the minutes of the meeting and was granted. The gathering was also informed that representatives from the news media were present.

Mr. Farney requested that the nominations were open for the position of chairperson. Mr. Andrew Hunke was nominated. Further nominations were not forthcoming so Mr. Hunke took the position by acclamation.

Mr. Hunke introduced the representatives from the I.D. council as well as those people representing transportation, environment and the agricultural service board.

It was suggested by the chairman that a time limit would be set on each topic as there were several issues to be discussed. Individuals were asked to speak one at a time to avoid confusion.

The first item on the agenda was transportation. Mr. Hunke suggested a 45 minute discussion on this topic. Mr. DeWilde, regional representative from Peace River was in attendance to answer questions from the floor.

It was decided that it would be an individual's choice if he wished to give his name when asked a question or making a presentation. Mr. Brideau pointed out a name would be beneficial in the event that someone required a written answer to a question. That way he would be able to get back to them.

The next item concerned environment and Mr. Terry Becker, representative, was present to give information and answer questions.

Other matters discussed included excess assessment and sanitary landfill.

Due to the controversial content of this meeting, we, as a member of the news media are unable to release any further information to the public.

Northern Lights Figure Skating Club to be Represented at "A" Sections

Shawna Carroll of the Northern Lights Figure Skating Club competed in the Northern Regional competition held at the Coronation Arena in Edmonton, November 9 to 11 and earned an opportunity to compete in the 'A' sections which will be held this year in Red Deer during December 5 to the 8th.

Shawna competed in the Juvenile Ladies category, competing against other girls from skating clubs in the Northern Region. The Northern Region takes in all of Northern Alberta, including Edmonton, and the North West Territories. Only the top eight of each category in a regional competition are allowed to go on to the 'A' sections (provincials) where the Northern Region competes with the Southern Region. The competition is comprised of compulsory figures and free skate, judged by a panel of three.

Shawna's coach is Sherry Kelly.

Good luck, Shawna!!

Valleyview Fire Fighters Hold Second Annual

On November 17th and 18th, Valleyview hosted their second annual Peace Firefighters Fun Hockey Tournament. All proceeds will be donated to the Edmonton Burn Center.

On Saturday night a banquet and dance were held at the Polar Palace banquet room for the visiting teams and their wives.

Mr. Don Fell, Deputy Fire Chief, for the Valleyview Fire Department welcomed everyone who participated in the tournament and thanks them for their support. The Firefighting teams in attendance were from Dellbit, Hythe, Grande Prairie, Peace River, Wanham and Valleyview. One team had cancelled, so the Valleyview Oldtimers obliged by filling in for them.

Mayor Duane Dutka, and Captain of the Valleyview Fire Department complimented the visitors for their support of the Burn Center and wished them an enjoyable evening.

Mr Fell said that since Valleyview had hosted the tournament, they would like to show their appreciation by electing some lucky visiting fireman as Honorary Fire Chief for the day. In addition, he would receive a small token of their esteem.

Mr. Bill Hall, of the Hythe Fire Department, was the lucky recipient. Two of Valleyview's loveliest belles made the presentation which overwhelmed the surprized Mr. Hall. He was most profuse in his thanks.

At this time, Wenda McCallum was called upon

Off-Highway Vehicles

The following information is supplied for public benefit by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Valleyview Detachment. Its purpose is to provide the motoring public with a better idea of Provincial Traffic Laws and improve local driving habits. Motorists can avoid traffic accidents and costly violation tickets.

It is unlawful to operate an off highway vehicle on any highway. There are no provisions for the operation of off highway vehicles in the Town of Valleyview and the provincial law applies. Towns may make by-laws to allow the operation of snow mobiles on certain streets or alleyways during certain times however, Valleyview has no such by-law. Snow mobile owners are required to trans port their machines out of town via truck or trailer for use, as are owners of other off high vehicles such as trikes and argos. Violators will be prosecuted, and are subject to fines provided by the Off Highway Vehicles Act, and their vehicles could be subject to seizure

Attention Snowmobilers

All accesses to the Golf Course, including the river, have been fenced with barb wire

Due to the construction of grass greens, we can no longer allow snowmobiles or any other vehicle on our course

Hearts fill with wonder as we exult and celebrate the external gifts of this holy time . . . the love, peace and hope with which we are blessed. The love that holds us together. The peace of this precious day. The hope for peace in a world reborn. We rejoice in the miracle of His birth and for the treasure of your lasting friendship.

The Story of the Nativity

ST. LUKE, CHAPTER 2, 1-20

1. And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.
2. (And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)
3. And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.
4. And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David):
5. To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.
6. And so it was, that while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.
7. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.
8. And there were in same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flocks by night.

9. And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were sore afraid.
10. And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for behold I bring you tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.
11. For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.
12. And this shall be a sign unto you; "Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger."
13. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,
14. Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

15. And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.
16. And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.
17. And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.
18. And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.
19. But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.
20. And the shepherds returned glorifying and praising God for all things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

Make Me No Resolutions

Did you break any of your 1984 resolutions? You know the ones I mean — the promises you made at the beginning of the year to improve your appearance, lifestyle or posture? To become more involved in world events? The vows to become richer, nicer, thinner, happier, taller?

I'm happy to say that I did not break one 1984 resolution. That is because I didn't make one. I know my limitations and my promises seem to be made to be broken. I used to make up an extensive list which rightfully could be called a dream-on list. If they'd all come true I would be the most charming, exciting, interesting woman — and the best parent — around. I would have eyes like Sophia Loren, a body like Linda Evans and a face like Magneen P.I. I would have won a lottery, spent time in Nashville and San Francisco and my children would eat their peas and parsnips without gagging.

My office closet would not be cluttered with semi-completed handicrafts. My life and those of the people around me would be orderly and organized and we'd love it that way. The hairy denizen of our backyard, otherwise known as 'that dumb dog', would be obedience trained and only bark when barbed at. I would never worry about anything not life threatening. People to whom I write regularly would answer, happily. The days would be longer or I'd be quicker. I'd have learned how to spell 'linoleum' before it became 'floor covering'. I'd walk more. World peace would be just a smile away.

In fact, every bad habit, fear or negative thought within smacking distance would be competing with the shuttle for orbiting space. Everything would be disgustingly wonderful.

Of course, if I worked hard all year to see these wishes become fact, I'd have nothing to complain about and probably would be too exhausted to enjoy them. So I'm not perfect yet and the life I live is far from idyllic. I do have my moments though. Which is why I'll stick to my resolution not to make any resolutions . . . why spoil a good thing?

Marketplace

Shopping for toys at Christmas is getting more difficult each year. Toys keep increasing in cost, variety and complexity and often toy advertisements contribute to the problem. These persuasive ad messages can cause children to desire toys that are totally unsuitable. Given these circumstances, it can be a challenge for adults to choose well when buying toys. Success, however, need not be a matter of luck. You can use your head and save your feet.

Start by making the task at hand as precise as possible. For example, you're not looking for just any toy. You need something suitable for the age, interests and abilities of a particular child. Also, you may have some price range in mind.

Begin to gather information about what kinds of toys are available and their prices. Store visits, browsing through catalogues and sales flyers can help here. What about the quality and durability of the toys? How suitable are they for the age and ability level of the child on your list? A good source of information on these last two points is a publication called the Toy Report. It's published annually, about November, by the Canadian Toy Testing Council.

The Toy Report groups toys by their suitability for various age groups. Each toy is evaluated regarding its overall quality, and its relative cost is given. Copies of this useful book can be purchased at bookstores and are often available at public libraries.

Having gathered information about what toys are available, eliminate those that are of poor quality, don't suit your price range, or aren't suitable for the child. This will leave you with a smaller number of possibilities which will make the decision more manageable.

For each of these possibilities, think about what might happen if you were to buy the toy. For example, would the toy require lots of expensive accessories to make it interesting to the child? Would it require a fortune in batteries to keep it going? Might it present a safety hazard to someone in the family? Does the toy represent personal values that are consistent with what you want to teach the child? How long will it hold the child's interest?

Having given some thought to questions such as these, it's time to make a choice. Time to decide which toy to buy.

Make that final choice based on your evaluation of which toy best meets your personal checklist of what's important. You might consider safety, quality, durability, fun, learning potential, cost and any other characteristics that you think are important. It's your decision, make it on the basis of what matters to you.

Few things are simple these days and toy buying is no exception. If you want to get good value for your money it takes a little time and thoughtful consideration. Don't buy merely on impulse or in response to appealing advertisements. Think about what you're doing. The money spent on toys is important to you and so is the child. Buy something you'll both be happy about.

Dear Sir,

I suggest that Ernie Isley, Minister of Manpower is wasting the taxpayers money with expensive advertising on manpower training and wage subsidies.

Wages and jobs were lost when Premier Lougheed signed Prime Minister Trudeau's National Energy Program.

Child abuse

86 Greenbarn Drive
Red Deer, Alberta

December 14, 1984

Dear Sir

The concern expressed by the Calgary Humane Society in their poster that outlines animal safety while dogs are riding in motor vehicles, is long overdue — but very welcome. Certainly it may help educate irresponsible owners as to their cruelty and abuse of animals that have no say in how they travel.

Certainly the same rules of travel safety apply to drivers and passengers of motor vehicles. How long is it going to take to have obvious benefits of "buckling up" ourselves behind the wheel and "buckling down" our infants and children in restraints, eh?

To those of you that allow your children to sit on your lap as you ride or drive, or stand on the seat unprotected, consider the fact you are practising child abuse!!

To all drivers who do not wear seat belts, your rights are important, however, they do not include placing anyone's personal safety in your hands. To unbelted passengers, what safeguards your travel since you have virtually no control over what may occur?

We have decided to support the Skating Club by sponsoring Candyce Ray as a candidate for their carnival queen.

Cathy Brown and Donald Wood have a report from the 4-H County Council meeting held recently in Holden.

Doug Brown, who is doing a Junior leadership project, gave a presentation on the new project books. Candyce, Teresa, Cathy and Doug gave a report on their trip to Colorado, taken last summer.

Sunday afternoon 4-H members and their families gathered at the home of Peter Brown for their annual Christmas party.

Round Hill

by Joanne Banack

The meeting of the Round Hill Women's Institute was held on Dec. 11 at the home of Mrs. V.L. Blades with all 24 members present, including Mrs. Reta Thorson who had moved to Sandre in the fall.

Donations were made to "Pennies for Friendship" and the Merry Christmas Fund.

Perfect attendance for 1984 was accomplished by Annie Banack, Alice Kushnerick, Dean Storms, Doreen Haugen and Lucie Owen.

Louise Undin played the part of Mrs. Santa and was busy passing out the gifts from the Secret Sisters. New Secret Sisters were chosen for 1985.

Doreen Haugen won the hostess raffle.

A capacity crowd attended the Christmas program in the Community Hall on Dec. 18th. Various skits and musical selections provided the entertainment.

Santa Claus dropped in for a visit and promised to be back on Christmas Eve. A draw for a Cabbage Patch kid was held with the winner being Anita Banack.

Paying attention

Rachel Murray watched her instructor carefully so she would not make too many mistakes while parents watched the Tofield Dance Club ballet class last Monday night. This is the only time parents are allowed to observe a class in session or see their children in action until the dance recital in the spring.

BETWEEN THE COVERS

[illegible] week, watch for a variety of [illegible].

"The Fourth Protocol" by Frederick Forsyth is the fifth novel from the author of "The Day of the Jackal", sure to be as gripping a thriller as his [illegible].

Catherine Marshall's last book written before her death in 1983 is "Julie", in many ways an autobiographical novel from this very popular [illegible].

Readers of M.M. Kaye's Mystery/Romance series will be happy to see "Death in Kashmir" join three others on [illegible].

Always interesting, another book on the royal family is available this week by Trevor Hall. For readers who prefer accounts of pioneer life, try Volume Two of Bill McNeil's "Voice of the Pioneer" based [illegible].

Canadian author June [illegible] new book "Emma" the story of Canada's most unlikely spy during World War II.

Story Hour will resume for the last four sessions, beginning January 8 and 11, for the Tuesday and Friday groups respectively.

The Mobile Library Service at Tofield Lodge will also resume December 28, and every second Friday at 3:00 p.m. thereafter. Any Lodge resident may acquire a membership for $2.50 (Seniors' rate) and take advantage of the free delivery of a selection of books by [illegible].

The re-arrangement of library shelving is complete now, and provides a much more open and spacious feeling in the library. We are waiting only for new picture book shelves to be completely settled with the new floor plan.

[illegible] programs has been hired for the winter months only, under a provincial PEP grant. May Korobko will be in charge of planning and organizing any new projects and programs during this time, and recruiting interested persons.

Regular library hours are Tuesday 1-5, Thursday 3-5 and 6-8; Friday and Saturday 10-12 [illegible].

Teachers seek strike vote

Two groups of teachers in this part of the province are seeking a government supervised strike vote.

During a meeting held in Viking on Thursday, teachers in the Elk Island Regional [illegible] voted overwhelmingly in favour of holding a strike vote.

Ninety-five percent of the [illegible] in favour of the strike vote being called after earlier in the meeting, ninety-nine percent had rejected a trustees' offer which would have frozen wages for a two-year period.

About two weeks ago, teachers belonging to the Battle River School Authorities Association had rejected an [illegible] and had requested a government supervised strike vote.

The Elk Island Regional School Authorities Association represents schools in the Counties of Beaver, Flagstaff, [illegible] Provost and Wainwright.

Represented in the Battle River School Authorities Association [illegible] of Camrose along with the Counties of Stettler, Wetaskiwin, Red Deer and Ponoka Separate School [illegible].

At the present time, ongoing negotiations between the Camrose Roman Catholic School Board and its teachers are continuing and could result in a two-year contract which would run until the end of 1985.

TransAlta seeks hike

TransAlta Utilities Corporation has filed an application with the Alberta Public Utilities Board (PUB) for an interim rate increase of 5.4 percent, net of rebate, effective February 1st.

The company's last rate increase, amounting to six percent, net of rebate, took place over a year ago, in November 1983.

The current application arises from the PUB's decision on November 27 on the company's 1984 revenue requirement.

PUB instructed TransAlta to file rates to recover the balance of the revenue requirement not generated by existing rates currently in place. The present application would recover this balance.

County vetos annexation

. . . sought by Ryley

by Joan Murray

A request from the Village of Ryley to annex a complete section of land directly north of the Village was denied at the County of Beaver council meeting on Thursday.

The County Planner said that the General Municipal Plan recommends that any annexation should take up as little good agricultural land as is possible. He said that practically all the 640 acres in question consist of good quality class two agricultural land.

There is already a sufficient supply of developed land in existance in the village limits to meet the needs of the traditional growth plan of Ryley. Because there was no indication in the proposal what the land was to be used for, the planner did not feel that 640 acres was needed for the village at this time.

Council agreed to oppose this annexation until further information is received and advised that a public hearing is necessary before they would consider it.

A development appeal hearing was held prior to the regular meeting and Ken Rempel, a local hog farm operator, appealed the recent refusal of his application for expansion. After much discussion the appeal was upheld. It was felt that a change in the size of this operation would not significantly alter the effect on the community, and the increase in the storage facilities would, in all likelihood, decrease the problem of odors wafting into town.

Council agreed to participate in the Battle River Regional Association although the County has not belonged to this organization in the past five years, council felt that because of the number of parks, lakes and campgrounds existing within the county, this association would be of benefit.

A motion was passed to send a request to have the Provincial Department of Recreation designate the Cooking Lake Reserve road from Highway 14 a resource road and ask that it be upgraded accordingly.

Viking Lodge reports that the facility is full and has a waiting list. Their financial situation is good. The building is getting old and there have been some problems with the heating. It is possible that they will take a good look at the plumbing and heating situation in the summer months.

Holden Lodge still has a lack of residents although their financial situation is improving. Tofield is operating at a break even point, but there are still 4 or 5 spaces available, mostly double rooms. Tofield rooms are difficult to rent and consideration is being given to converting them to large single units and charging a higher rate. This has been done at the Viking Lodge with much success.

Court report

Paul Babry was fined $150 for driving while suspended.

Albert E. Bell was fined $200 for driving while suspended, $150 for illegal consumption of liquor and $50 for failing to appear.

Warren Lehman was fined $200 for driving while suspended.

John W. Zeliako was fined $50 for driving while suspended.

Robin Roth was fined $300 for driving while impaired.

Candace Baumgarten was fined $500 for driving while impaired.

Arnold Ergon was fined $125 for illegal possession of a narcotic.

Vincent Pochynok was fined $600 for impaired driving.

Ray Vanbuskirk was found guilty of impaired driving and will be sentenced on January 16th.

Stanley Komarnisky was found guilty of mischief and fined $75.

Merry Christmas

I want to take this opportunity to wish all of you a Happy Christmas season and Health and Prosperity in 1985. I thank those of you with whom I work and I look forward to meeting new clients in '85.

The following poem leaves me with food for thought and I'd like to share it with you.

Secret of Christmas

It's not the glow you feel when snow appears
It's not the Christmas cards you've sent for years
It's not the joyful sound when sleighbells ring,
Or the merry songs the Children sing.
That little gift you send on Christmas Day
Will not bring back friends you've turned away.
So may I suggest the secret of Christmas,
Is not the things at Christmas you do
But the Christmas things you do all the year through.

Gardeners meet

The Tofield Garden Club held their December meeting at the home of Art and Irma F[illegible]

After the minutes were read and the financial report given and passed, catalogues for glads, lilies and roses were studied. It was decided to order some glads and lilies, and rose orders were taken.

The election of officers was quickly taken care of by electing the same slate. Those who desired then paid for the Prairie Garden and Garden Clippings for 1985. Then memberships were paid.

Meeting every month was discussed and all felt it was much more sociable and interesting to meet every month and try to arrange for lectures, films or talks on garden subjects, till we could visit gardens or horticultural displays.

Because of a busy Christmas and New Year's, it was decided to have the next meeting the first Wednesday in February at the home of [illegible]

After an exchange of gifts, Christmas goodies were served.

Helping out

Helen Fehr, president of the Tofield Lioness Club presented a cheque for $450 to Tofield Hospital Auxiliary president, Bev Cargill last week. This was the last official function for the Tofield Lioness Club which has been disbanded due to lack of interest.

Just For Fun

by Joan Murray

Wouldn't it be nice to have a special Santa Claus to answer the letters of Mothers, ladies over 30 (who are just a teensy weensy bit overweight), distraught housewives, striving writers and semi-committed women's liberationists. It's not just because I fall into all those categories, it's just that for once I would like to see my own list wrapped in gaily decorated beribbond packages (or a reasonable fascimile thereof) under that festive mass we call "The Tree". Instead, I usually find toasters, tea towels, lopsided hand printed wall plaques, various bath things, or (the unkindest cut of all) aprons marked in bold letters "For the little woman" or "Happy Housecleaning". This year for the benefit of those who would like to know what I really want, I prepared a letter to Santa. I actually sent it to the North Pole because I have heard that wishful thinking can do wonders for the soul. It went like this:

Dear Santa:

For Christmas I would like:

1. An evening with Burt Reynolds or Robert Redford (and if you can't manage that a young version of James Mason will do).
2. One argument-free week at my house.
3. One dress to make me look as slim as Cheryl Tiegs (a face and body to match would not be taken as an insult).
4. Some relatives and friends who do not think that creative writing is old English or script writing.
5. And finally a life-size C3PO robot without the smart mouth to take over when I feel my systems overloading.

Your humble servant,
Joan

I have only asked him for five things because I wanted him to say "She doesn't want much, does she?"

Merry Christmas to You All and have a very Happy Holiday!

Peace on Earth

Lord make me an instrument of Thy Peace:
where there is hatred, let me sow love.
where there is injury, pardon.
where there is doubt, faith.
where there is despair, hope.
where there is darkness, light.
where there is sadness, joy.
Oh Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled, as to console.
to be understood as to understand.
to be loved as to love.
for it is in giving that we receive.
it is in pardoning that we are pardoned and it is in dying that we are born to Eternal Life.

Part of an assignment in second year journalism, the story below was written by Michelle Bjornson of New Norway. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Bjornson, Michelle is nearing the end of a two year course in journalism at SAIT, (Southern Alberta Institute of Technology).

Last summer she spent six weeks during the school break filling in as a full-time reporter-photographer at The Tofield Mercury.

Plagued with "some of the poorest crops ever" the Alberta Hail and Crop Insurance Corporation is still filing $2 million worth of claims per day, says Roger Donaix.

Stationed at the research department of the corportion's head office in Lacombe, Donaix expects this trend to continue until Dec. 21. As of Dec. 5 post harvest claims went over the $108 million mark. An average of about $13,900 issued per claim.

Normally hail and crop adjusters would have packed it in, but work continues north of Red Deer and specifically in the Peace River region which was hampered by excess moisture in the spring and a late harvest, resulting in crops being smothered under the [illegible]

It is the "highest ever" pay out in terms of dollars, said [illegible]

You can't win for losing, as the Calgary region and south is experiencing "below normal moisture conditions" which could result in another crop year of severe drought, depending upon this spring's weather conditions.

Hail insurance claims totaled $15,205,004 alone. The hail endorsement crop fund exceeded $38 million worth of claims. Spring re-seeding paid out $1,520,000. Hay and pasture $1,800,106 mainly in the areas south of Wetaskiwin. Winterkill for the fall of 1983 paid out $140,116.

Hail and crop insurance applications must be filed by April 30, 1985. It must be clearly stated what crops the farmer is insuring and the level of coverage, so the corporation knows the level of risk, as well as the premium the farmer will have to pay. No interest is tacked on until [illegible]

by [illegible]

Some folks feel that the festive season has become too commercial and artificial. They have good reason with all the Hullaballoo that goes on over television and in other forms of advertising.

You know, people are always trying to sell you something, and they probably always will. But you don't have to buy it!

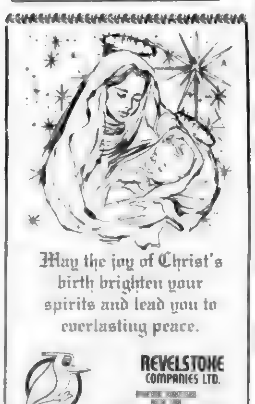
Try to remember that the exchanging of gifts is practiced in memory of the presents the Wise Men brought to the Christ Child. Keep Santa in the right perspective too as he adds to a mood of happiness and good cheer at Christmas time. He really shouldn't be used as a "boogey man" to keep children in line.

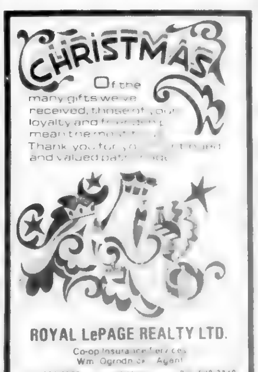
"Christmas is for children," a phrase I hear often and it is certainly true — but remember that there's a little child in all of us.

If we can re-awaken it to see Christmas through simple, straight-forward and innocent eyes, then all that crass commercialism will go right over [illegible]

Having done that, it is now time to enjoy the warmth of our friends, and share with our families a renewal of love between one another.

[illegible] wonderful ... just sit back and enjoy. Merry Christmas to you all!





RCMP issues report

As of mid December, the Tofield RCMP Detachment members have investigated over 2,300 new files this year.

Among them were over 118 traffic accidents, 19 of these accidents involved no damage to the vehicles or other property. 22 were reported to have serious injuries in which people were hospitalized. As well, unfortunately, three people lost their lives on the area's highways.

As it seems that winter has now gripped Alberta, we would like to remind you to check over your vehicle. Ensure that all tires are good and appropriate for winter driving conditions. Have a shovel, flashlight, sand and flares in the trunk. A blanket may prove to be an asset. Make sure that even for short travels your gas gauge reads over half full. Above all, take the extra time and drive safely to get where you are going.

This Detachment has laid well over 80 criminal charges for drinking and driving this year. That is not including the 30 people who have had their drivers' licence suspended for a 24 hour period, of the 72 people which have had tickets issued to them for drinking while in a vehicle.

Since the festive season is now upon us please be advised that Tofield members will be conducting Check Stops on a daily basis. If the members stops you and suspects that you are under the influence of alcohol, however slight, and you are in control of the vehicle, you may be read a Road-Side Demand.

The demand requires you to provide samples of your breath into a road-side tester which is referred to as the ALERT. The Alcohol Level Evaluator Road-side Tester gives the member an indication of your blood alcohol level and whether you will be allowed to drive on.

Should you be showing obvious signs of impairment when stopped the member will read you a Breathalyzer Demand. Your vehicle will be towed and you will be transported to the Detachment where you will be required to provide two adequate samples of your breath.

The Breathalyzer is an instrument which gives the member an exact reading of the alcohol in your blood. If over the 80 mgs % level you will be charged and will stay in jail until sober.

With the public outcry to the drinking driving crime the courts are beginning to deal severely with those convicted. If convicted of a drinking driving offence, or refusing the breath tests, a person will lose their drivers' licence for a minimum of three to six months, be fined up to two thousand dollars and possibly be imprisoned.

If convicted for a second or third time a person will be sentenced to a minimum of 14 days to three months imprisonment. These may seem like harsh sentences, however an alcohol related accident, in which someone is injured or killed is by far a worse form of punishment. Please, for your sake and others, don't drink and drive this holiday season.

We the members of the Tofield RCMP Detachment, would like to thank the communities we serve for the warmth, friendship and respect which you have shown us over the past year.

Wishing you a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Holden and district news

by Mrs. G.H. Taylor

Holden St. Gregory's R.C CWL with parishioners and visitors along with Ben and Betty Lux and family and Henry Keller, entertained the residents of Holden Senior Citizens Lodge at a Christmas party on Friday. After the conclusion of the program, lunch was served, ending a very enjoyable evening.

Correcting an error in last week's news, Mrs. Nellie Kaluzny who had broken a wrist some days ago, is not back to work in the Post Office and Nellie says it may be some time before she is.

Mrs Kate Nichols is a patient in Tofield Hospital again, going there a week ago.

Holden Lodge OORP held their regular monthly meeting on Dec 11th with HRL Mary Semotiuk in the chair. Regular business was attended to and correspondence read and dealt with. Reports of the UGG banquet on Nov. 17 was given by Lady Scherger, HRL Semotiuk reported on the Chamber of Commerce Christmas banquet. PHRL Helen Bilyk repoted that she and HRL Semotiuk had attended the annual Cancer Society meeting in Vegreville on Nov 22nd. The annual memorial service was held in memory of departed sisters of the Lodge. It was decided to hold the annual birthday party of the Lodge on Jan. 19th, with tentative plans discussed. This would be the 30th anniversary of the institution of the Lodge. A donation of $100 was made towards the piano for the Senior Citizens Lodge and a donation to Joyce Lutz to attend the Terry Fox Youth Center in Ottawa in April '85. This had been matched by Holden BPO Elks. Lady Helen Stecyk reported she had sent cards to Lady Nichold who is a hospital patient again and to Lady Kaluzny.

At the conclusion of the meeting, a lunch of Christmas goodies was enjoyed. Lunch hostesses were Lady Mary Hardy and Lady Helen Haas.

Jim and Laurie Budd, Tom and Joan Budd and children, all of Camrose, were Saturday visitors with their parents, Bruce and Mae Budd, returning home Sunday morning.

Mrs Jessie Chwihula returned home from Viking Hospital last week after being a patient there for several days.

In the recent Farmers' Bonspiel held in Bruce, the Harry Shyba rink placed third and the Ed Shyba rink 4th. In the C Event, Bill Shyba topped this event having a brother, Roger as third, Marcel Zowtiuk second and Darcy Dowhaniuk as lead.

Calre Anderson and Mrs. Ethel Brekstad were Sunday afternoon visitors with Ethel's aunt, Mrs Frances Hanson, a resident in Viking Nursing Home and to attend the Nursing Home Christmas party.

Residents around the area are still digging out from snowdrifts from the severe snow and wind storm on Friday night and Saturday.

Holden LCW held their monthly meeting on Thursday with Rev Sid Haugen in charge of the Bible study. President Ethel Brekstad was in charge of the business meeting. Reports were received and correspondence read and dealt with. Donations were made to LIME, the Lutheran [illegible] and the Lutheran World Relief. A short program was conducted by Mrs. Margaret Olsen and Mrs. [illegible]

Worship devotion was read by Mrs. Irene Olsen. At the conclusion of the meeting, lunch was served.

Holden and District School Association held their general meeting on Dec 6th with President Grace Sawers in the chair. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by secretary Mrs. Marie Therriaul and correspondence and new business then was discussed.

Mrs. Susan Tymchuk discussed the "Child Find" program and it was felt that more information is needed before becoming comitted to it. Susan Tymchuk and Janet Fleming volunteered to research this and get pertinent information. Mrs. Joyce Wilinson, program coordinator, reported on Soup Day which is held every Wednesday at the school.

An offical newsletter of the Holden and District Home and School Association "The Mortar Board" was presented by Carolyn Kiist with Donna Komarnisky and Gloria Stefantsyn reporting that to date there were 72 paid families. A film on bus safety was then shown and commented on by Mr MacGregor, the supervisor of buses for the County of Beaver.

At this time I would like to wish all the staff of The Mercury, friends and readers around the district, Season's Greetings! May you have the Gladness of Christmas which is Hope; the Spirit of Christmas — which is Peace; the heart of Christmas — which is Love; and may the Joy and Peace of Christmas be with you all, throughout the year.

Hockey teams play

Teams in Tofield's minor hockey program were active again last week.

Tom Thumbs

These youngsters went to Ardrossan to compete in a tournament.

They played a total of three games and managed an easy 13-2 triumph over Sherwood Park while losing in their other two outings.

Mighty Mites

Badgers and Wolverines both saw action against Fultonvale.

Badgers were edged 3-1 and then the Wolverines were edged 4-3.

Mites

Starbirds were doubled 4-2 by Fort Saskatchewan.

Pee Wees

There was a tournament held in Tofield in the past weekend, but no information was available.

Bantams

The bantams will be hosting an 'A' tournament in the Tofield Arena from Dec. 27-30 and are hoping for good fan support from the community.

Teams to take break

Teams competing in the [illegible]verhill Hockey League [illegible] get a five-day holiday [illegible]

For Tofield and Holden entries, the break will actually last a total of six days.

Holden will be at home to Vegreville on Friday night [illegible] water in the final games for both teams prior to a Christmas break.

Both teams will return to action on Dec 28th when the Satellites will be hosting [illegible]

Those games will be the final ones in the 1984 portion of the regular schedule for both Holden and Tofield.

First games in the 1985 part [illegible] is slated for Jan. 2nd when Tofield will host Lamont and Holden will travel over to Redwater.

Holden played in Lamont last night (Tuesday) while Tofield was in Mundare and results from those two games will be reported in the next edition of The Mercury.

Following last week's action, the race has tightened up even more as only four points separate the top four teams.

Redwater and Tofield have now moved to within one point of Mundare while Lamont trails that duo by three points, but Lamont has games in hand on the top three teams.

Lamont tightened the race when they defeated the leaders by a score of 10-7.

Tofield moved up in the standings when, after battling Redwater to a 6-6 stalemate, they trounced Holden 10-1.

In the only other game that was played during the past week, Vegreville outgunned Holden by an 11-6 count.

Games scheduled for Saturday night in Vegreville and Mundare were postponed because of the storm and both will be played at a later date.

Standings	W	L	T	GS	GA	Pts
Mundare	7	2	0	74	45	14
Redwater	6	2	1	66	52	13
Tofield	6	4	1	56	46	13
Lamont	5	2	0	55	29	10
Vegreville	3	7	0	52	80	6
Holden	0	10	0	51	98	0

School repairs discussed

by [illegible]

At the County of Beaver Board of Education meeting last Tuesday, the building committee reported that the Building Quality Restoration Program (BQRP) will include dust extraction for the Ryley and Viking shop facilities.

The business education facilities at Tofield, Ryley and Holden will get electrical upgrading and acoustic improvements. Replacement of lockers has begun at both Viking and Tofield Schools.

Plans for 1986 were discussed and the committee will tour all schools in the County of Beaver on January 15th.

The Board has advertised for a Clerk of the Works for the Tofield Shop and Home Ec. addition project.

The finance committee is a new body that replaced the previous salary committee. In addition to salary matters, this new committee is involved with the entire range of the financial aspects of the Board and will help to make future plans. They have started discussions of financial plans for 1985 although this is usually not done until January or February.

The Board will be asking for more information from the Town of Tofield regarding the issue of a crosswalk near C.W. Sears School.

Margaret Zilke has been appointed as a regular bus driver. Approval was given for the following spare bus drivers: Alfred Ulrich — Tofield and Ryley, Calvin Strauss — Tofield and Ryley and Joseph Bailey — Viking.

The Superintendent of Schools has been authorized to draft a policy outlining attendance boundaries for the County of Beaver. At present the bus routes govern these boundaries. The Board is attempting to keep students in certain attendance areas to help prevent school closures in the future.

This policy will establish definite boundaries but the superintendent stressed that there would be a public meeting held in the spring before anything definite is decided.

Approval has been given for time in lieu for principals. This means that if the board requests a principal to come in to work on a holiday period, that person will be able to take a day off at a later date with pay.

A letter will be sent to the Minister of Education indicating their concern over the rumours that there will not be any increase in the level of funding. The Board feels that it cannot continue to operate on a zero percent increase as they have done in the past.

A motion was passed recognizing the formation of a Principal's Advisory Committee (PAC) at the Tofield School.

A brief circulated by the County of Barrhead requesting more emphasis be placed on agricultural education in schools was received and the Board agreed to support it.

Status changes in the county include the hiring of Marie Rushton to teach grade five at Viking School and the resignation of Brian Boles, a grade six teacher at Tofield School.

Enrollment has dropped again. The total student population for the county now stands at 1904 as of November 30th. That is a decline of ten since the end of October. Tofield School dropped by 11, Ryley by two and Viking by one. Holden and C.W. Sears Schools increased by two each and the colonies stayed the same.

A Christmas Story

A friend of mine named Paul received a new automobile from his brother as a Christmas present. When Paul came out of his office on Christmas Eve, a street urchin was walking around the shiny new car, admiring it. "Is this your car, mister?" he asked.

Paul nodded. "My brother gave it to me for Christmas!" The boy was astounded. "You mean your brother gave it to you and it didn't cost you nothing? Boy I wish ..." He hesitated.

And Paul knew what he was going to wish. He was going to wish he had a brother like that. But what the lad said jarred Paul all the way down to his heels.

"I wish," the boy went on, "that I could be a brother like that!"

Paul looked at the boy in astonishment, then impulsively he added, "Would you like to ride in my automobile?"

After a short ride, the urchin turned and with his eyes aglow, said "Mister, would you mind driving in front of my house?"

Paul smiled a little. He thought he knew what the lad wanted. He wanted to show his neighbours that he could ride home in a big automobile. But Paul was wrong again.

"Will you stop where those two steps are?" the boy asked.

He ran up the steps. Then in a little while Paul heard him coming back, but he was not coming fast. He was carrying his little polio-crippled brother. He sat him down on the bottom step, then sort of squeezed up against him and pointed to the car.

"There she is, Buddy, just like I told you upstairs. His brother gave it to him for Christmas and it didn't cost him a cent. And some day I'm gonna give you one just like it ... then you can see for yourself all the pretty things in the Christmas windows that I've been trying to tell you about."

Paul got out and lifted the little lad to the front seat of his car. The shining-eyed older brother climbed in beside him and the three of them began a memorable holiday ride.

That Christmas Eve, Paul learned what Jesus meant when he said, "It is more blessed to give ..."

From all of us at the Ryley District Office, have a very Merry Christmas and a Joyful and Prosperous New Year!

Holden ups water rates

by Joan Murray

Village of Holden residents will be paying higher water and sewer and water meter deposit rates in the new year.

At the regular council meeting of the Village of Holden on Monday night, a by-law was passed setting the revised rates and made them effective on February 1, 1985.

The minimum bi-monthly rate for water will be $20 and sewer will be $14 for [illegible] service.

Council has decided to make an offer to purchase on the Central Service Building to be used as the new Fire Hall. The present Fire Hall has insufficient space to house the tanker truck which they expect to acquire next year.

The Village received a letter from the Provincial Government giving approval for a $174,000 grant under the Alberta Municipal Water Supply and Sewage Treatment grant Program for 1985.

A request by Corrine Wincure for garbage pick-up was denied because the location is outside the village limits.

In response to a recent complaint about chickens being kept within the Village limits, Village Administrator, Christine McKay has been directed to prepare a by-law restricting the keeping of poultry or livestock within village limits.

Council approved Willie Federation as a member of the Recreation Board.

Councillor Dorothy Emerson will attend an elected officials seminar in Vermilion on January 30th.

AGT operators set for Christmas calls

Switchboard operators at AGT are bracing themselves for an electronic Christmas Day rush.

On December 25, AGT expects to complete approximately 440,000 long distance calls, up three percent from the 436,000 long distance calls AGT handled last year on Christmas Day.

Christmas Day is traditionally the busiest day of the year next to Mother's Day.

Telephone users are expected to keep Alberta's microwave and satellite facilities loaded to capacity.

Approximately 850 AGT operators will be providing assistance on collect, person-to-person, third number billing and credit card calls.

Nationally, Telecom Canada estimates Canadians will make more than 5.5 million long distance calls between Christmas Eve and Boxing Day evening.

Reduced rates will be in effect on Christmas Day and New Year's Day. Direct-dialed calls made within Alberta between 8 a.m. and midnight will receive the usual 50 percent reduced Sunday rate. Direct-dialed calls throughout Canada, the United States and Mexico will be eligible for discounts up to 35 percent.

Normal rates will apply to operator handled and direct distance dialed overseas calls.

THANK YOU
THE TOFIELD FAIRGROUNDS ADVISORY BOARD

would like to extend their appreciation for the contributions of time, effort and generosity by the many individuals clubs and businesses involved in our work on the Tofield Fairgrounds for the 1983-84 year. Without your willingness to work on these projects, we would not see the tremendous improvements on our physical facilities at the grounds.

This year we have seen

1) The completion of new perimeter fencing for the men's baseball diamond.
2) Transport and spread of most of the black dirt necessary for grass seeding to proceed.
3) Transport and spread of a significant amount of gravel on the grounds.
4) Construction of a new portable announcers booth.
5) Planting and securing of 200 trees on the grounds; and
6) Installation of protective fences on the minor baseball diamond.

Also, since our finances depend heavily on the proceeds of July 1st, we would like to acknowledge the many groups and individuals who donate a lot of time and hard work towards making our July 1st Sports Day the successful and entertaining event it is.

We thank you and wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

RCMP seek aid

At approximately 4:30 p.m. on November 16th, a southbound motorist stopped his vehicle, opened the door and discharged a rifle, killing a 3/4 trained purebred German Shepherd.

The dog was trained in tracking and retrieving and was a pet to two small children.

The location was on the north-south road, two miles west of Secondary Hwy. 834 and approximately 11 miles north of Hwy. 14.

The vehicle is described as a '80-81, light blue Toyota or Datsun truck, a King Cab. The driver was a male in his early 30's and was not wearing any red or orange hunting clothing.

Should you have any knowledge of this occurrence, the RCMP would greatly appreciate your help. Any information will be treated as confidential.

The Hay Lakes and District Fish and Game family film night held on Dec. 7th in the Senior Citizen's Center was well attended. MLA Gordon Stromberg was a special guest and spoke briefly following the showing of three films. The raffle draw was made during the serving of lunch. Lucky winner of the $500 cash prize was Nathalia Schultz of New Sarepta. Mel Simmons of Edmonton won the $200 cash prize and Inet Knull of Hay Lakes was winner of the $100 cash prize.

Approximately 50 seniors attended the Christmas dinner and social afternoon held in the Hay Lakes Senior Citizen's Center on Dec. 12. Following the dinner, children in grades one, two and three at Hay Lakes School, along with their teachers, staged a short Christmas concert for the benefit of the senior citizens.

Following the departure of the children, the seniors played free bingo. The afternoon concluded with lunch being served.

Miller wins spiel

by Jane Murray

The Tofield Curling Club Tough 'Spiel was very successful over the weekend.

They had 64 entries with Pat Miller of Streme coming out top winner with a prize of one thousand dollars.

Other winners in order of their placement were: Edward Shyba of Holden; Doug Hardy of Tofield; Gordon Schmidt, Tofield; Don Saunders, Edmonton; Armand Coubault, Ryley; Darren Fish, Edmonton and Randy Erickson, Tofield.

Curling club member, Murray Lindsay instigated this event, he helped set up and run it over the weekend along with several others.

Major sponsors of the $3,000 purse [illegible] were Swift Ford Sales, and Telford Oilfield Products Ltd., Kallal Motors donated the plaque for the winners names to be placed upon this [illegible] subsequent years. The Club hopes to [illegible] this an annual event.

Trophies were donated by Judy's Flowers and the Trophy Hut. John Fisher Auctions auctioned the lots in the broom sale while Rick Berezan was responsible for the artwork [illegible] to produce a mammoth cheque for the winner to keep as a souvenir.

All the on-ice officials were volunteers and did a pretty good job of it according to several of the club executive members.

Mary-ann Nolan, Cindy Neufeld, Ann Adamson, Jackie Dumochel and Colleen Sears organized the officials and did the decorating for this event.

Dorothy Davidson and Lorne Pawluk of the Granite Curling Club in Edmonton helped with the planning of this Tough 'Spiel. The Tofield Curling Club contacted them first because they were the only club that had held such a unique competition before.

Tough 'Spiel entrants came from as far away as Saskatchewan and in Alberta included curlers from Tofield, Ryley, Holden, Streme and Edmonton.

IN MEMORIAM

IN LOVING MEMORY of Mrs. Louise Handel who passed away on Dec. 25 1983
In tears we saw you sinking
We watched you fade away
Our hearts were almost broken
You fought so hard to stay
But when we saw you sleeping
So peace free from pain
We could not wish you back again
To suffer that again
Dear God put your arms around her
And give her loving care
Make up for all she suffered
And all that seems unfair
—John, Sylvia, Downs, Arch and Louise 17p 8402

HARRISON — John & Rosalie, in memory of our mother, grandmother and great grandmother who passed away Dec. 20 1969 and our father, grandfather and great grandfather who passed away Dec. 28 1980.
—Fondly missed and always remembered. Barbara, Lynn, Harry, Doug, [illegible], Tom, [illegible] Preston, Perry and Tanya 16c 9130

CARDS OF THANKS

JOHNSON — Alberta C. We wish to express our sincere appreciation and our thank you to relatives, friends and neighbors who extended their support and sympathy in the recent loss of our dear husband, father, grandfather and great grandfather. We are truly grateful for the floral tributes, memorial donations, cards, baking, visits and calls. Special thanks to Pastor Haugen, the Lutheran W.A. who prepared and served lunch, organist Bea Wickstrom, vocalists Tom and Verna Friesen and Bob Clark. The Pallbearers and Tofield Funeral Home. God Bless you all.

Katimavik rep to visit

by Joan Murray

At the Tofield Council meeting on December 17th Town Administrator, Lori Pilon, advised that a co-ordinator from Katimavik would be visiting Tofield in January to review proposed projects.

Several projects will have to be mapped out for the co-ordinator to look at because, under the Katimavik program, there will be 12 volunteers billeted in Tofield for a nine-month period to do the labour for these projects.

Improvements on the cemetery, a top priority project, includes cleaning out thick undergrowth and debris which has collected on the periphery of the cemetery, removal of large trees where roots are uprooting headstones and lot markers as well as landscaping of the area to make both the existing graves and pre-determined lots accessible.

Research will be done to enable the marking of the unmarked graves. A four-foot chain link fence will be erected around the cemetery and roads will be upgraded and extended. The equipment shed also needs replacing.

Katimavik, or STEP employees, will provide all of the labour except that which is [illegible] skilled labour.

The town has applied for $2000 in provincial grant monies to put towards this project.

Council agreed to rent a loader from Ray's Equipment to determine whether a front-end loader of this size and type would suit the Town's [illegible].

It was reported that the water treatment plant would need minor equipment replacement.

Council reviewed equipment rental rates, the cost to lease town owned office space and the sale price of town owned lots. The administrator was directed to obtain government rates for equipment rental.

Council approved a request

Schools set to open

Schools in the County of Beaver are scheduled to reopen next week and at presstime, it appeared that [illegible] re would not be any change in this regard.

Teachers in the area served by the Elk Island Regional [illegible] Authorities Association voted, earlier this month (December), in favour of holding a government supervised strike vote.

No word had been received, when the news deadline had arrived, when to hold such a vote.

Should the teachers in favour of strike action to back their demands, they would then be required to give school officials seventy-two hours (three days) notice before they could actually walk off the job.

Teachers are seeking a two-year pact calling for a two per-cent wage hike for this year and a three percent increase in 1985 while trustees have called for a wage freeze over the same two-year period.

Schools involved are located in the Counties of Beaver, Flagstaff, Lamont and Minburn along with the School Divisions of Wainwright and [illegible].

To the south, in the area served by the Battle River School Authorities Association, teachers have already [illegible] in favour of strike action in a government supervised vote.

Teachers in that region will meet on Thursday to decide when, and/or if they will walk off the job.

Authority plans budget

by Joan Murray

At the Beaver Regional Waste Management Authority meeting on Dec. 13th, a committee composed of Fred Meyer, Bob Cross and Rueben [illegible] met.

A meeting for this committee to prepare the 1985 budget was scheduled for Jan 17th in the County Office.

Project engineer, Rick Prentice, reported that [illegible] on the Holden [illegible] site were due to the need for an additional trench to be dug on site for winter use, the haul road being softer than had been anticipated and two meters of subcut being required in some areas of construction, material from the dugout being extremely wet for the first two and a half meters plus the weather conditions [illegible].

Prentice recommended that, due to these circumstances, additional costs incurred on the construction of the transfer site be approved.

Eugene Liskiw of Alberta Environment advised that additional capital costs incurred in the construction of sites would be paid by Environment, if the costs could be justified.

The Authority heard and accepted a report from committee member Regher that the Town of Tofield was presently reviewing the possibility of purchasing a truck for the hauling of garbage, as opposed to a transfer station.

Rick Prentice reported that the earthworks were completed at the site at Bruce, except for clean-up to be done in the spring. Bin walls were slated for construction in January and at the Viking site, bin walls have been [illegible].

No further information from Canadian National Railway on the Kinsella site has been received, as yet. Vegreville Health Unit, in conjunction with [illegible] Health Unit, are investigating the site suitability. The Lindbrook site has received approval from the Health Unit, but has not yet been approved for subdivision.

The Town of Viking has been given permission to use the trailer unit for hauling garbage if the transfer station is complete, but they will be responsible for hiring a tractor unit for the time being.

The annual meeting is scheduled for Feb. 20th and the next regular meeting will be held on Jan. 17th in the County Office.

Christmas concerts held

By Joan Murray

The Tofield Elementary School Christmas concert began with choir members performing a candlelight ceremony marching around the audience and ceremoniously placing their candles on a stand at centre [illegible].

Jason Harrison and April Kashuru narrated "A Charlie Brown Christmas" throughout the evening performance.

The choir sang several numbers between performances by individual class groups.

Pianists Rebecca Laidlaw and Elaine Kauffman provided the accompaniment, with lighting and sound by Brett Thomas, decorations by grade fives and program colorations by grade fours.

The C.W. Sears School Christmas concert initially scheduled for December 20th was cancelled due to storm [illegible].

Parents were notified the next day that the concert would be held that afternoon, but not everyone was able to attend that session. Grandparents and some of the parents had attended the rehearsal on the afternoon of Dec. 20th.

The program was very entertaining with the master of ceremonies "Mr. Smurf" employing many humorous antics while he introduced each class. This unidentified person had the little ones in the audience watching for his arch enemy Gargamel throughout the entire program.

The songs and little skits were performed by all students from grades one to three and the kindergarten classes. The programs were decorated with drawings from the top three winners in grades 1, 2 and 3.

Happy New Year

Though the season varies from country to country, from one side of the equator to the other, there are words for it in almost every language known to man, as the whole world peels out the 'Happy New Year' greeting. And as this column has now for well over a third of a century, we offer our toast for a better life, and a fuller living:

PURPOSE FOR THE YOUNG,
[illegible] FOR THE MATURE
PEACE FOR THE AGED.

Can't win

Sometimes it seems we can't win for losing.

Months of pressure from indignant citizens finally persuaded the justice department in Ottawa, and the new Minister of Justice, John Crosbie, to develop tougher penalties for drivers convicted of driving while exceeding legal alcohol levels.

And just when it seems there could be sweeping attacks aimed at diminishing the peril on the road, along comes the Minister of Justice himself, backed up by numerous surveys, to question whether Canadians will permit imposition of these tough new sentences.

Not only Mr. Crosbie, but also the insurance agents association say they don't think Canadians will permit first time offenders to go to jail. We shouldn't say first time offenders, but offenders convicted for the first time.

Indeed the insurance agents point to a poll taken among their customers which says 83 percent of Canadian drivers would object to a mandatory jail term, however short, for first time convictions.

But did either Crosbie or the insurance agents contact the families of drivers? Most insurance, we think, is issued to men, although increasing numbers of women are seeing it issued in their names alone.

Many of these men, we suggest, are family men, men whose wives or families are often scared stiff to step into a vehicle with a driver whose skill or judgment they fear. Why not poll them, and see whether 83 percent are still opposed?

Why would they step into a car knowing the driver, their husband or father, might not be in complete control? Why wouldn't they object, steal the keys, refuse to ride along? That's like asking why do wives let their husbands beat them or the children. That's to misunderstand the nature of many people when they've been drinking too much, and become downright hostile, or brutal. Even bestial.

We tend to mistrust surveys of drivers which suggest they don't love the prospect of facing the music for drinking over the limit and driving. They don't like penalties for driving over the speed limit, either, or parking too long. Or many other infractions.

But why don't we ask some of the other people? The non-drivers, the non-drinkers, the pedestrians, the victims of irresponsible driving. Would we still look for five out of six opposed?

One thing should be emphasized, that being the blood alcohol or impairment standard is already set far higher than in many other jurisdictions. In other words, it leaves little room for doubt.

Crimestoppers

Under one or another name, several programs are springing up these days to help police forces fight crime in the community, enlisting the aid of private citizens who may have information but who are reluctant to come forward with it.

Some of these programs are initiated by police commissions, some by citizen's or vigilante groups, some even by newspapers, radio or television stations.

Very often a reward is offered for information leading to arrest and conviction, and almost as often, the public is told "you don't have to identify yourself (except to collect a reward). Simply tell us what you know and you'll be spared any further involvement."

Now, we're thoroughly behind the concept of reducing crime. We think most citizens really feel the same way. We know and understand why many of them are reluctant to become involved . . . particularly in the process of being called as a witness, something that is sometimes bruising, sometimes embarassing, sometimes expensive, sometimes purely a nuisance, and sometimes something else too.

Yet we must confess some concern over this aspect of anonymity.

We had always thought one of the cornerstones of "British justice" was the fight to know who your accuser was. We have felt that ancient Britons scored a mighty victory when they pulled the hood from the head of the faceless accuser at Star Court trials and such, and had a better chance to answer the accusation levelled at them.

We know police forces need help. We know society must be brought into the system if we are to have any hope of reducing crime But at the same time we have grave misgivings over the possibilities which seem to stem from nameless accusers, faceless accusers, charges which are hard to answer when you don't know their source

We know, too, that in the pursuit of one important goal, it is easy to lose sight of another, even more important, goal.

Are we wrong in believing that being faced by your accuser is one of the very foundation stones of the justice system we have held so dear, so important, over so many centuries?

Just For Fun

by [illegible]

It all began with the purchase of a pocket instamatic camera about ten years ago. I snapped, developed and mounted to my heart's content, while my family suffered through numerous bouts of pushing, pulling, shifting and other indignities, while I prepared them for the final shot.

A perpetually poised, damp, forefinger was ever ready to eradicate any stray hairs or minute facial smudges. The occasional poke in the eye seemed to do away with any unscheduled head movements.

Much to the delight of my loved ones, my insatiable desire seemed to be satisfied and the activities just described seemed to slow down somewhat. Little did they know that it was caused by the permanent breakdown of a flash unit.

Christmas '78 rolled around and a number one son said "Guess what Dad got you for Christmas . . . I'll give you a clue . . . it takes pictures."

Dad, as you might imagine was less than impressed with this great clue. He gave me a weak smile that seemed to say "One more wouldn't hurt, would it?"

"[illegible]?" What an absurd question — already my eyes were seeing through a square [illegible].

The progress, of my now obvious fever, accelerated with the arrival of the "Pronto". I was ecstatic and off on a photo binge for as long as my cash held out

Lack of funds made this attack short-lived and I suffered long periods of withdrawal pangs mildly alleviated by shaving the household [illegible] down in order to buy just [illegible] more 10-pack and flash bar.

My husband, bless him, could never stand to see me suffer for any length of time and when Christmas '79 arrived . . . you guessed it . . . a new and improved camera.

It was the ultimate high for a budding photomaniac . . . a 35 mm with electronic flash. He even saved the agony of trial and error by presenting me with a four-day photography course and offered to babysit while I attended.

I believe he thought that this would satisfy my habit forever but, when I dashed out of the house to catch the snow melting on film, I sang out "See you in the movies!" and his smiling face was transformed in to that of Dr. Frankenstein saying "What have I done?!"

"But, Officer, I was only . . ."

Various lists of reasons and excuses circulate widely within both the safety press and the corporate press. While they are undoubtedly based on some truth, and real events that did once happen, they are seldom as new as editors would have their readers believe! The items have simply been "borrowed" from other publications

These are originals. Here is a selection of reasons given to police officers to explain some errant action. And when you [illegible] one metropolitan police area in a relatively short space of time, the potential for story [illegible] ble is, few would believe it the [illegible].

P.C. Tommy Wall of the [illegible] a man riding a moped along the street towards him. The man had a dog on a leash. When stopped and asked what he was doing, the man explained, "I am taking the dog for a walk."

Not far away, a WPC, Edwina Sykes, saw a four-wheel drive vehicle being driven along railway tracks that formed the main line through Hazel Grove Questioned, the [illegible]"

P C. Don Roper, an Oldham motorcycle officer, inspected a truck and found a large [illegible] tire, revealing the cords underneath The driver's explanation was somewhat original: "But officer, it's hard to see . . . it was at the [illegible]"

Following a single-vehicle accident wherein a car collided with a brick wall, P C Andrew Abbott asked the driver if he was alleging any vehicle defects "Yes," was the reply, "[illegible] from me A later inspection showed tires had between 56 and 60 lbs air pressure per square inch

And finally consider this one

Major road construction was taking place at the scene of an accident and there was advanced warnings of the construction for more than half a mile including signs that the road would narrow

It was night, street lights were on all the signs were well lit and visibility was considered good Despite all the warnings a driver failed to slow or adjust to the construction and collided with a wooden structure fifteen feet long and fourteen inches square, overturning the car Fortunately, driver and passenger had only minor injuries, and P.C. Appleton, told the driver he would be charged with failing to drive with due care and attention.

And the reply?

"What can I do? It's a stupid place to put construction anyway."

Victims of crime Hamper the system

251-3rd Ave. S.,
[illegible]
[illegible]

Dear Sir,

According to a recent Gallup Poll, Canadians are demanding stiffer penalties for violent crimes, including capital punishment for murder and in some cases for child abuse and rape as well

At present, most types of crime are on the increase because lenient sentences our judges hand out to criminals are often merely an invitation to commit more violent crimes. Repeat business is important to all enterprises, so why would one put a good criminal customer in prison if he could be out committing other crimes to benefit the justice and political system? After all, crime does create good jobs for important people.

Obviously, neither the courts nor the politicians want crime to stop. Politicians encourage it by selling booze, which is involved in most crimes. Our politicians have a great secret love for all criminals because criminals create well-paying jobs for lawyers, doctors, judges, [illegible]

Our economy would suffer if it was not for sickness and crime, created by our elected politicians through the advertising and selling of liquor. Booze is the biggest job-creator our politicians have ever known. We, the public, must appreciate why the innocent victims of crime have few, if any, friends in either our political or justice system. [illegible] be more broadminded and realize they are creating jobs, even if for the grave diggers.

You, the reader, can bet your life that neither our courts nor our elected politicians have any intention of stopping crime. But, do not be surprised if you or one of your family are the next victims used to create or maintain a job, for someone in high places.

League race is tight

As teams in the Beaverhill Hockey League venture into 1985, very little has been decided during the '84 portion of the regular schedule.

Except that close races could be the rule before first place and the four playoff berths are determined.

Going into this past weekend's action, Mundare and Redwater were in a dead heat for first place with both teams a mere four points ahead of Lamont and Tofield who were tied for third place.

Vegreville was a major step off the pace as that squad was five points away from a playoff berth while Holden was still looking for its first victory of the season after twelve successive losses.

Tofield was at home to Vegreville on Friday night while Holden hosted Mundare and a Saturday contest saw Redwater play in Lamont with results from those three games not being available because of an earlier than usual deadline for this edition of The Mercury (to beat the New Year's deadline).

On Wednesday, Tofield will be at home to Lamont while Holden plays in Redwater.

Both Holden and Tofield are home on Friday night with the Beavers hosting Lamont while the Satellites will be meeting Mundare.

Both teams will swing right back into action next Tuesday (Jan. 8th) when they face each other in Holden.

With each team playing a thirty-game schedule before the season is concluded, anything is still possible as the last place Holden Beavers, for instance, are still in contention for top spot.

Mundare clung to its share of first place following recent games when they blanked Tofield 3-0 and then battled Lamont to a 6-6 standoff.

Redwater picked up two victories to move into a share of the lead when they edged Vegreville 5-4 and then squeezed by Tofield by a 6-4 count.

In the only other two games that were played, Lamont outgunned Holden 9-7 and then, Vegreville came up with the biggest outburst of the season as they thumped Holden 23-7.

"I promise to be more organized with my farm record keeping in 1985!" If this is your New Year's resolution, it is an admirable one. Yet it requires a considerable amount of effort to stay organized

A farm office is definitely one way of fulfilling this resolution. It enables the farm bookkeeper to have a designated spot for every bit of information essential to the operation of the farm. If at all possible, having a separate room for the farm office is very beneficial as it controls the efforts of children, pets and over-ambitious housekeepers. It also allows you to have information at your fingertips, where it has to be, if you are going to make good use of it

Managing a farm implies that there are options open and decisions to be made. Accurate, informed, realistic and reasonable decisions must always be based on information. The farm office will help to keep this information organized and accessible

However, the farm office won't do your work for you. It will certainly make your work easier and more enjoyable but only you can ensure that the records are up to date. Setting aside a specific time each week or each month is one way of getting the work done. Some farmers will look after their paperwork each time a bill or bills are paid or every time they get their mail. This way, a stack of paper doesn't build up. Remember that huge stacks of paper usually cause people to put it off. The result is that the stack grows and looks even more threatening

Information that is well organized and up-to-date can be very beneficial to the operator and the farm operation. The two requirements needed are effort and the proper atmosphere. The effort is entirely up to the record keeper. The atmosphere may be improved by calling us for a copy of a publication entitled "Setting Up a Farm Office" [illegible]

From all of us at the Ryley Office - have a Happy 1985!

Ministik and district news

by [illegible]

[illegible]

Your Ministik correspondent wishes to extend best wishes for a merry and festive season to all friends and neighbors, to The Mercury staff, fellow correspondents and the many Mercury subscribers in far reaching parts of Canada and the United States, who are faithful readers of The Mercury

May the year 1985 be good to one and all and let's hope and pray there will be less turmoil in the world

All those many who attended on Thursday evening in the Community Hall were treated to a lovely rendition of the Christmas Story and Cantata by the Gospel Church Choir [illegible] Tofield

The choir was conducted by their pastor, Randy Benson. Members of the Ladies Club served lunch. Oranges and candy canes were a treat for the children and choir members

The Ladies Club's annual Christmas party was held at the Hall on Wednesday afternoon with most club members being present and guests, Sylvia Kleinschroth and [illegible]

After a short business session, Gladys Swabey, who acted as Mrs. Santa, called on each lady in turn to perform and receive a gift. She was assisted by her sister, Laurie. After all gifts were viewed and greeting cards exchanged, a hot dinner was enjoyed by all, prepared by hostesses, Joyce Bowerman, Vi Roddick and Betty Williams. The main course was followed by a dessert of fruit trifle and many cookies, slices, shortbread and mince tarts.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Jean Ferguson and roll call will be articles for the Tofield food bank

Members of the Davenport family gathered at Joe and Eva's to honor Joe on the occasion of his birthday, on Sunday

The Holmes family honored both Jim and young Jim for their birthdays on Sunday, at the home of Delsie and Jim Holmes

The attendance in the Hall on Friday night for the Christmas turkey bingo, was far beyond the expectations of the conveners as there was a capacity crowd

Bingo players came from Edmonton, Beaumont, Looma, Tofield and South Cooking Lake as well as many from the area. Conveners Darlene Brett, Carol Dekinder and Sue Nordin were assisted by Debbie and Cindy Brett, Crystal Dekinder and David [illegible]

Callers for the bingo were Bernie Witske and John Vandermeer

The door prize was won by David Nordin and the raffle of a chocolate chip doll was won by Laurie Swabey and second prize, a peppermint pattie doll, was won by Donna [illegible]

Winner of the blackout bingo was won by Delsie Holmes.

A lunch was served

Little Mark Horricks was a patient in hospital for three days, suffering from croup.

Clare and Ron MacLean motored to Calgary on Saturday bringing back their daughter, Debbie and boys, Jordan and Blair

Marie and Fred McInroy are the proud grandparents of a granddaughter who answers to Jamie Marie

Crib club busy

The Tofield Crib Club is active and plans a busy schedule for the months ahead.

To kick off 1985 in the right fashion, the club has scheduled a tournament for Sunday

This tournament will be held in the Seniors Drop-In Center and will commence at two o'clock with everyone welcome to attend.

The club meets under the sponsorship of the Tofield Golden Club on the first and third Sunday of each month

First place trophy winners to date include Stanley Klatchuk, Peter Korbie, Art Williams and Hans Henn-[illegible]

Second place winners include Bob Scott, Art Williams, Stanley Klatchuk and Gertrude Pointer

Lowest "score of the day" trophy winners to date are Art Williams, Irene Scott, Maggie Peterson and Nola Ferguson

Cloudy conditions hover over league

The 1985 operation of the Battle River High School Basketball League was somewhat clouded, at presstime on Friday

League activities are supposed to resume on Jan. 11th in the five-school league

However, the '85 operation of the league could hinge on contract negotiations between teachers and school authorities

At the present time, teachers belonging to the Elk Island Regional School Authorities Association area have voted in favour of holding a government supervised strike vote

No date had been established, at presstime, for the holding of such a vote

If the teachers do vote in favour of strike action and do walk off the job, league activities will come to a complete standstill

If play is able to continue, games on Jan 11th would see Tofield play in Daysland while Ryley travels over to Viking

Make it your New Year's resolution... say to yourself, "When driving, I am going to put my child in a car safety seat!"

Traffic collisions are the number one killer of children beyond their first year of life. That's why a new Act was put into effect for January 1st, 1985

The new Child Transportation Act, Bill 83, applies to all children born after December 31, 1984, until they reach five years of age or 18 kilograms (40 lbs.)

It reads, "... no person driving on a highway will operate a vehicle with a child as a passenger unless the child is occupying and is properly secured in an approved child car safety seat."

from George Dinstel, co-ordinator of the Beaverhill Bird Dog Derby, that council waive the rental fee on the Community Hall for the Derby's use on Jan. 12th and 13th.

However, the request will only be waived on the meeting room and lobby. Should the turnout of people warrant the use of the main hall, the Derby will be required to pay the going rate.

Proposed budget items for the Tofield Fire Department were presented.

The proposal includes upgrading the communications system, improving of personal safety equipment, acquisition of a 33-foot ladder to enable the department access to the third story of the hotel or other buildings of similar height. They also requested a monitor (deluge gun) and an additional 2½ inch nozzle to enable them to move a sufficient volume of water from the hydrant to the attack trucks in the event of a fire at the hospital hotel, grain elevator etc.

News from Ministik

by Catherine Reddon

Your correspondent is sorry the Ministik Season's Greetings did not get into the Christmas issue of The Mercury. They were sent in two weeks in advance, to insure they would, but with heavy mail and other circumstances beyond our control, they did not get published.

We hope each and every one of you enjoyed a Merry Christmas with family or friends, and that 1985 is good to you.

The best news Gladys Swabey could get at Christmas is that husband Frank could be home with her after being in hospital for five weeks having two knee replacements. Their son, Bob and wife Joan and family from Sylvan Lake spent several days of the holidays with them.

A dashing afternoon has been arranged to take place at the Crafts Center on Jan. 10th when a ladies' and men's team will come from Garden Seniors for a friendly game of dusking. Lunch will be served.

The games afternoon and pot-luck supper at the center on December 15th was enjoyed by all those in attendance. Some whist, crib and bingo were played, after which several Christmas carols were sung, and a pot-luck supper followed.

The first whist drive of the 1985 season at the center will be on Jan. 11th.

At the last Community League meeting of the year, held at the hall, it was decided to have a snowmobile poker rally on Jan. 27 and one on Feb. 26th. A skating party and pot-luck supper will be on Jan. 19th.

Later in the year, on March 9th a dance of the roaring 20's, 30's and 40's is to be held. Carol Dekinder will convene this.

Jean and Russell Rowland were hosts to all members of their family on Christmas Day. Their grandson, Shayne spent part of his holidays with them.

John and Truus Vandenrower were hosts to their family on Boxing Day.

The Joe Davenports joined a family gathering on Christmas Day at their daughter, Phyllis Theberge and husband Gerry's home in Camrose.

Jean Ferguson was a Christmas Day guest at the Ronald Ferguson home.

Graham Allan of Tofield visited many families in the area the day before Christmas.

Greg Thor and friends spent Christmas Eve at several homes with their Christmas caroelling. They were transported on a farm wagon loaned by Clifford Horrocks.

Jean and George Kleinschroth were Christmas Day hosts to the many members of their family.

The Christmas program held at the Hall on December 13th with the pupils of Ministik School participating, was once again enjoyed by the many parents and friends who attended. Grades included one to six.

Seniors who travel on the Seniors' bus each week have recessed until Jan 8th. Their trip that day will take them to Fort Saskatchewan for the day, rather than into the city

Family Spending – Part of the Total Financial Plan

In today's complex economic environment of fluctuating interest rates, rising input costs and soft markets for farm products, farm families know it's essential to control farm expenses. But how much attention do you give to family living expenses? Can you estimate to within a few hundred dollars how much it cost your family to live in 1984, or forecast expenses for 1985?

Whether you farm or not, knowing your family living costs for the year is essential for any short or long term planning.

Although living costs may seem a small portion of the farm budget, costs of household operation must be budgeted for, no matter what the price of grain is.

One of the best ways to gain control of family expenses is to keep records for several months. Develop the habit of keeping your bills and receipts, write cheques whenever possible and note each time you give money to your children. The publication "Cope With Family Financial Records" is available free from Alberta Agriculture offices and can be used to record your family expenses.

Once you've kept track for a few months you may find some surprises. Groceries can add up even though you supply your own meat and vegetables. Does curling or hockey really cost that much? A record of where the money goes gives you facts to base family spending decisions on.

Resolve to gain control over your family finances in 1985 by keeping track of living expenses. After a few months you will have a feel for basic costs; after a year you will be able to tackle some long term planning.

For a copy of "Cope With Family Financial Records", and for help in setting up your record keeping system contact Maureen Bauman, Home Economist in Ryley.

A noon hour seminar on "goal setting and motivation" will be held in the Tofield Drop-in Centre on Friday with everyone invited to attend.

TransAlta seeks 5.4% rate hike

TransAlta Utilities Corporation has filed an application with Alberta Public Utilities Board (PUB) for an interim rate increase of 5.4 percent, net of rebate, effective February 1st.

The company's last rate increase amounting to six percent, net of rebate, took place over a year ago, in November, 1983.

The current application arises from the PUB's decision on November 27, on the company's 1984 revenue re-

Helping Doris Urch is just one of the many ways our Heritage Fund is at work.

I really think there are a lot of seniors who could benefit from this kind of housing. a well-managed place where you can have a sense of community while at the same time, privacy and independence – at a rent you can afford.

Doris's words are echoed by other Albertans living in housing projects our Heritage Fund helped make possible.

Affordable housing is only one of the ways our Heritage Fund works for us. Others like agriculture, health care, medical research, our environment and many more are described in the new folders developed to tell you more about the Heritage Fund. Pick them up at the display racks in Alberta Treasury Branches and many public buildings, or mail this coupon.

Sled Dog Derby nears

by Jean Harvey

Winter sports enthusiasts can look forward to something different this year.

The Tofield Sled Dog Derby is scheduled for Jan. 12th and 13th and it looks like it will have ideal weather conditions if this cold snap continues.

The Harvey family lives about five miles south of Kingman and have two avid "mushers" (drivers) in their midst.

Bronze medalist, Jim Harvey achieved his standing last year in the International Sled Dog Racing Association Point Championships and has been one of the top five racers in North America for the past couple of years.

Unfortunately he will not be seen at the Tofield Derby because he is presently competing in three consecutive races in the United States. Last year, Harvey took firsts at Prince Albert, Fort McMurray and Fort Nelson.

However, his thirteen year-old daughter, Tammy, will return from competition in the U.S. to enter the Beaverhill Sled Dog Derby.

She has only been racing for a year, yet has taken first place at both Rocky Mountain House and Fort McMurray last year.

She raised and trained the team she will be entering in Tofield.

The Harvey's own and operate Boyarka Kennels where Jackie Harvey harness trains the puppies. She is also the obedience trainer and groomer and has taught courses in both these fields in Camrose last year.

Jackie said that sled dogs often give the appearance of being thin or underfed in comparison to standard pet dogs, but explained that they are like athletes and must be lean and in top shape to perform at their peak when working. Handlers have the ability to assess a dog's weight by feel and strive to maintain the ideal running weight within eight ounces to a pound.

She mentioned that pet dogs should not be brought to the race site unless they are kept on a leash or confined in a vehicle. There is a possibility that one might leap at the team or start barking, which could pose a hazard to both the team and the pet.

Boyarka Kennels raise Alaska racing huskies strictly for racing and do not sell them for pets.

It is anticipated that the purse for the upcoming derby at Tofield will be $2,000. Entry fees for the eight and six dog class have been set at $30. Prize money will be distributed on a percentage basis.

The three-dog novice entry fee is seven dollars and winners will receive trophies, prizes and dog food.

The weight pull has a seven dollar entry fee as well as prizes consist of dog food. The kid an mutt race winners will receive ribbons for their efforts.

Mushers will meet at the Tofield Community Hall at 10 a.m. on Jan. 12th to draw for positions and go over the race and rules.

It has been said that sled dog racing is one of the fastest growing winter sports in North America.

Interest in the sport has accelerated in the past four or five years and the racing circuit stretches from New York through Canada to Alaska.

To Hospital Board Administration All Staff and Friends

I'd like to thank all my friends who participated in putting on my retirement party, also for all the beautiful gifts I received. Really enjoyed the skit "Ode to a Housekeeper". Thanks and best to all in '85.

BETWEEN THE COVERS

If Christmas Day didn't reveal a new coffee-table style book under your tree, try one of these, found on the new book table this week.

North American Wildlife, by George Laycock combines superb photography of many species of animals with interesting non-scientific text.

Birds Of Canada, by Peter Casey is a photographic delight of birdlife. Definitely for armchair birdwatchers!

The Board Game Book, is a lavish collection of board games played in many countries, and different historical periods, including everything from Chinese Chess to Nine Men's Morris. Complete instructions are given for each game, which may be played right on the pages of the book if desired.

Alberta The Badlands, by Brian Noble and Glenn Rollans is a rich portrait of this fascinating area of our province.

However, if you prefer to curl up with a new novel, try the following, or ask for one of the other titles mentioned last week.

Proof, by Dick Francis, will find a ready audience in his readers. Since Daisy Creek, is W O Mitchell's latest publication, and Joy Fielding offers Life Penalty.

Our popular 'Booktime' program for children in Kindergarten to Grade 3 will begin again on Thursday January 10, at 4 p.m. This read-aloud session will last for eight weeks, at a cost of $2.00 per child. New volunteer Bill Sears will be the reader for this program.

Preschool Storyhour reconvenes for the second half of the winter session on January 8 and 11.

The Mobile Library Service is underway again. If you are a Lodge resident or in the Heritage Apartments, please let us know your reading interests. We can deliver Large Print Books, talking books for the reading-handicapped, fiction and nonfiction of all kinds. The regular library day for this service is alternate Friday afternoons, beginning Dec. 28.

Library hours are Tuesday 1-5, Thursday 3-5 and 6-9, Friday and Saturday 10-12 and 1-5. The library will be closed January 1.

Happy New Year to all!

I Remember When . . .

by Elle McRoberts

In my youth the celebrating of Christmas was the highlight of the year. I know it is an important event in the lives of today's child too. But there have been so many changes since my young days. Admittedly the multi-colored lighted and decorated streets, homes and stores are beautiful but, sometimes I wonder that if in the hustle and bustle and the commercializing that the true Christmas spirit has not been lost in the shuffle. Maybe it is only nostalgia, but in some way, somehow it seems to me that our Christmas, in its very simplicity evoked the truer Christmas spirit.

Our gifts were all homemade, mine laboriously so. My specialty was in making pin cushions, needle cases and pot holders, the latter made in the log cabin quilt pattern, padded and lined. [illegible] I fancied knitting suspenders — the beginning required five stitches soon grew into a dozen or more.

Until 1906 David and I believed implicitly in Santa Claus. We did not bump into him on every city corner and street corner. We were disillusioned the following year.

But I well remember that Christmas of 1906. David carrying a dimly lit lamp came into my room at about 4 a.m. I tumbled out of bed and shivered into my clothes. Then we descended down the chilly stairs through a few halls and into the shadowy cavernous kitchen.

Yes, Santa had been there. The long black stockings we had hung the previous night bulged intriguingly. A wrapped parcel protruded out of David's stocking and a large box sat under mine. We restrained ourselves nobly. First we had to get some heat going. With plenty of kindling we soon got the old Waterloo humming. Then joined by Clover, our cat, and Nero (our dog) we dug into our treasures.

Davids parcel contained a mouse trap. A shaped hollowed out block of wood with a sliding door held up with a string which passed through a hole in the top dangling the bait. The trapped mouse would be [illegible]ared of [illegible] lunch.

My box contained a miniature "pung" complete with seat and dashboard. A [illegible] string of binder twine, the [illegible] tied to each runner substituting for shafts. My rag dolls Maggie and Bessie would be delighted.

We each had a rosy apple, a bag of candy and a doughnut. Mrs. Santa Claus used the same method as mother — plaiting three strips of dough together before deep frying. We were delighted with our gifts and so was Mother when she came rustling down in her flour starched apron. She had reserved other gifts for us — mitts from Aunt Nell, a polka dot blue tie for David and a beautiful enamelled brooch for me. I saw it in Eaton's catalogue later — priced 19 cents.

Mother took over the family worship period that morning. She read again the Christmas Story, stressing the fact that Jesus was the first gift to mankind and we exchanged gifts in memory of that occasion.

We played games in and out of doors and worked up a good appetite for our scrumptious dinner. Stuffed roast goose, baked in the high round oven of the Waterloo. Scads of vegetables cooked in heavy iron pots, gravy and apple sauce. Mince pie made from mother's own mince. And doughnuts.

For us doughnuts and Christmas were linked together, as in later years my brothers wives learned.

In later years we would drag home a tree, cut from our own wood lot. We would decorate it with homemade streamers, long strings of popcorn, homemade gifts, gingerbread men and candy. But no multi-colored lights, no tinsel or artifical snow. No expensive toys.

That was our Christmas. Boring?

Oh no, it was the highlight of the year. Just a happy family gathering.

Our school board were thumbs down on any Christmas nonsense. But our church had loosened up. I was 12 years old when our first Sunday School concert was held. I had a recitation — but I got a case of stage fright that night which I have not gotten over yet.

A fellow student had a "piece" to say. It was supposed to be funny, but in his rendition he laughed himself into hysterics. Neither one of us got an encore.

Contrary to the wishes of the Old Guard we had a tree that night and Santa Claus was permitted to attend. When he bounced in bewhiskered and in a fiery red suit the most of the small kids took refuge under the pews. They thought it was the devil coming to wreak vengeance for the desecration of the church. But they crawled out when the candy and apples were passed out.

Teen dances planned

by Joan Murray

Monthly teen dances are planned for junior and senior high school students in the Ryley, Holden and Tofield areas.

The first was held on Dec. 28th in the Ryley Legion Hall in celebration of Christmas and the new year.

One of the dance organizers, Gail Capogreco, said that although there were only 75 young people in attendance, she felt that the event had been a success. She attributed the low attendance to the -40 degree temperatures that were experienced that evening and is looking forward to a higher number turning out for the Valentine's Day dance planned for Feb. 15th.

Brenda Istace, the other organizer, was present at the dance along with Diane Sinnard and Sonia Booth. Walter Kwastak and Doug Capogreco organized the dance music from tapes brought by the students.

It is planned that there will be one or two helpers along with two or three mothers in attendance at all forthcoming dances.

This kind of function had been discussed informally by parents in the area for the past few years, but six months ago they decided to act. Capogreco said they hope it will serve to bring all students in the three municipalities together for an evening of harmony and fun.

There is an admission charge and each person will be eligible to enter a draw for the door prize.

The Ryley Legion encourages the use of their facilities for youth functions and allowed for the use of dispensing machines for soft drinks and other utensils as needed.

Ryley Motors, Ryley Farm and Industrial, and Ryley Junior Sports are giving financial support. Clip 'n Curl Unisex Hairfashions in Ryley and the Town and Country Drug Mart in Tofield provided the dance contest and door prizes, and G and M Foods contributed in any way they could.

These dances are non-school functions and any student arriving under the influence will be refused admission.

Sled Dog Derby is set

by Joan Murray

The first annual Beaverhill Sled Dog Derby has attracted at least one big racer amongst the 32 entries received so far.

Dennis Skordahl, international bronze medalist in the 6-dog class will be coming from Alaska to compete this weekend at the race site located one-half mile north of Tofield, via Highway 834.

Derby co-ordinator, George Dinsdel, and that the race marshall, Art Fadum of Sinnott Hill, was chosen for his past experience in sled dog racing. Fadum is retired from active participation in this sport and now teaches school in Camrose.

Rick Neufeldt and Don Hardy of Tofield have already put in most of the race trail. The dog teams will be leaving the starting line two at a time at two-minute intervals. Timers will be established from their combined timed placings for both days.

The Derby will be emcee'd by Laurie Westberdt.

The kid and mutt race is open to anyone having a dog who wishes to have their child take part. Sleds and harnesses are available for this event at no cost. However, Dinsdel did stress that pet dogs be left at home unless participating in the events. Those that do bring their dogs should keep them on a leash or, confined in a vehicle. He also cautioned spectators that racing teams are made up of trained working animals and should not be approached or petted without permission from the handler.

Parking facilities have been cleared and the Lions Club plans to have a concession booth in operation. Hayrides will also be available.

The Snowmobile Poker Rally starts the series of events for the two-day derby at noon on Saturday. Entries will be taken at the race site.

At 1 p.m. the sled dog races begin, followed by the kid and mutt novelty event at 4 p.m.

A pancake breakfast in the Tofield Legion Hall is at 9:30 a.m. on Sunday and starts the second day. The sled dog races begin at 1 p.m., followed by the all terrain vehicle poker rally at 2 p.m. and the dog weight pull at 4 p.m.

Entries for all events except the sled dog races will be accepted up until post time. Musshers meet in the Tofield Community Hall at 10 a.m. on Saturday, to draw for positions and go over the rules of the race.

The race co-ordinator urges spectators to dress warmly as there are no heated buildings available and the race takes place in the area of Beaverhill Lake where the wind off the lake can become quite cold at times.

Crib tournament held in Tofield

by Joan Murray

Eileen Sehmsz took first place at the first crib tournament of the new year, that was held in the Tofield Senior Citizen's Drop-In Centre on Sunday afternoon.

Beverly Carlisle was second and George Lee placed third.

The tournament had 22 entries with each four-hander group playing 16 games with four hands each. Two-hander groups played six games with three hands each. Winners were determined by combining the total points from all games played.

Card players of all ages, over 12 years, interested in crib competition, are welcome to participate anytime

The Crib Club is active from November to April and hold two tournaments each month. The next one is scheduled for Jan. 20th at 2 p.m. in the Drop-In Centre.

There is also a tournament for retired players at the Centre this Thursday evening at 8 p.m. Buddy and Irene Scott are handling this even and can be contacted for more information.

EDC makes plans

by Joan Murray

Last Wednesday evening, the Tofield Economic Development Committee met and discussed (90) business opportunity ads and went over results of a retail trade survey that had been done by Alberta Tourism and Small Business.

The EDC discussed assets and needs of this community and came up with some possible business opportunities, but were unable to identify specific opportunities at this time, which they thought Alberta Tourism and Small Business could help them fill.

It was agreed that the rental rate for the Community Hall was too high and it was recommended that Town Council be asked to review rates and lower them where possible.

EDC Co-ordinator, Lori Pilon, was directed to advise Michael Drummond, a local resident who wishes to start a Toastmasters Club in this area, of the contact people for the various organizations in Tofield.

Preparation of an Economic Development Plan was discussed and tabled until a special meeting is held on Feb. 6th.

A by-law which provides for the licensing of certain businesses in Tofield was reviewed and it was noted that the public should be made aware of it's existence.

Persons approached by door-to-door sales persons or street vendors have the right to ask to see a license. If anyone becomes aware of persons conducting business without a license, they are urged to contact the Town.

Katimavik was discussed and possible work projects such as downtown and highway entrance revitalization and beautification were identified

More discussion on this subject will be held at the next meeting in February.

Funtime

These youngsters had fun in the sunshine that warmed the air during the recent break in between cold snaps that have been occuring lately. The wide open spaces of Belvedere Park in Tofield made an ideal location for this ATV to pull them around.

Dear Sir:

The Pro & Anti-Abortion issues continue with increasing dislike for the other sides views The exaggerated and over emotional statements being made by both sides often lack even primitive common sense and understanding of Principle Both sides are attempting to win more public suppor' therefore more public handouts, much like common panhandlers and thus, from my viewpoint, for exploiting our younger people, especially teenage girls.

To listen and or read their contradicting statement could be most confusing One side seems to want to make our public schools into, among other things, respectable teenage brothels where sex would be taught, and no doubt practiced after it has been taught. Isn't that what education is all about?

Now, should rpegnancy result from practicing what has been taught in school, the neighbors (taxpayers) are expected to pay for the abortion or for raising both child and [illegible]

[illegible] "Be careful when practicing [illegible] pregnant, she is encouraged [illegible] tion, they are told, would be killing a baby. In this case, too, the neighbors (taxpayers) are expected to raise mother [illegible]

In short terms, as I understand it from what is being stated by both sides, one side is apparently trying to create jobs for themselves through teaching, aborting and counselling teenagers. The other side is apparently using their teenagers to increase their religious following at the neighbors' (taxpayers) expense.

Obviously neither side is telling the whole truth or both sides are trying to make their stories more palatable in order to obtain more of the neighbors' (taxpayers) [illegible]

Apparently, neither side [illegible] or to be completely responsible for all the results of sexual activities in which teenagers may want [illegible]

Let's look at what is happening from a logical, unemotional viewpoint. First, how can anything be killed if it hasn't lived? Human life begins after birth with the first breath of life, and life ends with the last breath of life. If a new-born child breathes after birth, it's alive. If it does not breathe after [illegible]

Anyone can prove the point. Immediately after a child is [illegible] mother have been severed, lay the body aside and leave it You would note that, assuming a healthy birth has taken place, the heart is beating, blood is flowing, but it is not yet alive, because it is not breathing The potential for life is present but not life [illegible] left in this state, not breathing for too long, the potential for life would soon vanish. If the child were alive before breathing began, it could be left in this non breathing state indefinitely. However if a child was left in this non breathing state for long, a funeral would soon be necessary

It is most interesting that the side that claims aborting the fetus is killing a child ignores what their holy book has to say on the subject Genesis 2 Verse 7 "And God breathed [illegible] life, and man became a living soul"

I realise that neither fact, death or holy book, will thwart the outrageous comments from overemotional, [illegible] and exploitive people Consequently this is not for them

We now have the irresponsible socialistic Trudeau type Charter of Rights What we need now is a Mulroney type Charter of Responsibilities, that makes all people responsible for all their acts of lack of action.

I do not think that most Canadians want to continue paying for aborting their neighbor's daughter or raising her [illegible] of a good time Nor do we want to pay for increasing Church following through illegitimate births. A Charter of Responsibilities must sTate, that in a democracy, the taxpayers [illegible] money is spent by politicians As well, no one should be rewarded for being irresponsible as is now the case where the taxpaying neighbors must pay for aborting or raising the neighbor's child and her offspring because she was irresponsible and so were her [illegible]

[illegible] SO CHEAP

Victoria, B.C.
[illegible]

[illegible]

I've been a general practitioner and ophthalmologist for 40 years. During that time I've worked in remote regions delivering babies on kitchen tables, performed eye surgery in primitive refugee camps and practiced in cities with the most modern equipment. I've had the satisfaction of treating thousands of people and even saving a few lives. But, one of the greatest thrills of my life was to hold a small card with the name of a third world person whose sight I had restored [illegible]

Operation Eyesight Univeral, based in Calgary, offers Canadians a unique opportunity to help the 40 million people in third world countries who are blind Even a small donation can have astonishing results. Twenty five dollars will pay for a cataract operation, ten days in hospital and new glasses. The surgeon personally signs a card which contains the name, age and address of the patient, and the [illegible]

Operation Eyesight was formed in 1963 in answer to an appeal from Dr. Ben Gullison, a Canadian medical missionary, to save his eye hospital at Sompeta, India from closing due to lack of [illegible] dollars that first year, voluntary contributions have grown to over $2½ million in 1983. This money is used to treat patients and train native eye technicians, doctors and nutritionists in 17 countries. Operation Eyesight trains people in their own countries where they are familiar with the conditions and can immediately begin curing vision problems In 1983 alone over half a million people were treated and over 70,000 were given back their sight [illegible] generously given over $10 million dollars to Operation Eyesight but we've barely scratched the surface of this immense problem. Over forty million human beings in the third world are blind — 75% of these could be cured by cataract [illegible]. Also, over half a billion have eye diseases that will lead to blindness unless suitable medicines, better nutrition and preventive programs are given.

Service clubs, businesses, churches, schools and informal groups often raise money for mobile operating units and other specific projects. On occasion, schools or individual classrooms challenge other schools to fund raising competitions.

Two years ago, when my wife died, our family decided to ask for donations to Operation Eyesight in lieu of flowers. It was a great satisfaction to our family and friends to see pictures of a special mobile eye clinic given in her name (Donations are matched by the Canadian International Development Agency)

Many Canadians show they care by using donations as gifts to loved ones on Birthdays, at Easter and [illegible] memorials when a loved one expires which causes rebirth of an individual with new sight, new hope and faith in the goodness of people, does much to ease the sorrow of those who remain. You can give a Christmas gift this year to a friend or loved one, that they will never forget. The gift of sight for a blind person in the Developing World! Write to Operation Eyesight Universal, Box 123, Stn. "M", Calgary, Alberta T2P 2H8!

Yes, Canadians do care!

I hope you and your readers will contribute to this very worthy and well run organization

Sincerely,
J. T. Cruise, M. D. (Victoria)

First class mail

By chance this week we brought together three very separate and very distinct news items relating to Canada Post, and were fascinated at the contrast they provide.

One was a graph from the Canadian Federation of Small Business, while the other two were from the Post Office. The only difference was that while one was mailed to us in October of 1984, the other was issued away back in 1978.

Only last October, Postmaster Michael Warren was uttering soothing sounds to the effect there would be no increase in Postal rates for at least the first three months of 1985, and pointing out the last increase was in early 1983. At that time, it may be remembered, first class letter rates went to 32 cents, [illegible]

The sharp contrast was provided by an announcement in the Spring of 1978 that on April 1 of that year, postage would cost only four cents more than it did on July 1, 1867. That's right, July 1, 1867. Confederation, and all that.

Way back then, pointed out the Post Office, a first class, one ounce letter cost ten cents to mail.

But that was viewed as exorbitant back then, and the rate didn't last long. By 1899, postage rates were set at their very lowest, when a minimum weight one ounce letter could be mailed for two cents.

That rate lasted right up until 1915, when a War Tax of one cent was added. It stayed on until 1926, but was added again in 1931, and the rate stayed at three cents until 1943, when a further one cent War Tax [illegible]

It rose again in 1968, then again, and by 1978, even without any wars, it reached fourteen cents . . . one of the lowest rates in the world, we were told.

But by that time the Post Office seemed to have picked up the scent and was off and running.

By 1981, it had again raised the rate to seventeen cents. Barely a year later, in 1982, it soared to thirty cents, and by 1983 had reached thirty-two. No increase for 1984 and at least three months in 1985? What can be in store for us? Half a dollar?

But isn't it amazing that as recently as 1978, when the Post Office was practically apologizing for raising the rate to fourteen cents, when it was justifying such a course, even though delivery service was far below the level Canadians had come to rely on in cheaper years, it was still sufficiently good that few of us had heard of other delivery services, services such as Loomis, Purolator, and all the myriad of other hot-shot, guaranteed, on-time courier expresses that now play such a large part in the nation's delivery business.

Mr. Warren is fighting a highly laudable performance, but he's almost in the position of a fighter with one hand tied behind his back, in that the Postal Union won't come through on an automatic basis with the reliable kind of service older Canadians used to take as a matter of course. Just as they knew the sun would come up tomorrow, they knew yesterday's mail would be delivered today.

Patrol's meeting set in Round Hill

The recently organized Round Hill-Battleford Trail Range Patrol Association will meet later this month

The association has scheduled a session for Jan 21st in the Elks Hall starting at 7:30 p.m.

A spokesman for the organization told The Canadian that kits and posters have been received and will be distributed to all members in attendance at the meeting.

A number of films about the rural crime prevention program will be shown

All members are being urged to attend the meeting with officials hoping that non-member residents of the area being served by the association will also be present.

Grants available for "Youth Year"

A grants program has been established, by the Minister of State, Youth, for International Youth Year, 1985.

This program will facilitate special projects by, or for, young people undertaken by non-profit groups and organizations. It should involve all sectors of the community.

An advisory committee composed mainly of young people from all regions of Canada will have as its mandate to advise on the activities planned by the federal government to mark the Year in Canada and to raise public awareness of the themes and objectives of the Year as well as the situation of youth in Canada.

All those interested should contact the Department of the Secretary of State (Youth Sector) in Edmonton, or International Youth Year Secretariat, Minister of State (Youth), Ottawa, K1A 0M5.

Ryley's firemen host to students

On Dec. 21, Ryley Firemen undertook to serve in a different capacity.

They served hamburgers, chips, beans and cookies to all the Ryley Elementary School students for their dinner in the Curling Rink.

If the weather had permitted, they had also planned to supervise these students during a skating session.

Due to the severe weather on that day, Milt MacGregor, County Bus Supervisor, bused all the children to and from the Curling Rink.

The students were also treated at the Curling Rink by a visit from Santa Claus, compliments of Ryley Foods.

Ribbon cutting

Loose Ends

by Carol Livingstone

'Tis a week after Christmas and all through the house
The remnants of the Big Day are still strewn about.
The crumpled wrappings, tags and bows tossed away
Are boxed by the door, awaiting garbage day.
The tree looks lopsided, its branches are bare,
At its foot lies the tinsel that once twinkled there.
Neglected and brownish, it droops to the floor
The angel has fallen and rolled behind the door
The Wassail bowl is empty, the fruitcake has crumbled,
"What? Turkey again?" is constantly mumbled.
The dog's taken refuge in his own little home
Refusing to sniff even more more turkey bone!
In a houseful of presents, toys shiney and new
The children are bored, they have nothing to do
Lying on the armrest of dad's favorite seat
Are more new socks the the poor man has feet!
Our Christmas spirit has gone up in smoke
Our wallets are empty, Man! are we broke!
The bills are all piled on the table with care
We pray that St. Nick will come pay a share
'Tis a week after Christmas, a New Year has started
The festivities are over, the reindeer have departed.
We've only twelve months to get our second wind
Then Christmas returns — Hurrah! We can do it all over again!

Mr. 1985 arrives

by [illegible]

Terry and Terry (Teresa) Reid of Tofield are the proud parents of the New Year's baby.

[illegible] was born at [illegible] a.m. on Friday in the Tofield Hospital.

At presstime, the parents had not yet decided on a name for the new arrival. They already have one daughter, Landon, who is 14 months old.

To commemorate this event, the Tofield Hospital Auxiliary presented them with a New Year's baby hamper filled with congratulatory gifts from merchants in the Tofield area.

Included in the hamper was an engraved baby spoon from Tire Town; a silk flower arrangement from Judy's Flowers; a baby blanket from Midwest Heating; a sweater set from Robinson Stores; sleepers and a gift certificate from Town and Country Drug Mart; a nite light from Pilotron Construction Ltd., a twenty dollar gift certificate from Beta Sigma Phi; and a baby afghan donated by the Tofield Hospital Auxiliary.

Echoes from Em

I heard the bells on Christmas Day
Their old familiar carols play
And wild and sweet the words repeat
of peace on earth, goodwill to men.

North American poet Henry W. Longfellow wrote this hymn on Dec. 25, 1863, six months after the Battle of Gettysburg. The nation was torn apart by a tragic Civil War. Among the thousands of grieving families was that of the poet himself, his own son was wounded and dying.

And in despair I bowed my head:
"There is no peace on earth", I said,
"For hate is strong, and mocks the song
Of peace on earth, goodwill to men."

But as the beloved poet continued to listen to the bells and hear the deeper meanings of Christmas, he was inspired to write

Then pealed the bells more loud and deep;
"God is not dead, nor doth he sleep;
The wrong shall fail, the right prevail,
With peace on earth, goodwill to men."

Between the Covers

by E. Hubbard
Librarian

There are many new paperbacks on the new book table this week, but in hard cover, look for Eagle Song by James Houston, the author of Ghost Fox. This is an Indian saga, fictionalized, but based on true events in the early days in the Pacific Northwest.

Stephen R Donaldson is best-known for his series The Chronicles of Thomas Covenant the Unbeliever, in six parts. His latest book however, is a collection of short stories entitled Daughter of Regals and Other Tales. Included are two novellas, several fantasies, and a chapter originally ommitted from the Chronicles.

Canadian author Farley Mowat has many popular books, and his latest will no doubt appeal to many readers as well. Sea of Slaughter explores the effect that man has had on the animals and other organisms in a particular environment, the northeastern seaboard of Canada and the USA. An appalling story, but engrossing and written with his usual flair.

Carole Jackson's Color Me Beautiful has helped hundreds of women make the best of themselves and their wardrobes by choosing the colors most suited to their individual complexions. This author has now done the same thing for husbands, sons and fathers, in Color For Men. Determining "season" is just part of the process, as tips on clothing selection for both business and casual wear are discussed.

Lastly, another picture book for all ages. Canada From The Air is a collection of photographs of our country, illustrating the tremendous variety of landscape offered, from a new and unusual perspective.

Preschool Story Hour reconvenes this week, for the second half of the midwinter session. Booktime, a Read-Aloud program for school-aged children begins this Thursday, Jan 10 from 4-5 p.m. Please call the Library to register (662-3838).

About fifty new records have been processed and put out this week, with something for every taste in music. Current top-of-the-charts artists like Michael Jackson, Cyndi Lauper, Culture Club, Kenny Rogers, Alabama, Hall & Oates, etc., join with classical selections and numerous new childrens' records. Come in and browse through them — they're moving fast!

Regular library hours are Tuesday 1-5; Thursday 3-5 and 6-8; Friday and Saturday 10-12 and 1-5.

Pensions increase

EDMONTON — Health and Welfare Minister Jake Epp today announced that over 1.7 million Canada Pension Plan recipients will have their benefits increased effective January 1, 1985. The annual adjustment, which this year is 4.4 percent, is based on the rise in the cost of living over the past year.

Currently some 1,864,200 persons receive Canada Pension Plan retirement pensions; 127,200 are disability pensioners and 382,200 persons receive surviving spouses' pensions. In addition, 137,500 children receive monthly benefits as dependents of disability pensioners or as orphans of deceased contributors. These figures include some 86,900 persons who receive combined benefits as the spouses of deceased contributors and who are entitled to disability or retirement pensions in their own right.

The Minister also announced increases in benefits for persons who become eligible for Canada Pension Plan benefits in 1985. Here, too, rates are increased each year to keep them in line with general increases in salaries and wages.

For those who become eligible for benefits in 1985 the maximum monthly retirement pension will be $435.42. The 1985 maximum disability pension is $414.13 per month while benefits for disabled contributors' children and orphans of deceased contributors will be $87.56 per month per child. Surviving spouses under age 65 will receive a maximum of $250.84 per month while those 65 or older will have maximum monthly benefits of $261.25. The new ceiling for combined benefits is $435.42 per month.

There is also a lump sum death benefit payable under the Canada Pension Plan; the maximum payable in respect of contributors who die in 1985 will be $2,340.

Canada Pension Plan benefits are based on a person's actual earnings and contributions for the period during which that person could have contributed to the Plan. There are yearly minimum and maximum earnings levels between which persons contribute. For 1985 these levels are $2,300 and $23,400 respectively. A person who has contributed at less than the maximum level — $379.80 for employees during 1985 — receives monthly benefits at rates lower than the maximum allowable under the Plan.

Cavalcade dates set

The annual BRTA Cavalcade will be held on May 25 and 26.

Dates for the cavalcade were set during the December meeting of the Battle River Tourist Association which was held in Castor with fifty-four delegates in attendance.

As in past years, participation will be limited and registrations will be accepted on a first-come, first-serve basis with registrations now being accepted at the BRTA Office in Camrose.

President Rolf Jacobsen of Sedgewick told delegates that a cavalcade chairman would be named at the January meeting.

It was agreed that the BRTA would again sponsor an essay writing contest for all grade nine students in the zone.

Plaques and cash prizes will be awarded to the winners of the contest with the topic for the essays being "Tourism — its importance to us all."

Members decided that President Jacobsen and Association Manager Sylvia Clemens should attend the annual meeting of the Tourism Industry Association of Canada which is to be held in Ottawa during the middle part of February.

Another decision that was reached was BRTA's participation in the Fort Saskatchewan Trade Fair and the Drumheller Trade Show.

Earlier, it had been agreed that BRTA would have display and promotional booths in operation during shows in Calgary, Edmonton, Red Deer and Wetaskiwin.

Members were advised that Jacobsen, Clemens, Arlen Adams of Bashaw and Hubert Nattas of Provost had attended the annual Caucus presentation in Government House in Edmonton on Dec. 12th.

The next BRTA meeting is to be held in Hardisty on Jan. 17th.

Payments deferred says Mazankowski

Don Mazankowski, Minister of Transport, has advised that producers who elected the cash method of reporting their income will be permitted to defer reporting of crop insurance payments until 1985, under certain conditions.

Mazankowski added that Revenue Canada will accept the deferral of a crop insurance payment for producers who have filed crop insurance claims with insurers and agreed in writing to defer payment of their claim until 1985.

The Vegreville M.P. said these measures signal a new era of administrative flexibility on behalf of Revenue Canada in the department's dealing with Canadian taxpayers.

Mazankowski has advised producers to contact his constituency offices, or the District Taxation Office in Edmonton for further information.

Japanese bank invests in the Bank of Alberta

Jim Horsman, Minister of Alberta Federal and Intergovernmental Affairs, has expressed his pleasure at the announcement of capital participation by the Hokkaido Takushoku Bank Ltd. of Japan in the Bank of Alberta.

The provinces of Alberta and Hokkaido entered into a formal sister relationship in 1980.

"The special relationship between Alberta and Hokkaido has been extremely successful, and has led to a high level of trust between the people of our respective provinces. The affiliation of the new Bank of Alberta with Takushoku Bank, an international financial institution, adds another dimension to the development of the special relationship," Mr Horsman said

Fred Sparrow, chairman, and Robert A. Splane, president of the Bank of Alberta, today announced that the Hokkaido Takushoku Bank had obtained a 10 percent equity interest in Canada's newest bank, becoming the largest single shareholder

Mr. Horsman commended Ivan Bumstead, director general of Alberta government operations in Japan and Korea, for his role in bringing the banks together.

"This is an excellent example of the government identifying a business opportunity, and then allowing the private sector to proceed with the details," he concluded.

Just for fun

by Joan Murray

I was reading an article in the Reader's Digest the other day, about a cure for ulcers. Something about little round beads of an exotic substance that scraped the wound until it was healed. Sounds rather gruesome, doesn't it? I have lots of cures, it just depends on the cause. For instance, if you are being driven into a perpetual state of tension and chronic ulcer by constantly being plagued by small slimy little animals that jump out of a little boy's pockets everytime you wash clothes, the cure is a simple one. Make the little environmentalist clean his own pockets. Now ... that works wonders with obedient children, unfortunately, that seems to be a dying breed, (if there ever was one. Something like the Tooth Fairy everyone knows about but, has never seen her ... him .. it?) Anyway, presuming that you have gotten home to perform this little task, what does he do with the unsavory creatures? If he is a normal, well-adjusted, five year old he will put them, neatly (the only thing he ever does that way) in with his socks, shorts and undershirts, neglecting, of course, to let you in on their new home. Consequently, when you put away his newly washed and folded underthings, out pops a frog, snake or toad. When you have finished picking up the clothes that were somehow strewn about the room from corner to corner during the jumping and screaming, calmly, if you can, slide them cautiously into the drawer . eeyuck! .. you have now found out where last week's salamander went to.

Actually, there are much better cures for that ulcer. You may take your choice, either don't ever clean pockets, or buy disposable jeans. Considering that the first suggestion usually result in little dried up former beings falling out of your dryer or sometimes you even find a perfectly preserved dried up worm in your bra just before that big night on the town, the last suggestion is must to be the best and only answer. Now, all you have to do is find someone who makes indestructible, disposable jeans at a cost you can afford.

After reading what I have just said, I am becoming increasingly more content to try and live with my stomach ailment, because somehow trying to rid myself of this problem seems to create a good deal of other illnesses and nervous disorders, namely ... INSANITY!

Blessed are you who take the time
To listen to difficult speech,
For you help me to know that
If I persevere,
I can be understood.

Blessed are you who never bid me to "hurry up"
And take my task from me
And do them for me,
For often I need time rather than help.

Blessed are you who stand beside me
As I enter new and untried territories,
For my failures will be outweighed
By the times I surprise myself and you.

Blessed are you who extend for my help,
For my greatest need is to be needed.

Blessed are you who understand that
It is difficult for me
To put my thoughts into words.

Blessed are you who with a smile,
Encourage me to try once more.

Blessed are you who never remind me
That today I asked the same question twice.

Blessed are you who respect me
And love me as I am just as I am,

And not like you wish I were

The Christmas concert held in the Hall on Dec. 16th was a social and artistic success; a good crowd came along to see a fun performance of the musical play 'The Christmas Dragon', in which all the children acted and sang under the direction of Joan Dunham and Tim Fallows.

Two community members were lucky in the Christmas draw at Value Drug Mart last week. Stephen Gates and Jennie Koss both won enormous stuffed puppies.

The annual general meeting of the Ladies' Club will be held in the Hall on Thursday at 1 p.m., and that of the Community Association is on Jan. 17th, at 8 p.m.

Lead changes hands

The lead in the Beaverhill Hockey League has changed hands following action played over the past ten days.

Lamont has surged into first place while Redwater and Mundare are tied in second spot.

Tofield holds down the final playoff berth while Vegreville is five points off the pace and Holden is in the basement with their team still looking to register its first victory of the season.

Holden hosted Tofield last night (Tuesday) while Redwater travelled to Mundare with results to be reported next week.

Satellites will be on the road for their next two outings as they go to Vegreville on Saturday and then, will be in Lamont on Tuesday. Next home game for the Tofield team will be on Jan. 18th when they will be hosting Redwater.

Beavers will be playing in Mundare on Friday and then, will host Redwater in Holden on Tuesday.

Lamont rolled to four straight victories in recent outings to jump into sole possession of first place when they outgunned Redwater 11-6, stopped Vegreville 9-3, doubled Tofield 6-3 and trounced Holden 18-5

Redwater blanked Tofield 16-0 and a game scheduled in Vegreville had to be postponed.

After beating Holden 6-3, Mundare was edged 8-6 by Vegreville and then were beaten 6-4 by Tofield.

In the other game that was played, Tofield and Vegreville battled to a 6-6 stalemate.

Including yesterday's action, the league schedule has passed the mid-way mark in the season.

Holden and district news

by Mrs. G.H. Taylor

The committee members and others who worked on the Holden and District history book met Saturday evening in the Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre, enjoying a supper, then holding a business meeting to decide what to do with the first book sold, also what should be done with the remaining books, if they should be placed in a book store. There are still some on hand, although they are slowly being sold. Other business matters were also discussed.

Robert and Merle Taylor of Viking were afternoon visitors with his parents, Mr and Mrs George Taylor, a week ago on Sunday.

Mrs. Frances Hanson, who was a resident in Viking Nursing Home for two or three weeks, is back home.

Bob and Carol Carlson and three children of Calgary were visiting over the Christmas holiday with his parents, Mr and Mrs Melvin Carlson On Christmas Day, they were all dinner guests at the home of Vivian and Lyle Andrusky, in Tofield.

On Boxing Day, Mrs Edith Carlson and Eric, with the Andrushys, were dinner guests at the home of Edith's sister, Mrs. Freda Scott and family. Other guests were Edith's and Freda's brother, Eric and wife, Meta, a nephew, Dick and wife, Wendy Palmer, and young daughter, Laura from Kitimat, B C

The Holden Senior Citizens Club are holding their annual meeting on Jan. 18th in the Drop-In Centre.

At the annual meeting of the Vegreville and District Cancer Society held in November, Mrs. Mary Semotiuk was elected as a director for the 1985 term. HRH. Semotiuk with PHRH. Holen Bilyk had attended the meeting as representatives of Holden Lodge Order of the Royal Purple, who have sponsored the annual cancer campaign since 1947

Mrs Grace Appleby was happy to receive the news that her daughter Colleen and husband of Sudbury, Ont. were receiving congratulations on the birth of their second child, a daughter, on Dec 30th.

Lyle Andrusky and daughter, Kathryn and son, Kevin were New Year's Day dinner guests with Mr and Mrs. Melvin Carlson. Vivian, who had a bad cold, stayed home with the new baby. Kathryn is staying to visit with her grandparents for a few days

The eldest daughter of long-time former Holden residents, the Chris Tiedemanns, Ellen Frances Weiss of Edmonton passed away suddenly on Jan 2nd at the age of 56 years She was predeceased by her parents She leaves her husband, Arthur, three sons, Dr Gerald Weiss in San Ramon, Calif , Leslie and David in Edmonton, two daughters, Mrs Lee (Patricia) Cheshire of Athabasca and Nola of Edmonton; two grandchildren, five brothers, Cecil of Boyle, Lawrence of Edson, Buster of Edmonton, Marvin of Bonnyville and Rodney of Edmonton; two sisters, Mrs Ed (Anita) Blatz of Daysland and Mrs Brian (Donna) Helmig of Hilda

Prayer service was held on Sunday in the Wild Rose Chapel at Andrews-McLaughlin and Mass of Christian Burial was held Monday in St. Agnes Church with Rev Joe Leszczynski being the celebrant and interment was in the Holy Cross Cemetery. The Chris Tiedemann family lived for many years in Holden, with Chris being manager of the Alberta Lumber Yard and store (now Revelstoke) and they were active in church and community affairs.

Mr and Mrs. Jim [illegible] and Robert went to Edmonton on Monday to attend the funeral of a niece, Mrs Ellen Weiss (nee [illegible])

Mrs Ethel Brekstad returned home Friday evening after spending the past three weeks visiting with her son, Ralph and wife and young grandson in Vancouver

Mrs. Veronice Gresland returned home Wednesday of last week after being a patient in the University Hospital in Edmonton, for over two weeks

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Holden Legion held a special meeting on Friday evening with District Commander Harriet Brown of Ryley attending and who presented a Legion Bursary Scholarship to Leanne Kraus, daughter of Mr and Mrs. L. Kraus of Hilda

A grant has been established at $174,000 to the Village of Holden from the Provincial Government and was announced recently by the Hon Bob Bogle, Minister of Utilities and Telecommunications and John Batiuk, M.L.A. Under the Alberta Municipal Grant Program, the financial assistance is for a new water treatment plant. The existing plant is over 30 years old and is badly deteriorated.

Big Weight

If you have resolved to lose weight this year, be sure to set up a realistic plan that ensures success.

Where do you start?

You must first make the decision to change your lifestyle. Cutting back on calories and increasing your activity level will help you to lose weight To help keep the weight off you must continue with these new habits.

Choose a diet that recommends eating several balanced meals throughout the day. A diet that promises quick weight loss and is based on questionable nutrition concepts is not a long term solution to a weight problem

Before starting your weight program try to think in terms of behaviour change rather than strictly weight change By changing behaviour patterns, weight loss follows.

Reducing food intake and increasing physical activity go hand in hand when trying to lose weight You must do both to succeed.

Increasing physical activity helps you maintain muscle tone and cardiovascular fitness. It cuts down on boredom and really doesn't increase your appetite

Fitness, like calories, cannot be stored Remember small changes count Make your exercise as fun and natural as possible, that way you'll stick with it

It's up to you to make weight control a lifelong goal. Is it a matter of importance to you?

Holden and district news

On Dec. 30th, residents of Holden Senior Citizen's Lodge held their annual Christmas dinner party Visitors attended in the afternoon, and three church groups entertained with the singing of carols. Rev. John Hostman introduced his group from the Emmanuel Evangelical with Emma and Melvin Fried of Vegreville assisting as part of the choir and Emma playing the organ and Melvin on the guitar and Linda Hostman playing the saxophone The children's group from the church also sang several carols. The second group was from Holden United Church with Mrs. Gibson as leader and Mrs. Clive Good on the organ and Bill Hallett on the guitar The last group was the choir from the Holy Ghost Ukrainian Catholic Church with choir leader being Mrs. Mary Ogrodnick and the choir singing a selection of Ukrainian Christmas carols.

Eugene Kwasnik, manager of the Lodge, thanked all who had assisted in the program on behalf of the residents and staff, and all enjoyed lunch prepared by the staff

Tracking an error in a news item last week – the Hersum families with Betty and Ernie Koetke and family also the Maxwell family of Viking with Mrs. Kathleen Hersum spent Christmas Day with her daughter Grace and family, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] in Edmonton.

Price Differences

Why do prices for the same product or service differ between two sellers or retailers in the same community? There is no law requiring product and service prices to be the same or similar between stores. Prices may be different for legitimate reasons.

Food prices are a good example. For instance, milk usually costs a few cents per litre more in your local convenience store than in your local supermarket. Why?

— A convenience store basically carries fast-selling items and stays open longer hours. You pay for this "convenience"

— A supermarket often takes very low profit or no profit margin on fast-moving items such as milk to attract customers.

The same one pound package of raisins costs 25 cents more in one supermarket than at another supermarket across the street. Why?

— One store may sell raisins "at cost" or less to attract customers.

— The price of raisins may be increasing and one store may have sold its old stock before the other store.

— Prices vary among wholesalers and manufacturers

Conclusion . . .

Legitimate price differences may result from some, all or a combination of the preceding reasons. However, it is also possible that a seller is charging an unrealistic price. The best advice for consumers in terms of price is to shop around

CAREER PLANNING

How Useful is it When All You Want is a Job?

Let's face it! In the eyes of many people, career planning is a "back-burner" issue. They feel that given the "real" pressures of the economic and employment situation they cannot afford the luxury of career planning when it's a job they need and want! But unfortunately, they are not making the connection between career planning and getting that job. They don't see it as the "stitch in time that saves nine."

Look around at the number of capable people who are floundering and for work, for lack of good sound career advice. The need for career-life planning is obvious. However, it is often difficult to convince people of this need which, in their eyes, seems much less critical and much less apparent than the need for a job.

The unfortunate aspect of "just getting a job – any job" is that often that job just doesn't suit, satisfy or provide sufficient rewards to keep the person in it and before long the search for another job – any job begins again.

The old poverb "Give me a fish and I will eat for today, teach me to fish and I shall eat for the rest of my life" is highly appropriate to this career planning issue. The obvious point is that teaching a reusable process is essential if lifelong benefits are to be realized.

The public, adults and children alike, must come to understand that career planning is practical and has a great deal to do with getting and keeping a job.

Unfortunately, the word "career" is often misinterpreted. It evokes images of corporate ladders, three-piece suits, professionals, and of endless years spent working toward a single goal. It has a connotation of permanence and commitment, which leads people to believe that their own accumulated work histories of non-professional, non-developmental, often short-term and random jobs do not constitute a career.

Such stereotypic notions of "career" must be dispelled. A career must come to be understood as an on-going, changing story of every individuals's involvement with or contribution to the world of work – including all paid and unpaid work experience. All work experiences should be regarded as contributory and accumulative, each having the potential to contribute some form of learning, skill or exposure which can be transferable. Career planning should be seen as a continuous life-long process, appropriate and applicable to everyone to help give direction and control over their lives and careers.

It is important that people realize that job search skills and strategies are as much a part of career planning as are self-knowledge, problem analysis and decision-making; that each of these elements plays a vital role in achieving the ultimate aim of career planning.

Many aspects of the job search can be facilitated by accessing the skills and knowledge of career counsellors. Counsellors can help the job seeker to:

—become aware of the 80% hidden job market and how to access it —access the transferability of his/her accumulated skills and learnings —determine how best to present these skills and learnings whether in a resume or in an interview
—identify hidden skills and talents which may be used to create a job —become aware of information pertinent to the local job market and to employment trends, in general and —persevere in the job-search by providing support and guidance.

Career planning can meet the immediate needs of the job seeker. It has been found to be very useful when all you want and need is a job. In a tough job market, those who have planned will have the edge.

For information on Alberta Career Centre services and workshops on career planning and job search, please contact The Alberta Career Centre located in the basement of the Provincial Building, 4867 - 50 Street, Camrose.

We are open Monday through Thursday – you can reach us by phone at 679-1275.

Family allowance rates announced

EDMONTON – Health and Welfare Minister Jake Epp recently announced the 1985 federal Family Allowances rates for residents of Alberta.

The monthly allowance will be as follows

Children
0-6 years	$34.50
7-11 years	$30.00
12-15 years	$39.00
16-17 years	$45.00

Under a provision in the Family Allowances Act, a provincial government may ask the federal government to vary the rates payable in that province according to the age or number of children in a family or both, providing the payments average $31.27 per month per child.

This option has been chosen by both Quebec and Alberta for 1985.

The national Family Allowances rate for 1985 is $31.27 a month per child under 18 years of age.

In order to assist moderate and low income families, the federal Child Tax Credit has been increased to a maximum of $367 per child for the 1984 taxation year.

In 1984, the federal government paid out about $20.3 million each month in Family Allowances to almost 356,000 families in Alberta. The cheques covered about 670,000 children.

Strike vote set

Teachers in the Elk Island Regional School Authorities Association will take a strike vote on Jan. 30th.

Earlier, teachers had rejected a proposal from school boards which called for a two-year wage freeze.

Although the strike vote has been called, negotiators for both sides are still hoping to reach a solution to the stalemate and as a result, further mediation has been scheduled for Jan. 21st.

If the members favour strike action and mediation fails, teachers would have to serve notice of seventy-two hours before they can legally go out on strike

Involved are schools operating in the Counties of Beaver, Flagstaff, Lamont and Minburn along with the School Divisions of Wainwright and Provost

Town improves snow removal

by Joan Murray

At their regular meeting on Tuesday night, the Town of Tofield Council decided to purchase a good used backhoe/loader for snow removal and installation of services.

Numerous breakdowns and cost of repairs for the old machine prompted this move.

Administrator, Lori Pitsel, has been instructed to investigate this purchase and obtain the best terms possible.

A recent effort by the town to minimize hazards to school students crossing Secondary Road 834 near C.W. Sears School in the area between the water reservoir and the church have been thwarted by individuals who persist in crossing at an unmarked section of the road. The fence erected to deter this practice of unsafe crossing has been continually trampled down and damaged.

Numerous efforts have been made by the school and the town to make both parents and students aware of the safety factor involved with children crossing the highway in an unsafe manner. Many have responded to this fact and do adhere to safe practices but, it is evident by the broken and damaged fencing that several are continuing to tempt fate.

Council has decided to invite the superintendent of schools to examine the site in question with council members as soon as possible in an effort to maintain the safety of pedestrians crossing the highway

After giving his report, public works foreman Ernie Dun...hend, was commended for the high standard of snow removal Tofield has received so far this winter. Councillors have been approached by several taxpayers who expressed their satisfaction in this area

Recreation Board Members, Jack Lamplitt and Tom Lyle, will attend an elected officials seminar on Jan. 30th in Vermilion.

This morning at 10 a.m. (Wednesday), a notice of appeal hearing will take place in the County Office in Ryley regarding the transfer site proposed by the Town of Tofield. The site is located in the northeastern area of town, the same area a previous site was denied

The town proposes to purchase additional land in order to relocate the site building so that it meets with the requirements as set out by the Local Health Board Authority

Council accepted a tender from UFA Co-op to supply it's fuel needs.

Council is considering the practice of having a complimentary subscription to The Mercury made available to ratepayers through the Town, pending further investigation of terms and rates involved.

A request for lane closure from the Tofield Mennonite Church was denied on the grounds that it does not comply with future plans for development in that area of Town.

Sled Dog Derby is hit

by Joan Murray

More than 700 spectators passed through the gates at the Beaverhill Sled Dog Derby north of Tofield over the weekend.

This event attracted 36 entries from various locations near and far with nine in the 8-dog class, 15 in the 6-dog class and 12 in the 3-dog novice class.

In the 8-dog class over an eight mile course, Robert Peebles of Prince Albert with his team of Alaskan Huskies, took first place with a combined time for the two days of 90 minutes and 39.56 seconds.

Peebles came in 6th in the North American 6-dog championships last year. He has been racing for six years and trains his own dogs at Veteran

Ed Courtorelle of Fort McMurray took second place with his Alaskans with a time of 61 minutes and 41.38 seconds.

His record in 1984 includes a first in the Alberta championships and a first in the Western International 6-dog championships. He has been racing for four years.

Third place was captured by Bert Arthurs and his team of Alaskans with a time of 62 minutes and 30.76 seconds. Arthurs is from Lac La Biche and this is his third year in racing.

Robert Peebles also took first place in the 3-dog class. His time was 51 minutes and 2.69 seconds for the six-mile course.

George Parker, of Millet, placed second with a time of 54 minutes and 42.6 seconds. Parker has four years of rac-

Holden Chamber names Therriault as president

by Joan Murray

The Holden Chamber of Commerce executive members were chosen last Wednesday evening, at their first meeting of the new year.

The new president is Marie Therriault; first vice-president is Lon Kwasny; second vice-president is Doug Johnson; and Christine McKay was re-elected as secretary-treasurer.

Directors were sworn in by Village Mayor, Kevin Stambaugh.

Directors for this year are Kelvin Tetz, Mary Hallett, Larry St Thomas and Elaine Efford.

The membership committee will be composed of Jean Grinde and Doug Johnson, while Paul Therriault will be organizing refreshment activities.

Other committees chosen were agriculture Don Hultholm; programs and speakers Ron Mulik and publicity Rose Sharpe

Special project committees are Rose Sharpe and Marie Therriault, to be in charge of organizing the welcome supper while Ron Mulik and Wendal Wirta will be responsible for the organization of the annual promotion of Holden.

Other business conducted that evening were the giving of reports on the Christmas promotion and dinner events.

There was a motion passed to once again join the Battle River Tourist Association with Marie Therriault being chosen to represent the Chamber of Commerce at meetings.

Weedless Week

Next week has been declared Non-Smoking Week, on a national basis, and Albertans are being asked to "butt out" on Weedless Wednesday, January 23rd.

Many authorities, medical and governmental, seem anxious to point out just how much damage smoking can do to one's life . . . not only your own smoking, but the smoke inhaled by non-smokers from others who do smoke.

They also point out the number of regular smokers has decreased by about ten percent in Canada in the last 20 years, even though more young people seem to be smoking.

We find the figures are confusing. "More than 32 percent of Canadians over 15 years of age are regular smokers," say the statistics, but they don't point out what is considered "regular" smoking. How many among us are occasional smokers? How many infrequent, irregular smokers are there? How many abstainers?

Between the ages of 15 and 19, say the figures, one out of four girls smoke, only one in five boys.

That must mean the percentage among those of us over 20 must rise significantly, to hit an average 32 percent.

More and more the pressure is on to curtail the privileges which have been extended to smokers over the past four and a half decades, to get them to respect the privileges of non smokers. We don't know how many people we represent, but by and large, we're not worried about other people smoking if they smoke like ladies and gentlemen, even if their second-hand smoke is harmful to others. It seems to us it's much on the level of lead-filled carbon monoxide pouring from the exhaust of automobiles, or industrial pollution filling the skies . . . something we might rather avoid, but we have to learn to live with. No, if they would smoke like ladies and gentlemen, we'd be happy. It's when they unthinkingly allow the smoke to waft straight into your face, it's when they thoughtlessly drop a live ash in the carpet, leave a butt to smolder on polished mahogany, or scar a china cup or a mirror surface with hot ashes, that we feel tobacco should be restricted to Lower Slobbovia. It's when everything in the house or office slowly takes on a dull, smudgy finish requiring extra cleaning that we feel there should be areas restricted for the "enjoyment" of tobacco. It's when people with lung ailments or respiratory problems reflect severe discomfort that we wonder what privileges should be extended, if any.

Probably it all comes back to learning acceptable ways of using tobacco. After all, if you're only killing yourself, the rest of the world has little justification in meddling. It's when our actions reflect beyond our own circle that we can expect to face pressure from others.

Toastmasters

Box 7, Site 202, R.R.2
Tofield, Alberta
T0B 4J0
January 6th, 1984.

Dear Sir:

I wish to thank you and Joan Murray for your excellent article concerning the proposed Toastmasters Club in Tofield.

There are one or two points that maybe should be amplified: first, Toastmasters' Clubs are open to men and women.

There are now more than 5,000 clubs throughout 40 countries, and more than 100,000 members. In Northern Alberta alone, there are 47 clubs, which constitutes one half of all clubs in Alberta and Saskatchewan (known as District 42). New clubs have recently started in Leduc, Lloydminster and Edson; clubs in the formation stage include Jasper, St. Paul, Grant MacEwan College, Canada Post and Dow Chemical (Fort Saskatchewan).

Meetings contain basically four parts: a business meeting to teach parliamentary procedure, efficient and prompt handling of business; an impromptu session that hones one's ability to respond briefly and spontaneously to topics without advance notice; prepared speeches, each one to meet specific objectives clearly outlined in a "Leadership and Communication Manual" given to all members upon joining; and finally, a constructive evaluation period, which contains the key to self-improvement. Members learn in a supportive environment where they have fun.

In short, membership and participation in Toastmasters will: 1. Improve listening skills, 2. Enhance oral and written communication, 3. Provide basis for making presentations to larger groups, 4. Ensure better and more effective meetings conducted, 5. Enable members to develop evaluation-of-others skills, and 6. Develop considerable self-confidence (which is the quality most often mentioned by members, who come from all walks of life).

Anybody who is interested and would like to attend a demonstration meeting to be held soon, should contact the undersigned at 923-3026 (or leave a message at 463-5864) and state preferred day of week/time, or else let Lori Pilon know (in the Town Office).

Thank you.

Child transportation safety act is in effect

Transportation Minister Marvin Moore has reminded Alberta motorists that Bill 83, the Child Transportation Safety Act, came into effect on January 1st.

The Act received Royal assent on November 22, 1984 and came in force as of January 1.

This legislation requires that no person driving on a highway will operate a motor vehicle registered under the Motor Vehicle Administration Act with a child as a passenger unless the child is occupying and properly secured into the required child car safety seat.

The legislation applies to all children born after December 31, 1984 until they reach five years of age, or 18 kilograms in weight. Certain exemptions are provided for in the Regulations.

Mr. Moore stated: "With the proclamation of this Act, we feel that we have made a major move toward protecting children in the event of a traffic collision. After all," Mr. Moore continued, "traffic collisions are the number one killer of children beyond their first year of life."

Mr. Moore went on to point out that "there are presently over 50 agencies in Alberta who offer child safety seats on a rental basis. Parents buying or renting a child car safety seat should ensure that it bears the mark of Transport Canada certifying it meets all applicable Canadian Motor Vehicle Safety Standards."

Mr. Moore also stated: "Parents are encouraged to follow this legislation and prevent the many needless tragedies that have occurred in the past in terms of fatalities and injuries. No one wants their child to become a statistic."

With the proclamation of Bill 83, Alberta joins the other eight provinces in Canada who have now legislated protection for child highway travellers.

Punish cheaters

Governors at the University of Toronto are being encouraged to make public the names of students found cheating, according to reports emanating from the institution.

For some time, anyone found guilty of cheating was quietly handled, but their names were not made public.

Now, in an effort to forestall practices which are felt to be getting too widespread, publicity is being suggested.

Some feel the move may be unfortunate, and a move backwards, "back to the old days" when cheaters weren't shielded.

We should all be anxious, it seems to us, to see the attitude encouraged, and even to spread. No-one is sure how widespread is the practice of cheating today, but the number of serious cases going before the university's discipline tribunal has increased. We're not sure what is considered serious cheating, as compared with 'acceptable' (?) cheating, but it seems to us the needs of the public demand every pressure to eliminate it.

After all, cheating merely reflects an unqualified person gaining preferment over someone who has worked hard, worked honestly, and who actually achieved. Cheating means stealing a degree from a more qualified person. Cheating means the public is served by people who really haven't qualified.

They used to be pilloried. Surely a little publicity couldn't be as painful to anyone capable of cheating as being pilloried. The public has a major principle at stake here. Not just in the University of Toronto, but in the entire system.

TINA is in service

The Honorable Bob Bogle, Minister of Utilities and Telecommunications and Harry B. Hobbs, Chairman of the AGT Commission have announced the introduction of TINA (Tele-Information Network of Alberta) which, subject to Public Utilities Board approval, became operational on January 1st.

In responding to the growing informational needs of Albertans, particularly in rural or remote areas of the province, TINA will allow subscribers to connect home computers to date bases or information providers through the telephone network.

TINA will permit equal and economical access to a variety of information services, such as grain or beef market reports, stock market information, continuing education courses, up-to-the-minute weather forecasts, and even tele-shopping, which could be made available to the Alberta marketplace.

People using TINA to access the data bases will pay the same rate of 11 cents per minute during business hours (9 cents per minute all other times) plus a 20 cents per call set-up charge, regardless of their location in the province. No other long distance charges will apply.

Accompanying this service, AGT is changing the policy regarding transmission of data over multi-party lines. Rural residents on multi-party lines will now be permitted to access data using the PLEA devices. These devices allow party line customers to signal computer users on their line, if a call must be made.

Information providers wishing to access the Alberta marketplace as a date base provider will be charged $50 per month per access number, and $25 per month for each additional line. TINA offers the option to Information Providers of absorbing the per minute access charge billed to the customer.

M.A.S.H. in Africa

The clinic at Baitiredi in the poor African country of Botswana could not be considered a M.A.S.H. unit, although it does treat casualties. Casualties are the victims of a three-year drought, which has sent up unemployment among men to over 50 percent, and placed malnutrition among the top health problems on disease by providing $8,000 to update the clinic. Fortly Filing

I've just completed our personal filing. It was quite a job since the last time anything was filed properly was sometime in 1983.

I've never made a secret of my dislike for filing. Former employers will tell you that although I do it, it is accomplished with gritted teeth. My husband will tell you that it is done only under threat of whip and then with much grumbling. I suppose it stems from my inborn love of clutter and a definite tendency toward disorganization. My idea of the perfect filing system is called the garbage can.

However, even I must submit to the build-up of papers and receipts sometime, and it was the beginning of a new year. Besides, we were in the middle of relocating my office in the inner bowels of the house (known as the basement to some, but they haven't seen ours.) and it didn't make sense to transfer only some of the items.

Imagine my surprise when I discovered that some (many, in fact) of the important papers we'd been hoarding in various areas of the household really did belong in the garbage can. Why had we kept a drugstore receipt for photograph developing dated August 1982? What purpose have a fistful of information sheets for various defunct sweepstake offers from you-know-who?

Filing does have its advantages, I know. It would leave my kitchen counter free for other things, for instance. But even with everything in its proper folder, when the tax man cometh there will still be one vital piece of information missing. I'm not about to do weekly filing just to make tax time easier. One can't go to extremes, after all.

Besides, such an abrupt change in my character would have my family in turmoil and leave me lightheaded. And I would be lonely without my clutter to keep me company.

Filing has its advantages too. Now that there's a place for everything and everything is (allegedly) in its place, we'll never be able to find anything.

Top crowded .. in Beaverhill

The top four teams in the Beaverhill Hockey League are starting to pull away in an effort to assure themselves of playoff berths.

Fourth place Tofield Satellites are now nine points ahead of Vegreville while Holden is mired deep in the basement, still looking for their first win of the season.

Ahead of Tofield in the standings are Lamont, Mundare and Redwater and with only five points between first and fourth places, it could go right down to the wire before a pennant winner is determined.

The only definite thing that has been decided to date is that Holden can't finish in first place.

Holden hosted Redwater last night (Tuesday) while Tofield was in Lamont and results of those games will be reported next week.

Friday's action will see Tofield at home to Redwater while Holden will host Vegreville and then on Tuesday, the Beavers and Satellites will tangle in Tofield.

Lamont picked up two more wins last week when they blanked Vegreville 10-0 and then doubled Redwater 8-4.

Mundare kept pace with the leaders with two wins as well, when they edged Redwater 6-5 and stopped Holden 6-2.

Tofield also racked up two victories as they blasted Holden 10-4 before doubling Vegreville 8-4.

In the only other game that was played, Redwater stopped Vegreville by a 9-6 margin.

Standings	W	L	T	GS	GA	Pts
Lamont	12	2	1	132	66	25
Mundare	11	4	1	109	77	23
Redwater	10	5	1	115	96	21

County okays subdivisions

by Joan Murray

Three applications for subdivision were approved at the County of Beaver Council meeting on Thursday.

The first one is a piece of property northeast of Tofield that will possibly be used as a transfer site for the Town of Tofield. Another, near Holden, is designated for a radio communications tower site for Alberta Power and the third one is to be used to extend a cemetery in the Bardo area.

Correspondence received from the Local Authorities Board advising of a hearing, set for the proposed annexation by the Village of Ryley, was discussed and tabled pending additional information.

Alberta Transportation is considering funding in 1985 for final grading and clean-up of Secondary Roads 870 and 615.

Alberta Municipal Affairs has advised that they intend to process ministerial orders to change the electoral boundary divisions prior to 1986.

The Wainwright Hospital District is proposing to change hospital boundaries to include the Viking Hospital District. Viking Hospital approached council by letter recommending that they not accept the changes as they wish to remain as they are. Council agreed to this recommendation.

In response to a request from the Tofield Library for grant monies to operate their facility, council reviewed the grant by-law for community associations for recreation and community services.

Viking and Ryley Libraries have indicated that they do not require assistance at this time.

The by-law was given first reading and more action will take place after a meeting of the Recreation Board.

Tofield Agricultural Society, Tofield Library Board, Holden Agricultural Society and the Beaver Regional Arts Society will be asked to attend.

It is hoped that this by-law will make it possible for both town and country subscriber fees to be equal amounts.

Council moved to apply to CN to improve the railway crossing at the north end of Highway 834 at Tofield, to allow for better sight distance.

Council will apply to Alberta Transport for hamlet grants in 1985 to allow for the possibility of paving two blocks of Kinsella's Main Street.

Discover the many ways the Heritage Fund is working for us

98% of the Albertans who took part in a recent survey want the Heritage Fund to continue. But a significant number (60%) want to know more about this unique fund and how it works for us all.

Albertans want answers to questions like: How does the Heritage Fund help diversify our economy? How does it help create job opportunities? What is it doing for our children? Our health and recreation?

Other questions are about the funding sources of our Heritage Fund. Alberta has never had a retail gasoline tax, so where does the money for the Heritage Fund come from? And how is it used?

To answer these questions and many more, a series of folders has been developed. They can be picked up at the display racks in Alberta Treasury Branches and many public buildings. Or you can mail this coupon.

Osteoporosis

"Drink your milk" is a familiar phrase used by mothers everywhere. Adults become ignore this advice because milk is for children, right? Wrong!

Milk and milk products are not just for children. True, by the time you are 18, you have reached your adult height and your bones are as long as they are going to get. But your bone mass increases until you reach age 35. Once the mass and length of your bones are established, your bones are still not static. They undergo turnover throughout life and need calcium for this process.

We hear a lot these days about the disease osteoporosis. This age-related disease is characterized by a weakening of the bone due to a loss of calcium. People with this condition can suffer bone fractures as a result of a simple fall or bruise. These fractures most commonly occur in the spine, wrist or hip.

The best way to avoid osteoporosis is to build dense bones when you are young. This is particularly important for women, who are more susceptible to osteoporosis than men.

Bones are home of the risk factors associated with osteoporosis:

1. Women have less dense bones than men. The male hormone testosterone (small amounts in females) contains the bone mass in men. Estrogen protects pre-menopausal women from demineralization of their bones, but after the production of estrogen declines at menopause, bone mass rapidly decreases for three to seven years afterward.
2. Caucasians are more likely to develop osteoporosis than other racial groups.
3. Underweight women are more susceptible to osteoporosis than overweight women.
4. Regular exercise appears to protect women from developing osteoporosis, although the relationship between exercise and osteoporosis is not fully understood. Bodies weight-bearing exercise, such as walking, is acceptable.

Osteoporosis is not a straightforward case of calcium deficiency. Calcium must not only be present in the diet but must be taken in combination with other nutrients, such as vitamin D and protein, in order to be efficiently absorbed.

Most of the calcium in the Canadian diet comes from milk and milk products. Health and Welfare Canada recommends 700 mg of calcium daily for women aged 16 to 49, and 800 mg for women over 50. A 250-mL (1 cup) glass of milk provides about 310 mg of calcium. There is little difference in the calcium content of skim, two percent or whole milk. A 175-g (¾ cup) serving of plain yogurt contains about 300 mg calcium, whereas a 45-g serving of cheddar cheese contributes about 320 mg of calcium.

Two glasses of milk a day is a good start to providing 700 or 800 mg of calcium. With the addition of a serving of cheese, 800 mg is easily reached.

Ryley concert staged

A very large crowd attended the Ryley Elementary School Concert on December 21.

The program had been initially scheduled for the evening of Dec 20 but, due to the storm, had to be delayed until the next day.

All the students from kindergarten to grade six took part in the concert.

The Kindergarten Class had three numbers.

The grade ones and two's performed at their best in Christmas toys which consisted of two musical selections and one oral number.

The operetta, the Magic Mammoth, with the cast from grade three to six, was well received by the audience. Playing the lead roles were Cameron Hamm, Nikko Rowlett, Jodi Tucker, Anita Zemuk, Trudy Wimmer, Bobbie Benham and Kelly Kolawchuk.

Parents, relatives and friends were asked to bring a can of food for admission to the concert. A large quantity of food was donated and then given to the food bank in Camrose.

This year, the children did not exchange gifts as usual, but brought items to be given to the hospitals in the area.

These books, toys, games, puzzles, etc. would be used by the children in the hospitals throughout the year.

Following the children's performance, Santa Claus made his arrival and distributed oranges and candy canes to all the children, compliments of the Ryley Lions Club, Ryley Legion and Cavell Rebekah Lodge.

The school gym was decorated for the festive season with art work from the elementary students.

ing behind him and placed fourth in the 1984 Camrose Classic.

Randy Bench of Mayview, took third with his team of Alaskans with a time of 57 minutes and 39.36 seconds.

Tina Harvey of Camrose, with her team of Alaskans, took first place with a time of 38 minutes and 5.38 seconds in the novice 3-dog class. She is 12 years old and this was her first race. The course for this race is three miles long.

Karen Dimitel of Tofield was second with a time of 31 minutes and 57 seconds. She races Siberian Huskies and this is her third year racing. She and her husband, George, organized the Sled Dog Derby.

Donna Katis of Red Deer, in her third race ever, achieved third place with a time of 32 minutes and 16.81 seconds with her team of Siberians and Alaskans.

The oldest racer, Emily McDonald, came from Calgary to compete in her first race in the 3-dog novice category. She and her team of Siberians and Alaskans completed the course both days.

The youngest racer, eleven year-old Michael Ferguson, also competed the course both days. He is a grade six student from Millet and this was his first race.

"Kody", an Alaskan Husky owned by Dale Hauck of Devon, pulled 150 pounds to take first place in the dog weight pull on Sunday afternoon.

Second place went to "Zook", an Alaskan Malamute, owned by Diane Humphrey of Ardrossan. He pulled 150 pounds.

Winners of the Snowmobile Poker Rally on Saturday were first — Dan Hendrickson; second — Berry Mosby; and third — Pat Dawson. On Sunday, it was won by Jason Ross.

ATV Poker Rally winners were first — Rick Nolan and second — Jason Lammerts.

Organizers Karen and George Dimitel, said the success of the Derby Weekend could not have been possible without race marshall, Art Fadum, time recorder Donna McIlhone, head timer Paul Lolacher, trail boss and groomer Floyd Tiedemann and emcee Laurie Weatherill.

55 take CPR course

By [illegible]

The Tofield Fire Department received an overwhelming response to the CPR course offered last week.

The Monday sessions, both afternoon and morning, were full and because so many more wanted to take the course a third class was held last Tuesday evening.

A total of 55 participants were involved in the three heartsaver course sessions.

[illegible] of the Tofield Fire Department, has been teaching this course for the past five years and he believes that it is especially imperative for rural residents to be trained in CPR (cardio-pulmonary resuscitation).

He said that, if someone whose heart and breathing had stopped and required emergency treatment, in perhaps Ryley or Holden, it would take more than four minutes for an ambulance to reach the scene. If a trained person were on hand in that short time span, it is possible a life could be saved.

There is a program called the "first-responder system" available in other areas that the fire department would like to see [illegible] in this area.

Bauman said that the response to the recent course offered shows the public is aware of the need for a trained person to be on the scene as quickly as possible and that those attending the course last week showed a keen interest in the "first-responder system".

The Tofield Hospital was approached at their last Board meeting by Bauman and representatives from the Beta Sigma Phi organization about participating in an effort such as this, but their response was in the negative.

The four-hour Heartsaver Course offered last week included how to prevent, recognize and assist a victim with heart attack. It also included an easily learned skill that would enable course-takers to assist victims of drowning, electrocution, poisoning and choking.

C W Sears School principal, Dave Smith, along with six teachers completed the course and he described it as "super" and "very worthwhile".

Next month, as a follow-up to the course, the Red Cross will be instructing teachers in first aid techniques.

Minor hockey results

By Joan Murray

On Saturday, the Tofield Tom Thumbs came up with a tie against their Dads with a score of 4-4. Goals were scored by Danny Coleman, Jerrod Lee and Jeffrey Van Engelen 2.

On Sunday, they defeated Lamont 10-1 with goals being scored by Scott Calder 2, Ryan Carlson 2, Amee Williams 2, Jerrod Lee 4, and Jeffrey Van Engelen 1.

Mighty Mite Wolverines defeated Lamont 3-1 on Saturday with Ryan Nolan 2 and Ralph Scott making the points.

The Wolverines also won the A finals in Fultonvale on [illegible] in defeating Ardrossan, New Sarepta and Sherwood Park.

[illegible]

Tofield Torpedos whipped Fort Saskatchewan Engines 7-1 and then were doubled 4-2 by the Tofield Starbirds.

[illegible]

Tofield Ti-Kats edged Sherwood Park 6-4 and battled Fort Saskatchewan to a 5-5 draw while the Bantam A team was whipped 10-4 by [illegible].

Pee Wee

The Pee Wee A team whipped Fultonvale 7-2.

Hastings Lake news

By [illegible]

The Hastings Lake Ladies' Club held it's monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon, with the election of a new slate of officers, as follows.

President – Jan Addison, vice-president – Judy Fairweather; secretary-treasurer – Mary Jones; and news reporter – Helen Thompson.

Tea was served by Inger Paulsen, after which a hall clean-up was carried out.

Meanwhile, on Jan. 8th the Hall at Lindbrook was the scene of an Investiture, when the 201st Lindbrook Colony of Beavers was presented with ties, toggles and badges by their leader, Ken Duncan.

Recipients were Michael Jones, Andrew Duncan, Brian Tews, Michael Martin and Roy and Keith Reese. Colony colors are red and blue, and ages range from 5 to 7½ years. Other boys in that age group interested in joining, are welcome.

Election of new officers will be the main business at the annual meeting of the Lindbrook Community Hall on Thursday at 8 p.m. Interested local residents are urged to attend and support their community hall events.

Anyone in Hastings Lake and Lindbrook area wishing to report news of interest to the community, please contact Helen Thompson with details – phone 662-2465

With the high price of fuel, one wants to be sure and not miss out on any rebates available to them. Some of these are:

1. Excise Tax — Farmers get 1.5c/litre of fuel used for farming purposes.
2. Sales Tax — Starting December 1/84, farmers are eligible for a rebate of 3c/litre on motor fuels (gas and diesel) used off-highway.
3. Petroleum Compensation Charge (PCC) — Effective December 1/84 farmers are eligible for a rebate of [illegible] on motor fuels used off-highway.

For information on the above three programs you can contact:

District Excise Office, Manulife Building, Room 610, 10055-106 Street, Edmonton, Alberta, T5J 2Y2. Phone [illegible]

4. Natural Gas Rebate — Farmers are eligible for a rebate of 50c/GJ on consumption of natural gas over 300 GJ per year. This program is retroactive to Jan. 1/82.

We have rebate forms for this program in our office or you can contact: Rebates Branch, Alberta Utilities and Telecommunications, 2nd Floor, 12323 Stony Plain Road, Edmonton, Alberta, T5N 3Y9.

Were you aware that in 1983 Alberta farmers spent about $417 million on direct energy inputs (eg. fuel, electricity, etc.)? And farmers spent another $174 million on nitrogen fertilizer. At a total expense of $591 million, that's ⅓ of total farm expenses and a lot of bucks. Anything you can do to save energy will help cut expenses.

Bye for now.

Powderpuffs to compete

Tofield Powder Puffs were to have played their first home game last Sunday, but weather conditions prevented the opposition from coming.

It has been rescheduled for this Sunday at 12:15 p.m. when the Powder Puffs will host Paradise Valley for their first match-up of this year.

The following Sunday (Jan. 27) will see the Powder Puffs travelling to Lamont.

On Feb. 1-3 the Powder Puffs are planning to travel to Medicine Hat for an invitational tournament.

Also in the planning, Powder Puffs are preparing for their second annual Ladies Hockey Tournament which will be held in Tofield in March.

Around the town

About 30 grade three students of C.W. Sears School attended the Ice Capades in Edmonton on Saturday afternoon. This trip was made possible through the efforts of Cathy Horricks, one of their fellow classmates, who won first prize in a coloring contest sponsored by Heritage Mall.

The prize was free admission for all grade three students in her school but, transportation was not included. The school had no funding for a non-school function such as this so Colleen Horricks, the winner's mother, organized a car pool of four or five other parents to take them all in to the city.

Winners for the ACW raffle were Esther Kallal and Bonnie Ferguson.

Tourney planned

On Feb. 1-3 the Oldtimer Coasters are hosting their annual tournament.

Coupled with the tournament is a dance on the Saturday (Feb. 2) night.

This tournament promises to be a good one with teams from Antler Lake, Josephburg, Sherwood Park, the City as well as other rural teams, hopefully from Mundare and Two Hills.

The hockey that is played is full of sportsmanship, fast skating, amusing plays and 'alround' good clean hockey.

To illustrate how competitive the Oldtimer Coasters are this year, to date they have posted an 13-14-3 win-loss-tie record, and have a goals for average of 6.42, and goals against average of 6.00.

I remember when . . .

by [illegible]

My earliest memory goes back to about 1905 when I saw Dad, with a huge basket strapped to his shoulders, striding about a ploughed and harrowed field broadcasting wheat. The resultant crop would be cut with a scythe and cradled. I have a dim memory of a farm implement known as a "shaker". Dad was a push-over for modern machinery.

The "shaker" was an oblong box about five feet by three feet standing on four legs. Its bottom was perforated with sizable holes. I have a vague idea that "the shaker" in some subtle way replaced the flail.

We got the McCormick binder in about 1907 and after that the grain was stooked and later transported to the left loft of the straw barn.

The old barn deserves a paragraph. In retrospect it seemed about a quarter of a mile long. It was divided into [illegible] from left to right — the sheep barn, the straw barn, the pig barn, the horse barn, the hog barn and the cow barn. The hens had a house to [illegible] loft except the straw and hay barns. Footing in these lofts was precarious. I know — I fell through them often.

Threshing was done in the [illegible] whole family was involved. Sheaves would be tumbled down from the loft. Two patient horses trod the treadmill, the huge wheel which was encased in a hefty belt which ex-[illegible] executed the small wheel which rotated the drum. A sheaf would be laid on the [illegible] — Dad would feed the freed grain stalks into the rotating spiked drum. Somewhere along these stalks were digested and the products "tailings" and wheat would be emitted by two spouts into pails. It was my and David's job to change these pails and empty their contents into the respective bins. The straw belched from the rear of this set-up and [illegible] received by another member of the team and stored beneath the eaves.

Threshing is appetizing work. The horses had their dinner in the feed boxes in front of them. We had ours on the oil cloth covered kitchen table.

Beef stew and dumplings! How I loved them! We ate our dumplings with a sprinkling of sugar or a smear of molasses. Dad's mother made good dumplings too. I have seen her strip dallops from the risen bread dough and drop them on the simmering stew.

A treadmill stood on every farm. Our neighbour used his for pumping water, using bull-power. One Sunday while the family was in church, the old bull got bored hanging around alone so he climbed the treadmill. When the family returned the barn yard resembled a [illegible].

A long step from the old days to the present. I went down east to my old homeland in 1976. A farmer told me he would combine his 25 acre crop with a small second-hand [illegible] Alberta.

A far cry from the old treadmill.

Owing to the oil situation, Alberta was not too popular right then. Many of the friends of my youth had retired to the small towns where they lived in comfort thanks to the old age pension. They commiserated with me on my mistake of migrating to the uncultured west. One old soul asked me if we were troubled with Indian raids. I stayed a month on that trip. We had rain every day — I nearly froze to death. I was happy to return to the sunshine of the wild and woolly west.

by [illegible]

Tofield 4-H Beef Club met on Jan. 9 in the Arts and Crafts room.

The roll call was answered by an impromptu speech.

Our club will hold it's public speaking competition on March 13 in the Arts and Crafts Room.

We were reminded that Fun Nite in Holden has been changed to Feb. 22 for an evening of curling and skating.

Doug gave his junior leadership presentation and Dale Brown was presented with a cap from the Salers Association.

We plan to have a spring tea at a later date, as a fundraising project.

Club leader, Don Wood showed films on proper handling of animals and farm safety. Our record books were marked and our meeting then adjourned.

Need a boost for that New Year's resolution to go on a diet? There is a good choice of cookbooks on the new book table to help you out.

"The International Slim Gourmet Cookbook" by Barbara Gibbons provides lots of ideas for special dishes, missing nothing but the calories.

"Ladies Home Journal Family Diet Book" by Evan Frances includes many complete daily menus, taking the work out of planning around a special diet. Recipes are included.

"Weight Watchers International Cookbook" includes over 750 recipes from around the world, giving you a chance to try out a foreign cuisine right at home, and avoid all those cruise-ship weight gains. Not as much fun but definitely cheaper!

A different approach to diet and health that concerns many people these days may be found in Dr. C. Bennett's new book "Control Your High Blood Pressure Without Drugs!" Although his advice must be taken together with that of your own doctor, his information on exercise, stress control, and nutrition seem to be sound.

New Fiction this week includes Stillwatch by Mary Higgins Clark, the author of A Cry In The Night. This is a novel of suspense and ambition set in modern Washington.

Paperbacks include [illegible] by [illegible] Steel; Pay Any Price by Ted Allbeury; A Killing Pace by Lee Whitten and The Black Prince by Iris Murdoch.

Keep an eye on the Record shelf, as LP's are circulating rapidly. If you find few new records available, ask for a reserve, or check again in a few days. They are very popular at present.

Booktime is off to a good start, but there are still a few places available in this read-aloud program for school age children. Stories may be heard every Thursday from 4 to 5 p.m., read by Bill Sears. Please call the library ([illegible]) for further information, or to register.

Regular library hours are: Tuesday 1-5, Thursday 3-5 and 6-9; Friday and Saturday 10-12 and 1-5.

Recognition

On Friday night, Joseph Vogelin, executive secretary of the Salem Mennonite Church, presented Milo Stutzman with a birthday card signed by members of the church in memory of his many years as a minister of that church. Stutzman spent nearly 60 years actively involved as minister and Bible school teacher before entering the Tofield Lodge in 1977.

Strike vote is set
... for next week

Teachers in this area will be holding a government supervised strike vote next week.

The vote has been scheduled for one week from today (Wednesday).

Even though a strike vote is to be conducted, the result might prove to be meaningless as mediation talks have been scheduled for the following day.

Should mediation talks not result in a solution to the deadlock, teachers would have to serve seventy-two hours' notice before they walk off the job, if they favour strike action in Wednesday's vote.

The area involved is the Elk Island Regional School Authorities [illegible] which covers the Counties of Beaver, Flagstaff, Minburn and Lamont along with the School Divisions of Provost and Wainwright.

To the south, strike action was averted when trustees and teachers agreed to accept the results of a memorandum of agreement that had been negotiated earlier.

About seventy-two percent of the teachers voted in favour of the agreement while school boards in favour by only a 6-5 margin, in the Battle River School Authorities Association.

P.T.A. plans meeting

by Joan Murray

On Tuesday, parents concerned about their child's safety and well-being will have an opportunity to find out what to say and do to make them more aware of potential hazards they might be faced with from friends, relatives or strangers.

The C.W. Sears PTA is holding a general meeting that evening at 7.30 p.m. in the Sears School where a video entitled "Strong Kids, Safe Kids", will be shown.

Although the video is designed to be watched by parent and child together, this meeting will be open for parents only.

It teaches the child ways of avoiding problems before they happen and what to do if they encounter a situation. It also contains many useful suggestions to assist parents in discussing these issues with their children.

Parents are urged to come out to this meeting, watch the video, find out where it can be purchased or rented and also to take advantage of information that will be made available that night.

The second half of the meeting will deal with how the County of Beaver education system works. Many parents have a general idea of how it works, but are not really sure. This is an opportunity for them to get answers.

To explain the system and answer questions, School Board members, John Warner (Divison 7), Arnold Swift (Town of Tofield) and Superintendent, Bill Schoeman will be present to address the meeting.

Stutzman celebrates 99th

by Joan Murray

Milo Stutzman, long-time resident of the Tofield and Kingman area, celebrated his 99th birthday at the Tofield Lodge on Friday night.

He was one of the first residents to enter the Lodge when it opened eight years ago.

He was born on January 18, 1886 in Milford, Nebraska. He and his wife, Barbara, moved to the Kingman area in 1912. His wife passed away in 1952. They had five children, Irma (Lauber), David, Verba (Stauffer), Fern (Roth) and Nathan. All still reside in the Tofield area except Norman, who lives in Camrose.

Milo and his second wife, Selina, were married in 1957 until her death in the fall of 1984.

He now has 17 grandchildren, 33 great-grandchildren and three great-great grandchildren.

Although he farmed a half section of land for many years, he was best known as a minister of the Salem Mennonite Church and was also an evangelist, Bible school teacher and music teacher.

Stutzman has seen many historical highlights come about in his life time. In the ten years before and after his birth, such events as the invention of the telephone, incandescent light bulb, gas driven cars, X-rays, rabies vaccine and the introduction of the first modern breakfast cereal, Shredded Wheat, came about.

The only notable thing that was introduced the year he was born was the marketing of the soft drink, Coca Cola.

Of all his descendants, none went to the ministry, but are all active in the church.

He was honored with songs by his family members and wished well by many friends that evening.

He completed the program with his own recollections of things in his lifetime and was extremely proud of the fact that none of his descendants, to his knowledge, ever used tobacco.

He said "It is a testimony and ought to be written on the front pages ... praise the Lord." This fact seemed to bring him special joy.

Seniors elect slate

The Tofield Club held it's annual meeting on Jan. 9th, in the Drop-In Centre.

A new executive was elected as follows: Carl Niemetz is president; Nola Ferguson is secretary; Irma Francis is treasurer; Alex Scott is 1st vice-president and Art Williams is 2nd vice-president.

The directors are George Niemetz and Ed Ferguson.

Bill Tiedemann remains in charge of the pool playing and Myrtle Nerland is trip convenor.

The $20,000 mortgage has been paid off at the bank by means of a small, short-term, interest-free loan made by each of three members of the former executive. They should be fully repaid in about two months.

At the most recent whist drive the winners were as follows: ladies' first — Margaret Patterson; ladies' consolation — Alice McGugon, men's first — Stan Wenger, and Myrtle Nerland taking the place of a man, [illegible]

The health nurses are still holding the "55 Plus" Clinic at the Drop-In Centre on the last Thursday of every month.

It is free and all in this age group are welcome to come and have a check-up.

Holden recreation gets re-organized

The Holden Local Recreation Board held their organizational meeting at the Village of Holden Office on January 15.

The introduction of Willie Federation and Darrell Pasnak to the organization reinforced the fact that diverse individuals comprise this organized institution.

The group is composed of members Sylvia Burden, Dorothy Emerson, Garth Fleming, Myrtle Iwaskow and Marvin Tomashavsky.

The members of the Recreation Local would like to invite all citizens of the community [illegible] suggestions with regards to recreation by determining the needs, and evaluating current programs, the association is able to address the concerns and possibly offer assistance and opportunities otherwise unavailable to agencies and [illegible]

Tougher on impaired

Chances are that sentences on impaired drivers may be tougher in the next little while, according to recent indications by Attorney General Neil Crawford.

It's taken a long time to think about it, apparently, or maybe it's taken a long time to work out the wording. But it would appear Mr. Crawford has finally found a way to require blood samples from drivers incapable of agreeing to provide them, whether through injury or impairment.

It also appears that drivers convicted of impairment may face stiffer penalties.

And it appears there may be a new charge of causing death through impairment.

All of which would tend to indicate Mr. Crawford has been hearing the public clamor, the indignant outrage, over the seeming leniency with which impairment has been treated in the past. Indeed, he may even be thinking of the travesty many months ago when one of his own caucus colleagues managed to persuade a judge that far over Alberta's threshold of impairment did not necessarily mean that a large man, used to heavy consumption, could not react with customary speed and accuracy on the highway.

Especially when Alberta's basis, .08, is a very tolerant sixty percent above the Scandinavian base. And despite their more intolerant base, penalties there have been very much more severe for years.

Is Alberta learning? Is Mr. Crawford hearing? Thousands of us will be grateful.

Needed . . . a Liberal

Funeral services were held the other day for Dave Hunter, who a few years ago was an energetic leader of the Liberal Party in Alberta. The party was going down hill in Alberta at the time, and nothing Hunter could do could change that.

Sometime after he stepped down, the leadership was taken over by Nick Taylor, a man who has worked vigorously to rebuild Liberal numbers and Liberal influence. Unfortunately he also found that nothing he could do could stem the tidal movement away from the Liberal party, as more and more the policies emanating from Ottawa embarassed Alberta supporters, if they weren't downright outraged by Ottawa.

Recently there have been several suggestions that Mr. Taylor should resign, should give some new leader a chance, should give the party a chance at a comeback.

Maybe he will, though we doubt it. Neither Liberal nor anyone else could blame him for feeling he has shouldered his share of the load and more, that it is time to turn over the reins and let someone else carry the burden.

We would have to go back years in memory before we can recall when Alberta Liberals were the beneficiaries of such persistent, such sage, and such informed leadership as they have received under Taylor. He has repeatedly campaigned for office for them; without success, of course. He has heckled the government, he has exhorted his own troops. He has advanced a surprising number of suggestions for improving government. He has faulted the government for omission and commission in areas where many of us are not even knowledgeable. He has come in with puckish proposals that bear a good deal more examination than they were given. Indeed, many of them received that scrutiny, quietly, from Mr. Lougheed's government.

And we haven't noticed where he has been the beneficiary of a great deal of the support he might reasonably expect from those who now aspire to take over his mantle.

Among the contenders in the wings, we don't see anybody but boys trying to do a man's job.

It just occurs to us: we've never cast a vote for Taylor, and probably never will. But we think he's the best man in sight for the Liberals.

Loose Ends

[illegible]

When children are left on their own you can count on two things. They won't behave the way you tell them they should and they'll love every minute of it.

When they are left on their own in a city hotel while their parents attend an 'adults only' party, all you can really hope for is that the police won't be called or damages added to the already exorbitant cost of the room.

When we inflicted ours on a city hotel recently (a once-every-three-year occurance), we thought we'd covered all the possibilities:

Don't leave this room or open the door to anyone unless they are shouting "FIRE!" (the partygoers down the hall shouting "TAXI!" every 5 minutes didn't count.)

Don't order anything from Room Service.

Don't call us unless one or both of you is close to death or [illegible].

Don't fight with each other, play the television too loud, plug the toilet or scatter things on the floor to trip up your parents when they stumble in.

We left them well supplied with food and water and things to keep their hands and minds occupied until they were tired enough to fall asleep. (Note: it takes three days of heavy activity to tire our boys enough so that they will go to bed. Sleep is another matter altogether.)

Of course, we hadn't counted on the 'smokey smell' that they thought we should [illegible] check on them. Somehow they neglected to tell us that they simply had to step out into the hall to see just how far the fire was spreading. (It wasn't but the party down the hall was.)

And then there was their curiosity. That and the elevator took them downstairs for a tour of the lobby areas looking for a clock (an excursion turned, somehow, between our check-in calls.) Despite all their initial excitement at spending an unsupervised evening in a strange hotel, I suspect that their short tour had more to do with boredom than any great need to know how much longer their freedom would last.

We're just grateful that that boredom was so easily alleviated. Who knows? We might have returned to find the rowdy partygoers yelling "TAXI!" from our room.

Surplus abused?

Tofield, Alberta
Jan. 21, 1985.

Dear Sir,

Once again we have an Edmonton newspaper taking up the cause of what they consider to be an unnecessary trip by the Premier and several of his staff, to Europe.

Closer to home we have the ludicrous spectacle of no less than six local gentlemen going to Nova Scotia to a hospital convention.

When I inquired about the wisdom of this in this time of restraint, one gentleman assured me that, "Well, everyone else goes so we may as well go too".

The money apparently came from a budget surplus of [illegible]. When asked whether it had been very informative the same man replied "Well, you really don't learn a lot at these conventions."

I question where this large surplus came from, is there nothing our hospital could use?

Will another surplus next year provide six more people with an opportunity to "travel Canada"?

Who do these people account to for what appears to be a flagrant mismanagement of funds?

Hopefully, next year someone more capable will be able to budget more realistically and spend more intelligently.

Strikes and lockouts Should be avoided

5233-45 Street,
Camrose, Alberta
Jan 16, 1985

Dear Sir

I'm writing this letter regarding strikes lockouts etc as I am convinced that such actions should and can be avoided.

Most jobs are organized for profit or service or a combination of both and any disruption [illegible] work stoppages have a crippling effect on our social structure.

Under our present conditions the immediate result of a work stoppage seems to be an added inconvenience and/or suffering to the third parties who are the least able to contribute towards the solution.

Most work stoppages seem to be the result of ignorance, poor planning, arrogance, stupidity or a combination of [illegible].

In some cases our present [illegible] seem to generate future misunderstandings as it appears we have narrowed our vision and neglected to exercise our options. I feel that most individuals are willing to contribute a share towards the overall good.

There are other ways and means to handle our labour affairs other than altercations and/or confrontations and one method that seems to be neglected is a procedure which is known as 'Final Position Paper'.

There could be some readers who might like to have this routine explained: A brief outline of this process is that each party agrees to a definite time schedule to conduct negotiations. Before the initial suggestions are exchanged, each party must indicate their final position and seal it in an envelope. If a settlement is reached, the final position papers are not used. If there is no settlement at the end of the agreed time, an official opens both envelopes and is obligated to award 100% to either party and of course the other party is by-passed.

This method serves to keep suggestions within reason on both sides and virtually eliminates the near useless annual exchanges and bantering of both parties.

The Meaning of "Uff Da"

"Uff da" is not in the dictionary, but for Norwegians, it is an all-purpose expression covering a variety of situations such as: Uff da . . . is looking in the mirror and discovering you're not getting better, you're just getting older.

Uff da . . . is . . . trying to dance the polka to rock and roll music.

Uff da . . . is . . . losing your wad of gum in the chicken yard.

Uff da . . . is . . . having Swedish meat balls at a lutefisk supper.

Uff da . . . is . . . spending two hours cleaning up my room and mom says "Uff da".

Uff da . . . is . . . walking downtown and then wondering where you parked.

Uff da . . . is . . . arriving late at a lutefisk supper and getting served minced ham instead.

Uff da . . . is . . . trying to pour two buckets of manure into one bucket.

Uff da . . . is . . . having a mouse crawling up your leg when you're on a hay load.

Uff da . . . is . . . eating hot soup when you've got a runny nose.

Uff da . . . is . . . getting out of bed in the morning with a back ache.

Uff da . . . is . . . getting swished in the face with a cow's wet tail.

Uff da . . . is . . . waking yourself up in church with your own snoring.

Uff da . . . is . . . forgetting your mother-in-laws first name.

Uff da . . . is . . . when two steady girlfriends find out about each other.

Uff da . . . is . . . noticing non-Norwegians at a church dinner using lefsa for a napkin.

Uff da . . . is . . . eating a [illegible] and then discover the spread is cat food.

Uff da . . . is . . . sneezing so hard that your false teeth end up in the bread plate.

Uff da . . . is . . . NOT being Norwegian.

Winter lawn survival

Those brown patches that appear in the lawn in spring can be prevented now.

"The damage is generally caused by winter kill, and proper care in the fall can help," says Betty Vladicka of the Alberta Tree Nursery and Horticulture Centre.

Fertilizer should not be applied after August 15, to allow the grass growth to slow down and harden off for winter.

Homeowners should water their lawns less.

At freeze-up, however, enough water should be applied to thoroughly moisten the top 12-15 centimetres. This decreases the drying effects of winter and spring soil heaving.

Raising the cutting height of the lawn provides some insulation. A recommended height is between four and five centimetres, says Ms. Vladicka.

During the winter, homeowners should avoid walking over a lawn that is frozen but has little snow cover. Heavy snow and ice can suffocate a lawn; therefore, these areas should be broken up.

Good maintenance practices keep a lawn looking its best.

PRE-SCHOOL CENSUS

The County of Beaver Board of Education is presently conducting a census to determine the number of pre-school age children residing in the attendance areas.

THIS INFORMATION IS VITAL TO BUDGETING AND FUTURE PLANNING

Each school will be sending a form letter home with students which request a list of pre-school students. If you know of any families with pre-school children who may not receive a letter, please inform the school at your earliest convenience.

Your assistance in helping us with this census is sincerely appreciated.

Just for fun

by Jean Murray

Would you like some peace and quiet, or time to dream a little, or just a few moments to re-aquaint yourself with silence . . .

Go to a PG rated movie on a Wednesday evening during the school term. You will be surrounded by a handful of parents and their very well-behaved children. The only sounds are coming from the movie screen.

[illegible] of your trip to Ram River Falls [illegible] baby poking holes through the saran wrap covering the potato salad. Daddy is putting up the tent while son is helping by gathering up all the neat little yellow pegs sticking out of the ground. Close up shot of Daddy's face as he turns four different shades of red, then there's the one of Mommy coming out of the bushes tucking her T-shirt and a yard of T-paper into her jeans.

After dinner, ask whose turn it is for dishes. Chances are you will have all the solitude you want until you have finished doing them by yourself. There is usually homework to do, Dad has to check the air in his tires, and little ones miraculously fall asleep on the couch (something they would never do without a major battle).

What about the times that you would really like company and find yourself all alone in spite of your efforts at socializing. . .

There is the time you went to a party and forgot that you had garlic bread with your dinner. Funny how you see everyone standing in the middle of the room, even after three polkas in a row. Here you are panting your way back to normal breathing and there are still fourteen vacant seats all around you. About that time someone (brave soul) taps you on the shoulder and says,

"Hey, look what I got free in the mail today. Try it — you'll like it." Everyone else is vigorously nodding their heads in agreement as he hands you a sample bottle of Scope.

What about the time you went to the bridge club by yourself hoping for a little self-improvement, and announced that you had never played before. Someone says,

"Sit here, it's for the dummy," and you hastily tell them to "Sit on it!" Needless to say, you find yourself munching Clubs, Diamonds, Hearts and Spades from the lunch tray for the rest of the evening.

If you are the type who likes to meet the people and mingle with a crowd, I have the answer for you.

Take a bus tour; you are never alone and I mean NEVER, or travel by air, tourist style, everyone is your friend and can't wait to tell you about all the sights you are about to see and what they did last year and the funny anecdotes about the time they got lost at Grand Canyon for three days on account of engine trouble. (You get what you pay for, he whispers.) If you cannot afford this kind of travel, break your leg at work, go on compensation and tell the hospital that you don't have Blue Cross. Interesting things can happen in a public ward, but that is another story.

Horses want cubes

It seems that horses prefer cubes to other forms of alfalfa feed.

A recent report on a research program that was started at the University of Alberta two years ago says that although there was no significant difference in the digestibility of protein or energy when alfalfa was fed in the cube, pelleted, chopped and long forms, voluntary consumption was the highest for the cubes.

The research project involved eight mature horses that were fed the four different forms of alfalfa, and placed in metabolism crates where their urine and feces were collected to determine the digestibility of the protein and energy as well as their voluntary intake of the various forms.

According to Alberta Agriculture's district agriculturist at Three Hills, Ted Nibourg, the report shows that the cubes were eaten at an average rate of 16.5 kg per day, while the pellets were eaten at an average of only 12.9 kg per day. The consumption rate per day for the chopped alfalfa hay was 13.9 kg and the rate for long alfalfa hay was 13.4 kg.

Cubes and pellets are popular because they are easier to handle than long alfalfa hay and they spoil less easily. Also they cause less dust and there is less waste because the horses do not sort through them as they do with conventional alfalfa hay.

New cook employed

by Jean Murray

Patrons of the Casa D'oro Restaurant in Tofield will notice quite a change in this establishment in the next few months.

It now has Dwight Constable as its new cook and he is introducing a menu which includes dining room fare with such delicacies as steak and lobster, rack of ribs, rock cornish hen and veal cordon bleu. There will also be a complete entree of full course meals as well as the usual pizza and pasta menu.

The new cook said that all foods prepared will be made on the premises and he will use no factory prepared foods in his meals.

Constable, his wife Brenda and their one-year old son, Stuart arrived in Tofield on January 1st. He had started working at the restaurant in December, but a motor vehicle accident prevented him from continuing with his work until now.

He has seven years of cooking experience, four of which were spent running his own restaurants in Forestburg. He holds a certificate of qualification as a cook from the Trade Certification Branch of Alberta and has completed the National Sanitation Trade Program from the Alberta Restaurant Foodservices Association.

T complete the dining room effect that the restaurant is trying to create, some changes will be made to the decor on one side of the restaurant and a beer and wine list should be available some time in February or March.

Spilstead district news items

by M. Fisher

The festive season saw a very successful Christmas concert held at Spilstead Hall and the new year brought in in fine fashion by a full house on New Year's Eve.

The Spilstead Community League held its frist meeting for 1985 on Jan. 8th. A number of topics were discussed with a decision made to hold a crib and whist card party on Jan. 26 at 7:30 p.m. Ladies please bring something for the lunch. Coffee will be supplied by the Community League.

The Spilstead Group Committee for the Cubs and Scouts have a fund-raiser in progress. They are selling chocolate covered almonds to support the boys' camping trips, etc. They can be purchased through any of the Cubs or Scouts.

Tofield Lodge notes

On Jan. 18, a party was given at the Lodge by Mr. Statzman's family, in honor of his 99th birthday. This special occasion was attended by five generations of the family, and by many friends as well as the residents of the Lodge. A program was given with music numbers by family members. Tributes were paid to Mr. Statzman by Joe Voegtlin, on behalf of the Salem Church, by John Baerjew on behalf of the Lodge and by other relatives and friends.

Mr. Statzman talked about incidents in his life, and many changes that have taken place in the ninety-nine years. Lunch and a social time were enjoyed.

On Saturday afternoon a party at the Lodge honored Mrs. Edith Bailey, on her 90th birthday. The party was arranged by her granddaughter, Louisa Undin.

There was a large number of relatives and friends from Tofield, Sherwood Park, Edmonton, Calgary, Abbotsford, B.C. and Edith's son and his wife, Ralph and Helen Bailey from Halifax.

Kathy Undin was mistress of ceremonies at a program. Tributes were paid to Edith by granddaughter, by John Baerjew on behalf of the Lodge, by John Warner on behalf of the Lodge Board, and by several others. Music numbers were given by Melita Wall and by Mr. Loderoute. After the program, lunch and visiting was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bailey came from Halifax last Friday. They attended his mother's birthday party on Saturday, returned home on Sunday.

Miss Shirley Stinson visited her mother, Mary Stinson on Saturday and attended the birthday party.

Bingo was played at the lodge last Tuesday afternoon with a good number taking part. The jackpot was won by Mrs. Doris Robertson.

Hope For Last Week

Your correspondent hopes all Mercury readers had a good New Year's and that it continues all year

Jean and George Kleinschroth spent last weekend at Cold Lake on a fishing trip. On their return, they visited the Ed Wensels in Caslan.

John and Pat Dyike, Trevor and Curtis were visitors in Creston, B.C. for a few days where they visited John's parents, Bob and Dorothy Dyike and brother, Jim. At Sparwood, they visited Pat's brother Perry Duckworth, where they spent New Year's Day.

The Bob Swabeys of Sylvan Lake returned home after spending their Christmas vacation at their cabin and with Bob's parents, Frank and Gladys Swabey. David Swabey came a week before Christmas and gave his grandmother Gladys a hand before Frank returned home from hospital.

Mrs. Sarah Kleinschroth and Effie Nanichuk are patients in Tofield Hospital.

Those that like to dink had a social evening of dinking at the Crafts Centre recently.

The first of two snowmobile poker rallies is to be on Jan. 27th. There will be a concession.

Phyllis Theberge and Dustin spent last Saturday with Phyllis' parents, Joe and Eva Davenport and sister, Doris.

Linda and Gerry Thearet were Sunday visitors with Linda's parents, Margaret and Pat Paterson.

The January meeting of the Ladies Club was held at the home of Jean Ferguson. Roll call was answered with articles for the food bank in [illegible] sion, donations were to be sent to four charities we regularly donate to, as well as a donation to go to the Tofield Hospital and one to the Ministik Community Hall.

In Jean Ferguson's sick committee report, people were well taken care of with cards, rose bowls and elderly members with poinsettia plants at Christmas. They had a good financial year as Betty Williams treasurer's report showed.

Olivine Sears, Carol Dekinder and Darlene Brett joined the club.

Carol Dekinder had a January birthday and received a birthday card from the club.

The February meeting will be at the home of Betty Williams.

Lunch hostesses were Laurie Swabey and Jean Ferguson and a social time was enjoyed around Jean's [illegible]

Hastings Lake and district

by Helen Thompson

The annual meeting of the Hastings Lake Hall, which was postponed because of icy road conditions, will be held in the hall on Thursday at 8 p.m. Election of officers for 1985 is planned and refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Dana Kem, program co-ordinator for the hall, is currently accepting registrations for the following courses: macrame, machine quilting, yoga, a one evening course in landscaping by Howard Gates, and a one day course in cooking with a wok.

For information and registration, please contact Mrs. Kem at 663-3669, as soon as possible, as some courses are due to begin at once, and a minimum of eight persons is required per course.

The annual meeting of Lindbrook Community Hall was also postponed due to icy roads and will now be held on Thursday evening at the hall at 8 p.m.

Weatherman interferes in hoop league schedule

The weatherman keeps interfering with the schedule of the Battle River High School Basketball League.

Two more home games were postponed last week when icy road conditions prevented visiting teams from travelling.

On Friday, Tofield is scheduled to play in Sedgewick while Viking goes to Daysland.

Tofield has to make up postponed games in Daysland and Viking while Ryley has to reschedule a home date with Sedgewick and Ryley girls still have to travel to Daysland.

In the only games that were played recently, Tofield and Ryley had a split in games that were played in Ryley.

The home team picked up an easy 55-30 triumph in the girls' contest while the visitors eked out a close 70-68 decision in the boys' match.

Only two teams are undefeated to date, both in the boys' division where Daysland has racked up three straight victories while Tofield has won two in a row.

Girls

Standings	W	L	F	A	Pts
Viking	2	1	194	113	4
Sedgewick	2	1	149	138	4
Daysland	1	1	78	77	2
Ryley	1	1	89	96	2
Tofield	0	2	66	119	0

Boys

Standings	W	L	F	A	Pts
Daysland	3	0	229	164	6
Tofield	2	0	140	111	4
Viking	2	1	194	163	4
Ryley	0	3	164	203	0
Sedgewick	0	3	153	190	0

Only the top three teams in each division are assured of advancing to the playoffs as the fourth place teams could face a challenge from either, or both, Wainwright and Hughenden.

Powderpuffs are losers

On Sunday the Powder Puffs provided some good clean hockey and vigorous skating for the well-attended game against Paradise Valley.

Unfortunately, the Powder Puffs were defeated 6-3.

Next Sunday, the game against Lamont has to be cancelled and we are hoping to see the Powder Puffs travelling to Vegreville for a game.

Labor appeals under new Act

Bill 24, The Employment Standards Amendment Act, 1984 received Royal Assent and came into force May 31, 1984.

Bill 24 amends the process by which employers may appeal an order of an Employment Standards Officer. Employers who wish to appeal an order issued on or after May 31, 1984 will be requested to post an amount equal to the order or $200, whichever is less, with Alberta Labour's Director of Employment Standards.

If the appeal is successful the money will be returned to the employer. If the appeal is unsuccessful the money will be given to the employee as partial or full payment of money owed to the employee.

Commenting on the provision contained in Bill 24, Labour Minister Les Young said "The amendments are designed to uphold the original intent of the umpire system, that is to provide a timely, inexpensive and informal hearing process. The high number of frivolous or unwarranted appeals will be reduced. The effectiveness of resolving disputes between employers and employees will be enhanced, to the benefit of both parties."

Other amendments in Bill 24 improve the efficiency of the appeal process and clarify an employee's priority regarding secured creditors.

At odds

Lamont stretches lead

Lamont is starting to pull away from the pack in the Beaverhill Hockey League.

And Holden ended a seventeen game losing streak and started a new streak by winning two games in a row.

Lamont now enjoys a six-point edge over Mundare as they have posted eight wins in a row and are undefeated in their last twelve games.

Vegreville may have trouble holding on to fifth place, let alone challenge Tofield for the final playoff berth as that team had now absorbed five straight losses.

Action last night (Tuesday) was in Tofield and Lamont with results to be reported next week and tonight's lone game is in Redwater.

Tofield will be hosting Mundare on Friday night and them, will be at home to Redwater on Tuesday.

Holden is at home to Lamont on Friday night and one week from today (Wednesday), will be going to Vegreville in an important match.

Lamont picked up three more victories last week when they stopped Tofield 7-4, doubled Mundare 6-3 and doubled Redwater 6-3 in a game that had been rescheduled for early in December.

Holden was the only other team with a winning week when the Beavers surprised Redwater 8-6 and then bombed Vegreville 18-10 in what could best be described as a free-wheeling contest.

In the other two games that were played, Redwater edged Tofield 6-5 and Mundare doubled Vegreville 10-5.

After last week's action, only two things are certain and they are that Vegreville now can't take first place and Holden can't finish any higher than third place.

Sears wins bonspiel

by Joan Murray

The Dave Sears rink of Tofield came out on top at the mixed curling bonspiel in Tofield Arena on Sunday.

Third for the Sears rink was Linda Sears with Rocky Anderson as second and Colleen Sears as lead.

Second in the First Event was the John Proctor rink of Sherwood Park, followed by Al Pollock from Tofield and Doug Walker, also of Tofield.

The Second Event's first place winners were members of the Wayne Eglauer rink from Mannville. Eglauer's team consisted of Rosemary Eglauer, David Murray and Kim Smiley.

Second place went to Dave Schultz, followed by Miles Rose and then Randy Erickson, all of whom are from Tofield.

In the Third Event, the Ron Teske rink of Ryley took first place. Curling with Teske were Sheila Hisey, Tom Brown and Val Lesoway.

Second place in the Third Event went to the Gordon Schmidt rink, third went to Doug Hardy and fourth to Wes Lawson, all from Tofield.

The next curling competition in the Tofield Arena will be the Farmer's Bonspiel, starting on Monday.

Here's The Beef — It's Lean!

Today's Canadian beef is lean'

Trimmed cuts, particularly those from the hip, such as round steak or rump and eye-of round roasts, are comparable to chicken and fish in calories and fat content.

A recent study at the University of Guelph showed that in the past, some tables of food values overestimated the fat content of commercially trimmed Canadian beef by as much as 60 percent. These figures were collected in the United States more than 25 years ago using a small number of animals.

In Canada, many producers have switched to leaner breeds of cattle, such as Charolais and Simmental. The Canadian grading system awards Grade A1 and A2 to the leanest carcasses. This is the quality most often available in retail stores.

To minimize the calories and fat content of beef meals, choose lean cuts and cook in a liquid rather than in fat.

Holden and district news

by Mrs. G.K. Taylor

The Holden Senior Citizens Club held their annual meeting in the Drop-In Centre last Tuesday evening.

Annual reports were given by the secretary and president with the financial statement received. Election of officers was held with the same slate of officers. Pete Ogonoski president; secretary Mrs. Kathleen Hurum; and John Romanission as vice-president.

Various items of business were discussed and it was decided to hold a cash bingo on Friday afternoon at 2 p.m. They also decided to hold a crib tournament in February. At the close of the meeting, lunch was served.

Holden residents visiting with family and friends at Viking Nursing Home were Mr. and Mrs. Nick Shihinski with their uncle, Mr. Alex Shihinski; Mrs. Gwen Hooper calling on her mother, Mrs. Phoma Evans; while Mrs. Ruby Benson and Mrs. Nancy Semotiuk visited with former Holdenites, Mrs. Sirgina Sizer and Mrs. Pearl Pasnak; and Mr. Fayden is now a resident in the nursing home.

Ladies of Holden Lodge Order of the Royal Purple held their annual birthday party on Saturday evening, this being their 30th anniversary of the Lodge institution, entertaining their husbands and escorts to a roast beef supper in St. Gregory's R.C. Church basement, catered to by the ladies of the CWL. In spite of the very cold weather, there was a good turnout of members and guests. A cake centered the head table, decorated in Lodge colors of white and purple, made by lady Dawn Pusey. After supper, several games were played, with winners in the whist games being, ladies' 1st — Dawn Pusey, men's 1st — John Semotiuk; the low prize winner were men's — Mel Haas, ladies' low — Mrs. Kate Nichols.

At the conclusion of the games, lunch was served. Exalted Ruler Matt Helfrich, on behalf of the guests, thanked the ladies for the supper and enjoyable evening.

Five ladies of Holden Lodge Order of the Royal Purple drove over to Mundare one afternoon last week visiting with Mrs. Anne Baraniuk who is a member of Holden Lodge. She had for the past few years been making her home there with a brother.

The Holden Power Skating Club has, this year, a registration of 50 children. The new program for 1984-85 is mostly instruction sessions on Tuesday evenings and practice is held on Thursday evenings. Lisa Yakimchuk of Vegreville is the instructor and she is assisted by Karen Lusk, Linda Grinde and Lana Beida.

Ryley Legion meets

by Joan Murray

The regular meeting of the Ryley Legion and Auxiliary held recently dealt with a number of pieces of business.

The [illegible] is scheduled for this weekend in Tofield. Bud Fraser can be contacted at 663-3527 for players interested in competing.

Ryley hosted the Legion and senior curling [illegible] over the weekend. It was fairly well attended by rinks throughout the Zone in spite of the icy road conditions. Only regular and [illegible] members took part.

Installation night takes place this weekend, on Saturday at 8 p.m. Awards for the Remembrance Day poster, essay and poem contest will be presented.

Because the 60th anniversary of the Royal Canadian Legion is being celebrated in 1985, a committee was formed to organize and co-ordinate [illegible] with this event.

Members of this committee are Walter Williams, [illegible] Podoborozny, Don Wagner and Bud Fraser.

The Bratrud boys will be providing the entertainment at the Valentine's Dance planned for February 9th. The admission will include a midnight lunch and a raffle will be run throughout the evening.

Walter Williams and Keith Murray, bartenders for January and February, need members to sell tickets on Saturday evenings. The proceeds from these ticket sales go to help the young people in the community.

Minor teams are busy

Minor hockey teams from Tofield had a busy week as they played a total of nine games and picked up five victories.

Midgets

Tofield Lions made a successful television debut last week when they roared from behind to stop Camrose 8-6.

The game was aired "live" on Channel 10 on Tuesday night and was replayed again on the Camrose Community Channel on Thursday evening.

Yoder had a hat-trick for the winners, Roth and Hurbert each had a pair and the single was netted by Begedor.

Bantams

The bantam 'A' team was edged 6-5 by Camrose.

Pee Wees

Tofield Blazers were doubled 8-4 by Camrose.

Atoms

Tofield Starbirds stopped Sherwood Park 3-1 and then whipped Fort Saskatchewan by a 7-3 count.

Mighty Mites

Wolverines blanked Beaumont 7-0 with Bartling netting four goals, Lee had a pair and the single was scored by Scott.

Badgers blanked Josephburg 2-0 when they got goals from Kondrat and Cameron.

TiKats

TiKats absorbed losses at the hands of Lamont and Devon.

Gym Club is active

by Joan Murray

The Tofield Gym Club is geared up to start a new session with one class of pre-schoolers that started last night and another that starts tomorrow (Thursday) night. They will be held in the C.W. Sears Gym, right after school.

School children aged 6-16 will begin their new session in the first week of February.

There are 60 registered club members in the last season. Registrations for new classes will be taken prior to class time, as there are still some vacancies open.

Pre-schoolers practice on Tuesdays and Thursdays after school, while members at the red badge level meet on Tuesdays following them. White badge and other senior members will meet on Thursdays after the pre-schoolers.

It is expected that the 6-10 age group will be split into two classes that will be held both Tuesdays and Thursdays. If the demand is great enough, a third class could be formed.

Instructors for the Club are Sheri Collison of Viking and Tammy Nakamura of Tofield. They are assisted by two Junior High School students, Cheryl Berg and Chrissy Williams.

Parent volunteers, Maryann Nolan and Ruth Ellen Appleby assist with the pre-school group.

Club registration fees pay for the instructors and help to purchase new equipment.

There are plans in the works to have a program for public viewing in the first week of April.

Members of the club's executive are: president – Darlene Gallinger; vice-president — Dana Koss; treasurer — Linda Sears; and secretary — May Korobko.

4H EVENTS

by Sheri Wickson

The Ryley 4-H Beef Club held their first regular meeting on Jan 8th at the Charles Magnuson home.

The pledge was led by Kendall Booth and roll call was answered by naming the breed of the member's calf.

Discussion took place on a fund-raising project and it was decided we would have a pancake supper in the Ryley Community Hall on the weekend of the farmers' banquet.

Each member received their membership card.

The County "Fun Night" is set for Feb. 23rd in the Holden Curling Rink and Arena; all 4-H families in the county are asked to attend and participate.

CARDS OF THANKS

THE FAMILY of the late Thomas Ferguson wish to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for their expressions of sympathy, floral tributes, memorial donations, cards, visits and calls extended to us. A special thank you to those who visited our loved one in the Tofield hospital and sent her cards, letters and flowers. Your kind words of support and thankfulness provided her with comfort and strength.
Deeply appreciated by Gordon and family.
20 8460

I WOULD LIKE to thank everyone who came to my birthday party and for all the beautiful cards, flowers & gifts. I especially enjoyed the surprise program planned by my granddaughters Lonna and her family. Also Stella for your thoughtfulness in sending the cake. Also for your music and Mrs Stinson at the Piano. It was a beautiful afternoon. Thankyou all very much.

Legion inducts slate

. . . for Ryley Branch

by Joan Murray

On Saturday night, Legion Zone Commander Owen Jones installed the following officers president — Don Wagner; vice-president — Gordon Kirkland; service officer — Jack Davidson; sergeant-at-arms — Ken Podoborozny.

As secretary Ron Pepper and treasurer Joan Stolarek were absent, they will be installed at a later date. Rev. Haugen will be Chaplain for the Legion.

Auxiliary District Commander, Harriet Brown, installed the Auxiliary executive members as follows president — Lois Wagner; vice-presidents — Olive Burton and Barb Johnson; executive committee — Lois Murray, Maxine Reid and Mildred Stenerud; treasurer — Diane Stenerud; secretary — Diane Booth; and sergeant-at-arms — Barb Johnson.

Anna Kongsrud is Ladies Auxiliary chaplain.

Winners of the Remembrance Day contest were given their certificates.

Poster winners were Molly Jo Garsted and Nicole Rowlett. Essay winners were Robin Reum and Tammy Baraniuk. Poetry winners were Brad Istace and Daniel Martin.

Both Kelsy Fergus and Brad Istace had their entries qualify at the Zone level as well.

The color party was composed of Gordon Kyle, Lois Wagner, Keith Murray, Donald Campbell, Lois Murray and Bud Fraser.

Last weekend, Ryley Legion hosted the Legion bonspiel which resulted in Viking winning the men's and Edgerton branch winning the seniors'.

Both rinks took part in the District bonspiel held in Viking.

Plate of honour

"The Haggis" a traditional meat dish from Scotland was piped in and carried high among the crowded spectators who later sampled the delicacy with mixed opinions as to its palatable qualities. This ritual is performed annually at the Tofield Legion on Robbie Burns Night.

Robbie Burns Night noted

by Joan Murray

On Friday night the Tofield Legion held their annual Robbie Burns Night, installed their executive and gave four donation cheques to community organizations.

The evening was well attended by the community while Gordon Kyle piped the Haggis in and Adam Parker of the Two Hills Legion Branch carried out the address to the Haggis.

Tom Barve, District Commander, installed the Legion officers.

The Legion executive members for 1985 are: president — Ralph Dunham; first vice-president — John McShane; second vice-president — Penny Price; third vice-president — Gordon Kyle; service officers — Frank Dunham; treasurer — Beverly Carlisle; secretary — Gloria Hoover; and Sergeant-at-arms — Art Dunham.

Ladies Auxiliary District Commander, Harriet Brown, installed the Auxiliary executive members as follows: president — Thelma Jones; executive committee — Sophie Williams, Shirley Vincent and Gladys Brown; secretary-treasurer — Millie Coleman; and sergeant-at-arms — Pat Sagmoen.

Auxiliary president, Thelma Jones presented cheques in the amount of $433.95 to each of the following organizations: 4-H Club, Brownies, Guides and Pathfinders, Boy Scouts and minor hockey.

In other business, it was brought up that there would be a leadership and planning seminar in Vegreville on Feb. 9th and all new officers were urged to attend to gain more knowledge of what their position demands of them.

The District Rally will be in Wainwright this year, on April 20th. The provincial convention is scheduled for June 9th to 12th, in Grand Prairie.

It was noted that 61 bursaries in the amount of $500 were given out by the Auxiliary last year, eight of which were from this district. These bursaries are given to grade twelve students who are going on to higher education.

Members of the color party that mark the opening and closing ceremonies were Gordon Kyle, Gene Carlisle, Pete Korby, Art Dunham and Jim Williams.

Nurse is introduced

by Joan Murray

This is the sixth anniversary of the Home Care Program in the Tofield area and the Vegreville Health Unit is introducing Gwen Pelster, the home care nurse, to the community.

GWEN PELSTER

She has held this position since July, 1984 and works Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, out of the Health Unit Office in the Courthouse.

She has an extensive nursing background and obtained her degree in 1983.

The Pelster family, Gwen, her husband Ben, and their three children, Genesse, Michelle and Vince lived in the Tofield area for the past 11 years. They now reside on an acreage near Spilstead Hall, southwest of town.

Referrals are welcome from all community residents and concerns can be discussed with the Health Care Nurse by calling her at the office 662-3004, or her home at 662-2867.

She can also be approached at the adult clinic held at the Senior Citizens Drop-in Centre, in the morning of the last Thursday of each month.

Workshop held

An informative workshop on agricultural societies was held in the Holden Complex on Jan. 22.

Representatives from the Department of Agriculture included Helen Leigh Christensen and Reg Kentz from Edmonton, Kent Hendricks from Vegreville and Jerome Manchur and Maureen Bauman from Ryley.

Attending the workshops and representing local society were Paullette Erickson, Linda Erickson, Bud Hammermaster, Evelyn Corlise and Trish Raulston from Bruce, Keith Hanson and Louis Merta from Viking, Lorraine Kolodychuk from Ryley; Janet Macdonald of Kinsella, Bruce Budd, Gertie Chupka, Art Gibson and Dawn Pussy from Holden.

The workshop included topics on fairs, grants and how to apply for them, bookkeeping, ways to improve societies, membership and related discussions.

Sell the car!

The Courts should be empowered to impound, seize and SELL vehicles of repeat impaired drivers.

That statement shocked us as we read a position paper from PAID – People Against Impaired Drivers.

The organization has been working for some time to achieve stiffer penalties for drivers convicted of impairment, of driving while under suspension, of being repeat offenders, and more.

Members of PAID have amassed an impressive array of statistics, such as the fact that Alberta offers the weakest approach in Canada to the problem of impairment. Since 1970, the Criminal Code of Canada has provided for a mandatory jail term of fourteen days minimum for repeat offenders, yet the Attorney General of Alberta has directed his crown prosecutors, reports PAID, to ask for a jail term only if the subsequent offence is within one year of the first.

In all other provinces except Quebec it is two years between offences. In Ontario it is five. In Saskatchewan, four years. In British Columbia, there is no time limit.

Beyond this, PAID believes the fines for disobeying a suspension of a driving license are too low. The maximum for driving without a valid license in Alberta is $2,000 and/or six months in jail. But PAID records that jail is seldom used, and fines are of the "naughty boy" variety: from $50 to $200.

But back to confiscating and SELLING vehicles of repeat impaired drivers. We found the suggestion shocking. Until they pointed out the fish and game laws provide for confiscation and sale of weapons if someone hunts or fishes out of season without a license.

And the idea gains in appeal. If it's legal to confiscate a gun, why not a car? Which is more serious, to hunt, maim and kill game animals, or to hunt, mail and kill humans? Maybe drivers don't HUNT humans, but they certainly maim and kill them.

One provincial official declares such a system is draconian, and would require the largest parking lot in Canada. Surely he's mistaken, because there would be a constant emptying of the cars on the lot, too.

But even if he might be right, whose side is he on? Is he trying to suggest the rights of drivers convicted more than once of impaired driving supersede those of the rest of us? And if the problem is so bad that it would require the biggest parking lot in Canada, maybe that alone tells us something must be done about it.

Just to put the whole thing in perspective, the record of the Courts, not that of PAID, shows that up until November of 1984, the average blood alcohol reading in the two hundred and twenty six cases convicted last year showed a reading of .180 (.08 is accepted by the court as impaired).

The minimum was .10.

The maximum was an almost unbelievable .34!

Loose Ends

[illegible] We've gone into separate [illegible] in our house.

It would have happened sooner or later but we had to wait until I could free the third bedroom (my former office) and that entails building, time and money. There is usually a shortage of two of those three around here.

I know that many people consider separate bedrooms a waste of time and space but there comes a time in some people's lives when they've just had enough. In our house it was a matter of saving one or two lives and ending a great deal of bickering.

With both residents getting older (and bigger) and more set in their ways, sharing a room was beginning to feel like an infringement on two basic rights – privacy and the freedom to decorate to one's own tastes. Now one seeking privacy may do so by simply slamming a door.

Gone is the bridging closet. Gone is the yelling when one is startled out of a sound sleep by the inconsiderate, late-retiring roomy switching on the light. Gone are the doubts about who is using the laundry hamper and who prefers stuffing things under the bed. Gone are the shouts of "Who told you that you could use my [illegible]." Gone is the need for an invisible line drawn down the center of the room.

Although it has been a mere two years since the idea was first mentioned, now is a good time for the separation. The children are old enough to understand the need and help with moving the furnishings. So many problems have been erased by the expanded accommodations, I'm only sorry that it took us so long to give the boys their own rooms.

Bonnie Op. Goby

New legislation has made it mandatory as of January 1st for all newborn infants (until they are five years old) to be strapped into moving [illegible].

Well, it's about time. Alberta is one of the few places in Canada where there is no mandatory seatbelt law covering everyone, much less small children. You have only to see one film of the Dummy Family used in government tests to realize that this legislation is long overdue.

Too many times I've seen very small children standing up in the back seats of passing cars, some with their heads poking out opened windows. Worse are the tykes helping "daddy drive". Since I [illegible] turn corners sharply, my children were lucky when they were never allowed to do either. There were times I'd have welcomed a thick rope [illegible].

It's normal for a child to want to move about freely in an automobile, especially on long, boring trips. But parents have to remember the possibilities of being involved in an accident. Those who object to the cost of the regulation car seats should take into consideration the price their child could pay if flung helplessly into the dash or through the windshield in a collision. As well, unrestrained children inhibit the driver's [illegible] concentrate fully on driving.

Safety aside, any mother who has ever had to travel even the shortest distance with a squirming, excited child should welcome the respite the new rules will give her.

What I want to know is, why these things never happen in time to help me out? (I missed out on throw-away baby bottles and was allowed only a whiff of disposable diapers.) I would have given anything, when my youngsters were too young to know how to unbuckle a seatbelt (they can, I can't), to be able to say, "Sorry, kids, it's regulations" (I still would.)

Now if someone would design a dog seat for use in a moving car and make it mandatory, they would have my undying gratitude and affection.

The cost of your mortgage is based on three conditions: amortization period, principal and interest rate. To lower the cost of your mortgage you must decrease one or more of these conditions.

You are likely to save the most money by reducing your amortization period. Here's an example. If you assume a $50,000 mortgage at 12.5% interest with an amortization period of 25 years, you pay a total of $160,651. That works out to $533.51 per month. If you reduce your amortization period to 15 years, you would pay $72.56 more a month. This is about $2.40 per day. For the cost of a package of cigarettes and a cup of coffee each day, the total cost of your mortgage could be reduced by $50,957 and you could pay off your mortgage 10 years sooner.

Your amortization period is negotiable when you take out or renew your mortgage. You may be able to negotiate a change with your lender at other times – but this is not a certainty.

You can also save money on your mortgage by making extra payments against the principal. These payments are called lump sum payments. Suppose you have a $50,000 mortgage at 12.5% with a remaining amortization period of 20 years. If you make a $1,000 lump sum payment, you will reduce the remaining amortization period to 18.5 years and reduce the total amount you will pay by $10,326. If you make a $3,000 payment, the figures would be 14.2 years and $30,049 respectively.

If you have an open mortgage, you can make a lump sum payment any time. If you have a closed mortgage, you may be able to make an extra payment on your anniversary date or at times specified in your mortgage contract. All types of mortgages allow extra payments to be made at the end of the term when the mortgage is renewed.

If the conditions of your mortgage do not allow you to make lump sum payment, consider depositing money in a savings account. Apply your savings to your mortgage principal when the term expires or on your anniversary date.

The third way to cut the cost of your mortgage is to reduce the interest rate. Consider a $50,000 mortgage with a 20 year amortization period. Each one percent difference in the interest rate saves about $33.00 per month, or about $7,900 over the life of the mortgage.

Since interest rates vary between lenders, you should shop around. Find out what is available and choose what is best for you.

Your current lender may permit you to renegotiate. Even if a penalty is charged, it may be to your benefit.

Alternatively, it may also be to your advantage to refinance with another lender and pay out your existing mortgage. Add up all the costs associated with doing this before proceeding.

You can reduce the cost of your mortgage by thousands of dollars. It will take careful though and planning and probably some short term sacrifices. For example, you may decide to keep your old car for another few years and save the money for a lump sum payment. Or, perhaps you will forgo a holiday. Considering the big payoff however – it's worth it! (This information was provided by the Alberta Department of Housing).

ELECTRONIC MOSQUITO REPELLERS NOT EFFECTIVE

Canadians are being warned by federal officials that electronic mosquito repellers appearing in stores are not effective.

Once a female has mated, it is then repelled by the sound of a flying male mosquito. The devices claim to simulate the sound of a flying male mosquito, keeping pregnant females away.

However, tests show the sound produced by the repellers does not deter the biting female.

Never strike

During a recent trip to Ottawa, I had the good fortune to meet a group of people representing The Canadian Telecommunications Employers Association. They were having dinner at the table next to mine and through their good nature and joviality, I completed my meal sharing their table conversation.

I discovered that to be one of six postal unions with 11,000 members who operate postal stations throughout urban Canada. There are approximately 5,000 communities numbering in population from 10 to a maximum of 12,000 people, spanning the country from Newfoundland to the Yukon. Each of my dinner companions represented a region or province and were in Ottawa negotiating a new contract with Canada Post.

Being personally responsible for putting thirteen and a half thousand magazines in the mail every month, I was naturally curious about their union and how negotiations were progressing. My first question was "will you go on strike?" The answer was, "NO! We never have and never will!" They went on to explain that most of their members manage post offices with an average of three employees, one of which is part-time. Some of the stations are run out of homes and general stores and the individuals are often paid less than minimum wage for an often thankless job and a vital service to their communities. But they will never strike, for if they did they would not only be letting down local business and customers, but their immediate local relations as well.

So why am I telling you this? Because I am as guilty as the next person for slamming Canada Post and its unions. I want to share this revelation of a union whose membership (serving almost one-fifth of Canada's population) has a pride in their work and a loyalty to their patrons not often seen in any business anywhere.

I salute Ron, Leroy, Allan, Jean-Claude, Toussaint (born on all Saints Day), Edna and everyone like them, by quoting my favorite Vulcan "May You Live Long and Prosper"

MEARES NOT WORTH WAR

The ministry of forest's decision to permit MacMillan-Bloedel to log the old-growth timber on Meares Island is not wise.

In allowing the forest company to cut the irreplaceable timber on the scenic island, the province is setting itself up for a tragic loss of face in a related field, native rights.

The natives of the West Coast have vowed not to allow the logging. They will do everything, including civil disobedience, to prevent the loss of this generations-old [illegible].

The militancy kindled by an environmental issue of this sort could readily turn to a more general native militancy. And we would regard a civil war between whites and natives as a poor return for a few hundred acres of logs.

Breaking the Fast

A recent survey of 4,000 Canadians, sponsored by Agriculture Canada, indicates Canadians do not eat an adequate breakfast. Eleven percent said they consumed a beverage only.

A recommended breakfast menu includes foods from three food groups. After an all-night sleep the body needs nourishment to get going again. We are livelier, more alert and productive when adequately nourished.

If you have trouble getting your crew to eat breakfast, try this recipe for bran muffins. The batter keeps in the fridge for four weeks. Served with orange juice and a piece of cheese would complete the meal.

Refrigerator Bran Muffins

1 c boiling water
1 c bran
½ c oil
1 c brown sugar
2 eggs
2 c buttermilk
2½ c flour
2½ tsp. baking soda
1½ tsp. salt
1 c raisins
2 c bran flakes cereal

Pour boiling water over bran and let stand. Cream together oil and sugar and add the eggs. Blend buttermilk in to oil mix. Sift together flour, salt, soda and stir into the above mixture. Add raisins and bran flakes. Store in the refrigerator in a covered container. Refrigerate at least 24 hours before baking.

To bake, remove some of the batter without stirring. Bake in greased muffin tins or custard cups filling each cup two-thirds full. Bake at 400°F for 20-25 minutes. (A single muffin takes 45-60 seconds in a microwave!)

Spring Tune-Up

This year's program includes a fashion show, information on gardening, women's health issues and more. Registration is $10.00, which includes lunch and coffee. Seminar planned

by Joan Murray

A seminar regarding a new method of fire prevention is being held in the Tofield Senior Citizen Centre tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon.

The program will include learning how to reduce the fuel loads in areas that have statistically proven to be the material first ignited.

Also on the agenda is the introduction of a new fire retardant substance that reduces the spread of flames. There will also be a demonstration of Halon fire extinguishers.

Western Home Comfort and Safety Supplies, an Edmonton based firm, is hosting this event and have invited several prominent members of the community to attend. All members of the community and surrounding area are welcome to come as well.

Guest speaker for the afternoon will be Peter Clark, past chairman of the Alberta Burn Rehabilitation Society.

Hastings Lake news

by Helen Thompson

A dance will be held in the Landbrook Community Hall on Saturday evening at 9 p.m. Tickets are on sale at Landbrook Store and will be available at the door also. Music will be provided by the Foggy River Band and a midnight lunch will be served.

The Landbrook Beavers had a skating party on Jone's pond in Landbrook on Saturday afternoon. Hotdogs, marshmallows and hot chocolate were enjoyed, and a good time was had by all.

There will be no meeting January 29th.

BRTA memberships rise

New interest is being shown in the Battle River Tourist Association according to the organization's membership committee chairman, Arlen Adams of Bashaw.

At a recent meeting in Hardisty, Adams reported that almost three hundred memberships had already been renewed and that over fifty new members had joined the BRTA.

Adams told those at the meeting that the tourism industry has become fiercely competitive and that businesses have come to realize that the BRTA must have the dollars to assist in promoting the zone to travellers.

Members heard that Adams will wear a second hat as he has agreed to head the 1985 Cavalcade Committee.

This year's Cavalcade has been planned for the final weekend in May (May 25 and 26) and is to be limited to a total of seventy units.

Persons wishing to register for the Cavalcade, or wanting additional information may visit the BRTA Office in Camrose, or write to BRTA, Box 1515, Camrose, T4V 1X4.

Members were advised that radio commentator Fil Fraser of CKUA has agreed to be the guest speaker at the BRTA's annual meeting which is to be held in Camrose, in October.

It was agreed that BRTA will host tourist information center training seminars in Camrose, Bashaw, Sedgewick, Castor, Consort and Stettler.

Manager Sylvia Clemens indicated that Travel Alberta would supply an instructor, materials and supplies for the seminars.

The next BRTA meeting is to be held in Daysland on Feb 21st.

I remember when...

by Elie Melbourne

Folks in the community in which I grew up had some unique customs — take the wake for instance. My first intimation of a wake came when a young neighbour's wife Mabel, died from "galloping consumption". Her husband Tom, came to our place that evening and borrowed all our chairs. Why? — for the wake of course. The ladies who had helped in the sick room were already making pies and stacks of sandwiches.

I never attended a wake but many seasoned goers would rather miss a few meals than miss a good wake.

No prearrangements were necessary. When a death occurred the neighbours automatically converged on the household and would stay all night.

The proceedings were routine. The family clock would be silent. Presumably hushed at the moment death occurred.

The deceased would be laid out in an open casket in the seldom used parlor. Friends would file by, the more morbidly inclined would stroke the hand, a cheek, or might even drop a kiss on the cold pallid brow.

A hefty lunch would be served at midnight and the vigil would continue until dawn. The wake ended then and folks returned to their homes. A good time had been had by all including the mourners who if their friends had not shown up would have been deeply hurt.

Many of these good folks were literally steeped in superstitions. A room in which a death had taken place might be closed off for a time. A stretch of beach on which a luckless seaman's body was washed up was out of bounds for about ten years.

Ghosts, elusive, enshrouded in white, frequented shadowy places — such as deserted houses, in graveyards, under bridges, around corners and sheds. In fear of meeting a ghost stalwart young men would travel in groups after dark.

After every death, a dozen or so people would come forward and assert they had heard or seen a forerunner. It might have been in the barking of a dog, the hooting of an owl, an eerie light, tapping on a window pane — a bird breaking its neck against a window pane. Just anything. But there was always a forerunner — and I know that idea lingers on in many people's minds yet.

A few years ago I visited friends in Vancouver. My hostess told me that her phone had rung one night and upon answering it she got no reply. The next time the phone rang was to tell her of her brothers death. The first ring had been the forerunner.

The Phantom ship — a fully rigged vessel seen floating on the horizon struck stark fear into the beholders. It foretold a tragedy at sea.

Probably the most interesting legend handled about at that time concerned Captain Kidd. He was an infamous pirate who had allegedly buried a chest of his ill gotten gains in the sand dunes not far from my old home. That site was dug and re-dug under the strangest conditions. There must be total silence during the excavating. But always some nit-wit would sneeze or cough and the spell would be broken. The hole would disappear under cascading sands.

Annie Crawford, a friend and a normally intelligent women told me a fascinating story which she believed in implicitly. Her father was in a group digging for the buried treasure when suddenly from a clear sky hail stones as large as golf balls pounded down on them and pursued them for half a mile. The explanation was that one of the party had betrayed a girl (not Annie's father) He was a God fearing citizen who never told a lie in his life. Annie never quite forgave her husband Wallace who had scoffed at this tale.

But I do not vouch for the veracity of the following: A short cut for some people to the small town pub had been laid through a hitherto unused corner of the local graveyard. One night a wayfarer in a hurry to get home, tumbled into a newly dug, six-foot deep grave. When his efforts to escape proved fruitless, he, being of a passive nature sat down to await the morn. Not long after a slightly inebriated gentleman fell in too. But when his predicament percolated to his foggy brain, he went beserck. But his frantic clawing and scrambling got him nowhere. Then through the darkness a sepulchral voice reached and momentarily paralyzed him, "Give it up" it intoned "you will never make it."

He made it!

Auxiliary meets

by Joan Murray

Last Monday evening, 20 members of the Tofield Hospital Auxiliary met and it was decided to have members canvass the Town of Tofield on behalf of the Heart Fund during the first part of February.

The mini bazaar held at the hospital in December proved to be very successful.

Pat Litwin and Opal McGinitie are doing the tray favors for this month.

Dorothy Sewchuk reported that she found the convention she attended recently to be informative.

The money donated by the Lioness Club last year will be used to purchase paintings for the new hospital. It was also noted that the New Year's baby hamper project was a success and gratitude was expressed for participation shown by local businesses.

The Auxiliary plans to hold a visitors night on Feburary 18th at 7:30 p.m., in That Place.

Congratulations

Holden faces elimination

Despite considerable improvement in the past few weeks, Holden is on the verge of playoff elimination in the Beavertail Hockey League.

One victory by Tofield or one loss by Holden would eliminate the Beavers from participation in the playoffs when the regular [illegible] is concluded at the end of next month (February)

Any combination of three wins by Tofield or three losses by Vegreville would oust Vegreville from playoff contention

Following last week's action, Lamont and Mundare have clinched playoff berths with Redwater and Tofield in the position of being able to clinch berths in the coming week.

Tofield is no longer contending for first place which now looks to be a race between Lamont and Mundare with Redwater having only an outside chance of overtaking the leaders.

Tofield hosted Redwater last night (Tuesday) while Mundare hosted Lamont with results to be reported next week.

Holden will be playing in Vegreville tonight (Wednesday) with the outcome of that game going a long way in determining which of the teams will finish in fifth place.

Holden will travel to Mundare on Friday while Tofield goes to Vegreville on Saturday and Tuesday's action will see the Satellites at home to Lamont while Holden will be hosting Redwater

Following the playing of a postponed game in Mundare on Sunday, all postponed games have now been played.

Lamont made it ten wins in a row when they picked up two more wins last week as they whipped Vegreville 13-6 and then had a battle on their hands before they finally edg[illegible]

Mundare battled Redwater to a 7-7 stalemate before stopping Tofield 5-2 and then they edged Redwater 7-5

Holden fought Tofield to a 5-5 draw and then Vegreville absorbed its seventh straight loss when they were outgunn[illegible]

CLC plans 75th

Glen Johnson, President of Camrose Lutheran College, has officially proclaimed 1985 to be a year of jubilee, the 75th anniversary year of CLC. He told professors, students and visitors last Wednesday of the year of celebration which will start on June 6, 1985 and extend until October 6th, 1986.

Reading a scroll, Johnson proclaimed the start of preparations for the anniversary of the college which began in 1910. An estimated 8,000 friends of the college will receive notices of the 75th anniversary events.

Events include assembling a commemorative booklet and pictorial history of the college during the entire 75 years. Material for the booklet will be gathered from the files of the college and from local citizens who have old photographs, documents and [illegible]

Other events coming up will be: programs to increase public awareness of CLC's past, present and future; special lectures and scholarships will be presented, musical events recognizing the cultural heritage; visits from dignitaries; celebrations of important dates such as the first class; recognition of important figures in the history of the college; special homecoming and graduation celebrations, and commissioned works of art will be all part of the jubilee year.

CLC's 75th Anniversary Planning Committee and the CLC Board of Regents are planning the full year of activities for Camrose.

Members of the 75th Anniversary Committee are Jim Rasmussen, Chairman, Director of College and Church Relations; David Dahle, Associate Professor of Classics; Rev. Vincent Eriksson, Associate Professor of History, Philosophy and Religious Studies; Kelly Graves, Communications Officer; Yvonne Myrehaug, President of the CLC Alumni Board; Jacob Stolee, Special Alumni Advisor; David Taylor, Development and Deferred Giving Officer, and Jim Nelson, Assistant Professor of Scandinavian [illegible]

Last rites held for Gwendolynne Hohn

The funeral for the late Mrs. Gwendolynne Annie Hohn was held in the Tronjheim Lutheran Church at Round Hill on December 5, 1984 with Pastors Henry Haugen and Dennis Wig officiating and Mrs. Mabel Gotheridge as organist.

Gwendolynne Annie Morris was born on March 3, 1896 in Ruabon, North Wales, Great Britain to John and Annie Morris. She passed from this life on December 2, 1984 at the age of 88 years, 8 months, and 29 days.

She was the third eldest child of a family of eight children.

She came to Canada in June of 1920. She was united in marriage to Frank George Hohn on July 2, 1920, whom she met as a Canadian soldier in Britain during World War 1. To this marriage, five children were born: Gwen, Jean, Arthur, Fay and Eric.

After her marriage, she lived in Clover Bar, Alberta, for one year. She and her husband took up land in the Dodds District in 1921 and farmed there until 1941, when they moved to Round Hill where she resided until her passing.

She leaves to mourn her passing: two sons, Arthur of Round Hill and Eric and his wife Mary, of Camrose; a daughter, Fay (Mrs. Arnold Bates) of Dartmouth, Nova Scotia; a brother, Harold and his wife, Vi, of Ruabon, North Wales; six grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; and a host of friends.

She was predeceased by a daughter, Jean in 1986; her husband Frank in 1963; and a daughter Gwen in 1973.

She was very active in the Round Hill Women's Institute and the Trondjheim Lutheran Church Women. She held a life membership in both of these organizations and will be sadly missed for her wit and sense of humor.

Blessed be her memory.

Interment was held in the family plot in the Emil Bosman's Memorial Gardens, at Round Hill.

Pallbearers were Willard Burkholder, Glenn Helland, Leslie Bates, Frank Hohn, Stewart Campbell and Palmer Pederson.

Tofield Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Floral Tributes: The Family, the James Family, Round Hill Women's Institute, Les and Beverly Bates, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mackwood and Gae, Camrose and Area Further Education Council, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Zarski and family, staff of Round Hill School, Mr. and Mrs. Morte Stover, Ken and Myrna Boettger.

Teachers vote today

School operations in the County of Beaver, in the immediate future, was somewhat uncertain, at presstime.

Teachers belonging to the Elk Island Regional School Authorities Association are conducting a government supervised strike vote today (Wednesday).

If teachers in the area follow precedents established in other parts of the province, the result will be in favour of going out on strike, unless an agreement is reached with school officials.

That is a possibility as [illegible] to resume tomorrow (Thursday).

Should the talks not result in an agreement being reached and the teachers decide to take strike action, they must give school officials seventy-two hours notice before they can actually walk off the job.

Should talks tomorrow not result in an agreement and if additional talks are not scheduled, it is a possibility that schools might not open on Monday morning.

At stake is a two-year contract which would include last year (1984) and the current year with the contract expiring at the end of 1985.

Even if an agreement is reached during tomorrow's discussions, it would still have to be ratified by trustees and [illegible]

Involved are teachers, students and school authorities in the Counties of Beaver, Lamont, Minburn and Flagstaff along with the School Divisions of Wainwright and Provost.

Schedule end nears

With nearly a month to go in the regular schedule, teams in the Battle River High School Basketball League will be fairly busy.

The only scheduled action this week will see Ryley at home to Viking on Friday.

After that, all teams will play on a regular basis as the schedule is slated for competition by Feb 22nd.

Daysland hosted Viking on Friday while Sedgewick was at home to Tofield with results not available by sports deadlines.

A total of seven games have to be added from the schedule after earlier being postponed because of road and weather conditions.

The home sites of these postponed games are Daysland (twice), Ryley and Viking.

The top three teams in each division (girls and boys) will automatically advance to the zone playoffs while fourth place teams could face a challenge from either Hughenden and/or Wainwright.

The same situation applies in the league's West Division which consists of Caroline, David Thompson, Delburne, Pigeon Lake, Rimbey, River Glen and Sylvan Lake.

District news from Ryley

The Cavell Rebekah Lodge held their regular meeting on Jan. 15th at which it was decided to hold a tea and bake sale on Feb. 9th in the Ryley Legion Hall from 2-4 p.m.

A donation was sent to the Salvation Army, only one of the many organizations that the Rebekahs support.

It was also decided to hold the annual art display on May 4th in the Ryley Community Hall.

This will give the artists in the area a chance to display their works of art.

Medically Speaking

by Dr. Bob Young

Epidemics are not caused only by germs. We are seeing one now that is the result of present economic conditions, an epidemic of stress-related health problems. Some cases are difficult to treat, while others never come to treatment because they are, tragically, resolved by suicide.

Stress is a cause of illness is certainly not new, nor is the degree of stress seen today necessarily higher than it used to be. What is different is the number of people who are operating under pressures beyond their control. More and more of these people are falling apart under the load.

Easy, comfortable jobs have become nightmares as staff is reduced and responsibilities increased. Performance, often in unfamiliar areas, is demanded and often in situations where failure means firing because a less demanding job no longer exists.

The doctor sees the boss, harrassed by head office; the supervisor, pressured by the boss, the clerk, overtaxed by the supervisor. He sees the wife of the unemployed breadwinner, and their children, all distressed by circumstance and worried about the future.

Medical leaves of absence for pending and real emotional breakdowns are increasing. Help, if available, provide at least temporary respite. Mood-altering drugs are often required and used, although everyone knows that they help only the symptoms, not the cause.

Visits to the doctor for counselling increase, often dramatically. Physicians have been criticized for "over-servicing" in this field, but the need is there. Counselling is hard work and takes time and deserves fair payment. It is usually effective in getting people back on track.

The stress epidemic is contagious. Even physicians are not immune. Some, particularly the conscientious ones, bear a heavy burden as they attempt to guide and support their patients over the rough spots. They themselves may develop stress-related symptoms after a day spent with a series of patients suffering from the stress epidemic.

Medically Speaking is published with the cooperation of this newspaper and the Alberta Medical Association.

Spilstead news

by M. Fisher

The Spilstead Community League held its first card party on Saturday with 14 people playing whist and 13 people playing cribbage.

The high point winner of the whist tournament was Gus Schmidt with the low point going to Sharon Winder.

The high point winner of the crib tournament was Dennis Brown with the low point going to Larry Winder. A very enjoyable evening was had by all, followed by a lunch.

The Spilstead Community League and the Group Committee will be holding its monthly meeting on Tuesday at 8 p.m.

All interested people in the Spilstead area are invited to attend this meeting to help in the decisions for the various activities to be held in the community for the coming season.

Minor teams busy

Last week was another active time for minor hockey teams in Tofield.

A number of the teams are gearing up for provincial playdowns which will be getting underway next month.

It is expected that officials of the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association should be releasing playoff schedules during the next two weeks.

Mighty Mites

Two Tofield teams returned home after winning trophies during a tournament in Lamont.

Wolverines forced the home team into overtime before finally losing by a 4-3 margin.

The team then bounced back to edge Waskatenau 6-4 and then dumped Tofield Badgers 4-2 to win the championship in the B Event.

Members of this team include Ryan Nolin, Ralph Scott, Ian Hrybirchuk, Aaron Hartling, Darren Ray, Erin Lee, Jennifer Lee, Ian Lysons, Mathew Gaten, Kris Snider and Stacey Yarmuch with the coaches being Rich Nolin, Dave Scott and Charles Ray.

Badgers opened tournament by losing 4-3 to Lamont, rebounded to whip Brudenheim 5-3 and then lost out in the B finals to the Wolverines but, earned the B runners-up trophy.

Bantam

Tofield Turpentees edged Fort Saskatchewan while the Tofield Starbirds edged Sherwood Park by a 6-4 margin.

Senior

Tofield Ti-Kats hosted a round-robin tournament in the Tofield Arena on the past weekend.

Ti-Kats took top honours in the B Event when they blanked Beaumont by a 5-0 score.

Red Deer won the A Event and Ardrossan emerged on top in the C Event.

Advisory committee sits

On Jan. 23, Tofield School's recently formed Principal's Advisory Committee held its second meeting of the year.

After a brief tour of the school while classes were in session, committee members Lynn Tiedemann, Gail Jordan, Annette Fournel, Yvonne Brown, Anne Connelly, Erwin Wiens and Elaine Persisty met for almost two hours to talk about a wide range of issues.

Al Pollock, School Principal, reported that the committee had received formal recognition and appreciation from the Board of Education at its regular December meeting.

Pollock also made available to committee members plans for the Shop-Home Economics addition to the school which is scheduled for completion by August 31. Watson-Tofield Limited has been awarded the contract.

Other matters brought to the meeting by Pollock included student spares, high school examinations and the County's "road warrior policy". The latter, after considerable discussion, resulted in a recommendation that PAC members call the school with road information which in turn will be relayed to Mr. Schoeman, Superintendent of Schools.

It was also suggested that the Board of Education Bus committee or School Closures council with bus drivers when making its decision.

Other items brought to the meeting by individual PAC members included the Child Identification Program, sexual discrimination in athletics, the need for greater emphasis on computer courses in the elementary school, the safeness of playground equipment and the possibility of a strike by Elk Island teachers.

The next meeting of PAC will be held on March 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the school library.

Meant For Last Week

The Community League meeting for January was held at the hall on Monday evening with an excellent attendance.

John Vandermeer, who was elected as president at the annual meeting in November took over his new duties as did Barbara Horricks, the new secretary and Joyce Bowerman continues as treasurer.

Pat Paterson, Margaret Paterson and Grant Wilson retired from their duties.

The first whist drive of the new year was held at the Crafts Centre on Friday evening.

Prize winners were gents — first — Ron MacLean, second — Sandy Scott and consolation - Joe Davenport.

Ladies — first — Truus Vandermeer, second Lillian Berrecloth and on a tie for consolation Olivine Sears won over Clare MacLean.

Betty and Keith Williams are the proud grandparents of a grandson, born on December 16th. He answers to Brian Francis. Proud parents are Marie and Rob Tanner of New Sarepta.

John and Truus Vandermeer are taking the mail around on the route of the west end of Ministik for a few days for Wayne Kleinschroth the regular mailcarrier for that area.

Disking practices have been going on in the Crafts Centre each Saturday afternoon If you like to disk, come on down and get involved Frank Dunham is the one to contact for more information

Landfill group meets

by Joan Murray

At the Beaver Regional Waste Management Authority meeting on Thursday evening, members discussed the appeal hearing regarding the location of the Tofield transfer site.

At this hearing held in the County office two weeks ago, the Development Appeal Board denied the appeal subject to shifting the location of the pesticide container site further south and placing a berm around the site so that all water will drain within the compound site.

This matter will be presented to the Local Health Board for approval by the end of this month.

Project engineer, Rick Prentice, reported on the various stages the transfer sites had reached to date. Viking is the only site where bin walls are up. The cold weather has hindered construction of buildings and any further construction is being held in abeyance until the weather improves.

The sanitary landfill site building is now under construction and the trailer unit has arrived.

It was reported that the Health Department sees no problem with that location and the appeal on the subdivision application for the Lindbrook site was denied, which means things are progressing nicely at this time.

The Authority plans to apply to the Provincial Government for more grants because of the increase in capital costs of the project

The budget was tentatively approached for submission at the organizational meeting, scheduled for Feb. 7th.

COUNTY OF BEAVER No 9

AGRICULTURAL FIELDPERSON

The County of Beaver No. 9 is accepting applications for the position of Agricultural Fieldperson.

The Agricultural Fieldperson will be responsible to the County Council for the planning and implementation of an Agricultural Service Program, including weed inspection and control, warble control, soil erosion control, and pest control programs, as well as budget control and co-ordination of grant submissions for these areas. The candidate should possess the ability to negotiate with Government Officials for program funding and direction, and to work as a team with central office and Elected Boards.

An Agricultural degree or diploma would be an asset in conjunction with an (Alberta) Pesticide Applicator's License.

Salary to commensurate with education and experience

Closing Date for applications is February 19th, 1985, at 4 30 p.m.

Applicants should send Resume including salary expectation to

The Work of A D.A.

What does your D.A. do to keep himself or herself busy!

Contrary to what you might believe, a D.A. is busiest during the winter. First of all, there are courses to plan for you — courses which will hopefully help you to make your farm a more profitable one! These courses can take a lot of preparation time to plan. In fact, I sometimes start one year previous to the actual course in my own planning. With booking speakers, halls, promoting and preparing to teach at the courses, a D.A. can be mighty busy.

And then, a D.A. must take a few update courses so he or she can keep abreast of new information. And as you know, this is no small task!

Of course, a D.A. must also attend many agricultural meetings — mainly in an advisory capacity. Your D.A. represents Alberta Agriculture on many committees which you many not be aware of.

And finally, your D.A. also takes phone calls, makes farm visits, conducts office interviews and generally runs his or her part of the office. So as you can see, your D.A. can be much busier than you may realize.

Why not stop in and talk to us at Ryley, to find out more of what I do. And while there, also tell me what things you'd like to see me doing, especially in the area of courses.

Bye for now.

Transfer site approved

by Joan Murray

The Tofield transfer site located on the northwest side of town, just outside the town limits and north of the water treatment plant, was approved by the Vegreville Health Department on Wednesday.

On Monday night at council meeting, it was decided that a letter should be written to the County of Beaver requesting that they pay one-half the costs involved with this proposed site.

Not much more can be done about this site until the property being purchased has been subdivided. It is expectged that this could take place sometime in March.

Council agreed to have Watson Tofield make a minor change in the town water lines to allow for the cleaning of these water lines in the spring.

The Town of Tofield has agreed in principle to making an exchange of property ownership of an existing lane on the Tofield Mennonite Church property for one in another location on the same property to allow for future construction of an auditorium to the east of the existing church.

There is to be a street light erected in the area located halfway between Main Street and 51st Street near Tire Town, as soon as possible.

A grant application for restoration of the Tofield Cemetery is being favourably considered by Alberta Culture. This department is recommending to Alberta Treasury that a grant be extended to the town in support of this project.

After hearing a presentation from C.A. 'Chuck' MacLean, publisher of The Mercury, regarding subscription contracts which revealed that most of the town's ratepayers already receive the paper by subscription, it was decided not to pursue this matter any further.

Council's main concern in this area was to be assured that ratepayers were seeing the notices that were advertised.

Information received this night indicated that this area of concern was being taken care of to their satisfaction.

Used goods store opens

by Joan Murray

Tofield is soon to have a non-profit second-hand goods outlet.

Yvonne Brown and Gloria Berg plan to open the doors of Double B Bargains on the premises at the back of the old Co-op Centre building, next Tuesday.

These two ladies have been thinking of this type of store for quite a few years and recently it came to their attention that the Social Services Department in Camrose felt there was a definite need for such an outlet in the Tofield, Ryley and Holden areas.

Proceeds from the profits, realized after expenses are paid, will be turned back into the community through various donations which will be made to different community organizations and worthwhile projects.

The store will specialize in good quality used clothing at reasonable prices but they will also handle furniture, large and small appliances, books, games and toys.

All donations of the above items will be accepted as well as stretched out, torn, or out of fashion clothing items. Even if there are stains, buttons missing or broken zippers, the Double B Bargain store managers will make use of the materials for the sale of rag bags, craft materials and quilting materials.

They are in need of coat hangers in any amounts if anyone has some to spare. For pick-up of donated items or information call Gloria Berg at 662-3426, Yvonne Brown at 662-2561 or contact John Zintel at Trophy Hut if neither of those two can be reached.

The doors will be open for business starting February 5th from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

Holden amends bylaw

by Joan Murray

At the recent council meeting of the Village of Holden, it was agreed to amend the current dog by-law to add a section which includes controlling the keeping of livestock within the village limits.

It was decided to ask the Chamber of Commerce if there is a project available involving the promotion of the Village of Holden.

There are some funds available from the Rural Development Project for this purpose.

After reviewing a letter from the SPCA, a motion was passed to contact Holden School officials regarding a class that could construct dog traps, for the purpose of capturing dogs running at large.

Dorothy Emerson and Christine McKay will attend the Alberta Recreation and Parks workshop in Vermilion on Jan. 30th, to learn more about the new grants program.

Council agreed tos end a letter to MLA John Batiuk requesting that consideration be given to constructing left and right turn lanes off Highway 14 onto 50th Street.

Seven seek queen's crown

by Joan Murray

Seven contestants are in the running for Ice Carnival Queen when the Tofield Figure Skating club holds it's annual Carnival on February 23rd and 24th.

The theme for this event will be "Happiness is" and features 50 skaters along with a guest group. The Precisionaires from Camrose, who are scheduled to appear in the Sunday performance.

The following young ladies are competing for the queen's crown.

Darlie Worden

Darlie Worden from the Lindbrook area, is sponsored by the Beaverhill Light Horse Association. She is in grade 9 at Tofield School and is 14 years old. She enjoys riding horses and rollerskating in her spare time. She plays basketball, volleyball and badminton and has an avid interest in music and caring for animals

Susan Danielson

Susan Danielson, sponsored by Tofield Minor Hockey, plans to become a physical education instructor She is 17 years old and attends grade 11 at Tofield School She enjoys horseback riding, volleyball, basketball, track and field and lives in the country northwest of Tofield.

Sandra Porisky

Sandra Porisky, daughter of Russell and Elaine of Tofield is sponsored by the Tofield Powder Puffs She is 16 years old and presently attends grade 9 at Tofield School. She is active in all types of sports and especially likes playing hockey

Rebecca Anderson

Rebecca Anderson is thirteen years old and attends grade eight in Uncas School in the County of Strathcona. In addition to figure skating, she takes piano and tap dance instruction in Tofield every week. Her interests centre around writing stories and poetry and has had one of her poems published in the Edmonton Journal. She also enjoys cross country and downhill skiing and canoeing. Her career aspirations lie in the field of service to others and she would like to work with children.

Roxy Knudslen

Fifteen year old Roxy Knudslen is a student at Ryley High School whose interests include figure skating, swimming and fastball. She lives in Ryley with her parents, Glen and Bev and is being sponsored by Beta Sigma Phi.

Candace Ray, sponsored by the Tofield 4-H Club, is 14 years old in grade nine in Tofield School. Her parents are Charles and Aileen Ray She is treasurer of the 4-H Beef Club and is also a member of the Curling Club. She is interested in raising and showing cattle and enjoys riding horses, public speaking, music and writing.

The crowning of the queen will take place on the evening of February 23rd at 8 15 p.m. in the Tofield Arena. Last year's Ice Carnival Queen, Cathy Litwin, will be on hand to do the honours

The figure skaters are coached by Jeanette McLane and Arlene Kleinschroth.

The queen candidates will be at the Farmers Market this Friday to sell tickets which account for 50 percent of their requirements to win. The other 50 percent will come from the judges' findings

Practice sessions are being held regularly in preparation for this winter gala event.

Satellites play in 'provincials'

Tofield Satellites will hit the provincial playoff trail this week.

In the opening round of the senior 'B' playoffs, the Satellites will go against Bonnyville in a two-game total-goal series.

The opening game in this series will be played tomorrow (Thursday) night in Bonnyville

Second and deciding game will be in the Tofield Arena on Friday night at eight o'clock (note: because of this game, Tofield's league game with Mundare has been postponed).

The winner of this series will advance to the quarter-finals against the winner of a series between Mundare and Athabasca.

The losers from these two series will drop down to Senior "C" and will face each other in quarter-finals in that category.

A total of thirteen teams are involved

Firemen answer alarm in Tofield

by Joan Murray

At 1:15 p.m. on Monday afternoon, the Tofield Fire Department responded to a fire call out to the Mandrusiak property at Royal Glen Estates.

Tofield fireman, Reg Regehr, said that the storage shed and equipment contained within were destroyed, but the residence was unharmed.

Two vehicles were involved and a doghouse was burned.

No personal injuries occured, but the lives of some pets were lost.

The exact cause of the fire is not yet known.

ECS meeting

by Joan Murray

A gathering of over 25 members of the County of Beaver E.C.S. (Early Childhood Services) Local met in the Ryley School library on Friday to discuss policy handbook and evaluation.

ECS County Co-ordinator, Margaret Hallett said that they usually meet annually at Vegreville, but it had been decided to meet on a local level. This is their second meeting and the third is scheduled to take place on March 29th, at which time the orientation of new kindergarten parents will take place.

The crowd was made up of kindergarten teachers, LAC presidents, principals and interested parents from Ryley, Holden, Viking and Tofield.

Some concern was expressed about the new School Act which suggests that kindergartens would come under the Department of Education, and be treated like any other school classroom.

At present, the ECS is funded separately and parent groups are heavily involved with many aspects of kindergarten operation. The main concern is that they may not be able to continue in this capacity under the new act.

The issues and concerns expressed this day will be later brought to the attention of the principals in the various schools within the County.

The morning guest speaker, Daniela Elsland from the Crisis Centre in Edmonton, gave an interesting and stimulating presentation on abused women, pornography and sexual abuse of children.

The afternoon speaker, Wayne Doss from the Program Support Services in Red Deer, dealt with the subject of behavior modification in young Children.

Gathering

This crowd of Tofield and area residents gathered in the Senior Citizen Drop-In Centre on Thursday afternoon to listen to a presentation on fire prevention and reduction in the home. They also saw a film on the effects of fire on survivors.

FIRA

We're totally out of step with Premier Lougheed, with Prime Minister Mulroney, with Industry Minister Sinclair Stevens, and others who are exulting because FIRA, the Foreign Investment Review Agency, is dead.

But we're totally in step with well known Edmonton entrepreneur and publisher Mel Hurtig, who thinks abolishing FIRA is tantamount to selling off Canada

Maybe FIRA was too stringent. We don't really feel that way, but we're willing to look at the argument. Maybe it hadn't really done much of a job of protecting Canadian ownership

But at least it provided some obstacles to rapidly selling ownership of everything Canadian.

The new policy is said to welcome foreign investment, to encourage outside money to come in and help develop this country.

What it doesn't tell Canadians is that we are busy selling off our assets for that foreign money. We're not getting investment capital on a loan basis . . . it's all equity capital . . . it owns something. And Canadians progressively own less.

We wouldn't object to foreign money if it were like borrowing money from a bank. You pay it off and you still own the property. The bank never did own a part of your business or your property, not if you kept up the payments. The trouble is that foreign money doesn't come here on that basis . . . it finances an operation in exchange for part ownership, and gradually the part becomes bigger and bigger.

Hurtig tells the shocking figures of how much of many of our basic industries are actually owned from outside our country. And our sons and daughters are cheated out of the chance of ever owning it

Maybe FIRA wasn't the perfect answer. But we think it was a lot more Canadian than the willingness to sell out ownership . . . and thereby control . . . of some of our most important resources, and some of our most important processing industries.

The Americans would scream if anybody ever tried to gain one tenth as much control in their country as they have in our country. The same philosophy applies in Britain, in France, in Germany, and the other members of the European Common Market, closely as they are tied economically.

Why does it make so much sense for us to be so very different? Do we have to be Esau all over again, selling our birthright for a mess of potage?

Back to the minors

A couple of years ago Premier Lougheed called in the Hon. Neil Webber to pick up the pieces and rebuild something out of the chaos Bob Bogle created in the social services department.

Albertans must now be wondering who Lougheed can call on to patch up the havoc Mr. Bogle is creating in the area of telephones, as between Alberta Government Telephones and Edmonton Telephones.

The unhappy fact is that it's not just a battle of administration, Edmonton Telephones supporting one philosophy, AGT the other, but a battle behind the scenes conducted by Edmonton's 1985 arch-Liberal Mayor Decore, and the Tory position of Bob Bogle. There's more politics than philosophy at work.

But anyone who read Mr. Bogle's recent 'offer' to Edmonton Telephones has to be dismayed, and wonder what he was trying to contrive. Had his avowed intent been to alienate Edmonton's City Council he could hardly have done a better job, what with laying down preconditions and pre-platforms even to open discussions again.

Unless he is completely naive (an explanation we're willing to consider) Mr. Bogle must have designed and planned his Conditions for Negotiations to be inflammatory.

If Dr. Webber can't be asked to pick up the pieces for him this time, who will it be?

Almost the last thing we could want would be a legislated settlement, one where AGT would in some way or other be ordered by the government to take over the city utility.

Essay contest open to young Albertans

A contest open to Alberta youth is sponsored by the Alberta Angus Promoters and the Trustees of the R.V. McCullough Memorial Trust Fund.

Of slang and jargon

Moosomin World Spectator

I love slang. I love jargon. In the past couple of days, I've been exposed to discussions about them both.

Time magazine last week ran an article about the new slang that's taking over among American youth. "Grody to the max" means extremely gross, for instance. A "two-bagger" is a girl who's so ugly that one bag covering her head isn't enough. The article went on to say that people who use "swell," "super" and "far out" are well behind the times.

People talk in "slanguage" [illegible] was slang, however, has become so regularly used that people accept it as part of the English language.

While most people are exposed to slang, and eventually understand it, the same cannot be said for jargon

What's jargon? Jargon is different phrases used by different groups of people that mean something to people within that group, but absolutely nothing to others

Most industries, for instance, have their own jargon. The newspaper business, I know for certain, has a language of its own. Two newspapermen getting together might carry on a conversation [illegible] or worse to anyone not in the biz.

"I sat on the rim for a solid year doing nothing but heads, cuts and croppings until the M.E. told me my job was 30."

Now, unless you're a [illegible] baby wouldn't have a clue what the above sentence meant. A newspaperman would not only understand, he'd nod sympathetically.

Government jargon is cute. They don't want to say that thousands of people have lost their jobs, so they use "involuntary leave" instead of "fired". Clothing stores are getting in on it. Want some work clothes? How would you like some "career apparel" instead? While the weatherperson used to say it was going to rain, he now tells us we're in for some "shower activity".

(I used to know a newly-married couple who had shower activity of their own and although they got wet, it certainly wasn't raining.)

When you call your buddy on the blower and ask him if he wants to go downtown for a couple of belts, do you realize you're not talking English? And after you finish with those belts, you might be gassed, tight, pie-eyed or blotto. More [illegible]

Enough of this slang/jargon talk. It's getting too grody to the max for me

Echoes from Em

Just a Doctor?

The roads the country doctor travelled
As he drove along he'd know
They often lead to darkened valleys
Of sickness, heartache, family woe

He'd drive for miles all hours of night
To allay some family pain
No matter what the weather
Be it snow, or sleet or rain.

Although his fees were very [illegible]
Sometimes folks could not pay
So they gave him butter, eggs [illegible]
Or, for his horse some hay.

He wasn't just a doctor
[illegible]
Whose sympathy was with you
And he's stay by to the end.

A friend he was and on that friendship
[illegible]
We're sure he used the golden [illegible]
As his only guide.

Just his presence brought a [illegible]
And made the day seem fair
His thoughtfulness and kindness
Made folks love him everywhere
Many children he brought forth
This big old world to see
He had to drive five country [illegible]
[illegible]

Those country doctors days [illegible]
But for their epitaph, I'd say
"No better breed of man on [illegible]
Will ever come this way."

Celebration is planned

Dear Sir,

We would really appreciate your help, Mr. Editor as we are making plans for a 25-year high school anniversary reunion

Frank Maddock High School in Drayton Valley has been in existence for 25 years this year. A celebration is being held to honor this 25th year anniversary on June 28, 29 and [illegible]

We have sent out invitations to all former students and staff and are now awaiting replies. Our final deadline date is February 28, 1985. At this time, we will be making final arrangements and those who haven't replied will be turned away. We have no [illegible] of supper reservations and fire regulations.

We would appreciate your help in printing this letter and, thereby, reaching out to any students and staff of Frank Maddock High School who haven't replied or any we may [illegible].

All replies can be mailed to Box 790, Drayton Valley, [illegible]

Thank you

Loose Ends

by Carol Livingstone

Dear Sis,

I hear that you are going to Las Vegas again this month for a few days' vacation. Let's face it — if you must have a vacation (and I suppose even sisters need them occasionally), Vegas is the place to go. To begin with, the casinos frown on the presence of children.

Why am I writing? I just wanted to let you know that I don't mind that you are going. I don't even mind that you'll probably come home broke and with sore muscles from those long stints at the one-armed bandits. Vegas is a great place to spend money.

It's even okay that you'll be down there on the warm desert, able to stroll down the Strip wearing only a light jacket, while I'll be scraping off the windshield, waiting to [illegible] will be ending before the next one starts. (If you really want to know what I think — and I'm sure you do — if that ground-hog [illegible] all it means is that the sun is out; no shadow means there's a cloud cover.) Honestly, it's okay. Would I begrudge my favorite sister a short respite from shivering?

[illegible] that you'll be seeing live performers on real stages, sometimes turning your nights into days, going to bed only when exhaustion overtakes you, while I'm sitting here trying not to doze off through the usual run of monotony on the TV. Did you notice last week that three shows all had the same plot? But please, just don't think about it and it won't spoil your holiday

I don't mind at all that you'll be down there in my most favorite place in the world. [illegible] do you realize that it's been two years since my last trip south? ... free from worry, squabbling children, snow drifts, alarm clocks, cooking, laundry ... really it's alright

But what really bugs me is that you aren't taking me with you!

Lovingly,
Carol

P.S. Have a really great time, won't you? And don't forget to bring me a little souvenir!

Ten Days — A Summary

This year the Interchurch "Ten Days for World Development" program concentrated on the theme "Participating in Development". As we learned together about natives in Northern Alberta, the farm crisis, Ethiopia and Central America, we began individually to piece together what participation can really mean for us.

1. Participation means becoming human. It is a call to life. If people do not participate, they do not exist. When people participate, they become their true selves, they feel they are fulfilling their god-given vocation as men and women; to rule the earth, to till it, to enjoy its produce, to be fruitful and multiply, in short, to [illegible] and to make history.

Human beings become their true selves as they participate in creating as historical subjects, as opposed to objects which do not make history. Participating is what gives life meaning.

2. Participation inevitably implies involvement with others. The word "participation" implies the presence of our fellow human beings, subjects just as important as myself, having the same rights and duties as all, without exception. If one person does something by herself, it does not necessarily follow that she participated in doing it. All you can see is that she did it, made it, etc. If we say that someone participated in creating an object, a poem, a cooperative, or a festival, then it follows necessarily that we are referring to other people who also participated in the creative act.

3. Participation implies creating something new for all. Participation for participation's sake is meaningless. There must be a goal, an aim to participating, and the priority aim is the common good, the well-being of the poor and neglected. Participating implies solidarity, in the sense of creating the best opportunities for life so that all can live life in dignity as persons. [illegible] the great problems of our world: poverty, hunger, unemployment, repression are all problems which are very acute in the Third World where the majority of the world's population live.

Meeting basic needs is absolutely essential and thus participating and meeting basic needs are two things which cannot be separated — they belong together. The meeting of basic needs is absolutely essential, but participation gives meaning to our life.

4. Participation implies struggle. That is so for two reasons:

a) Because to till the earth, to make it fruitful is no easy task. It requires strength, devotion and dedication.

b) Because there are people and oppressive structures which are opposed to participation by others and attempt to stifle participation for selfish economic and political reasons, and do not seek the well-being of the poor majority of the people. Power is in these people's hands and [illegible] have a monopoly. Thus [illegible] of society become [illegible] on the basis of [illegible] handicap, or age and are denied the natural right to participate. The struggle for participation must take the form of a "yes" to life and a "no" to such oppression.

Small wonder it is the churches have banded together under this one banner to proclaim life. Life is a gift from God which the Lord challenges us to receive, and we received it through participation.

Holden hosts 'spiel

by Jean Storey

The winners of the A Event in the annual ladies' open curling bonspiel held in Holden last week were members of the Kathy [illegible] rink from Ryley, which included Becky Hellberg, Trish Hardy and Val Lenoway

Christine McKay's rink was the runner-up [illegible] by Kelly Ann Storey, both from Holden. Fourth was the Jean Tkaczyk team from Bruce.

First in the B Event was a quartet from Mundare, skipped by Irene Talaga. Verna Watson of Tofield took second place followed by Linda Ericksen from Bruce.

Top spot in the C Event went to Phyllis Pyzic's team from Ryley. Second place went to Gina Hrabec's rink from Bruce followed by Isabelle Hiney of Ryley.

The next bonspiel in Holden will be the men's open bonspiel, scheduled for February 11th to 17th.

Kingman district notes

John and Nellie Kozack and the Andy McLain family attended a housewarming party for Don and Brenda Brooks and family on Saturday evening of last week.

A former resident of the [illegible] area, Mrs. Hanna Larson of [illegible], passed away at age 87 after a lengthy illness. The Larson family lived on the farm now occupied by Harold Ray and family. Mr. and Mrs. Larson then moved to the farm now owned by Slim and Jean Olson, then moved to Camrose. Hanna passed away on Jan. 25. Funeral services were held in Camrose on Jan. 28. She is survived by her two daughters Mrs. [illegible] and Mrs. Ann Tellefson and their families.

Mrs. Hazel Anderson is recovering at home after spending some time in St. Mary's Hospital in Camrose following a heart attack.

Hay Lakes district news

by Mrs. A. Anstan

80th Birthday

Carl Fuernkrass, Sr., of Edmonton was honoured on Jan. 27 on the occasion of his 80th birthday. Carl and his wife attended the service held at Our Savior Lutheran Church on Sunday morning and then proceeded to the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Christina and Carl Selin, where approximately 50 members of the family had gathered. Following the dinner a sing-song and social afternoon was held.

Carl resided in the Hay Lakes District from 1928 to 1965 at which time he and his wife retired to Edmonton. They still attend many events in Hay Lakes.

Over 200 people enjoyed dancing to the music of the Emerald's Orchestra at the Hay Lakes Recreation Centre on Jan. 26. The dance and supper was sponsored by the Hay Lakes and District Lion's Association. Winners of prize draws held during the evening were Willie Chaney of South Cooking Lake and Christina Selin of Hay Lakes.

Paul and Olga Schweitzer of Edson were weekend guests at the home of Lee and Gordon Lindseth and attended the Lion's dance on Friday evening. Olga and Paul are former residents of the district.

The Hay Lakes Senior Citizen's Club are holding a card party in their Center on Feb. 8. They are also sponsoring a Valentine's tea and bake sale on Feb. 16 beginning at 10 a.m.

Morley Eide of Sexsmith, son-in-law to Bertha Lyseng, passed away in an Edmonton Hospital on Jan. 19 at the age of 62 years. He is survived by his wife, Phyllis; two sons, Wade and Craig; three daughters, Karen, Kathryn and Heather; five grandchildren.

Bertha Lyseng and son Lyle attended the funeral which was held at the Lutheran Church in LaGlace with interment at the Northfields Cemetery

Tags store has opening

by Joan Murray

At the grand opening of the Tags Store in Tofield on Friday morning, Mayor Charlie Sears cut into a four-foot loaf of bread to mark the occasion.

This opening ushered in a new era in the convenience store industry in Tofield and area. It is the ninth in Alberta and the tenth in the TAGS group.

This new store is owned and operated by Gaston and Ruth Gendron. They moved to Tofield from Watson Lake, Yukon, with their children, six year-old Samantha, five year-old Nicole and toddler, Andre who is one-year old.

Gaston has been involved in the grocery business for the last twenty years. He worked for Reid's Super A in High Level for eight years and for the past twelve years was involved as a partner in the Watson Lake Super A in the Yukon. Ruth worked in the banking field for four years after they were married and will be working with her husband in the new store.

Upon entering the premises of the new store, one notices the ultra modern design of the equipment which is contrasted by the interesting old photos of Tofield in by-gone days. These photos were made from pictures that are on file in the Tofield Museum.

The aroma of the instore bakery is one of the first things noticed upon entering the store. The fast food counter is self-serve and one can fill his own Tags slush or a favourite soft drink, pour a cup of coffee or hot chocolate, heat a sandwich or make a hotdog. There is also soft and hard ice cream cones available.

Not far from the bakery is the deli case with a large selection of smoked meats from which home-made sandwiches can be made.

In the cooler is located cold pop, produce, dairy and sandwich meats, as well as bacon and wieners. The freezer is well stocked with a large selection of frozen food and ice and in the grocery area daily food needs plus a variety of party snacks can be found.

January wasn't too cold

January was a cold month in this part of the province, but despite that, no record low temperatures were set.

February opened with frigid temperatures but, it will have to get much colder to approach record levels.

Despite how cold it may have appeared to be last month, the average low night-time temperature for January worked out to be minus sixteen degrees.

That is nowhere near the low of minus forty-five degrees that is the low average for the month, using record figures.

February hasn't started off too well and it can be a frigid month according to the record book.

Using record figures, the average low for this month is a frigid forty-four degrees below zero and the month also contains the lowest temperatures for the entire winter when it was a minus fifty degrees below zero on Feb. 15 and 16, 1936.

According to the book, February can also be mild during the daylight hours.

Again using record figures, the best weather in the month could average out to be ten degrees above zero and the mildest day for the month, on record, took place on Feb. 27, 1932 when it got to fourteen degrees above zero.

No matter how bad it gets in February, the book says it should be much better in March where the average low (using record figures) is twenty five degrees below zero and it should be noted tht February is the shortest month of the year.

BETWEEN THE COVERS

On the new book table this week, there are a number of titles to help you manage your money more effectively. "The Financial Times No-Nonsense Guide to RRSPs, RHOSPs and Other Tax Shelters" is a timely book. For those with a little cash to spare, try Charles Schwab's "How To Be Your Own Stockbroker", or S.E. Woods' "The Money Labyrinth, a Stock Market Guide for Canadians".

Those who watched all or part of the recent series on Robert Kennedy may be interested in his book, "Thirteen Days, A Memoir of the Cuban Missile Crisis".

The Pope's recent visit to Canada is commemorated in a lavish book, "The Pope in Canada" with photographs of all major stops on this historic tour.

Readers who enjoyed Catherine Cookson's novel "Hannilton" will want to read the sequel, "Goodbye Hannilton". Also look for Jean Plaidy's historical novel "Myself, My Enemy", with Queen Henrietta Maria as the central character.

Science fiction readers will want to check out a new trilogy by John Varley, entitled "Titan", "Wizard" and "Demon" respectively.

The mid-winter sessions of Pre-school Story Hour are scheduled to begin on Feb. 19 and 22, but we need help! The volunteer-run program which began with only eight children now routinely attracts at least 40, but it depends on the commitment of its leaders. We are sorry to be losing Cheryl Spicer from the program because of a move, and are looking for a replacement.

If you enjoy reading aloud, are not fazed by groups of three and four-year olds, and have about two hours a week to share, there is a place for you!

A large body of support materials and information is available, including many well-attended sessions. If you are interested in this position, or the following one, please call Program/Volunteer Coordinator, May Korobko at 963-3836 for further information.

You want to volunteer, but small children are not for you? Try out Mobile Library Service, which provides book selection and delivery to residents of Tofield Lodge and the Heritage Apartments. This service is also [illegible] to provide Talking Books to eligible users. The requirements for this position are: interest in books and people, strong arms for carrying books, and preferably a car which runs in cold weather!

Regular library hours are Tuesday 1-8, Thursday 3-5 and 6-8, Friday and Saturday 10-12 and 1-5.

Minor teams win

Minor hockey teams in Tofield enjoyed a good week as they won the majority of the games they played.

Both the Starbirds and Torpedoes emerged with victories.

Starbirds stopped Fort Saskatchewan 8-5 while Torpedoes doubled a second Fort Saskatchewan team by a 8-4 score.

Tofield opened play during a two-weekend tournament in Lamont by racking up an easy 8-4 triumph with action to resume with two games on Saturday.

Lions travelled over to Lamont last Wednesday and returned home after posting an easy 8-2 victory.

Blazers took part in a tournament in Calmar where they took top honours by posting four straight wins.

Blazers whipped Guertz Studios 6-1, edged Duggan 4-3 in overtime, stopped Edson 7-3 and took the championship by edging Calmar 4-3.

Badgers were whipped 10-1 by Mundare and they got their only goal from Josh Van [illegible]

JEROME MANCHUR

I thought you might be interested in what some people in the cities are thinking about your intensive livestock operations. The following article appeared in the Edmonton Journal, January 12, 1985.

Animal Rights Activists

They have poured glue in furrier's locks, vandalized butcher trucks, raided universities to set animals free and bombarded researchers with hate mail.

In Britain over Christmas, they caused a wave of fear by threatening to inject poison into candy bars and turkeys.

They call themselves the Animal Liberation Front, and their cause is nothing less than bringing about a revolution in the way people look at Earth's other creatures.

Unlike earlier groups opposed to the use of animals for research, who have for a century been seen as airy-fairy do-gooders, the militants are angry and impatient.

In Canada, their campaign of harassment and property destruction has gathered force the past few years.

Much of it has been aimed at university research projects, but a spokesman for one group said raids will focus next on what they call "factory farms", highly mechanized agricultural operations that produce chickens and pigs.

The purpose of the break-ins will be to set free the animals, which the group believes suffer in cramped, inhumane conditions on these farms.

The ALF wants to force businesses to "redirect their profits" toward higher costs for repairs and insurance, according to the spokesman, who would not give her name.

The woman, who described herself as a vegetarian in her 30s and part of an ALF "cell" of about 20 people somewhere in Ontario, said the group also wants to educate the public to stop "the killing of animals for fun and profit."

After initially recoiling from the ALF's lawlessness, the public will in time understand and approve, she said.

There's been a hundred years of picketing and petitioning and that just hasn't gotten the animals anywhere."

The ALF wants to avoid violence, the spokesman said, but "we're prepared that there might come a situation where we would have to resort to violence."

In the wake of the incidents in Britain and the Jan. 1 break-in and theft of three cats and a monkey at the University of Western Ontario in London, Ont., the possibility of someone getting hurt is beginning to worry authorities.

"I hope it doesn't come to violence, but I wouldn't be too surprised if it did," said Supt. Don Andrews of the London Police.

Behind the radical ALF stands the much larger, long-standing Animal Liberation Movement, which has thousands of supporters across Canada and in other countries.

Of 85[1] the animals being used in experiments in Canada – about two million die in this way annually – the only one to receive widespread public attention has been B-43, a yellow baboon nicknamed Debbie at Western.

It was in the vain hope of finding and freeing Debbie, who has been confined in a restraining chair as part of a diet-related heart disease experiment, that militants broke into the university's research laboratory.

The effort failed, but two faculty members at Western were charged this week under the Criminal Code with causing unnecessary suffering to an animal after a Vancouver-based group lodged a complaint in relation to Debbie's treatment.

It was the first time such a charge had been laid against a researcher in this country, said Dr. Harry Rowsell, director of the Canadian Council on Animal Care, an independent body that provides guidelines for the care of research animals.

The CCAC is supposed to ensure that creatures experimented on are handled properly. But animal rights activists dismiss the group as a useless paper tiger.

While lab research has been the focus of the animal rights movement, these activists are making a fundamental change in mankind's approach to animals, whose plight they compare to Jews during the Second World War or blacks under slavery in the United States.

Vicki Miller, president of Ark II, a Toronto-based animal rights umbrella group, said she is against the "exploitation" of other creatures for any purpose, including research, food, fur and hides.

Explaining her group's far-reaching objective, she said: "We're asking people to drop their prejudices, to give up the notion that we are special and animals are outside that sphere."

In the scientific community, the stepped-up pressure on behalf of animals has brought bewilderment and resentment.

Dr. Douglas Bocking, health sciences vice-provost at Western, said the ALF is "opposed to any use of animals for anything."

"They go after slaughterhouses, fox hunters and anybody – it's hard to know what they're thinking of next".

Ministik district news

Meant For Last Week

Despite very icy roads and a cool attendance, a dance scheduled for Friday was held and all who came thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Prize winners were: Cents first, John Vandermeer; second, Verden Sears and consolation, Jos Davenport.

Ladies first: Olivine Sears; second, Truus Vandermeer and consolation Dolly Reddick.

Lunch was served by the ladies and another whist drive was announced to take place on Feb. 1st.

Dinking is on every Saturday afternoon at the Crafts Centre from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Your correspondent, along with Pat Dyke, had the pleasure on Thursday afternoon, of watching the show "Bridge to Terabithia." It is of special significance to Ministik residents as a good portion of it was filmed last September at Ministik School. Some of it was also filmed near Ellerslie which isn't far from here.

It was filmed by Public Broadcasting Systems of the U.S. through the facilities of Allarcom Ltd. of Edmonton. Along with pupils of our local school, actors came from Edmonton and St. Albert.

Wayne Kleinschmidt is back on his road route again after being away for a week having a tonsilectomy. John and Truus Vandermeer took care of his mail customers in his absence.

Area residents didn't have to contend with icy roads for long after last week's rain as County of Strathcona sent out a snowplow with a scarifier on the front which ridged the ice and made roads safe and in good driving condition.

Seniors who ride the bus each week were Tuesday afternoon guests, on their return home, of Mart Braddshaw. Twelve guests enjoyed lunch and goodies Mart brought from Hawaii on a recent holiday.

Teachers favour "strike" action

Strike action by teachers in this area is now possible.

A government supervised strike vote was conducted last week with teachers voting [illegible] in favour of strike action to back their contract demands.

Mediation talks were held on Thursday and pending further talks, no date has been set for any possible strike action.

If mediation talks do not result in an agreement, teachers would have to serve school boards with seventy-two hours notice before they can legally go out on strike.

[illegible] students in [illegible] schools would be affected by any walkout which involves approximately 400 teachers.

The area affected is known as the Elk Island Regional School Authorities Association and includes the Counties of Beaver, Lamont, Minburn and Flagstaff along with the School Divisions of Wainwright and Provost.

The Mercury has learned that school representatives announced an offer on Thursday that was to have been presented to the teachers at a meeting last night (Tuesday) in Viking.

Trustees were proposing that a new contract contain a zero increase for 1984 and a three percent hike in '85.

A spokesman for the ATA told The Mercury that if the teachers did not accept the offer, an immediate announcement would be made concerning the teachers next course of action.

Balanced

Learning perfect balance is one of the things a skater must learn. To become the best, she must spend many hours practicing. This young lady is getting ready for her part in the upcoming Ice Carnival at the end of this month. photo by Joan Murray

ADC issues quarterly report

Lending activity results for the first nine months of fiscal 1984-85, ending Dec. 31, 1984, were announced recently by J. Harold Hanna, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Alberta Agricultural Development Corporation.

During the nine-month period, a total of 742 direct farm loans were authorized for almost $80 million. Of this total, 682 loans for $84 million were made to beginning farmers, with some 70% of these new entrants taking advantage of the staged option feature of ADC's Beginning Farmer Program.

Specifically, guaranteed loans were approved for 81 primary producers in the first nine months of the year, amounting to more than $4 million. In the same period, 4462 loans were made by other lenders and guaranteed by ADC under the Alberta Farm Development Loan Program. These loans had an aggregate value of nearly $83 million.

The Corporation's agribusiness lending activity for the nine month period amounted to six direct and guaranteed loans with a value of more than $19 million.

At December 31, 1984, ADC's total direct and guaranteed loan portfolio amounted to more than 25,000 active and outstanding loans valued at $1.1 billion.

Hanna drew attention to the fact that a number of respected farmers throughout Alberta have recently agreed to act as Enterprise Counsellors. They will be made available to assist farmers experiencing financial difficulty who would like the help of a knowledgeable, independent person to examine alternatives with a view to finding the best solution to their problems. Anyone wishing to take advantage of the services of an Enterprise Counsellor should contact an ADC Loans Officer. Counsellors will be provided on a one-to-one basis.

Counselling will involve an indepth analysis of the individual situation, including all financial and production aspects. The Enterprise Counsellor will work with the farmer to develop a detailed workout plan, including an implementation schedule and will assist the farmer in reaching an understanding with his creditors.

Borrowers who wish to apply for assistance under ADC's new Farm Development Guarantee must be prepared to accept assistance of an Enterprise Counsellor. Banks are co-operating with ADC in implementing the new Farm Development Guarantee.

Under the Farm Development Guarantee program, farmers who cannot obtain the necessary operating credit to carry on may apply for a guarantee of up to $100,000 of new operating loan advances at the lender's prime rate, p;rovided they will accept counselling and are able to develop a workout plan that shows potential viability. To be eligible for a Farm Development Guarantee, the net worth must not exceed $500,000 per farm family and the equity in the operation must not exceed 50% of the assets.

The expanded counselling service and Farm Development Guarantee will provide an additional measure of assistance to help farmers work their way through the present period of adjustment.

Mr Hanna said that while lending volumes for the current year to date were down slightly compared with the same period of the previous year, the available loan funds were being advanced only to borrowers who can demonstrate a reasonable likelihood of success in their farming operations.

Holden and district news

by Mrs. G.H. Taylor

Mrs Annie (Stanley) Kemsenusky left last Friday with her daughter and husband, Mr and Mrs Pogorelich, for a two-week holiday trip to Hawaii.

Mrs Edith Carlson and Mrs G.H Taylor were last Thursday afternoon visitors with Edith's daughter Mrs. Vivian Andrusky and children, in Tofield.

Mr and Mrs. Bruce Budd spent Friday and Saturday, a week ago, at the home of their son, Tom and Joan Budd and children, looking after the children while Tom and Joan were in a curling bonspiel

The bingo held by the Senior Citizens Club on Jan 25th in the afternoon was well attended. This is a first time for them to hold a bingo in the afternoon, but owing to icy streets and cold weather many of the nonsers did not like to attend in the evening.

Steve Laskosky of Camrose, a former Holden resident, passed away on Jan 30th in St. Mary's Hospital in Camrose at the age of 75 years. He leaves to mourn his passing, his wife, Rose; one son Ernie of Camrose; one daughter, Mrs Wayne (Alvina Brown of Lacombe; grandchildren, five brothers, Mike of Toronto, Bill of Bawlf, John and Pete of Holden and Sam of Viking; two sisters, Kay Lupatchuk and Myrtle Saranchuk, both of Vancouver, B.C. and many nieces and nephews. Prayer service was held on Friday in Mount Pleasant Funeral Chapel in Camrose

Divine liturgy was sung on Saturday in the Ukrainian Catholic Church in Camrose, with Father Myron Martyniw officiating and interment was in the Camrose Cemetery

A Calgary group of four musical instrument singers and musicians will be presenting a concert on Friday in the Beaver Arts Centre in Holden The Holden Parent Nursery group meet in the Holden Legion Hall each Tuesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for young children of pre-kindergarten age They must be accompanied by a parent and the children enjoy various games and crafts

A power blackout was experienced in the Holden District on January 27th when a high power transmission line about two miles north of Holden broke, causing a blackout along Highway 14, the early hours of Sunday morning. The district Transalta Utilities manager, Len Kwasney advised that one of the seven lines running south of the main substation about four miles north of Holden, snapped at an insulator causing all the lines to stop carrying power This occured at 12:07 a.m. Sunday morning. The power blackout caused a power outage along Highway 14 from Holden to Kinsella with many users south of the Highway also without power As the line was a high power transmission line, a crew from St. Albert had to be brought in to make repairs as it takes special equipment to handle these lines Power was out in Holden, Bruce, Viking and Kinsella and repairs were not completed until 6:36 a.m.

Victor Clark of Winnipeg, a former Holden resident for many years, passed away on January 24th at the age of 90 years

Mr Clark, who had been in poor health for the past few years, was the oldest member of a pioneer farming family of the Holden district

His parents the late Mr and Mrs. W.A Clark and family, Victor, Vera and Lod, came to the Holden district in 1902. June the youngest of the family being born in Holden The only remaining member of the family, Miss June Clark, resides in Dawson Creek, B.C in a senior citizens lodge

On January 27th, members of Holden Lodge Order of the Royal Purple were guests at a pot-luck supper and social evening, of Viking Lodge Order of the Royal Purple who were celebrating their 35th anniversary. Viking Lodge was instituted by the late PHRL Emeritus Secretary of Holden Lodge who was the District Deputy of District 4 at that time Those attending were HRL Mary Semotiuk and husband Past Ex Ruler, John Semotiuk, Jean Helfrich and husband, Exalted Ruler of Holden BPO Elks, Mary Hardy and husband, Past Ex Ruler, Holden BPO Elks Anne Milimaka and husband Pete, PHRL's Ethel Fleming Kathleen Harum and Helen Bilyk. Ladies Helen Sacyk Ethel Brekstad, Nellie Kaluzny, Kate Nichols and Olive Good. A birthday cake from Holden Lodge, with congratulations, was presented to Viking Lodge by HRL Semotiuk

by Jean Murray

One day, a long time ago, a voice on the phone said, "Hello, Mrs. Murray, tomorrow is your day to be Helping Mother at the Kindergarten." That's all I needed to top off a week that included a rubber ball thrown into my washing machine by a five year old, who just wanted to wash my ball, mommy," a calculator broken by same son who got up in the middle of the night to "play with it" downstairs in his room, and the nurse son that was one-half hour late getting home from Kindergarten because "I was just waiting for Johnny to come out and play." Meanwhile, I was in a state of absolute panic bordering on hysteria. I hesitate to mention the potty training of our little girl, that had not been going well Many accidents were found in bizarre places and to add to this confusion, my husband needed an obscure receipt for the accountant Now

Anyway, I did arrive at the kindergarten on time and was greeted by many little munchkins in various stages of undress, nattering and performing tricks of all sorts in the cloakroom. Class began in a circle, after numerous disputes as to who held whose hand where Music time came next and I had the opportunity to observe while I checked the library books for broken backs and battered pages There they were, singing like little angels until one of the angels shoved another angel for getting the words wrong Even a teacher does not like to get a word wrong, because these angels that seem to know so much about accuracy have never heard of authority, and tend to treat you like any other angel in the room if you make a mistake

"CHING, CHING, CHING" Order is once more restored by the intervening of a tambourine. Game time arrived. The teacher told me that they were unusually goofy today I must emanate foolishness, because my kids behave that way all the time I had been elected narrator for story time I forgot to edit out the questions in the book and received a barrage of answers every time I slipped up I found that a child will not quit repeating his answer until you personally acknowledge him or her After the story was over it was time to draw a picture about it. My son chose today, of all days, to demonstrate his accuracy in art With the help of his little partner, he drew a policeman, complete from cap to service boots, right down to the very last detail His work was then placed in a specially created pile, entitled X-rated" and marked not to be displayed at the Teacher's Convention. It was time to exercise and we wriggled and squirmed like worms and slithered and hissed like snakes for about ten minutes Finally it was time to put notes on the worms and snakes and bundle them up for the long trek home "Good-bye Mrs Murray, come again tomorrow" I heard as I trudged up the stairs. "If I live that long," passed through my mind momentarily until I heard, "Gee, I'm glad you came to school today mommy." His little happy voice was like a tranquilizer until I heard him inviting half his class to get a ride home with us. And the best goes on - and on, and on, and ..!

League will be busy

February is going to be a busy month for teams in the Battle River High School Basketball League

In addition to the games on the regular schedule, a total of seven postponed contests must be arranged

All games will be important in determining the final standings and that in itself is important because only the top three teams in each division (girls and boys) will gain automatic berths in the zone playoffs

The fourth place teams could be challenged by either/or Hughenden and Wainwright while the last place team will automatically be ousted from playoff contention

Friday's action will see Sedgewick at home to Ryley while Viking travels to Tofield and on Feb 13th, Daysland goes to Tofield.

No information was available about the dates for playing the postponed games

With so many postponements, all teams are still in pennant contention.

In recent games, Daysland hosted Viking with the teams splitting when the visitors won the girls game 69-39 while the home team won 60-43 in the boys contest

Sedgewick packed up two victories over Tofield with the girls won 33-21 and men, the boys came out on top by a 61-57 margin

CLBI Choir is touring

The thirty-two voice Canadian Bible Institute Choir is currently on a ten-day tour in Central Alberta

The tour opened in Vermilion on Friday and has presented concerts of sacred music in Fort Saskatchewan, Edmonton and Thorsby

Tonight's (Thursday) concert is in Ponoka and will be followed by appearances in Red Deer, Innisfail, Olds and Tofield before returning home to Camrose

The Choir's annual home concert will be presented on Sunday evening at 7:30 in Messiah Lutheran Church and an invitation has been extended to all members of the community to attend.

In addition to the sacred concert, Sunday's presentation will include an update of the school's ministry and is being considered as a time of [illegible]

This winter's choir is singing under the direction of Rev Robert Kempainen, a member of the CLBI faculty

Going on tour is an annual event for the CLBI Choir during the break between winter and spring semesters Last winter's tour took the choir on to Southern Saskatchewan

Puffs win a trophy

Tofield Powder Puffs now lots of action in the past week as they were involved in a playoff game and a tournament.

In a zone ladies playoff contest, Powder Puffs were blanked 7-0 by Vegreville and were eliminated from further competition

On the weekend, Powder Puffs travelled south to Medicine Hat for a tournament.

Tourney action didn't start off too well as they were whipped 10-0 by Calgary.

After that, it got pretty exciting.

In their next outing, Strathmore scored in the final minute of play to send the game into overtime and then won in a shootout Tofield got its goals from Wood 2, Drader and Fuelsch.

The next game against Hanna was another shootout with Powder Puffs giving it a great try before finally losing and Wood notched two goals in this match

The three teams dropped Tofield into the 'D' Event and Powder Puffs came out on the ice determined to post a victory and they weren't to be denied as they edged Medicine Hat by a 3-2 count.

Herbiet led the winners with a pair of goals while the singles were notched by Drader, Fuelsch and Lee Game stars for the Powder Puffs were Wood, Fuelsch, Lindsay and Herbiet.

Playoff teams decided

. . . in Beaverhill

Playoff teams have been decided in the Beaverhill Hockey League, following last week's action.

Vegreville and Holden will not be advancing to the playoffs as Lamont, Mundare, Redwater and Tofield have now clinched berths.

However, with the rest of this month remaining in the regular schedule, Holden and Vegreville can play the 'spoiler' role for the balance of the schedule. In addition, neither team wants to finish in the basement.

Only three games were played last week as road and weather conditions forced postponement of three other contests.

Games last night (Tuesday) were played in Tofield, Holden and Mundare with results to be reported next week.

Holden will be hosting Lamont on Friday and Tuesday's action will see Holden at home to Tofield.

Tofield was supposed to play in Mundare on Friday night, but this game has been postponed because of provincial playdowns.

Holden moved a step closer to fifth place last week when they edged Vegreville 13-10 while Tofield whipped Vegreville 7-3 and Mundare stopped Holden 9-6.

Standings	W	L	T	GS	GA	Pts

Working

Because it was so cold in the area on Saturday morning, this skater and her fellow club members had to dress extra warm as they went through their routines and practiced the more difficult moves in preparation for the Ice Carnival scheduled for February 23 and 24th in the Tofield Arena. photo by Joan Murray

Winter continues

Winter will continue until at least the middle of next month (March).

That's the information that was passed along by the groundhog when he emerged from his burrow on Saturday.

Saturday was Groundhog Day and according to superstition, the little animal is supposed to come out of hibernation, climb out of his burrow and his reaction then decides winter's fate.

If the day is overcast, the little animal relaxes and goes about his business and that's a sign that winter's fury is at an end.

On the other hand, being very nervous, anything startles and scares the groundhog and if it's a sunny day, his own shadow scares him so much that he retreats back into his burrow and that mean's that winter weather will prevail for another six weeks.

The groundhog did, in fact, see his shadow on Saturday, which means that the cold weather should continue until about the middle of March.

Stop Nagging and Start Enjoying

Picture this scene: You've reminded your daughter twice to take a hat this morning because it's cold out. She ignores you and as she leaves you yell, "You'll get pneumonia you know!"

Nobody likes to be a nag. But it's hard not to — even well behaved children dawdle, procrastinate and irritate. If you feel you're nagging too much or your children are disobedient or irresponsible, perhaps you should examine your parenting style. Nagging creates a negative climate. There are better ways to handle situations.

To get your children to listen to you, you have to listen to them. Plan time to spend with each child, individually. This special attention leads to a closeness with your children. Behavior changes will happen when the communication lines are open.

It is important to clearly outline your expectations to your kids. How much of your child's bad behavior is really unacceptable and how much can be ignored without harming you, them, other people or things? If you nag frequently over things you don't care about, your children won't take you seriously when something really matters.

Some children resort to bad behavior as a means of getting attention. Nagging can reinforce the bad behavior because children know they have succeeded in getting your attention. For eg. to avoid a scene in the grocery store over a package of gum, clearly outline the situation before you walk in the door. It lets the child know where you stand.

As an alternative to nagging after misbehavior, try rewarding good behavior. The easiest and often most effective reinforcers are smiles, hugs and words of appreciation. A magic method for quick room cleanups on Saturday mornings is to plan an afternoon treat. It's amazing how an all day job can be done in an hour.

In many cases — for example, those involving wearing appropriate clothing in bad weather — the smartest thing you can do is say nothing beyond an initial suggestion. Keeping quiet while your child makes a mistake that causes him grief is very difficult — but the best thing to do. Many times the child feels bad enough about the goof — there's no need to berate him further.

Given the nature of children and parents, it may be impossible to eliminate nagging entirely. But if you want to encourage positive behavior in your children, bite your tongue, keep a sense of humor and praise their good behavior.

From The Hack

by Reg Enright

The Camrose Farmer's Spiel was completed Feb. 1 with 50 rinks competing for over $6000 in prizes.

The five-day event featured numerous luncheons and breakfasts donated by local businesses. Each rink consisted of three farmers and one businessman which made for some great socializing.

The Bob Papley rink from Beaumont went undefeated to capture the Byers Flour Mill Grand Challenge. Papley won six straight games with victories over Luckwell, Reese, Gunderson, Cole, Schlender and Eshpeter.

In the final against Ken Eshpeter from Daysland, Papley was down one without last stone, however Eshpeter missed his last shot and let Papley steal two and the first prize. Eshpeter reached the final with victories over Schmidt, Blake, Gilroy and Royer. The Papley rink was skipped by Denis Inse with front enders consisting of Gordon Geise and Paul Hnatyshin.

After an opening loss to Beller, the Neil Orr foursome from Rosalind scored four consecutive victories to capture top honours in UFA's second event. Orr defeated Byers, R. Pedersen, Odegard and Rempel.

Dave Holmberg won one game, then suffered a second round loss to Gunderson which put him into the third event sponsored by Camrose Implements. Holmberg then posted impressive victories over Roth, Reese, Samy and Hasselby to take top prize in the third event. Holmberg is from Rosalind while the rest of his rink had a Donalda bias.

In Ross AgriSupplies fourth event, another Rosalind rink took top honours. The Reg Enright rink won their first two games only to lose to Schlender which put them into the fourth event. Here the Enright squad posted victories against Beller, Gunderson, Luckwell and Henning Pedersen.

The Camrose Curling Club would like to extend a hearty "thank you" to each and every sponsor who helped make the 1985 Farmers Spiel such a huge success.

The Pat Miller rink travelled to Edmonton to represent Zone 11 in the Northern Alberta Men's Playdowns. Miller looked shakey as they lost their first two games but then became very tough.

Miller won four straight games which put them into the C final. A victory here would have qualified Miller for the provincial playdowns. Only eight rinks in Alberta play for the right to represent Alberta at the 1985 brier. However, it was not to be, as the Miller foursome lost an extra end heartbreaker to Orville MacDonald from Grande Centre. The other two Northern Alberta representatives to the provincial playdowns are Reed and Pat Ryan, both of Edmonton.

Kingman district notes

Peachy Stauffer of Kingman just spent five days in Edmonton where she wrote her national exams for registered nursing. The exams were written on Jan. 23 and 24 at the university by graduates from the Royal Alexandra School of Nursing. Friday evening the convocation ceremony was held at the Jubilee Auditorium. In attendance were Peachy's husband, Garry, her mother Anne Austen from Edmonton, her sister, brother-in-law and family, Marg, Jack, Kendle-Jane and T.J. from Hanna, Gladys and Lars Rude from the Bardo District, numerous friends and former classmates from the class of '84. Following convocation an open house and reception were held at the home of Mary Jane Hayes and Helen Nahirney. Garry and Peachy stayed at the Four Seasons Hotel for the weekend. Saturday evening they were chauffeured with friends Mary-Jane and Collin, Helen and Randy joining them for a ride to the Terrace Inn where they joined in with Peachy's family to celebrate the graduation. The banquet and dance was enjoyed by the class of '85, their family, friends and faculty. Before returning home Sunday, Garry and Peachy enjoyed brunch in Edmonton. Fun was had by all.

On Jan. 27, guests at the home of Larry and Lynn Flemming were Dennis and Maureen Perks and family of Elwood, Thelma and Valerie Flemming. The occasion was Elwood and James Flemming's birthday.

Andy and Sylvia McLain and children, Eain and Neil recently moved into the trailer where the Brooks family lived.

Kingman school grade five class has a new student, Marie Grattan. Marie previously attended Tofield School. On Jan. 29 and 30 a very successful book fair was held at the school. A poster contest was part of the fair and winners include: Evan Schmidt winning first, and Cory Kranzmeid winning second in the grades 3 and 4 class. There were three winners from the grades 1 and 2 class. Kesten Bowick was first, Natasha Wiig, second and Jenny Christenson was third. All five winners received books as their prize. The grades 1 to 4 classes had a holiday from school on Jan. 31 when their teachers, Mrs. Brenda Johnson and Mrs. Cynthia Clarke attended a computer workshop. On Feb. 1 the grades 5 and 6 had the day off when Mrs. Joyce Lehner attended.

Scouts are fund raising

by Joan Murray

The Scouting movement in Tofield and area will be doing quite a lot of fund-raising before summer comes.

They have plans to send ten members, including the Scoutmaster, to a Jamboree in Leichestershire, England from July 19th-27th.

It will cost approximately $1,825 per member which includes the registration fee, travel expenses, room and board.

At first, the plan was to attend the Canadian Jamboree in Oshawa, Ontario, but it turned out that it was cheaper to attend the one in England.

The Scouts will be working hard from now until July to raise the funds needed for this excursion. So far plans include taking part in highway clean-up, lawn mowing, rummage sales, paper and bottle drives and farmer's market tables, but they will consider all offers of work for pay to achieve their goal.

If anyone has odd jobs they wish done, Scoutmaster Don Kondrat, is the person to contact at 662-3126 for more information.

The nine boys chosen to make this trip will have to have achieved their bronze chain, the Chief Scout award and will have attended a winter camp.

After the Scouts reach the Jamboree campsite in Stanford Park, England, they will have a chance to enjoy activities such as canoeing, sailing, horseback riding, rafting, cycling, golf, rock-climbing, board sailing, bowling, squash, and table tennis as well as the opportunity to take part in community services, competitions and camp fire activities.

Off-site visits will be made to places of interest.

An international tea party made up of campers from all the nations in camp dressed in their national costumes will be held.

There will also be an international centre set up for displays, singing, dancing and demonstrations illustrating the life and culture of the various attending countries.

Fitness fits in.

Strike is possible

. . . by teachers

Schools in the County of Beaver could be closed next week because of a teachers' strike.

Strike notice was served by the Alberta Teachers Association on Monday and unless an agreement is reached to solve a contract dispute, teachers will walk off the job on Tuesday.

In addition to the County of Beaver, schools affected by any walkout would include those in the Counties of Minburn, Lamont and Flagstaff along with the School Districts of Provost and Wainwright.

The decision to take strike action to back contract demands followed a meeting held in Viking where teachers voted 73 percent to reject an offer received from trustees.

Members of the Elk Island Regional School Authorities Association had called for a wage freeze for the '84 portion of a two-year contract and offered a salary increase of three percent during 1985.

The most recent position taken by the teachers calls for a two percent pay hike in 1984 and an additional three percent increase during the current year.

Teacher negotiators have indicated that they are prepared to submit to binding arbitration, if the trustees would agree to such a proposal.

If a strike does occur, it would affect approximately 9,300 students and 600 teachers in a total of fifty-one schools.

Health Centre proceeds

by Joan Murray

Work on the Health Centre has been taking place at the new Tofield Health Centre site since the start of the second phase in mid-October.

Clark of the Works, Roy Whittaker, said that most of the mechanical work which includes plumbing, sewer lines, heating ducts and conduit have been put in and the elevator shafts have been poured.

Interior finishing to the place and is being used to help keep the heat in the lower areas. Most of the work was done in the basement area.

Two finishing units for the ventilation system, about the size of a small room, have arrived and on Monday, two truck loads of structural steel had arrived and was unloaded. The steel will be erected as soon as weather permits.

After the steel is up, which should take about three months, the complete once work has begun, there will be a lot more activity around the site.

The general contractor has been waiting for the steel so he can get on with enclosing the building.

The electrical, mechanical, sheet metal and general contractors have all been on site working these past months.

The hospital equipment contract has been completed and is at the Department of Hospitals and Medical Care for approval.

Hospital Administrator Don Reth said the total cost of the items on the list is about $700,000 and with X-ray equipment, would come to over one million dollars.

The tender for the equipment is scheduled to go out in July.

The Health Centre is scheduled for completion in February of 1986.

Trustees make strike plans

by Joan Murray

[illegible] trustees for the County of Beaver met on Friday to discuss the possible impending teachers' strike.

If in the event there is in fact a strike, they have adopted a contingency plan to be carried out at that time.

In accordance with the School Act which allows for selection of a co-ordinating committee, Board Chairman Red Krips, Superintendent Bill Schoeman and County Administrator Garth Bancroft were given a mandate to act on behalf of the Board for all members dealing with a strike. Krips was selected to be the spokesman for this committee.

A courier service will be provided to Edmonton for correspondence lessons if parents so desire, or parents may enroll their children in other jurisdictions provided they pay the necessary fees.

[illegible] will be allowed to take textbooks home.

As many non-striking employees as is necessary will be asked to stay on the job, when needed. All equipment is to remain in the school.

It was agreed that in preparation for a strike, letters would be sent out this week to everyone who may be affected by the strike, including the RCMP, asking for extra vigilance over the schools for the duration.

Recently, schools in the county were closed on account of icy roads and high winds. There has been much controversy over the way the cold weather policy was carried out.

The Board agreed that there is nothing wrong with the current policy and admitted that although there had been an error in judgement, it was the first in a very long time.

To minimize confusion in the future, it was decided to investigate the possibility of putting a communication system in the school buses to allow for driver input on road conditions that could be useful in making decisions when implementing this policy.

A motion was passed to get a cost breakdown on installing radios in the school buses.

A letter was received from the Deputy Minister stating approval of the lowest tender by Watson Tofield regarding the Tofield School additions and renovation.

After reviewing the rental fees for the Church of Jesus Christ Latter Day Saints in using the Tofield School facility, the Board agreed that a letter should be written asking what plans for the future the church is making toward acquiring their own facility. The rental fees will remain the same at [illegible].

Superintendent Schoeman submitted, for discussion, a first draft of budget preparations. In this draft, it is proposed that regular staff for 1985 will be about the same as in 1984, but there is a need to do some split grading at the elementary level.

Enrollment for the County is up by five students since December, but still remains lower at a total of 1,998 over the September figure of 1,928.

School trustee George Mason was chosen as representative for the February 21st SAC meeting.

The next regular meeting of the Board of Education will be on March 13th.

Authority holds organizational meet

by Joan Murray

The Beaver Regional Waste Management Authority held their annual organizational meeting on Thursday night and reappointed Bob Cross as chairman and Rueben Heveland as vice-chairman.

Secretary-treasurer for the Authority is Vic Istace and the representatives are: Tofield — Ed Kegele, Holden — Joe Fornal, Viking — Bob Evans; County of Beaver — Fred [illegible]

Members of the committee are: Tofield — Tom Jacobs, Ryley — Larry Andrukow, Holden — Dennis Danchuk, Viking — Jennie Bird; County of Beaver — Gordon Maxwell and Don Ranaghan

Rick Prentice of Reid Crowther and Associates of Edmonton is the project engineer; Arnould Lendag from the Vegreville Health Unit is the Department of Health representative; and Alberta Environment is represented by Eugene Leskiw and Jim Lapp.

The next regular meeting of the Beaver Regional Waste Management Authority will take place at the call of the [illegible]

Tofield will host Athabasca

Tofield Satellites have dropped down to the senior 'C' classification in provincial hockey playoffs.

The Satellites dropped both games in a total-goal series in the opening round of the 'B' playoffs and as a result, moved to the 'C' category.

Tofield met Bonnyville in the opening round and were defeated by scores of 3-1 and 6-3 as they lost the total goal series 9-4.

In the opening round of the 'C' playoffs (quarter-finals) Tofield's opposition will be provided by Athabasca.

The two teams will meet in Tofield on Saturday night in the opening game which will start at eight o'clock.

The second game is scheduled to take place in Athabasca on Feb. 16th.

Athabasca was dropped to the 'C' competition when they were ousted from the 'B' class by Mundare, a member of the Beaverhill Hockey League.

Not McKillop

The President is not the Chamber!

And while many people in Alberta . . . not just the Jewish community . . . may wonder at the expression last week of Mr. McKillop as to his doubt over the accuracy of six million deaths attributed to the Holocaust, surely there is far more at stake here than opposition to such a statement, and immediately withdrawing membership from the Alberta Chamber of Commerce.

Surely the right to speak out as individuals, that right which was denied so many people in Hitler Germany, surely that privilege as Canadians demands that we continue to maintain membership in groups whose purpose we applaud even when we disagree with unrelated comments coming from some individuals.

If we will not even tolerate a difference of opinion from our own view, surely we have lost the war . . . we have lost the basic principle of democracy.

In case we're not clear, Edmonton's Jewish community last weekend, (and many non-Jews) took strong exception to the remarks of one Duncan McKillop, who was defence attorney for James Keegstra, when he wondered if indeed, six million people died. It is coincidental that Mr. McKillop is president of the Alberta Chamber of Commerce . . . he was not speaking in that role, nor for the Chamber, but as a defence attorney, one who is obliged to search every avenue of defence he can imagine for his client.

It should be noted Mr. McKillop did not doubt the Holocaust. He did not question whether it ever happened. He simply wondered whether six million might be too high a figure. Even at the Nuremburg trials, six million was thrown in as an outside figure . . . five million, . . . even four and a half million . . . were suggested.

So McKillop is willing to admit huge numbers were eliminated. Does it really matter, when we're speaking of such horrible atrocities, what the actual number was, so long as the world recognizes the number was at least several million?

Most of the people doing the battling weren't even alive when Hitler started his dreadful program, so they can't possibly know. Even at war's end, it was impossible for Supreme Allied Headquarters to do more than to estimate the fearful toll . . . what purpose does it now serve to insist that one figure is indisputably correct, or that it is inalterably wrong?

Surely if we're not willing to listen, if we're not willing to tolerate the opinions of another, no matter how stupid we may think them to be, surely it's hard to conceive any reason why he should listen to or tolerate ours. And if we won't even listen to each other, progress must be pretty slow.

Report from Parliament Hill

[illegible], M.P.

Needy Widows and Widowers to Benefit [illegible]

Needy widows and widowers aged 60-64 will benefit from changes to the Old Age Security Act presented to Parliament on January 2[illegible].

Amendments to the Old Age Security Act will extend monthly Spouse's Allowance benefits to all low-income widows and widowers in this age group. If approved by Parliament, the extended Spouse's allowance will take effect in September, 1985.

The Bill proposes that all low-income widowed persons aged 60 to 64 become eligible to receive the Spouse's Allowance, regardless of when their spouse died. The current provisions limit payment of the Allowance to spouses and widowed spouses of Guaranteed Income Supplement pensioners only. It is estimated that the cost of the September improvement is $190 million in the fiscal year 1985/86.

At the present time, approximately 94,000 spouses and widowed spouses of GIS pensioners receive monthly benefits.

Consultation Paper — Child and Elderly Benefits — [illegible]

On January 28, the government released its consultation paper on child and elderly benefits. The challenge of our government is to find ways to [illegible] the benefits from these programs more fairly without undermining the principle of universality embodied in the current Family Allowance and Old Age Security Pension programs.

The stage has been set for a constructive debate on how the government can improve systems that are already working reasonably well.

It is intended that the government will quickly refer the paper to the Standing Committee of the House of Commons on Health, Welfare and Social Affairs so that it can make arrangements to hear testimony and report back by March 31 of this year. The Minister of National Health and Welfare invites Canadians to make representations directly to him, as part of the consultation process.

With respect to the case of the elderly benefits programs the government has concluded that no change is required in the Old Age Security/Guaranteed Income Supplement benefits structure. Moreover, it has decided that the age exemption and the pension income deduction should be considered not in the narrow context of reforms to social benefits but in the broader context of comprehensive reforms to the Canadian retirement [illegible].

Ag. Week is coming

March 10 to 16 has been declared Agriculture Week in Alberta by LeRoy Fjordbotten, the minister of agriculture.

Mr Fjordbotten says the event is intended to point out the many ways in which Alberta's 57,000 farmers and the rest of the agricultural industry contribute to the well-being of the province

Not only do Albertans — like all Canadians — spend less of their incomes on food than do people living almost anywhere else, but agriculture is good business as well.

Exports of agricultural goods and food bring in $2 billion every year.

The value of the food processing industry has grown from $1 billion in 1973 to $3.9 billion in 19[illegible].

In 1984, Alberta farmers spent $1.4 billion on items like feed, fertilizer, fuel, buildings and machinery.

Because agriculture is a renewable resource, the province will continue to benefit from it, Mr Fjordbotten said.

Agriculture Week activities will include a province-wide television program, newspaper supplements, displays, special events and the induction of four people into the Agricultural Hall of Fame.

Microwaves

Microwave ovens are convenient and safe if properly maintained. According to the Health Protection Branch of Health and Welfare Canada, this means keeping door seals clean and replacing worn hinges and latches. While high levels of microwave radiation can be dangerous, levels from properly maintained ovens are considered harmless.

COSMETICS

Natural cosmetics, if they lack preservatives, may spoil sooner than synthetic brands. To avoid skin and eye irritations, the Health Protection Branch of Health and Welfare Canada advises that most cosmetics shouldn't be used if they're more than a year old.

Crocodile tears?

It's really interesting these days listening to Liberal member Herb Gray worrying over whether there is adequate consultation between the Mulroney government and the Japanese Association over the settlement which may be awarded Canadian Japanese who were forcibly separated from their holdings and their homes in the Second World War.

There may be some dispute over whether a settlement is being negotiated or whether it is being imposed, but at least the Mulroney government has gone so far as to recognize the need for some monetary return for the shameful way they were dispossessed, and frequently robbed, by high Canadian officials in the process of resettlement.

By contrast, the governments in which Mr. Gray served as a cabinet minister over many years, and several other Liberal governments before them, had nearly forty years in which they might have faced up to the need for a settlement.

And the best Mr. Grey's government could come up with? Not a monetary settlement. Not even an apology! Not though other parties urgently requested recognition of the injustice, the intolerance.

The very best the Liberal government could come up with was a formal recognition that maybe an injustice had been done.

And Mr. Grey cries now that possibly the Tories are not being sufficiently open and above board, sufficiently just, sufficiently generous. Surely crocodile tears are unbecoming to Mr. Grey.

4-H offers bursary

A new 4-H scholarship of $800, sponsored by the Lilydale Co-operative, will be awarded annually beginning in 19[illegible].

Tymen Donkersgoed, chairman of the board of the Lilydale Co-operative Association, and Ted Youck, head of the 4-H branch of Alberta Agriculture, announced the scholarship in January.

The Lilydale Co-operative scholarship will be awarded to one present or former Alberta 4-H member who has completed at least three years in 4-H and shown leadership qualities and interest in community activities. It is open to second year students enrolled in any degree program at any Alberta college or university.

Each year the 4-H branch awards $19,350 in scholarships to 28 4-H members. These awards are provided by individuals, provincial and national organizations, and Alberta Agriculture. 4-H scholarships assist members in furthering their education in a variety of fields.

For more information about scholarships available through the 4-H branch, please contact your district home economist or regional 4-H specialist.

[illegible], Alberta Agriculture's personal development specialist, can also provide applications. Her address is: 4-H Branch, J G O'Donoghue Bldg., 7000-113 Street, Edmonton, T6H 5T6.

See a leaf . . . and cherish it

"In twenty years, this planet will support six billion people, half as many again as there are today. The energy to sustain this multitude must come almost entirely from the sun, through the chemical factories of plants. Look around at the world and where you see a leaf, cherish it. Every leaf is a tiny trap to catch the energy of the sun and channel it into the cycle of life that forms the biosphere. We must all become gardeners, with the whole earth our garden. We must tend every part of the land. We must shepherd every type of beast, because we are a part of the world, and if the world dies, we cannot survive."

[illegible]

There is something I notice about those alluringly decorated, heart-shaped boxes of chocolates that make their appearance in time for Valentine's Day. They always arrive on the store shelves at the same time that many of us are pledging ourselves to a life of lo-cal eating. I'm sure there must be a conspiracy afoot and if I ever find out who is behind it, I'm going to stuff them with chocolate until they turn green. (It's probably Jane Fonda, Linda Evans and Victoria Principal, with help from Cheryl Tiegs.)

Everyone knows that Valentine's Day and especially those beautifully boxed chocolates are designed to turn us all into sentimental fools (chubby, sentimental fools), which is why they were outlawed around here long ago. For those who don't care for or are allergic to chocolate, those fancy boxes calling "Try it, you'll love it" from their shelves mean nothing. To those of us with a low tolerance for such goodies (we can't resist them and, like a junkie badly in need of a fix come close to overdosing on [illegible] we get a taste [illegible] ly. Any chocolates given me on Valentine's Day will be eaten by the children which is probably why they are always telling me how great the boxes look on the store shelves. I answer that since they look so good there they can stay there because they would certainly look far less attractive on my hips.

Fortunately it is not necessary to show those we love that we care by buying edibles containing more calories than an entire Weight Watchers weekly menu. I much prefer the non-edible [illegible] my spirits and make me wonder about their sense of humor ("Roses are red, violets are blue, I'd pay money for a mom like you."). If a gift is necessary, I'll even accept kitchen appliances.

That's how I got my wok and a new electric can opener when the old one passed away from battle fatigue. (Can openers, like chocolates, have a short life span in this household.)

Luckily, everyone abides by the 'no chocolates' rule. Otherwise can openers and [illegible] wouldn't be the only things with a short life span [illegible] here.

ADC names two directors

The appointments of Jacques Dargis and Gerald Parlby as Directors of the Alberta Agricultural Development Corporation were announced today by J. Harold Hanna, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of ADC.

The appointments are for a three-year term and commenced on January 1st.

Jacques Dargis of St. Vincent joins ADC's Board of Directors with over 35 years of farming experience and community involvement. [illegible] union president for ten years [illegible] cent Rural Electrification Association for twelve years — one of the first REAs in Alberta. During the past five years he has been chairman of the M.D. of Bonnyville Agricultural Development [illegible].

In addition to his new responsibilities, Dargis remains active in his parish council and as an Alberta Pork Producers Marketing Board [illegible].

Gerald Parlby of Sherwood Park is presently a member of the Planning Secretariat, Alberta Agriculture. Mr Parlby has a rural background, completed his grade 12 in Alix, Alberta, and obtained his masters degree in Agriculture from the University of Alberta in 1977.

Since joining Alberta Agriculture in 1961, he has gained wide experience as a District Agriculturist, a Resource Economist, Branch Head of the Resource Economics Branch and as a member of the Planning Secretariat. Mr Parlby served for nine years as a member of the Alberta Planning [illegible].

He is active in church and community affairs. As an employee of Alberta Agriculture and a Director of ADC, Mr Parlby will play an important role in enhancing full and open communication between the two organizations.

ADC offers supplementary financing for developing and established agricultural enterprises in Alberta.

Since 1980 when ADC became a primary lender to beginning farmers, the corporation has become known as a reliable source of direct financing to new entrants into farming and to established producers with limited assets and net worth. ADC's direct and guaranteed loan portfolio [illegible] $1.1 billion.

Minor hockey's results

The past week was another good one for teams in the Tofield minor hockey program.

Peewee Tournament

Tofield earned the runners-up trophy when they participated in a tournament in Lamont.

Tofield opened tournament action by doubling the host center 8-4 and then bounced Redwater 12-2 before losing 6-3 to Evansdale in the championship game.

Mighty Mites

Wolverines went to Beaumont on Saturday and returned home with an 8-3 victory with Ralph Scott and Aaron Bertling taking care of the scoring.

Badgers picked up a 5-3 triumph in Beaumont when they got goals from Cameron Stauffer, Sheldon Blacklock, Scott Kondrat and Brent Harley.

Atom

Torpedoes went to a tournament in Lamont where they lost twice, 3-2 to Andrew and 7-3 to Fort Saskatchewan.

In league action, Torpedoes edged Fort Saskatchewan 7-6 and battled New Sarepta to a 3-3 draw.

Pee Wee

Bloomers will be hosting Elk Point on Thursday at 7:45 p.m. in the Tofield Arena in provincial playoffs.

The first game in the total-goal series was played in Elk Point on Friday with the home team winning 7-6.

Bantam

Ti-Kats were whipped 17-1 by Kitscoty in the opening game of provincial playdowns and because of the goal spread, a second game won't be played.

In league play, Ti-Kats were beaten by Ardrossan by a 4-3 score.

The 'A' team whipped Ardrossan 10-3 and battled Mundare to a 7-7 tie in an exhibition contest.

An all star team is to be formed, under the direction of Lawrence Rude, to compete in the Northern Alberta Winter Games in St. Paul.

Midget

Midgets will be hosting Lamont this evening (Wednesday) in the second game of a total goal series in provincial playdowns. Lamont won the first game at home.

1980 Chemical Update

I recently called all the major chemical reps together for a meeting with elevator managers, agri-business and extension agents. The following are some highlights from the meeting.

Treflan EC

This product has now been registered for use on barley — fall applied. There are no problems with all varieties and there is very little barley thinning in overlaps.

Bantal SE

A new plastic jug which treats 20 acres is the new container for Bactril M. It is now also freezable so it doesn't need heated storage — this can be a real plus in our frigid country!

Avenge and Glean

This powerful tank mix should be used in the later stages of growth as less antagonism between the two chemicals will occur.

The best time (approximately — depending on weather conditions), to spray Avenge is about 21 days after seeding. Many problems with avenge come from spraying too early.

Poast

This contact systemic herbicide gets the grassy weeds, millet and wild oats. A new registration is pending for alfalfa, lentils, peas and or-

Poast's activity is not affected by rainfall within one hour of application. It is licensed for aerial application

Curtain

This plant growth regulator from Allied has just received registration for Johnston, Galt, Bedford and Bonanza barley. It helps to keep straw shorter and stronger (-6.4 inches shorter) and thus helps prevent lodging

Carbyne EC and Avenge

These two wild oat herbicides can now be mixed for wild oat control up to the 4 leaf stage. Two jugs of Avenge to 1 pail of Carbyne EC will treat about 50 acres. Use 5-7 gal/ac of water, 45 psi, 3-4 leaf stage of wild oats, and the nozzles angled 45° forward

Granular Bantal 10G

This new granular is meant to treat small acreages. It stays in the soil for about one year and is effective against Canada Thistle and brush species. A one pound shaker will do about 200 square feet

Conclusion

These are just a few of the new things which will be on the market for this spring. Remember to always READ THE LABEL for specific instructions. I'd be happy to discuss any questions on chemicals or a chemical program for your operation which you may have.

Bye for now.

Palmer-Earling news

On Feb. 4 Jot Toole marked his 79th birthday when neighbors came in the morning for a coffee party. In the afternoon he joined 20 others at Rowbowmee for floor curling, all sang happy birthday and a cake was presented.

Billy and Rosanna Beaun were Monday visitors near Tofield with Glenn Beaun's.

The Ben LCW met Wednesday with Mrs. Marilyn Lajeard when nine were present for the Bible study led by Mrs. Ron Bratrud. It was decided to continue to give to the Bible a month Society and also to some of the month. Next meeting will be held March 13 with Mrs. Marilyn Bratrud at 1 p.m.

Around the town

David and Margaret Beese returned to Tofield last week from a visit to Guatemala, Central South America, to see their daughter, son-in-law and grandchildren. They are involved in missionary work there. Son-in-law Tom is a graduate of agricultural school and is teaching the natives the art of making cement blocks with which they intend to build their own church.

Daughter, Esther keeps busy helping in the medical clinic and teaching her own children by correspondence

Security deposits are often landlord-versus tenant battlegrounds. Learn the rules of the game so you don't lose your deposit when you move out.

One common dispute is over what damage was done by the tenant and what damage existed when the tenant moved in. Such disagreements are hard to solve but can be prevented. Contact the Landlord and Tenant Advisory Board and ask for an Accommodation Inspection Report form. Before you move in, walk through the apartment with your landlord, inspecting the premises and filling out the "before" part of the form. Make note of that chipped bathtub and those cigarette burns in the rug. Be thorough! The time you spend will save money and disagreements later. Both you and your landlord should sign the form and keep a copy. When you move out, go through the apartment with your landlord again and fill in the "after" column. The completed form will provide an accurate record of the damage that occurred during your [redacted].

[redacted] spect the premises, ask someone to check the apartment with you and help you fill out the form. You'll then have witness as to the condition of the apartment.

The Alberta Landlord and Tenant Act says that a [redacted] tions for "normal wear and tear," but what is normal [redacted] opinions. Who would you side with in this case? A couple lived in an apartment for eight years. When they moved out the landlord deducted money from their deposit for cleaning the drapes and painting the walls. The couple had washed the walls and vacuumed the drapes periodically during their stay. In their opinion the cleaning and repainting required when they moved out were what should normally be expected after eight years of careful living. The landlord [redacted]

Then there's the guy who had a special place in his heart — and his apartment — for his motorcycle. He happily pushed his bike down his hallway each day and parked it in the living room near the TV set. He complained when the landlord deducted money from his deposit for excessive wear and oil stains on the carpet. Who's right in this case?

The Act does not define "normal wear and tear". The parties involved must come to an agreement. However, there are some community standards. Most reasonable people, for example, would side with the tenants in the first case cited and the landlord in the second.

If you and your landlord cannot reach an agreement, contact the Landlord and Tenant Advisory Board. The Board will try to mediate a solution. Although the Board cannot force the landlord to return your deposit, most landlords abide by its advice. If there is no Board in your municipality, contact the nearest regional office of Alberta Consumer and Corporate Affairs.

If the landlord still refuses to return your deposit, you may sue him. Go to Small Claims Court if the amount you are seeking is $2,000 or less. You don't need a lawyer. You just tell the court what happened yourself. Information and the forms required are available at the Small Claims Court Clerk's Office. It costs $4.00 to sue for the return of a security deposit.

Holden and district news

by Mrs. G.S. Taylor

On February 8th ladies from Holden Lodge Order of the Royal Purple visited with Viking Lodge at their regular meeting, taking the travelling gavel with them which was presented by HRL Mary Semotiuk to HRL Myrtle Tiedemann. The Holden members visiting were HRL Semotiuk, PHRL's Kathleen Hurum and Helen Bilyk and Ladies Kate Nichols, Lonnie Mason, Helen Stecyk, Mary Hardy and Ethel Brekstad.

The concert scheduled for Friday evening by Emporium, a group from Calgary, in the Beaver Arts Centre, was cancelled due to very bad weather and road conditions.

Mrs. Bertha Nohr of Edmonton, while calling on friends recently in the district, was a visitor with her aunt, Mrs. Sergina Sizer, a resident in Viking Extendicare Nursing Home. Also calling on Mrs. Sizer was her sister, a former Holdenite, Mrs. Nine Dutour (nee Ritland) of Vancouver, B.C.

Mrs. Bertha Chetney has had her daughter Helen from Vancouver, B.C. visiting with her for several days, to attend her mother's 90th birthday celebration on Feb. 5th.

[redacted] family at Viking Nursing Home were Senja, Laurie, Kathy and Reuben Laube with Adolph Laube and Nick and Pearl Shihinski visited with their uncle, Alex Shihinski.

Mrs. Irene Olsen is home after spending the past several weeks visiting with family and friends in Kelowna, B.C.

Mrs. Beth Campbell received the happy news last week that she had a new great-grandson, that her grandson Jim Campbell and his wife Carol of Toronto had been receiving congratulations on the birth of their second child. Jim is the youngest son of Marjorie and Ken Campbell of Leduc.

Mrs. Nancy Harasymchuk, a long-time resident of the [redacted] passed away on Feb. 1st at the age of 86 years in St. Michael's Nursing Home in Edmonton where she has been for over the past year. She leaves to mourn her passing, two sons, Bill of Edmonton and Walter of Holden, five grandchildren and one sister, Mary in the Ukraine. She was predeceased by her husband, Steve and a brother, Bill Faryna.

Divine Liturgy was celebrated on Feb. 6th in St. Mary's Ukrainian Catholic Church, South Holden, with Father Richard Zuback being the celebrant. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Clare Anderson and Mrs. Frances Hanson were Saturday afternoon visitors in Viking.

Mr. and Mrs. Selma Fields of the Bruce District were in Holden on Thursday of last week to attend the 90th birthday celebration of a long-time friend, Mrs. Bertha Chetney.

On Thursday, the Ladies of Holden LCW held an open house in the Senior Citizen's Drop-In Centre in honor of one of the long-time member's of the Lutheran Church congregation, Mrs. Bertha Chetney, who was celebrating her 90th birthday, with over 40 neighbours, friends and relatives gathering.

Seated at the head table with the guest of honor was her daughter, Helen of Vancouver and a niece, Mrs. Wade of Camrose. The table was centered with a basket of fresh flowers from ladies of the LCW and a decorated birthday cake. A short program of recitations was given before the ladies served lunch and birthday cake. Many congratulatory messages were received from the Governor-General, Mdme. Sauve of Ottawa, Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, Hon. Don Mazankowski, M.P., Premier Peter Lougheed and John Batiuk, MLA. Mrs. Chetney is a pioneer resident of the Holden District, coming to Canada in 1907 with an aunt and uncle.

Spilstead news

by Shea Fisher

On February 5, the Spilstead Community League held its monthly meeting. The success of the last card party was discussed and a decision made to hold another one on Feb. 23 at 7:30 p.m.

There will be a cleanup/work day at the Hall on Saturday at 1 p.m. Everyone is asked to come prepared to work.

On February 24, there will be a candlelight church parade at Spilstead Hall to [redacted] Baden Powell week for Guiding and Scouting. The service conducted by Rev. Dahlen will be followed by a family and son and daughter pot-luck supper.

The Community League finally has a full slate of officers with Morris Helmig taking on the position of president.

Plans are already in progress for this summer's activities with the annual slowpitch tournament being planned for August 17 and 18. The date was moved up to this date so as not to coincide with the Lindbrook tournament. On this subject, the Community League would like the names of someone from the other communities of the area, so that they can keep in touch to know what functions they are holding.

Anyone wishing to do this, please contact me at 663-3752.

Wheat Board will hold Camrose meet

A district meeting of the Canadian Wheat Board is to be held in Camrose next week.

The meeting has been scheduled for Feb. 21st in the Norsemen Motor Inn and will get underway at ten o'clock in the morning.

This session is one of twelve that has been scheduled for the Prairie provinces, on the current winter tour.

The morning session will include a review of sales, prices and transportation and will be followed by a question and answer period.

The afternoon session will begin with a briefing on the operations of the Canadian International Grains Institute and will be followed by a film commissioned for the 50th anniversary of the Canadian Wheat Board.

The Board will have a direct hook-up with the computer in Winnipeg to call up immediate information concerning prices, weather, transportation and permit books.

During coffee breaks and at the end of each session, Board Commissioners and staff members will be available for informal discussions.

The Mercury

Legion inducts members

by Joan Murray

The Tofield Legion held their initiation of new members on Thursday night.

Randy Murray was initiated as an associate member, Marvin Sawyniuk and Joan Murray were welcomed as fraternal members. Constable Glen Elsner was officially recognized as a transfer member.

In other business that evening, it was reported that the Legion donated a trophy for the most sportsmanlike team for the minor hockey tournament, held over the weekend.

The Monday Night Pool Club donated $250 to the Legion for the purchase of more chairs and another $250 to buy a new dispenser for the bar.

The proceeds from the car raffles held over the past two years is held in a special interest bearing account that will be used to furnish rooms in the new hospital, once it has been completed. Any interest earned on this account, which now totals about $30,000, will remain as a donation for the same purpose.

Applications for membership for Ken Brown and Ron Tokarek were submitted and approved.

The building committee has been directed to investigate the cost and methods available for repairing the leaks in the Legion Hall roof.

A request from the Tofield Scout movement to hold their annual father and son banquet in the Hall on February 24th was approved.

The Legion will once again host the pancake breakfast for the Sodbuster Rosdeo, scheduled for the last weekend in May.

Erickson wins

by Joan Murray

Randy Erickson's rink of Tofield emerged with top honours when the annual farmers bonspiel was staged in Tofield.

Time for fitness is time on Your Side.

The bonspiel took place on Sunday (Feb. 3rd) with championship contests being staged in three events.

Members of the championship rink, in addition to Erickson included Gordon Schmidt, Ron Teske and Pat Donnan.

The runner-up team was the Bill Shyba quartet from Holden.

The Armand Goubault rink from Tofield took the top spot in the B Event when they defeated Lyle Heiberg.

Dale Wiemes of Ryley skipped his rink to the winners circle in the C Event. The Don Swift rink of Tofield were the runners-up.

Mixed Fun Last Week

The Snowmobile Poker Rally held last Sunday proved to be a successful event. Pat Paterson and Baden Bowerman were at the hall, the starting point for 48 registered entries. Check point one was manned by Darlene Brost, Glena Ferguson, Verdun Sears and Carol Dekinder were at the North Cooking Lake, South Cooking Lake and Lakeview check points.

A concession with Edna Ferguson and Margaret Jenko as operators was open from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. for the hungry contestants and others who dropped in for hamburgers, hot dogs, home-made pies, which were donated, coffee, juice or hot chocolate.

The lady snowmobile operators predominated as prize winners. Virginia Kienas was first prize winner Mrs. D. Warwa came in second and Rita Loch was third prize winner.

A second rally is scheduled for Feb. 24th from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The dance that was to be on March 9 has been cancelled.

Dieting practices continue at the Crafts Centre on Saturday afternoons from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

The January meeting of the Crafts Centre was held and despite a cold evening it was well attended. The Centre finds itself in a good financial condition with the wheat drives held every second Friday evening of each month, helping boost the finances. Frank Dunham acted as chairman in the absence of Glena Ferguson. He will see about having a photography course at the Centre.

The next wheat drive will be on Feb. 15th. All prizes for these have been donated to date. After the meeting, Lil Leach served lunch to all present. George and Joan Kienascheuk attended the old time fiddlers' contest and dance held in the Cardiff Hall last Friday evening.

Mrs. Effie Nasichuk, who spent a month in Tofield Hospital, having undergone surgery, was able to come home on Saturday.

Okay, so your car won't be discovered centuries from now, a perfectly preserved specimen, but there is much you can do to give it a long and healthy life. The science of car preservation is a three-part process: buying, maintaining and driving.

First, read a car buying guide before you buy. It has test information that you cannot possibly acquire through your own means. The list of reliable car buying guides includes:

— Consumer Reports Buying Guide Issue Consumers Union of the United States.

— Canadian Automobile Association Used Car Buyer's Guide. Available from the Alberta Motor Association Consumer Information Service.

— Consumer Guide. 1984 Cars and Consumer Guide Import Car Buying Guide. Publications International Limited.

The next step in car preservation is maintenance. The May, 1984 issue of Consumer Reports included an article entitled, "How to Keep Your Car Almost Forever." Quotations concerning car maintenance were answered by 3,300 readers, all of whom had owned their cars for at least eight years and 160,000 miles.

Surprisingly, these car connoisseurs didn't pamper their autos. Most of the cars were driven year round, in all weather conditions.

They didn't spend a bundle for upkeep either. Forty-four percent who did either their own oil changes or tuneups spent only $501 to $1,500 in maintenance costs.

Their secret to lengthy longevity? You guessed it — simple preventive maintenance, the auto doctor's term of holistic medicine.

An ongoing maintenance routine should include:

Weekly — Check all fluid levels and tire pressure.

Monthly — Check tires, belts and hoses for wear, battery electrolyte and transmission fluid level.

Yearly — Replace air filters, check brake drums, battery cables.

Change the lubricants at an interval suitable to the conditions under which you drive. The change interval stated in your owner's manual is estimated for a car driven under ideal conditions: long trips, highway driving, moderate speeds and temperatures.

Learn to diagnose your car yourself. As you drive, occasionally check the warning lights and respond promptly to any malfunction. Don't ignore strange noises or a change in handling response, such as chirping brakes, a knocking or pinging engine, or a front end shimmy.

The third step to giving your car a long life is to drive it sanely. Erratic driving, "jack rabbit" starts and constant lane-changing cause excessive wear of engine and chassis. Even the seemingly "safe" condition of slow city driving takes its toll.

It may seem startling, but according to Robert Sikorsky, author of Your Key to Long Automobile Life: Drive It Forever (McGraw-Hill, 1983), 90 to 95 percent of engine wear occurs during the first 10 seconds in the starting of a car. Sikorsky says that even starting a cooling car after a long trip just to move it a few feet results in wear equal to that of a 500 mile trip.

For more car maintenance information and trivia, read some good books. Here are two that can be found in book stores and libraries:

Automobile Repair for Dummies, by Deanna Sclar (McGraw-Hill, 1982).

The Car Book, by Jack Gillis (E.P. Dutton Inc., 1984).

Alberta Career Centre

by Marion Dudley
Career Counselor, Camrose

Decision-making. Does the mere thought of making a decision put a knot in your stomach, make you break out in a cold sweat? How do you deal with making a decision? With ease and confidence, or do you want others to make it for you? Or do you totally avoid it by making no decision whatsoever?

Decision-making is a skill and involves a certain amount of risk-taking. That can be pretty scary if you have a hard time coping with mistakes. But, like any skill, decision-making can be learned, and it improves with practice. And it's a very valuable skill that you can teach and encourage your children to use.

Kids and Careers, a free Alberta Manpower publication, points out that if children are encouraged to make decisions of increasing importance throughout childhood, they will have a greater chance of being able to make effective education, training and career decisions when they reach their teens.

How can you help your children? First by helping yourself. Learning and understanding the decision-making process and applying it to your own life is a good place to start. This process is:

1. Identify the situation requiring decision
2. Discover the alternatives— what choices are available
3. Gather information about each alternative.
4. Weigh the pros and cons of each alternative— which choice closely meets your wants and needs.
5. Make the decision.
6. Plan how to put the decision into action.

Making a decision gives you a result. It is not a guaranteed, good result but by following these steps you will help eliminate snags and increase the chances of a good result happening.

Giving your children this skill is invaluable. Not only can they use it for career planning, it can be used in many other areas of their lives.

Go ahead, take a risk. Let them choose the gifts they give friend and family (who ever said this was going to be easy?); Or how about letting them choose what clothes to wear during the day (this is getting worse; or let them choose the menu for their own birthday party (I can just imagine). Encourage your children to make the best decisions they can after they consider all the facts they know.

KIDS AND CARRERS has several more tips for parents and they're not all quite as earth shattering For this booklet and other free pamphlets related to choosing an occupation, please drop in to the Alberta Career Centre located in the basement of the Provincial Building, 4807 - 50 Street Camrose or phone 679-1275 and we will mail your request out.

Branch Line Inquiry
Invitation For Briefs

The Canadian Transport Commission has been required by the Government of Canada to inquire into and explore options and alternatives, including the short-line concept, for rail branch lines affected by abandonment for the purpose of providing the most effective, efficient and reliable rail transportation system at minimum cost.

Interested persons and organizations are invited to submit a brief to this inquiry and are to advise the Commission before March 1, 1985, of their intention to do so. This will allow time for the Inquiry to provide for further consultations prior to the deadline of June 30, 1985.

Any person wishing to make a submission should obtain and consult the Order-in-Council and Terms of Reference for the Inquiry. Copies of these documents may be obtained by writing or phoning collect to the Commission in Saskatoon at (306) 975-5201. The Inquiry will be restricted to those matters established in the Order in Council and the accompanying Terms of Reference.

All communications concerning the Inquiry should be addressed to Mr R.W. Lebell, Inquiry Secretary, Canadian Transport Commission, 350 Third Avenue, North, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan S7K 6G7.

I'M NOT JUST FEBRUARY

With winds that blow
All day and piled-up snow;
I'm Washington and Lincoln, too
Who keep our country's flag for you,
I'm Edison, the Wizard of Electricity.
I'm brave Susan B. Anthony
And admired Frances Willard's
Heavenly Birthday
I'm Valentine of airy grace,
With golden hearts and hearts of lace,
And pretty cards that people send
Quite as a secret to a friend.
Though I'm short of days and small,
I'm quite a big month after all.
No wonder I'm a Proud Month!

Just for fun

by Jane Mahony

Romance is a strange and sentimental heart tearing situation that takes many forms throughout life. A little girl starts out feeling that a little boy's gift of a small green frog shoved lovingly down the back is a sign that he likes her, although she goes through agony and terror as she screams "I hate you!" a hundred times over.

As she grows older frogs turn into huge wallops on the shoulder from the class sweetheart, a gangly high spirited young man who speeds away, flitting from girl to girl thumping as he goes. The Bittersweet pain of love first shows when twelve year old boys will go "ga ga" over reptiles and various species of insects and can't stand the sight of a beribboned young lady all primped and curled feeling the first soft glow of impending womanhood.

That too changed to the inevitable terrible torment of competitive romance called dating. In Junior High School it becomes a contest of who can collect the most names in their diary of events. It seems simple and full of fun to the older generation but to one who is not "with it," those days are filled with agonizing pain.

"Time heals all" or so it seems, but the serious days of young adulthood finds one transformed into a rather confident young person who, although she doesn't know it, has suddenly come to the age old quest for a compatible mate, and after multi false alarms, falls in love and gets married (legal or otherwise) and is supposed to live happily ever after.

That's how the Fairy tales go, but no book ever goes beyond that point which leads people to believe that the romance has ended. Fear not, all you who have not yet made a choice, because in reality it is only the beginning, one just has to work a little harder at it, . . . that's all.

Hay Lakes district news

by Mrs. E. [illegible]

Word has been received of the death of Carl Hendrickson in California on Oct. 11, 1984 at the age of 91 years. He will be remembered as one of the early teachers at the Ellswick and Rosen Hill schools.

Carl is survived by his wife, Edith, one daughter, Eloise O'Hern; three grandchildren and four great grandchildren, four brothers — Martin, George, Elmer and Lawrence Hendrickson; three sisters, Olianna Hong, Inga Teig and Thea Young.

His remains were interred with those of his first wife, Florence and infant son, Robert, in the Mausoleum at Forest Lawn, Glendale, Calif.

Despite the extremely cold weather 22 children attended the games afternoon and film sponsored by the Municipal Library. Another special afternoon is planned for Feb 16 with games in the hall basement from 1 to 2 p.m. followed by a Walt Disney film in the Library. Everyone is welcome to attend.

[illegible] are the parents of a second son, born at St. Mary's Hospital on Feb. 6, weighing 5 lbs. 11 oz. He is another grandchild for Robert and Agnes Patterson of Kingman and [illegible] of Hay Lakes.

Family members and friends gathered at the home of Harry and Mary Sych in Camrose on Feb. 5. They came to honor Mary on the occasion of her 85th birthday.

The Hay Lakes and District Recreation Association placed a large new refrigerator in the kitchen at the Rec Center last week. The Rec Association has also applied for a government grant to assist with installing bathroom facilities and a picnic area at the local ball park.

Edward Knopp Passes

A former resident of the district, Edward Knopp passed away on Jan. 31 at the age of 84 years. He is survived by his wife Anna, one daughter Rosalie Grams of Hay Lakes, three sons, Arnold and Eddie of Calgary, Reinhold of Red Deer; one step-daughter, Carol of Red Deer; 19 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren. He was predeceased by his wife Ida in 1940 and his second wife, Loba, in 1974.

Funeral services were held on Feb. 5 at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Hay Lakes with Rev. Paul Roellchen-Pfohl officiating. Gordon Olso sang a solo during the service. Bertha and Georg Roper and Alice Lachman also sang a hymn. Ruby Yoner was the organist.

Mr. Knopp's six nephews were the pallbearers, Art Roth, Lawrence Lede, August Knopp, Helmut Roth, Herbert Lede and Art Soch. Interment was at Our Savior's Cemetery.

Edward farmed in the Hay Lakes district from 1920 until his retirement to Camrose in 1965. Until his recent illness he continued to attend services at Our Savior Church in Hay Lakes throughout the years.

Valentine Variety

Valentine's Day presents the perfect opportunity for lighthearted expressions of love and friendship. Whether the object of your affection is a child of two or a grandparent of 82, they will enjoy one of the thoughtful ideas below.

Heart-Shape Cupcakes — use your favorite cupcake recipe. Place paper baking cups in a muffin tin and put a marble or small ball of foil in each cup between liner and pan. This makes a heart shape mold. Pour batter into cups, but not too full or you lose the heart shape effect.

Photo Valentine — this is a special treat for grandparents. Have children decorate a red construction paper heart. Cut out a heart shape from the middle of the valentine. Glue a recent picture of the child in the heart shape. A collection of these valentines can be saved over the years.

Heart Cake without a Special Pan — you'll need a nine-inch round cake pan and a ten-inch square pan. Bake, cool and remove cake from pans as usual. Place square cake diamond fashion on a large platter. Cut the round cake in half. Place each half with cut side next to the square side. You may need to trim corners. This creates a large heart. Frost with white frosting and make a border around the top. Fill with cherry pie filling.

To keep cake from rising higher in the middle while baking, place wet paper towels in narrow strips around outside edge of cake pan. The outside edge will cook slower, resulting in a flat cake.

Vegreville drops out

. . . of Beaverhill

The Beaverhill Hockey League was reduced by one team last week when Vegreville announced that it would not be completing the season.

Mired in fifth place and on ten-game losing streak which saw defeats turn into lop-sided thumpings, Vegreville decided to pack it in for the balance of the season as they were having extreme difficulties in obtaining enough players to ice a team.

Lamont is extending its lead for the pennant while Mundare and Redwater could battle it out for second spot although Tofield could still finish higher than fourth.

Neither Redwater or Tofield are in contention for first place and Holden can't make the playoffs.

Tofield played in Holden last night with results not available and will be reported next week.

Holden will be at home to Mundare on Friday while Tofield will host Redwater on Tuesday and Holden will go to Lamont.

Lamont moved a step closer to clinching the pennant last week when they picked up three wins to extend its unbeaten streak to sixteen games.

Lamont whipped Tofield 5-1, bombed Holden 17-8 and then edged Redwater 5-4 in a game that was originally scheduled for this coming Friday evening.

In the only other two games that were played last week, Mundare blanked Vegreville 16-0 while Redwater stopped Holden 11-6 and Redwater picked up a win by default over Vegreville.

A game between Mundare and Tofield was postponed because of provincial playoffs.

Three other postponed games, in Mundare, Tofield and Lamont must be played and at presstime, dates for those contests were not available.

IN MEMORIAM

McKINNON— In loving memory of our son and brother William George (Bill) who passed away Feb 17 1984
You didn't have time to say goodbye
[illegible]
But when we saw you sleeping
So peaceful and free from pain
We could not wish you back
To suffer that again
— Lovingly and sadly missed by Dad Mom brothers and sisters 23p 7620

IN LOVING MEMORY of Melvin Olson who passed away Feb 14 1980
Thy will be done seems hard to say
When one we loved has passed away
But some day we will understand
When we meet again in that better land
Sadly missed by Irene Dennis Linda Michelle & Bradley Leo Carol Dean & Shannon Tom Linda Erin & Ryan Noel Marlene Tasha Nicole & Kelly 23p 7616

LEMKO— In loving memory of our dear husband father and grandfather John, who passed away Feb 17/1981
Nothing can be more beautiful
Than the memory we have of you
To us you were someone special
And God must have thought so too — Always loved and sadly missed by wife Jean Jerrold & Anita Sharon & Allen Cathy & Jamie, grandchildren Jonathon Shawn & Julie 23c 9173

Schools are closed

... by strike

Schools in the County of Beaver are closed after a teachers' strike went into effect yesterday (Tuesday) morning.

Although negotiations are apparently continuing, there are indications that the strike could be a lengthy one as both sides appear to have taken firm stands.

Teachers are seeking a two percent pay increase for the 1984 portion of the contract and an additional three percent for the 1985 part of a two-year deal.

School officials have come up with a new offer which now has them go from a zero increase in the first year to one percent and a three percent pay hike in '86.

Although only the '84 portion of the contract seems to be still in dispute, both sides appear to be firm and at last report, aren't willing to budge from their current stands.

Negotiators for the teachers have indicated that they are willing to submit to binding arbitration but so far, trustees have rejected this proposal.

A total of approximately 9,300 students in fifty-one schools are affected by the walkout of the 600 teachers.

In addition to the County of Beaver, other schools are closed in the Counties of Flagstaff, Minburn and Lamont along with School Divisons in Wainwright and Provost.

All of the schools involved belong to the Fla Inland School Authorities Association

Rescue bags obtained

by Joan Murray

Two weeks ago a pair of high pressure air rescue bags arrived at the Tofield Fire Department.

One small bag expands to a height of eight inches and lifts 12 tons while the larger one reaches a height of 11 inches and supports 22 tons.

The Department purchased this equipment from a firm in Vancouver for slightly less than $2,000. Assistant Fire Chief, John Bauman said it is one of the biggest purchases they have made in a long time. The funds came from donations from community groups and fund-raising events.

Bauman said that there is much potential use for this equipment with the rail line running through town, the vast amount of agricultural equipment that is used in this area and the constant flow of vehicle traffic on Highway 14. He felt it was a wise investment if it saved even one life.

The air bags, constructed from three layers of steel wire with a neoprene cover, are similar to the make-up of a radial tire.

In the past, when victims were trapped under heavy equipment or vehicles, the machinery had to be lifted manually or the rescue team had to improvise from materials available, which can take up considerable time.

Air rescue bags have many uses for a variety of situations.

Some applications are stabilizing overturned vehicles, separating rollers in conveyors or similar equipment when a limb is trapped, raising support beams in collapsed buildings, prying elevator doors open, as well as to seal leaks in tanks containing dangerous or other liquids.

They are useful in construction accidents for lifting heavy machinery in soft terrain.

This piece of equipment is also used by rescue squads in Civil Defence and the military forces.

Holden seeks drainage aid

... from the county

by Joan Murray

Holden Mayor Kevin Stambaugh and Councillor Ken Sharpe attended the County of Beaver Council meeting on Thursday to present a proposal to improve the drainage course in the Holden area and eliminate some long-standing problems of back-flooding of private properties in the vicinity.

The Village of Holden has been involved with a sewage lagoon project and had made some necessary improvements to the drainage course, up to a certain point.

County Dev-lopment Officer, Victor Istace, said that he attended a meeting of the Holden Council recently and felt that the county would gain from additional ditching.

The Department of Environment would contribute 75% of the estimated $30,000 cost it would take to complete this improvement project. The Village of Holden is asking that the county contribute 100% of the balance.

This project is subject to the approval of the Department of Environment and any others who may be affected by it. It will be necessary to have agreements for easements signed by the property owners involved.

The Village of Holden agreed to license the project and be responsible for future maintenance.

Although this topic was tabled for further study, Council did agree that there has been a long standing problem in this area and would like to see it resolved.

In a report given by the County Fire Chief Bob Larose, it was noted that the Village of Ryley Fire Department is taking steps to appoint a new fire chief to replace Chief Reid who resigned on Feb. 13th.

Larose has been busy taking an inventory of all the fire halls in the county to evaluate equipment levels at each location. The information will be used to spot deficiencies and needed equipment will be purchased as funds allow.

Tofield Mayor Charlie Sears and Ed Regehr, Town of Tofield representative of the Regional Waste Management Authority, were present to request financial assistance with the purchase of additional land needed to erect a transfer site at Tofield.

Councillors voted 4-3 to not participate in the purchase of the land for the Tofield transfer site.

Three gravel tenders and ten engineering service tenders were received and opened. Acceptance of the successful bidders was tabled for further investigation by administration.

A committee consisting of Councillor Don Monaghan, Development Officer Victor Istace and County Administrator Garth Bancroft was formed to review these tenders.

County Tax Assessor, Derek Lynch presented information on the status of outstanding property taxes within the county.

At the present time, there is about 13% outstanding for the entire county with the highest percentage being 65% in the Hamlet of Bruce and area. The acreage properties are next in line with 43-47% and the highest area with outstanding farm taxes is located directly south of Holden.

Lynch will be keeping track on a monthly basis where the levy stands. This information is used in preparation for the 1986 tax sale which is scheduled for March 13th.

Holden gets grant

The Holden and District Agricultural Society recently received a grant in the amount of $7,500 from the Recreation, Parks and Wildlife Foundation.

The grant was provided to assist in the purchase of the compressor which was installed last winter in the cooling system in the Arena.

The Recreation, Parks and Wildlife Foundation receives funds from donations, bequests and gifts from individuals, organizations and the Western Canada Lottery Foundation, Alberta section.

The operating costs of the Foundation are now funded by a portion of the Revenue received from the Alberta Division of the Western Canada Lottery Foundation and by an Alberta Government grant.

The objectives of the Foundation are to provide grants to any organization or person for projects that will develop or maintain recreational programs, facilities or services, develop or maintain parks or manage and conserve fish and wildlife.

Tots, teachers, trustees

Some 9,300 pupils are out of school this week (and how much longer?) in 51 schools in the Elk Island Regional School bargaining authority, of which the County of Beaver and the County of Flagstaff are parts.

That means that pupils in Tofield, Ryley, Holden, Viking, Daysland, Killam, and many other areas, will be out of school until the strike is settled.

About 500 teachers are involved in the process, whereby they rejected the latest offer of the school boards, amounting to a zero increase for 1984, followed by a three percent increase for 1985. Teachers want two percent for 1984, and three percent for 1985. In most other centres, including Camrose, they have got it, or something very similar.

Times like these are tough for both teachers and trustees, as they face community pressure to keep the schools open, but both sides feel they're right. At an entirely different kind of meeting last week, we talked with one of the teachers involved, who commented that it's difficult to live in a community and talk of strike, but it's also difficult to be a member of an association and not support its views.

Trustees in the Elk Island area have one plus factor going for them that hasn't been seen in any of the recent strikes, and that is what seems to be surprisingly solid support of parents in backing their tough times stance.

It's not surprising, in many ways, because farmers in the regions of Elk Island certainly haven't had the best of times in recent years, and it would seem county economics could look for a lot of improvement.

Apart from salaries it would seem teachers in the Elk Island group aren't being too badly treated, either. 600 teachers to 9300 pupils works out to about two teachers for 31 pupils. You don't have to be very old to recall when a teacher with only 31 pupils in one classroom, not two, thought they were having a soft year.

Are pupils today twice as well trained?

"The Nor'Westers"

Saskatchewan this year is reaching deep into its history to mark a number of important anniversaries, among which is the North West Centennial, commemorating 100 years of peace following the 1885 rebellion, "the last battle fought on Canadian soil."

We're delighted with the change in name from what many Canadians have referred to over many years as the Riel Rebellion. It may be only in the choice of a word, but it has always seemed to us that the use of Riel's name in the reference denigrated the individual, while the broader term seems to us to imply the incident was far more widely supported. In point of fact, of course, it was . . . Riel did not actively seek out the primary position in the whole incident, but found himself both elected and conscripted to it.

We never hear about a Papineau Rebellion, or a William Lyon MacKenzie Rebellion as such, although the operations in which these men took part are at least as well documented as the incidents involving Riel.

Both were called rebels by the government of the time, as was Riel, but it has always seemed to us all three were more patriot than rebel, more democratic and responsible than the authorities against whom they protested.

We have long felt the term "Rebellion" overstresses the attempt to carry Western views to Ottawa, (though in recent years we begin to see the necessity of this kind of action.) If the name Riel had to be continued, we felt, other words such as Incident, Uprising, Insurrection, Protest, would be better suited. In today's world we would call it Affirmative Action, Civil Disobedience, etc.

Even the Encyclopedia Brittanica points out the 'Riel' action was the result of unbelievably inept, unfeeling and incompetent government from Ottawa, and it is noteworthy that military force was not employed from Ottawa until the then very strong Orange lodges forced action over the hanging sentence imposed on one of their members, Thomas Scott. Lower Canada, or Quebec, seems not to have been so outraged by the vocal opposition and defiance of Ottawa's policies.

Back to Rebellion . . . if this is the word, then North West is the better way to say it. It brings Riel more into the same level of prominence as some of the other leaders of the group, such as Gabriel Dumont, and others whose names should not be lost from Canadian history.

Answers needed

Tofield, Alberta
Feb. 19, 1988.

Dear Sir,

As everyone is aware, yesterday (Tuesday) was the first day of the teachers' strike in the Elk Island School jurisdiction.

We are being led by the County of Beaver School Board into believing they are acting in our best interests -- they are concerned about our cause.

The questions I would pose are:

1. Why is the fiscal restraint being imposed on the teachers when the members of the County administration received large salary increases this year?
2. How many businesses in our Board and County Councillors attend unnecessarily, at a cost to the taxpayers?
3. The teachers are being offered a 0% contract for 1984 and a 3% increase for 1985. Did our taxes remain stationary in 1984 and will they only increase by 3% in 1985?
4. Why was the Board reluctant to go to Binding Arbitration?

If the offer by the Board of 0 and 3% was accepted by the teachers it would make them one of the lowest paid in the province. Do we want to turn away good teachers because of higher wages elsewhere? Do we not want to attract good teachers here with fair and equitable remuneration?

Concerned parent.

Cosmetics

Remember that cosmetics which are labelled hypoallergenic may still cause reactions in some people. The Health Protection Branch of Health and Welfare Canada advises users of cosmetics to moisten them only with water. Avoid sharing these products with others.

On Feb. 14th, a letter was sent home with the students from the Chairman of the Board to express their position in the strike. The children should not have been used as a vehicle in this issue. Were the teachers given the same opportunity?

It is about time our Board of Education took a long, hard look at the priorities in this issue. Is money the issue, or the education our children rightly deserve?

Thank you,
A concerned parent first,
A ratepayer second.

Temperamental Trucks

If there's one thing I can't stand, it's a vehicle that just sits there like a useless lump of metal when called upon to do its job. Don't automobiles have any sense of loyalty? Right now, if my pick-up had a neck I'd strangle it; the temptation is to stick something nasty up the exhaust. Since it has decided to sit this one out, my choices are hoofing it, remaining housebound or using a friend's pick-up and delivery service.

Really! If the good Lord didn't mean the dumb things to rev up and take us where we want to go, why did he let B.C. invent that wheel and then parlay it into more trends, antifreeze and in-car heaters?

I've had to put up with a temperamental truck for some time now. It either growls and snarls at me on cold winter mornings, not wanting to get out and face up to the challenge of a frigid day (much like the driver actually — but if I can, it can!) but until today it has never completely failed me. Today the growls emitted were half-hearted. Even the service man kicked it and called it a stupid truck when his attempts at revival failed.

I can't even call it a fair-weather truck. Warm spring and fall summer days often find it unwilling to move any further than where I will be thinking [illegible].

Perhaps today the car next door was making it jealous by flaunting her in-car heater. More than likely, it overheard our plans to trade it off for something younger and stronger. If those thoughts were upsetting, what would it do about our present ones? Would the words 'junk dealer' cause a shiver up the old shocks? How about being 'sold for parts'? It would love that one, that way it could cause any number of car owners to tack bumpers and swear!)

Granted, this truck has been around the track a few times. But we've kept it tuned, greased and plugged in and exchanged any worn parts for shiney new ones when the need arose. That's more than is done for some people, myself included. You could call it pampered, even spoiled. You'd think there'd be some show of appreciation.

After all, we could have given it to some teenager by now

Ryley Council holds meeting

by Joan Murray

At the Village of Ryley Council meeting last week, it was decided that the Village would take part in the Pitch-in 'n Clean-up Campaign, from May 6th to 13th.

Mayor Cross and Councillor Stannard will attend the Beaver Ambulance Society annual meeting in Viking on February 29th.

Cross informed council that the Beaver Regional Landfill site should be in operation by May 1st, of this year. All the transfer sites have been approved.

Ryley's share of the cost will come to approximately $6,000 for 1988.

There will be one full-time person and some part-time personnel hired to operate the landfill site.

This information was taken from the unapproved minutes of the Village of Ryley Council meeting on Feb. 11th.

New Farm Loan Guarantee Program

I've summarized some of the main points of this new program which was announced on Jan. 8/88.

ADC will administer this program which will provide up to $300,000 of new loan advances to farmers who show that they have a reasonable chance of success, and who can't get financing elsewhere. These guarantees will be issued up to one year with a possible one-year renewal during the first two years of the program, and will bear interest at the lender's prime rate.

The applicant must be able to show a "mark-out" plan. Applicants must be willing to accept financial counselling.

These loans cannot be used to replace or reduce financing by banks and other commercial lenders, i.e. it can't be used to pay out existing bank debts.

The guarantee will be available to farmers whose net worth doesn't exceed $500,000 and whose equity in the operation doesn't exceed 50 percent of the value of the assets.

In addition to this program, Alberta Agriculture is offering financial counselling with the emphasis on assistance to farmers who are in or soon could be in arrears, and want help in finding ways of improving their situations. By next fall, we will be offering intensive financial management through in-depth workshops.

Contact us at Ryley to see if you fit into programs. They are for your benefit.

Bye for now.

Warriors win crown

Tofield Warriors are the champions of the Highway 14 Pee Wee Hockey League

During the final stretch in the regular schedule, Warriors were on a seven-game winning streak.

Earlier in the month, Warriors won a two-game total final semi-final series over Beaumont.

In the championship finals, Warriors won two straight over Fulloravale when they blanked Fulloravale 5-0 at home and then won 5-3 away from home.

Starbirds

Starbirds travelled to New Sarepta for a tournament and returned home with top honours.

Starbirds blanked Beaumont 6-0, edged Fulloravale 6-5 and then whipped a second Beaumont team 7-2.

In a league game, Starbirds whipped Fort Saskatchewan 8-2.

Torpedoes

In an exhibition game, Torpedoes whipped Ardrossan 6-1.

Mighty Mites

The annual Tom Thumb Mighty Mite hockey tournament was held in the Tofield Arena on the past weekend

Lamont took top honours in the A Event while Tofield Wolverines won the B Event and Bruderheim took the C Event.

Other teams taking part were Tofield Badgers, Fultonvale, Sherwood Park and Josephburg.

Tofield took top honours in the Tom Thumb tournament with Evansdale taking the B Event

Other entries were from Ardrossan, Vegreville, Lamont, Fulkonvale and Fort Saskatchewan.

Organizers for the tournament were Reg Regakr and Floyd Irwin, assisted by parents.

Good action

This is just a sample of the action seen in the Tofield Arena over the weekend during the annual Tom Thumb and Mighty Mite tournament. There was not a large crowd in attendance but they were enthusiastic fans who cheered the young players on.

ELK ISLAND TEACHERS ARE ON STRIKE
WHY?

★ Teachers are willing to give up the right to strike by submitting the dispute to voluntary binding arbitration. The Boards refused to agree to this neutral third party settlement.

★ With no Board offer of a salary increase after 12 months of negotiations teachers voted 91% in favour of strike action.

★ Following the strike vote, Boards offered 0 for 1984 and a 3% increase for 1985. This would have left Elk Island teachers among the lowest paid in the province.

★ The Boards of Elk Island have a collective surplus of operating funds that would cover a salary increase acceptable to teachers.

Elk Island Teachers are asking for a salary close to the provincial average

PUT IT HERE

I remember when ...

by [illegible]

As the youngest in the family and preceded by four brothers, I expected and received special privileges. And I also expected and received much pampering. In fact I had convinced myself that I was quite special. Therefore at the age of 12 I was unprepared for my abrupt loss of [illegible]

[illegible] married sisters living in cities in the USA. Suddenly they [illegible] an ideal place for them and their families to spend the [illegible]

We had plenty of room, plenty of good clean air, milk, cream, butter, eggs, chickens, fresh vegetables, fresh fish and apples. (Dad's father had bequeathed him a tree in the old family orchard.) There was always an abundance of wild strawberries, raspberries, gooseberries and blueberries (in the Barren).

Homemade bread was a treat for these folks. We had a sandy beach to ramble on and the Straits to paddle in. In fact we had everything. Except money. So for a few summers we took in paying guests.

[illegible] — all girls. They were very pretty with blonde, curly hair, pale and delicate. Had to be coaxed to eat! And clothes! They had beautiful dresses in filmy, frilly muslins, in shirred and smocked pongee silk and embroidered linens. They had white sox and black patent leather slippers. They had hats, coats and gloves. They had [illegible] money too!

And here was I. Older, tall for my age, straight black hair and black eyes (an Indian Chief on observing me in the cradle had commented "The Indian blood dies hard") I was hearty and healthy. I had two big, flat bare feet. I had two dresses, one for Sunday, the other for weekdays and several "pinnies".

Another annoying feature of these "paying guests" problem was their intrusion into David's and my program. If we went to the beach, these kids trailed along. They were scared of the water, would not eat dulse or dig for clams. And when we pried mussels off [illegible] contents they were nauseated.

At the back of our farm was a stretch of woodland known as the "common". Here everyone's sheep ran at will. We took our cousins there. They were scared of the rab[illegible] and the garter snakes. And when an annoyed old ram caught David in a compromising pose and bunted him on the rear, sending him headlong into the brook, these kids screamed. And of course, we could not take them to our playhouse because our neighbour Maria's lost turkey had belatedly decided to nest there. Maria had tramped for miles looking for her turkey. David and I decided it was better if neither she nor Mother knew of our guilty secret.

Another bitter pill for me to swallow was the fact that David even liked some of these kids.

So I sulked the summer months away while unwillingly picking strawberries or raspberries. The little darlings appetites had to be tempted. No one worried about my appetite. My berries would be eaten by the visitors with clot[illegible]

Dad whose hospitality never lasted over two days aided and abetted me. Poor Mother!

Years later some of those girls and I became very good friends. I was astounded how much they had improved in a space of six or seven years.

I think that Mother hoped that in my mingling with my city cousins, that some of their refinement would rub off on me.

But I was disappointingly immune to refinement.

Hoop league is halted

The Battle River Division of the Highway 13 High School Basketball League is in a state of limbo.

What happens next is anyone's guess.

Games scheduled for this week have been cancelled, at least at presstime and would only be played if the teachers' strike ends. It began yesterday (Tuesday) morning.

Viking was supposed to play in Tofield last night (Tuesday), Daysland was to play in Sedgewick this evening and Tofield was to be at home to Ryley on Thursday.

Then, on the weekend, teams (both boys and girls) in fourth place were to have faced a challenge from either Hughenden or Wainwright for the right to advance to Zone playdowns.

The girls' Zone playoffs are scheduled for March 1 and 2 at the home of the first place team in the West Division.

Currently, Viking, Sedgewick and Ryley are holders of three playoff berths while Daysland would face either Wainwright or Hughenden for the other post.

There is more leeway in the boys division as their Zone competition is not scheduled until March 8 and 9, in Daysland.

Playoff berths are presently held by Daysland, Viking and Tofield while Ryley and Sedgewick are tied for fourth place and the holder of that position could be challenged by either Hughenden or Wainwright.

As long as the teachers' strike continues, basketball action will be suspended which could mean that teams from this division may not advance in either league or Zone playdowns.

Action in the league will resume when the strike ends.

Following are the most recent league results.

Girls

Viking clinched first place when they whipped Ryley 44-27 and then they whipped Sedgewick 56-41.

In other games, Sedgewick edged Ryley 36-35, Daysland down Tofield 51-29, Ryley whipped Daysland 56-41, Viking dumped Sedgewick 56-32 and Ryley stopped Daysland 60-33.

Boys

Daysland clinched first place in the standings when they stopped Ryley 60-46 after being upset 66-57 by Tofield.

In other games played, Ryley tripped Viking 61-46, Sedgewick stopped Ryley 59-41 and Viking [illegible] Sedgewick 60-40.

Court report

Dale Sware was fined $130 for illegal consumption of liquor in a motor vehicle.

Kevin Fiseath was found guilty of impaired driving and was fined $500.

Delbert Lehman was fined $130 for illegal consumption in a vehicle and an additional $50 for failing to appear.

Warren Leslie Lehman was fined $30 for failing to obey traffic notices and an additional $50 for failing to appear.

Leslie Sorenson was given a $30 fine for having an inadequate speedometer on a vehicle.

Keith Ray was fined $60 for speeding.

Ray Vanbuskirk was sentenced to 14 days in custody for driving with a blood alcohol exceeding .08. He was fined $200 for having no valid operator's licence.

Roberta Flint was found guilty of speeding over posted limit and was fined $[illegible].

Spilstead news

The Hall was a busy place on Saturday when a number of residents met to give it a good cleaning. On Wednesday evening, Scouts and Pathfinders did their good deeds by scrubbing the bathrooms and all of the hall chairs.

On Saturday, at 7:30 p.m. a card party will be held at Spilstead Hall. Both whist and cribbage will be played and ladies are asked to please bring something for lunch.

On Sunday at 3 p.m. there will be a candlelight church parade at the Hall with Rev. Dahlen officiating. This service is a part of the celebration of Lord Baden Powell Week and will be followed by a family pot-luck supper. Everyone from the community is welcome.

Holden and district news

by Mrs. G.R. Taylor

Paul and Lena Michlich have just returned from a two-week holiday in Hawaii.

Helen and Jim Zwierschke were with the Bruce Square Dance Club on Saturday afternoon when they were entertaining the residents at Viking Vialta Lodge.

Mr and Mrs. John Semotiuk were Edmonton visitors on Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Irene Olsen was in Edmonton last Thursday visiting with a brother who is a patient in the Royal Alexandra Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Haody returned home at the end of last week after being a patient in Tofield Hospital for several days.

Mrs Bertha Chetney's daughter, Mrs. Helen Frotin of Vancouver, who had been visiting with her for several days, returned home the early part of last week.

Mrs. Anne Scherger and daughters were to Wainwright on Saturday to attend the funeral of Florian (Floyd) Ermantraut, who passed away suddenly last week at the age of 63 years.

Mrs. Olive Good was a visitor the past week with their daughter, Mrs. Terry Lusk, an Edmonton hospital patient.

On Feb. 11, Peter Jonas Lundblad of Sherwood Park, formerly of Holden, passed away at the age of 86 years. He is survived by two sons, Randy of Sherwood Park and Gary of Edmonton, six grandchildren; three daughters, Sister Gretta Lundblad of Edmonton, Mrs. Coulson and Mrs. Roy Teske of Sherwood Park; and one brother, Enoch of Valleyview Mr Lundblad was born in Hudiksavall, Sweden, and came to Canada in Nov 1923. He was a homesteader and farmer in the Holden area for many years.

The funeral service was held on Friday at the Bethel Lutheran Church with Rev. T. Heimse officiating and cremation followed.

Holden LCW held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday with Mrs. Margaret Olsen leading the Bible study. Mrs. Ethel Brekstad was in charge of the business meeting. The minutes of the annual meeting and financial report was given. The ladies made a donation towards the Hastings Lake Bible Camp and made tentative plans to visit at the senior citizens' lodge later in the month. Worship meditation was read by Mrs Annie Laube. At the conclusion of the meeting, lunch was served with Mrs. Kathleen Harum being the hostess.

Holden Lodge Order of the Royal Purple held their regular monthly meeting on Feb. 12th with HRL Mary Semotiuk in the chair. Eight ladies from Kinsella Lodge made a surprise visit, bringing the travelling gavel with them. Regular business and reports were dealt with and a "thank you" letter was received from the Terry Fox Youth Centre in Ottawa for the sponsorship of Joyce Lutz to attend a seminar there in April. Reports of the February Chamber of Commerce supper was given by PHRL Harum with PHRL Helen Bilyk reporting on the Lodge visit to Viking at their 30th Lodge celebration. Lady Helfrich reported on the Lodge birthday party.

Lady Stecyk reported on the Sunshine Committee.

A donation was made to the recently held Telerama.

HRL Frances Overbo of Kinsella Lodge presented the travelling gavel to HRL Semotiuk. At the close of the meeting, lunch was served with Lady Emily Ogonoski and PHRL Bilyk being hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Grosland were visitors in Edmonton on the weekend of Feb. 9th to attend the wedding and reception of a granddaughter, Lori Grosland, the third daughter of Grant and Shirley Grosland, to Randy Chupka, son of Tommy and Virginia Chupka.

Gardeners hold meet

The Tofield Garden Club met at the home of Yvonne McAllister on Wednesday evening.

After the minutes were read and the financial report given, the Fair book was studied to decide any changes for 1985.

Some new classes were decided on.

It is hoped the 1985 Fair will be a little later than last year to give the gardens a better chance.

Campground plan set

by Jean Murray

Last week, Bob Scott and Dave Carlson gave a presentation on the proposed development of a restaurant and campground in the vicinity of Beaverhill Lake, to the members of Tofield Town Council.

They have received the go ahead signal from the Federal Government to conduct feasibility studies for this project, and have asked that the Town receive and disperse funds according to their already approved budget. They want Tofield to sponsor the project in this way until a Tourism for Tofield Foundation is incorporated in the near future Members of Tofield Council met with the Department of Employment and Immigration on Monday morning and at that time signed the necessary papers of sponsorship.

Council ratified the appointment of Earl Rose to the position of county representative on the Tofield Parks and Recreation Board. He will replace Alberta Watt whose term of office had expired.

Council is considering the possibility of having a flashing light on the crosswalk on Secondary Highway 834 and 55th Avenue The administrator will get a price on this kind of light and will also contact the Minister of Transportation, Marvin Moore, with regards to funding this project.

Ernie Duschesne, public works foreman, reported on a fire that occurred in the Town Shop on Feb 4th. Although the fire commissioner from Edmonton said it was an accidental fire of undeterminable causes, it was felt that the explosion of a propane torch tank could have been the cause. Council agreed that propane tanks should no longer be kept inside the building.

Town administrator, Lori Pilon, said that the fire was caught soon enough to not do too much damage and attributes this fact to the quick action taken by the person who reported the fire, the RCMP and the Tofield Fire Department.

Information on the general assessment was presented and a special meeting between the assessor and Tofield Council was set for Feb. 27th.

New assessment used

... in Tofield taxes

by Jean Murray

For the past year and one-half, a general assessment has been going on in the Town of Tofield and will be used on the 1985 tax assessment notices which are due to go out at the end of this month.

Questions often arise from these notices and every year when property owners open their tax assessment envelopes, they experience misgivings and confusion Most assessments do not change radically, but periodically, a general assessment is held to ensure values reflect updated market conditions

Property owners in Tofield will receive their assessment within the next few weeks and may notice these assessments to be significantly higher than last year, but this does not necessarily mean that the property taxes will increase proportionately

Because property owners can dispute their assessments but not their bills, close attention should be paid to the notice of assessment when it arrives. If an owner disagrees with the assessment, a complaint must be made within thirty days of the mailing of the assessment notices.

If a property owner wishes to question his assessment, certain steps can be taken. The only way to appeal an assessment is on the basis of how his property was assessed in relation to similar properties.

An opportunity to compare one assessment with another presents itself when the assessment roll is open for examination for thirty days after the mailing of assessment notices

The roll lists all properties in the municipality and gives legal descriptions as well as showing updated assessments.

If an owner is not aware of similar properties or needs more information about assessments, it is adviseable to attend the public information meeting that will be held sometime in March The assessor is available at that time to answer any queries one might have

The first is to arrange for an appearance before the local Court of Revision by writing the municipal secretary.

Court of Revision has no control over taxes and only hears evidence on whether or not the property has been assessed on an equitable basis in relation to other properties of similar character and value

If the court rules against the owner, he may, within 21 days of the mailing of the Court of Revision decision make an appeal to the Alberta Assessment Appeal Board Owners not successful in these appeals may wish to pursue the matter in a court of law.

Holden wins twice

Holden Beavers aren't going to make the playoffs, but they are making their presence felt in the Beaverhill Hockey League.

Holden picked up two victories in last week's league action and as a result, moved into a share of fifth place with Vegreville who isn't finishing the regular schedule.

Although standings aren't quite finalized as yet, it would now appear that the order of finish and playoff berths will be taken by Lamont, Mundare, Redwater and Tofield.

Tofield hosted Redwater yesterday (Tuesday) while Holden was in Lamont and results of these games will be reported next week.

Tofield will travel to Redwater on Friday and then go to Lamont on Tuesday and one week from today (Wednesday) Holden will play in Redwater.

The regular schedule is due to end next Wednesday. However, there are still four postponed games to play, two each in Mundare and Lamont and at presstime, dates for those games were not known.

Lamont was idle last week as they picked up a win over Vegreville by forfeit.

Holden racked up two victories when they surprised Tofield 7-5 and then stunned Mundare 10-7.

Mundare edged Redwater 8-7 and Tofield won by forfeit over Vegreville.

4-H meeting held

by Doug Brown

The Tofield 4-H Beef Club held it's annual meeting on Feb. 13 in the Tofield Arts and Crafts Room.

The Legion Ladies Auxiliary made a donation to our club and one-half will be given to the 4-H Craft Club.

It was decided that our public speaking would be held in the Arts and Crafts Room on March 11 and start at 7:30 p.m.

Our meeting will be moved up a week to March 6.

It was also decided that our Easter tea and bake sale would be held on March 30 from 2 to 4:30 p.m. in the Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre.

Rodeo tickets will be ordered for our club and the members can take part in a calf scramble.

Teresa Eleniak gave a talk on her summer camps. Dale Brown gave a talk on a Battle Lake camp he attended. Darcy Brown gave his Junior Leadership project. Doris and Cathy gave a public speaking demonstration.

Holden finalizes plan for Court of Revision

by Joan Storey

At the regular meeting of the Village of Hesketh Council on Monday night, it was decided that the Council would act as Court of Revision with Christine McKay appointed as clerk.

They set the time and place at 7 p.m. preceding the next regular council meeting on March 18th. This will be the time when tax assessment appeals are heard if property owners wish to dispute their assessments.

Council agreed to support the Chamber of Commerce Community Calendar and passed a motion to make monies available through Rural Development Funds for this purpose.

It was decided that the same procedure of publicizing the financial statement would be used this year. Copies of the Village Financial statement will be available at the Village Office and an advertisement to this effect will be taken out to notify the public.

To improve safety precautions taken when erecting barricades for road construction, council has decided to purchase at least four flare pots to light up the area and will have present barricades checked to see if more are needed. The administration will investigate prices on barricades with lighting attached and bring the information to the next meeting.

Council will apply to the County of Beaver for a supplemental permit for the water treatment plant once final plans are received and debenture borrowing has been authorized.

The sign for the water treatment plant, as specified by Alberta Utilities and Telecommunications, will be purchased by Bob Wilkinson, if he is available. Wilkinson will be approached possibly for approval of the project from the Local Authorities Board.

It was agreed to write a letter to Alberta Tourism and Small Business regarding the spring economic development training workshop indicating interest in sending a representative to attend. They also decided that two would offer to host this workshop.

The village auditor will be attending the next regular meeting, in March.

Rodeo plans are made

Plans are well underway for the third annual Tofield Redwater Rodeo to be held May 18th and 19th at the Tofield Fairgrounds.

The rodeo is sponsored by the Tofield Agricultural Society and is in conjunction with the Lakeland Rodeo Association.

The overwhelming success of the rodeo in the past two years has generated over $30,000 in funds used primarily for the Fairgrounds and Arena improvements and operating costs. Many local service clubs through concessions and other events also raise funds for their organizations.

Again this year there will be two days of rodeo action with some of the top amateur rodeo riders on hand for the big event.

Lee Trach Rodeo Co. of St. Paul will be back to supply the rodeo stock, Ricky Ticky Wanchuk rodeo clown will be here for laughs as well as George Hansen, rodeo announcer from Regina.

Other events planned for the rodeo are the Lions' barbeque supper, "Clearwater" and "CISN Country" entertainment at the beer gardens and dance, and a Legion pancake breakfast planned for the Sunday morning.

Service groups and clubs will be running concession booths, directing traffic and supervising.

This year, due to little response from queen candidates, there will be no Rodeo Queen contest, which had added a lot to the rodeo in past years, but other plans are being made for a few special novelty events.

To Buy Or Not To Buy

We are tempted daily to buy, buy, buy! Shopping has become more a recreational activity than a serious skill. If we are to continue getting the best quality and service for our money, we must be scrupulous shoppers. Below are some pointers to keep in mind before making a purchase:
— take your time to decide on a purchase. Impulse buys are often poor choices;
— look for guarantees and warranties before buying;
— look for CSA (Canadian Standards Association) approval or UL (Underwriters Laboratory) endorsement on electrical and safety products;
— investigate the seller's reputation. The product is only as good as the man who stands behind it;
— put transactions in writing for a permanent record;
— never sign anything blank. Read the entire contract, understand the details and agree with every term and condition; otherwise do not sign.

Remember that if you buy from a salesman in your home or anywhere other than a retail outlet, you have three days grace to cancel the contract, with no penalties.

Hard sell or scare tactics often indicate poor quality. A good product will sell itself. If it seems "too good to be true", it probably is!

If you have concerns about purchases or contracts you have entered, give me a phone call. A solution may be available.

Gulf backs 4-H

4-H members who have made outstanding contributions to community service and citizenship projects will be eligible for a new scholarship of $1,000, beginning in 1985.

The Gulf Canada Citizenship Study Award is open to students entering their first year of university, college or technical school in any field of study.

Applicants must be at least 16 years old, currently enrolled in 4-H, and must have been a member for two years or more. They must also submit a 500-word essay with the application form. The Gulf Canada award will be presented to one 4-H member from each province.

The 4-H branch encourages past and present 4-H members planning to further their education beyond high school to apply for 4-H scholarships. There are 39 available in Alberta and they range in value and requirements.

Application forms and complete details for all awards will be available in March, and July 15 is the application deadline.

To receive forms and information, contact Elizabeth Webster, personal development specialist with Alberta Agriculture, 7000-113 Street, Edmonton, Alberta, T6H 5T6.

Satellites win

Tofield Satellites are one game away from advancing to the next round in provincial playdowns.

In the opening game of a senior 'C' playoff series, Satellites thumped Athabascon by a score of 11-4.

As a result of that contest, Tofield will carry a six-goal bulge into the second game of the total-goal series which is to be played in Athabascon on Sunday.

The winner of the series between Tofield and Athabascon will advance to the Northern Alberta senior 'C' semi-finals against the winner of a series between Lac La Biche and Goodfish Lake.

Two other teams from the Beaverhill Hockey League are competing in provincial playoffs.

Mundare is facing Bonnyville while Lamont is tangling with Kehewin and both rounds are quarter-finals in Northern Alberta senior 'B' playdowns.

IN MEMORIAM

HULTHOLM – In loving memory of Allan who passed away Feb 23 1970

February brings sad memories
Of a loved one laid to rest
Who never will be forgotten
By the ones who loved you best
We have missed you every moment
Since the day you passed away
And hope to meet in heaven
Where all tears are wiped away

Ever loved and sadly missed by Mom Dad & Families 24p 9174

CARDS OF THANKS

MANY THANKS go out to all who were so kind and helpful during brother Joe's funeral to Father O'Neill the pallbearers Tofield Funeral Home ladies who served lunch, those who contributed to mass offerings memorials and sent flowers – all this was greatly appreciated Thank you again!

County gets a bus with safety lights

by Joan Murray

Motorists in the County of Beaver may be puzzled by some flashing lights on a brand new 48-passenger school bus that has been added to the County fleet.

County bus supervisor, Milt MacGregor, said that drivers still have to abide by the same rule of stopping when the red lights are flashing.

The new bus has what is known as an eight-light system which employs the use of amber flashing warning lights to notify motorists of an impending stop.

When the bus doors open the red flashing lights automatically go on, indicating that vehicles approaching from either direction must stop.

All the other school buses in the fleet only have red flashing lights which the driver activates by jerring the door prior to stopping the bus.

MacGregor said that all new buses will have this new system including a 36-passenger vehicle which has not yet arrived. He said that he feels this new system is a safer one.

Tofield raises services' fees

by Joan Murray

Tofield Town Council reviewed the water and sewer rates on Monday night, at their regular meeting. It was decided that an increase was in order for 1985.

The basic rate of 19.80 for [illegible] 4000 gallons of water used will increase to 24.00, but the rates governing the 4000 to 100,000 gallon consumption will remain at $1.35 per/M and over 100,000 gallons will remain at $1.05/M.

Sewage rates will increase from $5 to $6. These figures are based on bi-monthly consumption.

Sanitary sewer service charges will increase by 20%.

A survey of water and sewer rates for other towns such as Bruderheim, Lamont, Millet, Provost and Viking revealed that Tofield had the lowest rates, by a decisive amount. Based on this information and the rising cost of operations, council felt an increase was justified and it will go into effect on the April 30th billings.

Approval was given to waive the usual rental fee on the Community Hall in order for a group of concerned parents to hold a public meeting regarding the recent teacher strike. This meeting will take place on Sunday night at 7:30 p.m.

It was agreed to allow the Further Education Department to use the meeting room upstairs in the Town Hall until they can return to using the school facilities for their classes.

The hours of the Tofield Municipal Library will be extended to cover Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

This move was made in response to a recent request and will continue on a temporary basis in order to serve the community in an appropriate manner during the teacher strike. The library will continue to open in the public on Thursday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m.

Council amended the Municipal Library by-law to read in such a way that any one of the members of council could be appointed to the board and that the mayor need not necessarily be the one to sit on the Board.

The job description and policies for sponsorship of the "Tourism for Tofield Foundation" were reviewed and it was decided to request the team leader, Dave Carlson, to come to the next council meeting and give a progress report.

Council concurred with the Tofield Fire Department decision to have Reg Regehr and David Oleksyn attend firefighter courses.

Approval was given to the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada to sell carnations in the Town of Tofield on May 11th. The Carnation Day campaign is designated as a national annual fund-raising campaign where volunteers sell the flowers for a donation and proceeds go to MS research projects.

Contract is signed ... for area project

by Joan Murray

Last week in Tofield, Mayor Charlie Sears and Maryanne Kuzio of Employment and Immigration Canada, signed a contract with regards to a feasibility study being performed to build a restaurant and campground project near Beaverhill Lake, along with developing bird watching facilities.

Tofield will not be providing any financing for this project as the town's only role will be to receive and disperse federal grant funds for the feasibility study. This will be done on an interim basis until legal considerations are completed regarding the incorporation of the Tourism of Tofield Foundation under the Government of Canada LEAD Program.

The initial part of the program is a $50,000 contribution by Employment and Immigration Canada to study the feasibility of developing a restaurant/campground complex in the Tofield/Beaverhill Lake area.

Dave Carlson, project coordinator and team leader with Bill Scott as restaurant researcher who will be working on this study, were the originators of the project.

In conjunction, there will be an assessment of the wildlife at the lake to ensure that upgraded bird watching facilities can be properly developed.

Carlson and Scott plan to contact all interested groups and organizations and have established an office on the second floor of the Tofield Town Hall.

The telephone is not yet connected, but is supposed to be sometime this week.

The office, in Room 204, is open now between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays for anyone who is interested in getting more information on the proposed complex.

Strike could end

There is a possibility that an end to a teachers strike could be in sight.

Mediation talks were scheduled to resume today (Wednesday) and if they prove to be successful, it is possible that all schools could be back in operation on Monday.

Even if an agreement is reached today between negotiators for both sides in the dispute, such an agreement would have to be ratified by both teachers and trustees, before schools would reopen.

It is expected that both sides would act quickly to reach a decision, if today's talks are successful.

However, there are indications from both sides that a lot of progress would have to be made before an agreement would be reached

Teachers are seeking a one percent increase for the 1984 portion of a contract and an additional three percent for the current year.

The latest response from trustees was to hold the line in the first year and a flat offer of $1,682 per teacher in the second one-half of a two-year deal.

Schools were closed one week from yesterday (Tuesday) when teachers walked off the job, closing 31 schools and giving 9,200 students an unscheduled holiday.

Schools in the County of Beaver belong to the Elk Island School Authorities Association.

Other members of the association include the Counties of Minburn, Lamont and Flagstaff as well as the School Divisions of Provost and Wainwright.

Travesty over Dial

Alberta's court system is being used to perpetrate a travesty on the people.

Insofar as the Dial Mortgage investigation is concerned, the entire system is being manipulated to obstruct the ends of justice, and we're getting discussions similar to how many angels can dance on the head of a pin.

Defence lawyers are doing their level best in the interests of their clients. As they should.

But it should not be possible quite legally and quite properly to divert the entire attention of the court from the original charges, and instead to put the Alberta Securities Commission on trial. Which is exactly what is happening.

The Securities Commission is being charged with incompetence, ineptitude, of not keeping various members of the commission informed, of not forging ahead, of acting like Keystone Kops. These charges are all a ruse to establish the concept that time has run out, that the statute of limitations has taken over.

In other words, the old shell [illegible].

Most of us don't have to be told that bureaucracy can be inefficient. Not always, but it can be. And it seems to have been so in the Dial case. What's worse, many Albertans suspect that the Securities Commission may have been encouraged, (if not actually ordered) to drag its feet, to be something less than enthusiastic in its checking of the Dial inconsistencies.

But the public wants to know the truth about the allegations, and the charges. After all Dial foundered. And many people got hurt. Only days ago, Pioneer Trust went to the wall. And again many people feel threatened. There have been notorious cases in Ontario, B.C., and other areas, names such as Seaway, Crown, too many to list.

People who lost their shirts, their pension funds, their nest eggs, these people don't give a tinker's dam over whether the i's were all properly dotted, the t's properly crossed, or the dates all properly [illegible].

They want to know whether there is any substance to charges that people in very responsible positions have abused those positions. One is a senior provincial government official, one has been a senior and highly trusted school trustee, and so it goes. Should we still rely on them? Should we still believe in their integrity?

The justice system should not be used as a convenience to switch the onus from the Dial staff to the Securities Commission. The doubt won't go away simply because someone says the clock has run down.

Walls being built

Tofield, Alberta T0B 4J0
Feb. 19, 1985.

Dear Editor:

There was a certain uneasiness in the air. I looked through the window, and to the west there were high walls like store fronts, so high the sun was almost covered. At first I thought it was a city, but a closer look revealed only fronts. There were people everywhere, fighting, yes, even killing each other.

Besides that there was a horse following closely on my heels, putting its nose in dishes on the table. I thought, where is the green grass we used to know, and the freedom to move about without all this turmoil. Will things always be like this?

Then I awoke.

Usually my dreams do not concern me, but this morning I started drawing analogies. It's happening now, not to the body but to the spirit.

Walls are being built. Productive and positive working relationships have been tainted. Will these relationships be broken forever? Will people distrust each other? Will these walls remain standing? Will the feeling of good will no longer be part of this community? I wonder . . . what do you think?

Teachers are a caring group of people. They care about your children and mine; even after school hours.

Respectfully,
F. Veeglin

Premature

Ryley, Alberta
Feb. 21, 1985.

Dear Sir,

The report I made to County Council on Feb. 14, 1985 regarding Ken Reid's resignation as Ryley Fire Chief was perhaps premature.

He informed me on Feb. 12th that he was finished and had handed over all his duty gear, etc. to the Town Clerk at [illegible].

But, on Feb. 13th, Mr. Reid told me that the differences [illegible] been reinstated as Ryley Fire [illegible].

Thank you,
[illegible]
County Fire Chief

Echoes from Em

"The Church in the Wildwood"
by William Pitts

One evening in June 1857 the sun seemed to pause over a little spot in an Iowa forest as Dr Wm. Pitts watched the sun set. The young music teacher suddenly had a vision of a small brown church breaking the green of the valley. Haunted by his vision Pitts walked back to the town of Bradford and wrote a song about the imaginary church.

Soon the Rev John Nutting came to Bradford and chanced upon the same spot. Here, he vowed, he would erect a small brown church, rugged and strong. His followers caught his enthusiasm and started building.

The Civil War came — men left home to fight, but those who remained worked on.

In 1864 — seven years later, [illegible] Pitts clear voice rang out with the words of the hymn —
There's a church in the valley by the wildwood.
No lovelier place in the dale —
No spot is so dear to my childhood,
As the little brown church in [illegible]

Today this hymn is loved and sung the world over. Every year 50,000 tourists go to Iowa to cross the threshold of this little church. Annually 800 couples come there for their "I do's", the most popular wedding place in the Midwest. It has a charm all its own, the stubby belfry, hardwood pews made smooth by years of use, and a hand hewn altar gives it a Puritan simplicity. The inscriptions on the front steps summarizes the role it has played through the years. Let me live by the side of the road and be a friend to man."

From Have A Good Day!

Next week, another hymn during Lent.

Country School Teacher

Her bright smile warmed our country school
Each day throughout the year,
As she inspired young minds to learn
With an atmosphere of cheer.
Each morn she hurried to the [illegible]
While yet the sky was gray,
To start a fire in the old stove,
And wipe the dust away.
It seemed a cheer lay all [illegible]
The old potbellied stove,
For teacher knew that we'd [illegible]
With an atmosphere of love.
Not only was she janitor,
[illegible]
Who pitched a curve with mighty force
Or round the bases flew
A work-together, play-[illegible]
[illegible]
With lots of down-to-earth [illegible]
And ball games in the field
The teacher lent a vital glow,
To all who knew her there.
That wrought cooperation
And a willingness to care
When Christmas season came along
We staged a Yuletide play
For which she fashioned [illegible]
In splendid bright array
She did her job wholeheartedly
Because she loved to care,
And part of her went with each one

Tourney planned

The Powder Puffs were visitors to the Tofield Sodbusters on Sunday night.

With a clean and fun game, the Sodbusters came out a little drenched as the Powder Puffs defeated them 16 to 11.

No home games are scheduled for this week, but the Powder Puffs will be heading out to Spruce Grove on Thursday night.

Plans are being finalized for the second annual Ladies Hockey Tournament on March [illegible].

There will be eight teams competing in this event.

There will be more details on the tournament next week.

Loose Ends

by Carol Livingstone

[illegible]

The worst thing about the man of the house being hospitalized for a week is that while he's there, everything here hangs up an OUT OF ORDER sign.

I wouldn't have believed it if it hadn't happened to me. The first to quit were the children. Without Dad to give them a nudge, the sidewalks remained unshovelled. The second was the car. The same car that always starts for him regardless of the weather did little more than growl at me for two days. On the third day, it started, offering no explanations, but by then there was a light burnt out in the kitchen and no spark left in our electric blanket. Changing a light bulb is something even I can do (with help) but [illegible] left me cold.

As well, both typewri[illegible] idle since the person responsible for their repair and/or parts was the one resting comfortably in the hospital. (Some men will go to any lengths to get out of fixing things.)

On the sixth day the television quit, thanks to a twice repaired converter. I say thanks because I thought it was because someo[illegible] forgotten to put batteries on her shopping list again.

Then when the toilet started howling and was joined by the tea kettle and the drip in the kitchen tap, not me! changed to the start of the 40-day flood. I was ready to call in the Marines. Or at least a plumber. Add two kids home with the flu and a live mouse in the dog's dish (outside, but [illegible]) thought occured to me that someone's choice of this particular week to be away from home was premeditated.

Of course, these little [illegible]dventures gave us something to talk about while visiting the patient and made him think he was missed. And just to perpetuate the myth that we couldn't get along without him, we left a few things broken. A recuperating man needs to feel needed.

Auxiliary holds a visitors night

by [illegible]

Last week, Tofield Hospital Auxiliary held their annual Visitors Night at That Place to acquaint others on what the Auxiliary is all about.

There were five visitors, in addition to [illegible] members, in attendance. Sylvia Perry and [illegible]ne Harper were welcomed as new members. Auxiliary membership figures now [illegible].

Yvonne Brown and Evelyn Stauffer gave selected inspirational readings centered around the volunteer theme.

Dorothy Shewchuk and Pat Litwin provided the luncheon with decorated Valentine goodies for dessert.

Previous activities included successful canvassing for the Heart Fund and donating glass bud vases to the hospital for patient use. February tray favours were made by the Girl Guides.

Auxiliary members are having work bees to make perogys for the annual perogy supper scheduled for March 23rd in the Tofield Community Hall.

Challenge '85 — Summer Employment [illegible]

Don Mazankowski, M.P. Vegreville, is pleased to announce the criteria for Challenge '85, the government's summer student employment program.

Challenge '85 offers an incentive, in the form of a wage subsidy, to private, municipal and non-profit sector employers to create student summer employment opportunities which would otherwise not be available.

Challenge '85 gives priority to career-related jobs for students. All summer employment proposals clearly linked to a specific course of study, discipline or training program will be handled on a "first come, first serve" basis.

Challenge '85 also offers the incentive to employers who will provide students with practical work experiences. These job proposals will be assessed and prioritized according to their potential to prepare students for their future participation in Canada's labour force.

Eligible Employers
—Private businesses and non-profit organizations which have been operating in Canada for six months;
—Individuals involved in non-profit activities;
—[illegible]

Eligible Students
[illegible]:
—intend to return to school on a full-time basis in the fall;
—are legally entitled to work in Canada;
—are referred by a Canada Employment Centre or Canada Employment Centre for Students and;
—are not members of the employer's immediate family.

Application forms and additional information is available from my Constituency Offices in Vegreville (632-2856) and Lloydminster (875-9595). These documents may also be obtained from your nearest Employment Development Branch Office of the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission.

As there is a time limitation I would urge all interested parties to secure and submit applications at the earliest possible date.

Church of God hosts its general assembly

Rev. Lewis Hyslip, Executive Secretary for the Church of God in Western Canada announced that the Church's General Assembly met in Camrose on the past weekend.

The General Assembly is an annual meeting and consists of the pastors and lay delegates from congregations in the four Western provinces.

The Church carries out its various activities through its ten boards and committees.

In addition to the local congregation, with a building at 55 St. and 48 Ave., Camrose is the Western Canadian headquarters for the Church of God and the Church is visible in Camrose through Gardner Bible College and the Gospel Contact Press.

The international denominational headquarters is located in Anderson, Indiana and there are about 400,000 members in 65 countries.

The business sessions were held at the Norsemen Motor Inn on Friday and Saturday. Public worship services were held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, in the Church. Dr. Milo Chapman of Portland, Oregon, was the guest preacher.

VILLAGE OF RYLEY FINANCIAL STATEMENT

For the Fiscal Year Ended December 31, 1984

AUDITOR'S REPORT

The Mayor or Reeve and Council of

VILLAGE OF RYLEY

We have examined the Consolidated Balance Sheet of Village of Ryley as at December 31 1984 and the related statements of Combined Operating Revenues and Expenditures, Combined Capital Financing Acquired and Applied, Taxes Levied and Grants in Lieu, Consolidated Statement of Surplus (Deficit) and Consolidated Statement of Equity in Fixed Assets and the schedules supporting these statements for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the municipality as at December 31 1984 and the results of its operations and changes in capital financing for the year then ended in accordance with the disclosed basis of accounting described in Note 1 (page 7) applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Holden and district news

by Mrs. G.R. Taylor

On Monday afternoon of last week, several ladies representing the various churches in Holden met in the United Church basement to discuss and make plans for The World Day of Prayer which is to be held on Friday. The service is being hosted by ladies of the Emmanuel Evangelical Church of Canada, northeast of Holden, on the Correction Line Road. The program for the service this year was compiled by Women of India and their theme is "Peace through Prayer and Action." The [illegible] commences at 2 p.m. [illegible] everyone is welcome. Lunch will be served by the hostess ladies at the conclusion of the service.

Recent visitors with Mrs. Nellie Kalamny were her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Kalamny of Grande Centre.

The crib tournament sponsored by the Senior Citizens Club in their Drop-In Center held recently was very successful, with twenty-eight players taking part. Rueben [illegible]veland and Marvin Giebelhaus won the first event and with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sorensen being the runners-up. The second event was won by Robert Tiedemann and Mrs. Ethel Brekstad with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hallett as runners-up.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Poole have been enjoying a several days' holiday in Las Vegas, USA.

Mrs. Clara Sizer was happy to receive the news last month that her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Sizer of Fairview, had been receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on January 1st, a grandson for Clara and Jim.

Correcting an error in an item in last week's news — The Bruce Square Dance Club entertained residents of Viking Extendicare Nursing Home, not at Vialta Lodge.

Ken and Rose Sharpe are enjoying a two-week holiday in Hawaii.

The singers and musicians of the musical group, [illegible] from Calgary, will appear at the Beaver Arts Centre on Thursday evening. This program was postponed due to a blizzard in Calgary earlier this month.

Marvin Fjellstrom's aunt, Miss Alma Fjellstrom, passed away on Thursday at the age of 93 years. The funeral was held Monday.

HRL Mary Semotiuk with PHRL's Helen Bilyk and Kathleen Hurum and Ladies Kate Nichols, Ethel Brekstad, Lonnie Mason and Anne Scherger of Holden Lodge Order of the Royal Purple, were to Irma on Tuesday [illegible] the [illegible] week.

Major Leslie Brekstad of Inuvik was a visitor with his mother, Mrs. Ethel Brekstad, over the weekend stopping off from a trip to Ottawa where he had been for the past week. Leslie and family will be leaving, later in the year, for his next posting in Norway for a two or three year stay. He left for his trip back to Inuvik on Sunday.

Several ladies of Holden LCW have been busy the past week working to finish a quilt.

Visitors the past week in Viking were Clare Anderson and Mrs. Frances Hanson.

The Holden Friendship Group met last Wednesday for a regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Edith Carlson who was also in charge of devotions. A "thank you" from the Bible Society was read for the donation [illegible], also a letter from a former member, Mrs. Betty Keith. A sympathy card had been sent to Miss Clark on the death of her brother, Victor and a get-well card to Mrs. Mary Hardy who had been a hospital patient. A donation was made to the Ronald McDonald house in Edmonton.

Ladies were reminded to save used postage stamps. Several chapters of the study book were read. The meeting closed and lunch was served. The next meeting will be on March 20th, at the home of Mrs. Kate Nichols.

Hoop is up in the air

The future of high school basketball for the balance of this season rests in the hands of negotiators.

Schools in the Elk Island School Authorities Association Region are all closed because of a teachers' strike.

Mediation talks between school officials and trustees were scheduled to resume today (Wednesday) and if an agreement was reached, there is still a possibility that teams from the area could participate in zone playdowns.

Girls' zones are scheduled for this coming weekend at the home of the first place team in the West Division of the Hiway 13 High School Basketball League.

Even if a settlement is reached today (Wednesday) there would still be considerable pressure on league officials to determine which teams would compete.

Viking is the only team to have clinched a playoff berth, which is supposed to be automatic for the top [illegible] teams.

Sedgewick and Ryley are tied for second place, but Daysland is only one win behind these two [illegible] league officials decide not to complete the regular schedule.

The fourth place team, in order to enter zone playoffs, was supposed to face a challenge from either Wainwright or Hughenden.

There is more leeway for the boys' division as the zone playoffs are not scheduled until March 8 and 9, in Daysland.

Currently, Daysland and Viking have clinched berths with the other three teams, Tofield, Ryley and Sedgewick battling it out for the third berth and again, the fourth place team could be challenged by either Hughenden or Wainwright.

Hastings Lake news

The Hastings Lake Pleasure Horse enjoyed a pleasant day at Bawlf on the weekend, with their horses and cutters, followed by a meal supplied by the members. Meeting was to follow but instead, members decided on another tour around the country side. The meeting will [illegible] March 11th at Helmig's, to organize the spring horse show.

A Western Pleasure Horse clinic, instructed by Aileen McConnell, is to be held on March 9th and 10th in Telford's Arena. For more information, contact Muriel 663-3434 or Sharon 663-2754.

I remember when . . .

by Ella Richardson

Dad acquired the Hay Fork. Not the common two or three pronged variety. No, this was supposed to be a great labor saving device. It resembled a huge pair of pincers topped with claws of talon and entombed with a lot of ropes and pulleys. One horse was needed in its operation. I observed that horse many times but am not too clear yet as to how the thing operated. All I remember is that when I said "Giddap" the horse started and this apparition descended from the rafters of the Hay Barn on to a loaded rack of hay and gulped up a great mound of hay. It was hoisted aloft by the horse. It was a tough slog. I remember how old Tugger strained against the collar I presume the thing was triggered in some way to deposit the hay in the desired spot.

I do not think the Hay Fork was too practical because it soon joined the "Shaker" and "Cradle" in oblivion.

Living as we did on the edge of the southern, we were plagued with that obnoxious of rodents — rats. Few cats would tackle rats, but Clover would. She would proudly drag the partly eaten rat up and deposit him on the doorstep. Intuition must have told her that the head was poisonous for the head was always intact. Occasionally we had rats in our cellar. Leigh ran a trap line there. Generally before retiring, we would gather in the kitchen for a libation of oatmeal gravel. Strange how unpleasant memories surface. I can still hear the snap of that trap and the strangled wheezing of the dying rat.

One morning we found about a dozen rats trapped in a puncheon, the bottom of which was an inch or so of grain. A puncheon is a pot-bellied barrel. The rats had got in but could not get out. Clover took one look at the milling, squirming mass and left for a more healthful clime. But a neighbour had a similar experience. His old tom cat plunged into the fray slinging the dead rats over his shoulder and jumping unscathed. But my bloodthirsty brothers dispatched the vermin with glee with pitchforks. A method of ridding your premises of those destructive pests was favoured by some but I prefer not to think of it.

Mother decided to raise geese and obtained two geese and a gander. With the prospects of succulent roast goose dinners in sight we were most helpful. We carried water to and cut grass for the penned up trio. We fixed up cosy nests and awaited the first egg. But the gander double-crossed us. He laid the first egg.

A few years later I adopted a gosling who had managed to get a leg broken. I called him Goosie. I waited on him, talked to him, treated him royally. He became a real pet. There came along the goose-plucking day which involved the whole family. Goose feathers were treasured. They were used in making pillows and feather beds — the latter being a luxury compared to chaff or straw ticks. Goose wings when dried out made ideal dusters. Plump geese were unobtainable. But that year my protege and some of the inferior birds were retained for family consumption. The family consumed but not I. I just could not feast on poor Goosie.

We lost our smart little buggy mare about that time. She died from what someone diagnosed as Blind Staggers. Of course we were heart broken. But Dad had been threatening to sell her over since she had sparked the runaway with the Binder in which several fence posts had been mown down. But Dad, by some smart trading soon obtained Lady, a good all-purpose mare.

Our family was dwindling in numbers. Ivan and Gerald were doing carpenter work in the "Shake". Ivan had the urge and ability to become an artisan, but lack of education held him up. Gerald gained the reputation of being the "fastest shingler" at Nanaimo Beach. The boys, as was expected of them dutifully sent a part of their wages home. Leigh was sentenced to stay on the farm. Lena was Mother's comfort and helper. David and I went to school and Dad still thought he was head of the household.

Concert set

A free concert will be presented in Camrose on Saturday evening.

Performing will be the fifty-three member University of Saskatchewan Wind Ensemble whose concert is to be presented in the Convocation Centre at Camrose Lutheran College.

The university's concert band is currently on a tour in Alberta and has scheduled appearances in Edmonton, Stony Plain and Red Deer in addition to its Camrose visit.

Marvin Eckrich conducts the group. He will be returning to Camrose after earlier visits during which he was a teacher during the annual Camrose summer music workshop.

The Saturday concert, which gets underway at 7:30 p.m. is being held under the joint sponsorship of music departments at CLC and CLC.

The wide-ranging program will include works by Bob Margolis, Vincent Persichetti, Thomas Knox, Mendelssohn and a trombone concerto which features Professor David Schmidt.

Agriculture outlook is good

The long-term outlook for agriculture in Alberta is positive, and we shouldn't let short-term problems overshadow the strength of the industry, says Doug Radke, an assistant deputy minister with Alberta Agriculture.

Much of the current pessimism surrounding agriculture stems from short-term analysis that underestimates the importance of long-term demand, Mr. Radke said at the annual meeting of the Alberta Canola Growers' Association held in Edmonton January 30.

Over the next 10 years the world's population will continue to require food beyond that which most countries can produce. Mr. Radke said that even China will continue to need to import food, despite its recent dramatic increases in grain production. The Pacific Rim market for meats and livestock will also expand, and Alberta's abundant feed supplies and grazing lands should enable this province to be competitive in those markets.

Alberta's other strengths, he said, include the diversity of its agricultural industry, the growth in its food processing industry and the willingness of farmers to be innovative.

Alberta is going to need all those advantages, because we'll face tougher competition from the United States for export markets in the future. Productivity will be the key to survival and prosperity over the next decade, but Mr. Radke added, greater productivity is possible. An example, he said is the canola growers' own Grow With Canola program, aimed at increasing yields by five percent over the next five years.

Mr. Radke concluded by encouraging producers to help influence the long-term future of agriculture by expressing their views on the provincial government's recent White Paper and the position paper on agriculture, due to be released next spring.

Gas blast near Bawlf injures five

. . . two listed as critical

A gas pipeline explosion northwest of Bawlf one week ago today (Tuesday) sent five men to University Hospital in Edmonton in what was described as critical condition.

Since then, three of the men have been removed from the critical list and their condition is now described as serious.

The five men had been sent from Edmonton by Interprovincial Pipeline Ltd to investigate a possible break in the line which runs from Fort Saskatchewan to Superior, Wis., after a farmer reported a dense vapour cloud hanging over the area, in the afternoon (Tuesday).

The line was carrying liquified natural gas which is pumped under high pressure and which is extremely

The workmen were at the site of the suspected leak when an explosion occurred at about 8:40 p.m. in the evening, injuring the five men.

The men were rushed by ambulance to St. Mary's Hospital in Camrose and were later transhurried to Edmonton's University Hospital.

John Armstrong and Richard Wach along with a third unidentified man are now listed as being in serious condition. Previously listed as being in critical condition were Mervin Guthrie, Kerry Keisey and Dennis Froese.

Firemen from Bawlf, Rosalind, MEB and Bawlf responded to the alarm with RCMP from Camrose also answering the call.

Preliminary investigations did not reveal the cause of the blast although it was suspected that the fire was spurred by one of the running vehicles at the site which included a car, pickup truck and a three-ton truck.

Company officials shut off the line and then allowed the fire to burn itself out, which took until Friday and the line was repaired on Saturday and is now back in operation.

In addition to the RCMP, representatives of the Energy Resources Conservation Board and the National Energy Board visited the site.

Because the pipeline is interprovincial, the NEB holds jurisdiction and will be in charge of the investigation.

NEB officials have scheduled an inquiry in Edmonton for March 26 and it is expected to take two or three days.

For a period of time following the explosion, a number of farm families in the area were put on a reduced evacuation alert.

Beaverhill playoffs set

Playoffs in the Beaverhill Hockey League will get underway next week, according to league officials.

At a meeting held on Monday night, league officials decided that postponed games would not be played as they would not have any effect on the final standings.

Tofield Satellites will go against Lamont in one best of seven semi-final series while Mundare and Redwater will tangle in the other round.

The Satellites will travel to Lamont for the first game, on Tuesday night with a second game in Tofield on Thursday and the third game goes to Lamont one week from Tuesday.

The other series will open in Mundare on Tuesday and then alternate with games on Thursday and the following Tuesday.

Because Tofield, Lamont and Mundare are all involved in provincial playdowns, no games have been scheduled for the coming weekend.

The final games in the regular schedule were played last night (Tuesday) and results from these contests will be reported next week.

Lamont picked up two more wins last week when they outgunned Holden 14-9 and then edged Mundare 7-6.

Tofield and Redwater had a split with Redwater winning 4-3 and then Tofield won 8-4 while Holden was awarded a win over Vegreville by default.

Police dog training has 50th anniversary

The 50th anniversary of the establishment of the RCMP police dog crime detection service will be celebrated this year.

The anniversary will be celebrated in Innisfail during three days, beginning on May 9th, with the public and all interested persons invited to attend.

Three shopping malls in Innisfail will have displays on public safety, in addition to displays provided by Parks Canada, Armed Forces and the observance of National Police Week.

In addition to the displays, there will be a golf tournament, barbeque and dance, a parade, a demonstration by dogs and their handlers and an exhibition performance by mounted members of the Calgary Strathcona Cavalry.

A major attraction on all three days will be guided tours and demonstrations at the Innisfail Dog Service School.

The first actual use of a dog by the RCMP took place in 1933 in Bassano when Sgt. J.M. 'Jack' Cawsey used a family pet to find a young girl during a severe winter storm.

The cost of training a police dog is approximately $20,000 and regular refresher courses are available to maintain high standards of efficiency as well as to teach new techniques.

Due to the rigors of the profession and severe weather conditions, most dogs are able to last less than ten years in police work.

Flames In The Night
by [illegible]

Last Tuesday I saw the night sky light up in a huge fireball.

At first, I thought a neighbour's farm was on fire but as I drove nearer I discovered it was a ruptured pipeline that was burning. I was glad it wasn't a neighbour's place but was very sorry to hear that several men were serverely injured.

However, as I drove away I began thinking about the potential dangers present in our energy system and how much damage is done and can happen to our ecology.

The first thing I remember was the Lodgepole incident where a gas well spewed tons of gas and sulpher dioxide into the air for weeks. As I looked at the flames I realized that could have happened in my own neighbourhood. Then I thought of the accident in Mexico with the refinery blowing up, injuring and killing hundreds of people.

Let's hope the same thing never happens in Edmonton! And then on a smaller scale, I wondered what would happen on a 40 below night if a pipeline exploded that supplied natural gas to peoples homes. I began to realize how much at risk our energy system is in.

Then the wind shifted slightly and I was caught in some of the smoke from the fire. What a stench! It drove home the fact that we, as a society, burn hundred of thousands of gallons of poisonous, noxious substances each day to run our cars, heat our homes, and power our electrical generating plants.

This thought made me realize that there are many hidden dangers that were threatening our environment every day that were probably much more harmful to us in the long run than the occasional accident.

Polluted cities, acid rain, dying forests, lung diseases, depleted natural resources, [illegible] hazardous wastes, animals and their habitats being threatened and oil spills are all results of our use of petroleum and its by-products as our principle energy source.

The pipeline accident made me very aware of what a dangerous method we as a society were using to supply our energy needs. Just as repair men have to be very careful how they go about handling the actual material, we as a society should be careful how we go about handling the energy systems we use.

The risk is just as great for the system to blow up in our faces with environmental problems as it was for the repairmen. Are we even being one tenth as careful as they were? I certainly don't think so.

If you would like more information on conservation, ecological issues or alternate forms of energy, feel free to drop down to the One World Institute and browse through our library on these issues, or call 672-8780.

... for Miquelon Lake

by [illegible]

Miquelon Lake Provincial Park officials are planning a Winter Fun Day on Sunday in the day use area which will include outdoor events from noon until five o'clock in the afternoon.

Events slated for the fun day will be cross country skiing, snowshoeing, skating, making snow toffee, building snow huts, parachute games and hiking on a discovery trail.

Outdoors Alberta will be conducting ski instruction from 1-5 p.m. Ski equipment will be available to borrow during the instruction of cross country skiing. Around 30 pairs of skis will be available with pre-registration advised. Some boot sizes may be limited and they will be issued on a first-come basis.

Skiing instruction will be divided into two different groups to allow everyone a chance to receive lessons from Outdoors Alberta.

Snowshoes will also be available free of charge during the afternoon. A full range of sizes for all ages will be at the park for families to enjoy a winter fun day. Snowshoe games will take place as well.

A heated shelter and hot water will be ready for use during the day and people are encouraged to bring hot drinks. Picnic tables will be set up for those who wish to bring their own lunch.

Snow toffee making will interest the youngsters as they will be able to make their own candy. Sugar and snow will be used to make the toffee.

An area has been set aside to make snow huts. Full instruction on snow hut building will be provided to build igloo type huts.

During a trip down the winter discovery trail, everyone will view the winter environment at Miquelon Lake. The birds and animals of the area can be seen from the trail.

This years event will mark the second Winter Fun Day at Miquelon Park and more will be planned in the future. Next year, the park wants to hold two fun winter days to remind people the park is open all year round, for use.

For further information on the activities or for registration in the ski instruction, people are encouraged to phone 672-6850 before Sunday.

Health Unit Review

Parents and teachers are the first people in the child's life who usually detect speech, voice and/or language problems in their children.

The question of when to refer to a speech/language pathologist is usually a puzzle as caretakers often wonder if the child will simply "grow out of it" or if a problem actually exists.

If the child has any of the conditions listed below, an assessment should be considered:

1. If not producing any intelligible speech by age 2 [illegible]
2. If speech is largely unintelligible after age 3 [illegible]
3. If there are many omissions of initial consonants after age 3 years.
4. If there are no sentences by age 3 years.
5. If sounds are more than a year late in appearing, according to expected developmental sequence.
6. If there is an excessive amount of indiscriminate, irrelevant verbalizing after 18 months.
7. If there is consistent and frequent omission of initial consonants at any age.
8. If there are many substitutions of easy sounds for difficult one after age 5 years.
9. If the amount of vocalizing decreases rather than steadily increases at any period up to age 7 years.
10. If the child uses mostly vowel sounds in his speech at any age after 1 year.
11. If word endings are consistently dropped after age 5 years.
12. If sentence structure is consistently faulty after age 5 years.
13. If the child, or the mother, is embarrassed and disturbed by his speech at any age.
14. If the child is noticeably nonfluent (stuttering) after age 5 years.
15. If the child is distorting, omitting or substituting any sounds after age 7 years.
16. If the voice is a monotone, extremely loud, largely inaudible, or of poor quality.
17. If the pitch is not appropriate to the child's age and sex.
18. If there is noticeably hypernasality or lack of nasal resonance.
19. If there are unusual confusions, reversals or telescoping in connected speech.
20. If there is abnormal rhythm, rate and inflection after age 5 years.

Kingman district notes

A seven pound, 10 ounce baby boy, Raymond Jacob, was born to Larry and Ann Kozack at the Royal Alexandra Hospital in Edmonton. This is a grandson for Nellie and John Kozack.

On Feb. 17 visitors at the Soady's home for Sharon's birthday were Nellie and John Kozack, Rosie Kozack, Gerry and Colleen Wenger, Bob Kozack of Edmonton and Audrey and Roselle Thomas of [illegible].

On Wednesday afternoon of last week, Joe and Rosie Kozack and Nellie Kozack were to Tofield Hospital where they visited with Dorothy Willans, Martin Peterson and Barbara Kozack, who were patients there.

BETWEEN THE COVERS

There are several new local histories on the nonfiction shelf this week. Coaldale and Area will no doubt interest many Tofield residents because of the connections between families here and there.

Let Us Not Forget is an older history of Viking and area, recently donated to this library, although published in 1968. Blended Heritage takes the reader somewhat farther afield, covering a rural area of Saskatchewan between Lloydminster and Battleford.

A new volume in the Epic of Flight series will be of interest to history readers as well; entitled The Bush Pilots, it chronicles this tough breed of pilots in Northern Canada as well as places such as New Guinea, Latin America and Australia.

For the younger readers using the library, try Monica Hughes' The Guardian of Isis, the sequel to The Keeper of the Isis Light. The Celery Stalks at Midnight by James Howe continues the adventures of Bunicula the vampire rabbit. How I Hunted The Little Fellows is a gentle story of how one boy discovered the consequences of his own actions.

Also have a look at The Super Science Discovery Book of easy experiments to do at home.

The Tofield Library Board would like to state that, in response to community need and request, the library hours will be extended on a TEMPORARY BASIS to include the following: Tuesday through Saturday 10-12 and 1-5 as well as the regular Thursday 6-8 p.m.

Please note the following events on your calendar, if you are looking for something different (and free!). Tofield Library is running a series of Movies in March, every Friday evening 7:30 — 8:30 p.m., from March 1 to 29. This week the showing is China Mission: The Chester Ronning Story. Many Tofield and area residents either knew or were familiar with the name of this interesting man, until recently resident in Camrose. Homesteader, diplomat and educator, Ronning's lifelong interest was China, and he made constant efforts to bring East and West closer together. Do join us this Friday evening at the library.

Spilstead district news items

by Moe Fisher

On Saturday evening, a crib and whist card party was held.

The high point winner of the whist was Gus Schmidt and the low point went to Denise McBurney. The high point for crib was Moe Fisher and the low point went to Ben Pelster.

More card parties are planned for the future.

On Sunday, a candlelight church parade was held at Spilstead Hall. Most of the Beavers, Cubs, Scouts, Pathfinders, their leaders and families, participated in this service. The service, officiated by Rev. Dahlen, was followed by a pot-luck supper. While supper was being set up, the children went outside to play games with a parachute. After supper, a program was put on by each of the groups.

Chuck McBurney was the emcee and began by welcoming everyone and giving a brief history on the groups.

Pathfinder Renae Agrey did the opening with a talk ont he "Meaning of Today". The Beavers entertained with songs and actions and their leader, Margaret Lyall, presented Jamie Lyall with his green tail and Kim and Keith Doerr with their yellow tails. The Cubs gave a demonstration of a grand howl, then Akila (Chuck McBurney) read a story about wolves. They did a skit and sang some songs and closed their section with a silent howl.

The Scouts did a skit, formed a horseshoe and gave their promise, law and motto. One of the Scouts, Mark Pelster, played his trumpet during the church service. The Pathfinder leader, Ardel Agrey, presented some badges to Renae Agrey and Margaret Lyall.

The Community League will be holding their monthly meeting on Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The monthly bingo will be held on March 8 at 8 p.m.

TOWN OF TOFIELD FINANCIAL STATEMENT

For the Fiscal Year Ended December 31, 1984

AUDITOR'S REPORT

The Mayor and Council of: THE TOWN OF TOFIELD

We have examined the Consolidated Balance Sheet of The Town of Tofield as at December 31, 1984 and the related statements of Combined Operating Revenues and Expenditures, Combined Capital Financing Acquired and Applied, Taxes Levied and Grants in Lieu, Consolidated Statement of Surplus (Deficit) and Consolidated Statement of Equity in Fixed Assets and the schedules supporting these statements for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the municipality as at December 31, 1984 and the results of its operations and changes in capital financing for the year then ended in accordance with the disclosed basis of accounting described in Note 1 (page 7) applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Dated at Sherwood Park this 4th day of February, 1985.

(Signed) Masuda, Braun, Jackson Firm: Masuda, Braun Jackson

Address: #203, 80 Chippewa Road, Sherwood Park, Alberta, T8A 3Y1

CURTIS WEEKS Dist. Agriculturist JEROME MANCHUR

Changes At Ryley Office

As many of you have probably already heard, I've been assigned to a different type of position with Alberta Agriculture. I'm still working out of the Ryley office but my main duties now lie in the area of farm business management and financial counselling.

In January, of this year, the Honourable LeRoy Fjordbotten, Minister of Agriculture announced a program where farmers could obtain the services of a consultant to help them look at the management and financial aspects of their farming operation. This is the work that I am now involved in.

I have very much enjoyed working with the farmers of the County of Beaver as a District Agriculturist and am looking forward to continued service in my new capacity.

Rudy J. Warawa

We would like to introduce and welcome Mr. Curtis Weeks of Snowflake, Manitoba to the Ryley office of Alberta Agriculture.

Hi! I'm Curtis Weeks and I'm the new District Agriculturist at Ryley. I'll be filling in for Rudy until April 1, while Rudy works in the financial counselling program which has been announced.

I graduated from the University of Manitoba in May 1984 with a Bachelor of Science in Agriculture. My degree is a Plant Science Major with a Soil Science insect control minors.

I lived on a mixed (cereal-specialty crop-beef) farm in the extreme south central part of Manitoba, so I also have practical farming background.

I hope to get to meet most of you while I am here and I am looking forward to the opportunity.

Feed Freight Assistance For Our County

At this time, our office is pleased to announce that the Honourable LeRoy Fjordbotten, has signed our area into the Feed Freight Assistance Program.

The program is similar to what has been offered in the past. The program covers forage purchased from July 1, 1984 to June 30, 1985. Applications must be received before July 31, 1985 to be eligible for assistance.

As in previous programs, payment will be made on a one-way loaded mileage basis and to be eligible the forage must be hauled at least 25 miles.

For further details contact our office at 663-3555.

AG Electronics and Animal Tour, Vermilion

The Ag Electronics and animal tour of Lakeland College will be held on March 1. Those interested, please meet at the County of Beaver office at 8 a.m. sharp Friday, March 1.

ELK ISLAND REGIONAL SCHOOL AUTHORITY ASSOCIATION

Glen Miller, chairman of the Elk Island Regional School Authority Association, announced Friday that the association had scheduled a special meeting for Monday, February 25. Mr. Miller indicated that although the purpose of the meeting was to discuss the on-going strike by the association's teachers, it should not be construed that the association was considering a softening of its stance.

"We are terribly dissappointed that the teachers did not see fit to accept that we consider to be a very fair offer. It is particularly unfortunate that the boards' attempts to place more money in the hands of teachers at the lower end of the salary scale have been ignored by the teachers.

Our offer of $1,032 per teacher would result, when combined with the annual increment, in a second year teacher receiving a combined increase of $2,513 or 11.2 per cent; while a teacher at maximum would receive an increase of $1,032 or 2.7 per cent.

"When one also considers that the board's share of the costs of such benefits as CPP, U.I.C., health care, and long term disability was over $1.2 million in 1984 and will be over $1.3 million in 1985, the boards offer, in view of the difficult economic circumstances, can be seen as a very generous one."

Mr. Miller pointed out that at the meeting called by the mediator for Wednesday, February 27, school trustees are hopeful that teachers would demonstrate a willingness to accept the economic realities faced by the boards and their taxpayers.

For additional information, contact Glen Miller, 429-8267.

by Jean Murray

This year's Ice Carnival Queen is Candyce Ray.

She was sponsored by the Tofield 4-H Club and was duly crowned by last year's queen, Cathy Litwin, who transferred the reign of power by placing the royal purple robe on the shoulders of her successor.

The runners-up Rebecca Anderson, Susan Danielson, Roxy Knudalien, Sandra Porisky, Darlie Worden and Jodie Yurkowski were introduced by Master of Ceremonies, Randy Benson.

This is the twelfth year the ice carnival has been presented by the Tofield Skating Club. Nearly 60 skaters took part in the extravaganza entitled "Happiness Is . . ."

Deanna Yoder skated in with the Canadian flag, followed by Andrea Callin and Tracey Wideman who carried the skating club's banners.

The introductory march was performed by Michelle Dodds, Sheri Weatherill, Michelle McAdam, Candace Duchscher, Michelle Wideman, Robin Knudalien, Bonnie Allan, Pam Bartling, Stacey Horricks, Deanna Yoder, Andrea Callin, Tracey Wideman, Michell Willans, Buffy Siler, Roxy Knudalien, Cathy Brown, Lori Brown, and Angela Zilkie.

This was followed by a group of little white ducks at the Saturday performance which consisted of Sharlene Foster, Michelle Cameron, Carrie Vandermeer, Bonnie Fairweather, Joy Toliver and Kathryn Andrusky.

A skating rendition of a ball game was performed by Scott Cameron, Darcy Morrison, Murray Taylor, Brett Nickel, Darryl Allan, Stephen Toliver, Daniel Roberts, Michael Martin, Drew Anderson and Michael Paulsen.

Andrea Callin, Tracey Wideman, Lori Brown, Cathy Brown, Buffy Siler and Deanna Yoder each performed solos for the entertainment of the many who attended.

On Sunday, the following skaters engaged in solos — Sheri Weatherill, Michell Willans, Roxy Knudalien, Lori Brown, Candace Duchscher and Robin Knudalien.

Mark Schmitke, a young man from the Camrose Figure Skating Club, was the guest skater for Saturday's performance while the Camrose Precisionaires did guest spots on Sunday.

Bonnie Allan, Stacey Horricks, Pam Bartling, Michelle Wideman, Michelle McAdam, Michelle Dodds, Andrea Callin and Arlene Callin danced a Dutch waltz.

A swing dance performance was skated by Sheri Weatherill, Candace Duchscher, Robin Knudalien on Saturday, while Tracey Wideman and Deanna Yoder performed on Sunday.

Roxy Knudalien, Lori Brown, Michell Willans and Angela Zilkie entertained the crowd with their interpretation of 76 Trombones.

A rocker style dance was skated by Cathy Brown, Buffy Siler and Angela Zilkie.

Alreien Callin and Jeannette McLean gave a performance with an Argentine tango.

Cabbage Patch kids, Rachelle Weatherill, Robin Wright, Erin Van de Wetering, Jill Wideman, Shannon Morris, Cassandra Peterson, Shannon Quinn and Kyla Simpson came to life on the ice.

A rock 'n' roll number was performed by Andrea Callin, Tracey Wideman, Deanna Yoder, Sheri Weatherill, Candace Duchscher, Robin Knudalien, Cathy Brown, Michell Willans, Lori Brown, Angela Zilkie, Roxy Knudalien and Buffy Siler.

A surprise number was a clown act performed by two former members of the Tofield Skating Club.

After the crowning of the queen and introduction of skating pros, Jeanette McLean and Arlene Kleinschroth an upbeat number, The Candyman, was performed by Deanna Yoder, Sheri Weatherill, Candace Duchscher, Robin Knudalien, Tracey Wideman and Andrea Callin.

This was followed by Teddy Bears Picnic by the younger set, Curtis Van Wetering, Terri McAdam, Alison Gates, Kendra Benson, Meagan Nolin, Laura Horricks, Shannon Horricks and Sesame Street by Lisa Stuaffer, Serena Foster, Mandy Anderson, Glenda Vandermeer and Kathy Horricks.

Carnival Time was performed by Michelle Dodds, Michelle McAdam, Bonnie Allan, Pamela Kope, Nia Robers, Michelle Wideman, Pamela Bartling and Stacy Horricks.

The last number was Girls, Girls, Girls, skated by Cathy Brown, Lori Brown, Roxy Knudalien, Angela Zilkie, Buffy Siler and Michell Willans.

On Saturday, the winners of the money prizes for the Carnival Queen tickets were drawn as follows with winners being Missy Patterson of Ryley, Hank Schroeder of Tofield and Wilma Lauber of Edmonton.

Expend More Energy At Work

For those of us that spend many hours behind a desk, getting into shape and burning off excess calories is hard to fit into a schedule.

Fashion and advertising may have convinced us that we need equipment, special clothes and music to keep in shape. Walking and climbing stairs are certainly not as appealing as aerobic dancing, but they are simple, cost-free ways of incorporating physical exercise into everyday life.

You can start increasing your activity level by taking the stairs rather than the elevator. Go for a walk at lunch time. An energetic 15 minute walk everyday can trim 1 kilogram (2.2 lbs.) from your weight every month! Of course, providing you don't eat more than your daily energy requirements.

Conference for Disabled Farmers

Disabled farmers will have an opportunity to share their common concerns at a conference planned for Edmonton, March 20-22. A unique feature of the conference will be a display of farm machinery modifications for the disabled. One of the conference's objectives is to make manufacturers more aware of the needs of disabled farmers. For more information and registration forms, contact Patsy Pyke, 427-2186.

Stress Workshop

A two-day stress workshop is planned for Bruce, March 12 and 13. Topics to be covered include communication with others, assertiveness and self concept. Instructor is Daneve Freeborn, a life skills consultant. To register for this excellent course phone Evelyn at 688-2312. Registration fee is $30.00.

Satellites win

Tofield Satellites have advanced to the Northern Alberta senior 'C' semi-finals.

Satellites advanced to the next round of the playoffs despite losing on Sunday.

The Tofield team travelled up to Athabasca where they were edged 5-4 by the home team.

However, Satellites had thumped Athabasca 11-5 in the opening game which was played in Tofield and as a result, Satellites won the total-goal series 15-10.

In the Northern Alberta semi-finals, Tofield will face either Lac La Biche or Goodfish Lake. That series had not been completed at presstime.

The first game in the semi-finals could be played this coming weekend and hockey fans should listen to sportcasts on CFCW for exact playing dates.

Two other Beaverhill Hockey League teams were also successful in Northern Alberta playoffs.

Mundare ousted Bonnyville while Lamont got by Kehewin and now the two will meet in the senior 'B' semi-finals.
